Wal-Mart Gets Go-Ahead On Propane Gas Tanks

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to allow Wal-Mart to install four underground 1,000-gallon propane tanks subject to an annual review of the board and the eventuality of changing to natural gas once a line is installed.

The motion was made by board member and Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey following a request from Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi who asked the board to give authority to Wal-Mart to continue its construction and install the propane until such time as the construction of Habitat begins and natural gas is brought into the area. When that happens, Raymondi said, the board should cease issuing a permit for propane to Wal-Mart unless it is impossible to "tie in" to Habitat's gas line.

Bill McLaughlin, a representative from Avalone Industries developers who plan to construct 120 units in the rear of Wal-Mart told the board that they intend to use natural gas. He added the volume required for hot water, heating system, washers and dryers will be greater than that used for Wal-Mart. He said he saw no problem with tying in with Wal-Mart.

Abutters who had opposed the use of propane and its blasting voiced approval for Raymondi's plan for its temporary use.

City Clerk Joseph Shea, the License Board chairman asked Stuart Luttrell, a representative for Wal-Mart what the cost would have been if natural gas was brought in the beginning. Luttrell said it was more than $300,000 as opposed to a $14,000 deposit for propane tanks plus the cost of the propane. He said if they had to use natural gas, Wal-Mart would not have been able to continue the project.

Luttrell said most of the hard blasting is over and the

Quincy Community Action Fuel Assistance Available

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) is accepting applications for fuel assistance from eligible residents in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

Appointments are necessary for new applicants.

Eligibility is based upon household size and income. In determining income, QCAP uses an applicant's last four weeks of information.

Simplified, eligibility is as follows:

- One-member household, annual income $13,545 or below.
- Two-member household, annual income $18,130 or below.
- Three-member household, annual income $19,470 or below.

Add $3,930 for each additional household member. The amount of benefit provided to each household also depends upon both income level and household size. Fuel assistance program recipients are also eligible for:

- 33 percent discount on Mass. Electric bills.
- 40 percent discount on Boston Edison bills.
- 20 percent discount on Boston Gas bills.
- $9.50 off on monthly NYNEX telephone bills.

All types of heat are covered under the federally funded program, including cases in which heat is included in the rent.

For more information regarding fuel assistance, call 479-8181, ext. 101.

Mid-Term Prediction:

Sheets: 'The Years Ahead Will Be Great'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The city plans in 1997 to continue to push forward programs initiated last year as well as begin preparing for special events to be held in commemoration of the upcoming millennium, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets outlined his plans for the coming year during his fourth mid-term address Monday in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

His spirits buoyed by what he called a successful first year of his fourth term, the mayor expressed optimism, saying the city will continue to prosper as it moves toward the year 2000.

"Together, we will lead this great city to the doorstep of the next millennium," said Sheets. "The years ahead will be great years."

The mayor said Quincy residents can look forward to the following this year:

• Implementation of planned senior programs at the former Squantum Gardens Naval Center. Sheets said the city has negotiated a lease with the Navy that will be forwarded to the City Council for approval. The mayor noted that plans for the site, first announced at his fourth inauguration last year, include at least 98 units of senior housing, a

Maybe A 6th Term, Too

Sheets 5th Term Decision No Surprise

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets' disclosure that he will seek a fifth term this year came as no surprise to City Hall observers.

He said Monday before giving his fourth mid-term address that he wants to stay for at least one more term.

But there have been hints and indications from him in the past that he not only would seek a fifth term but probably a sixth one, too.

The speculation around City Hall is that he would like to be the mayor going into the 21st century.

Some of his goals could take him into the new century to reach and complete.

If Sheets wins a fifth term and completes it, he will be the mayoral longevity champ under Quincy's Plan A form of government.

The late Charles Ross, who served in the 1930's and early 1940's, holds the record under Plan A with nine years. He was elected to five different terms but served only one year of one of them. The terms were not consecutive.

The man who held the title of the mayor the longest was the late Amelio Della Chiesa who served 12 years.

But only eight of them were under Plan A as the city's chief executive. Four were under Plan E in the early 1950s when a city manager actually ran the city and the mayor was similar to the city council president but with the title of mayor.

The mayor under Plan E was actually a city councillor elected mayor by his colleagues. He preside over the city council like a council president today and performed ceremonial

Survey Shows Successful Season

Christmas Merry For Quincy Retailers

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Christmas was, overall, a blessing for Quincy retailers who generally enjoyed a successful holiday season, according to a survey by The Quincy Sun.

Merchants asked about their December sales gave responses ranging from "fair" to "terrific" and "excellent."

Among the comments: Nancy McArdle, Hancock Tobacco: "I did excellent with cigars. I wish I'd had 1,000 boxes of cigars; I'd probably have sold them all. We also sold a lot of Lottery scratch tickets because everyone puts them in their stockings. I'm telling you, it was the best. We did wonderful."

Steve Blumberg, Stephen Leigh Jewelers: "The highlight of the season was that we surpassed last year's numbers for December. We also had the best year in our history, close to a 30 percent increase over last year. Diamond stud necklaces and estate jewelry were our best sellers during Christmas. All in all, it was terrific."

Paul Sturman, Francis Framers: "We did fair. It wasn't as hectic as in previous years; it was more of a steady flow. Overall, we did about as good as last Christmas. But I think we pleased a lot of people, especially at the last minute."

Joanne Dondoro, Abigail's Crossing: "We are above last year. We had a very good season. There was some concern because there was less time this year between Thanksgiving and Christmas, but it all caught up, and we did even better than last year. Our collectibles, candles and ornaments did excellent and we had an Irish Santa Claus that did gangbusters."

Deanna Gazarian, Phase II Jewelry: "I'm very satisfied. We did considerably better than last year. We had a lot of out-of-town customers and a lot of new, happy shoppers. We have a lot of products people are interested in, and people are very satisfied with our prices."

Chris Kusy, Rhyme 'n Reason: "We felt we had a very strong Christmas season, and that will give us momentum going into the New Year. The business climate was very good, and, being a toy store, we reaped the benefit of the season."

Jeff Bertman, Rogers Jewelry: "We did very well. Our sales increased slightly and we did a little bit better than last Christmas. But the year as a whole was significantly better than last year. I'd say diamonds and gold chains were the hottest-selling items this Christmas."

Jim Murphy, Quincy Records and Tapes: "We did better than last year. Sales were up about 15 percent or a little more. The last couple of days before Christmas were outstanding, and the two or three days after were very strong, too."

Ron Affsa, Hairplace 1 & II: "We had a great season and a really good December. We sold a lot of gift baskets. People were coming in all the time; we were mobbed. It was probably our best year in the last three or four."

Muriel Jackle, O'Brien's Bakery: "It was an excellent holiday season. We were more than satisfied. It was a little better than last year and weatherwise, it was wonderful."

Ken Good, Woll-Nut Shop: "We did very well, better than last year. At the beginning of December, the weather was not that good, but the last few days before Christmas were great. We have no complaints. Everything moved."

Lori Derbes, Allure Spa: "Oh, we absolutely did better than last year. Basically, at Christmas, we sell a lot of gift certificates, plus there are a lot of different packages we offer that a lot of people buy. We did very, very well."

Chris Draicchio, Presidential Liquors: "Sales were slightly up from last year. Everything we have goes during the holidays, from beer to wine to hard liquor—it's sort of an across-the-board thing. We did well. We were pleased."

Susan Braga, Wiz Kids Toys: "We had a great season. It was definitely a lot better than this year, although we were in Milton last year—this was our first year at our new location. It was very, very good."

Beth Veneto, Ginger Betty's: "It was very busy right up until New Year's. It was very good, definitely better than last year. The gingerbread houses and gingerbread cookies were really big sellers. It was a little bit crazy over here."

Dawn Scartissi, A.E. Goodhue's: "We haven't done the final numbers yet, but we did show a definite increase over last year. We have a new owner this year, and we brought in a lot of new merchandise, although the Christmas season lends itself naturally to the Nativity scenes. We got a lot of feedback from people who said they'd rather get the one-on-one attention they receive at a small store like ours than what they get at the malls."

Business Council Meetings Begin Feb. 7

The Quincy Business Council will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday, Feb. 5 at 8 a.m. in the Board Room at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce (SSCC), 36 Miller Stile Rd.

Guest speaker will be Norfolk County Treasurer and City Councillor Timothy Cahill.

Other scheduled speakers and meetings include Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan on March 5 and Beechwood on the Bay Executive Director Sharon Beals on April 2. Both will be held at 8 a.m. in the SSCC Board Room.

Meetings are canceled on days that public schools close due to snow. The meeting schedule is subject to change. For more information, call 479-1111.

Begins Second Term As Council President

Kolson Sees This As 'Exciting Time' For City

City Council President Peter Kolson says now is an "exciting time" to live in Quincy and that the city will continue to prosper as it approaches the next millennium.

Kolson made his comments Monday after being sworn-in as council president for the second year of his two-year term. His speech followed Mayor James Sheets' fourth mid-term address in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

Kolson called it a "great, great honor" to be elected president by his council colleagues and said the council has accomplished much through cooperation and teamwork.

"The beauty of our democracy...is that we must work cooperatively," he said.

He also singled out each of his eight colleagues for individual accomplishments:

•Councillor Timothy Cahill, elected Norfolk County treasurer in November, for becoming the first incumbent city councillor elected to county office as well as work on school and fiscal issues.

•Councillor Michael Cheney, for his efforts on behalf of Habitat for Humanity and arts programs such as First Night Quincy and Arts in the Park as well as service as chairman of the council's Tourism Committee.

•Councillor Paul Harold, for his 15 years' experience as a state senator, previous council work and current efforts on the issue of the deregulation of electrical rates.

•Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, for his work in making the soon-to-be-built Quincy Point elementary school a reality and his efforts as chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee, a member of the senior action committee for Squantum Gardens, and on traffic and flooding issues.

•Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, for his efforts as chairman of the council's Downtown Committee and a strong, albeit unsuccessful, attempt to prevent Stop & Shop's North Quincy store from obtaining a beer and wine license.

•Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, for establishing a neighborhood crime watch and work on flooding, development and traffic issues.

•Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, for his work on school, traffic and flooding issues, establishment of playground areas and for serving on the committee affiliated with the city's After School Program.

•Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, for his efforts on issues concerning the Moon Island gun range and a new Shaw's Supermarket as well as establishment of a SWAP program for handicapped equipment, the only one of its kind in the United States.

In conclusion, Kolson said he sees a bright future for the city.

"Quincy can truly say a word that is on the city seal behind me, the Latin word 'manet,' which means 'forever,'" he said. "Quincy will forever be a shining light on the hill."

Sheets To Appoint Millennium Committee

Mayor James Sheets plans to appoint within two weeks a steering committee that will begin the groundwork for a series of events to be held in celebration of the upcoming millennium.

Sheets said Tuesday the committee, composed of four or five members, will be charged with organizing a "major commission" that will put together the events scheduled to take place between May and December of 1999.

"It will be four or five people who will be able to conceptualize where we want to be," said the mayor, who first mentioned formation of the millennium commission during his fourth mid-term address Monday at City Hall.

Sheets said he wants the steering committee to submit its proposed formula for the commission by March.

The commission, which will be responsible for raising "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in private and public funding for the celebration, likely will include members of the City Council and School Committee, officials from the city's churches, public and private schools, veterans' organizations, Quincy Hospital, Quincy College and Eastern Nazarene College and a number of other groups, according to Sheets.

Application Deadline Friday Disaster Assistance Available For Seniors

Seniors adversely affected by October flooding may be eligible for free assistance to pay for storm-related repairs or replacement of flood-damaged property, including personal motor vehicles.

Seniors can receive free assistance by calling FEMA toll-free at 1-800-462-9029. The deadline to register for assistance is Friday.

On Oct. 25, a presidential declaration named the Massachusetts counties of Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk as federal disaster areas. The declaration provided federal financial assistance for many renters and homeowners whose damages are not covered by insurance.

The Executive Office of Elder Affairs (EOEA) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) are working to ensure that eligible seniors are initiating and following through with the application process that could deliver much-needed financial relief.

"Seniors who call FEMA will be required to apply for low-interest, long-term loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA)," said Tobin. "The loan application form will arrive by mail only after an individual has registered for assistance by calling FEMA. The application process should not discourage anyone from applying for assistance."

"If it is determined that a homeowner or renter is not eligible for a loan, then that individual will be referred to the Individual and Family Grant program for assistance. Only a FEMA officer can make the determination of whether an individual is eligible for a loan or a free grant."

SURGERY FOR SEVERE OBESITY

Who wouldn't like to drop a few pounds? Most Americans could stand to lose some weight, and many should bring their weight down to enjoy a healthier lifestyle. For a few people, though, obesity is so extreme that they are classified as "morbidly obese," or overweight enough that their health is in serious danger. For some of these individuals, gastric bypass surgery may be an option. The stomach is partitioned off, using surgical staples, then reconnected to the small intestine. In this way, the body's physical ability to store and process food is reduced, due to a smaller stomach capacity. With food intake limited, body fat is reduced over time as well. Gastric bypass surgery is not for everyone. It may, however, offer hope for some severely overweight individuals who have been unable to find relief through more traditional weight-control efforts.

P.S. A person may be considered morbidly obese when he or she is at least 100 pounds over ideal body weight.

No matter what medical problem you suffer from, relief is available but you need to make an appointment with a physician to find out your options. Treatments emerge all the time; find out what might help your condition. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, located at 700 Congress St., in Quincy, we specialize in treating heart problems, hypertension, and cholesterol. Call 472-2550; office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Gillis Eyes Council Bid

This year's city election may have some bump and thump to it after all.

Without a major challenger to Mayor James Sheets on the horizon, it was beginning to look like a ho-hum election year.

But that could change quickly.

Former City Clerk John Gillis is considering running for the city council at-large seat that Tim Cahill, now Norfolk County treasurer, will be leaving at the end of the year.

Sources close to Gillis say he is "very seriously" considering a run.

Gillis himself acknowledges: "I'm giving it some thought. I will make a decision later."

And, if he does, run, that would certainly liven things up.

McCAULEY

McCauley was elected to four terms as mayor, one of them without opposition. A pretty good track record in the vote-getting department.

He returned to the school committee two years ago winning a two-year term. That was another run for him without opposition. No one wanted to take him on.

Gillis, who is now a county commissioner, was one of City Hall's most popular--and compassionate--figures during his 36 years there as assistant and then city clerk.

He retired in 1992 and rolled to an easy county-wide victory for county commissioner.

There are those who are convinced that he would have been elected mayor if he had ever wanted to run for that office.

Sources say Gillis already has offers of both financial and organizational support with which to wage an effective campaign.

Gillis could hold both the county commission and city council posts at the same time.

Another name in the picture is that of Charles McIntyre who made an impressive political debut in 1995, finishing a strong runner-up in the council at-large field that year. He has indicated he is interested in another bid.

McIntyre is the son of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, one of the most powerful political figures in the city's history, and is now an assistant district attorney.

That would make three well-known political names on the ballot if all three ran. It is unlikely, however, that Gillis and McIntyre would run against one another because of deep political ties.

If Gillis ran, it is doubtful that McIntyre would. There could be a little summit meeting on that.

But there could be another question in search of an answer: Will Cahill actually vacate his council seat? He assumed his duties last week as county treasurer with plans to finish this last year of his council term and not seek re-election.

But with the big push now on in the state legislature to abolish county government, Cahill could possibly have second thoughts about giving up his council seat.

Holding onto that seat would guarantee him a stepping stone toward a higher elective office in the future if county government is wiped out.

Anyway, things are getting a little interesting.

JO-ANN BRAGG will definitely seek re-election to the School Committee this year.

Bragg has an announcement party coming up Thursday, Jan. 23 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Raffael's, Enterprise Drive, North Quincy.

Bob Jamis is campaign manager and Dona Coleman, treasurer.

Tickets are $25 and may be obtained from them or by calling 471-3822.

BRAGG

QUINCY PATROLMAN Brian Tobin seems to have the knack for being in the right place at the right time.

You no doubt remember the night last July when he caught an infant dropped into his arms by the mother from the second floor of a burning house in West Quincy.

Well, on New Year's Eve during the First Night festivities, Tobin had the duty in Quincy Square.

He was sent to the second floor at old City Hall to escort a messenger with First Night buttons receipts to make a bank deposit.

While he was going up the stairs and reached the first landing, a woman coming down the stairs tripped and fell. And he caught her in his arms, saving her from injury.

"Brian," a bystander said, "you did it again."

Debra, who does most of the children's portraits and weddings for FineLight and does them well, caught Brendan with just the perfect look and in the perfect scene for welcoming in 1997. She has a nice touch with kids.

Brendan, son of Billy and Erin Fitzpatrick of Quincy, was the first Quincy baby born at Quincy Hospital in 1996, arriving Jan. 4 at 6 p.m. and weighing in at 7 pounds, 7 ounces.

It has been a Quincy Sun tradition since its founding in 1968 to feature a photo of the first Quincy baby of the year in the New Year's issue.

But this was the first four-color photo and it certainly caught the eye of our readers.

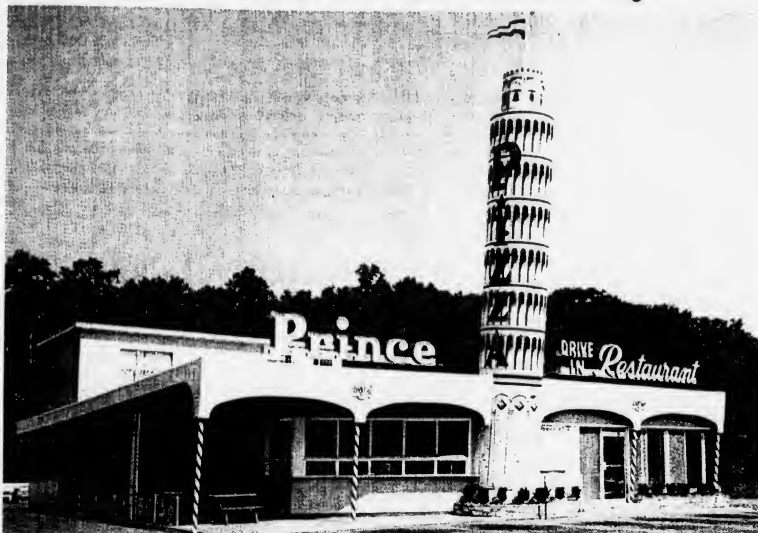

It may have been an historic one, too. To the best of our knowledge, it was the first four-color process photo to appear in the regular issue of a Quincy newspaper.

The Sun did feature a four-color photo on the cover of its Historic Quincy supplement last June but this was the first in the regular section of the paper. That one showing John and Abigail Adams models raising the flag at the John Quincy Adams birthplace was taken by Sun editor Bob Bosworth Progress.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1950'S POSTCARD published by the Prince Macaroni Company off Lowell showing their drive-in restaurant on The Southern Artery. They built similar leaning tower buildings in Somerville, Wareham, South Yarmouth and Saugus. The Saugus restaurant on Route 1 is still ex-

Remembering Those Who Serve Us

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As I drove to work on New Year's Day, I noticed very few cars doing the morning commute. Most folks were apparently still in bed remembering New Year's Eve, I guess. However, as I drove from Wollaston through East Milton Square I began to reflect on the role of public safety folks who can't take the holiday off because they have a job to do.

I thought about this as I passed the Wollaston firehouse on Beale Street and again in East Milton Square at the Milton firehouse. As I waited for the light to change, I thought about firefighters and police officers who work long hours and never hear the words "thank you." As a police officer, I know this is especially true for the men and women of blue.

Just before the light changed, I looked in my rear view mirror and right behind me was a Milton cruiser with a young police officer behind the wheel. We all work long hours. We all work odd hours. Most of our friends stay in touch by phone because we don't have normal hours off to socialize many times.

Personally, I'm glad I am a police officer for the state Department of Mental Health. I have been one for over 11 years now and I enjoy my work but it would be nice to hear someone say "thanks" rather than hearing another endless string of donut jokes. But I guess it comes with the territory, huh?

Police officers, firefighters and public employees in general are proud of what they do. Let us start 1997 off by remembering those who serve us in public service. Don't forget or underestimate the value of their work.

Often when I wonder if my job has meaning, I am encouraged by a smile or pleasant word from someone passing by. I know I'll never get rich being a police officer but I know I'm doing an important job. Best wishes in 1997.

Education Reform Will Require Partnership

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would heartily agree with one utterance from Speaker Tom Finneran regarding the state of public education spoken during his recent appearance in Quincy.

"My patience is gone," too, but not with the education community whom he described as selfish and only interested in getting its hands on more taxpayer money (a characterization I won't dignify with a response). No, I'm fed up with those who grandstand and make a political football out of the subject of our children's education.

To the casual or perhaps even more astute observer, it would appear that confusion reigns. The State Board of Education has appeared to be in a state of chaos. One might ask what the recent twistings and turnings of the Silber-run board and New England weather have in common. The answer: if you don't like what you see, wait a few minutes and it's likely to change. A year into his chairmanship, it's fair to ask: what progress toward implementation of reforms outlined in the 1993 Education Reform Act has John Silber helped to facilitate?

As an academic product of Silber's first years at Boston University, I am aware of his blunt, often abrasive, take-no-prisoners style of management. As Senate President Tom Birmingham, a Silber patron, admitted this past week, Silber "does have the ability to polarize." If the goal of the latest "Silber Shockers" has been to focus attention on the issue, he's succeeded, but he's also confirmed that the further one is removed from the daily process of educating children, the less one understands about what makes that process successful.

To add insult to injury, reports also indicate that Education Commissioner Robert Antonucci has presided amidst a decimating downsizing of his department, a brain drain that portends the loss of institutional memory, with key personnel who were working on various facets of Education Reform leaving.

We are nearly halfway into the 1993 seven-year, $1.3 billion plan to reform public education. Much of the plan, including development of curriculum frameworks and testing at specific grade levels, is behind schedule. Let's get on with the business of implementing it. Enough of the demagoguery and debate. As the 1995 Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education report Within Our Reach points out, "a meaningful educational improvement program must focus on three tasks: set high, measurable standards of student performance, require accountability of educators for their success in improving student performance, and provide sufficient resources to educators to permit them to carry out their responsibilities."

Beyond that, educating our children requires an active partnership between educators, students and parents with the support of the community, government and private industry. It doesn't happen in a vacuum six hours per day, 180 days per year.

Shipyard Talks Moved To Washington

By PAUL HAROLD

Contract talks between representatives of Electric Boat at the Quincy shipyard and officers of Locals 5 and 90 were scheduled to reconvene in Washington next week.

The change of site for the prolonged talks was suggested by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service national office. Local federal mediators

John Sullivan said the Washington location would result in a "higher level of talks, because of the seriousness of the negotiations."

The site change came following a full day of unsuccessful talks between the parties this week.

EXECUTIVE HOUSE TAX PLAN VOTE NEARS

Proponents of the 14-story, three million dollar high rise opposite Central Junior High School said its fate could decide the future for high rise construction throughout the South Shore.

A hearing was scheduled before the Planning Board this week, but in the meantime, City Councillor Francis McCauley called for a rejection of the tax plan that would allow the developers to make payments to the city in lieu of taxes. First used to build the Prudential Center, the state tax break would be the first allowed in Quincy.

Developers Peter and Harold Kanavos and George Buehrer said because high rise construction on the South Shore was an untied venture, banks were unwilling to provide convention financing, and they needed this tax arrangement to make the project work.

PARIS TRIP AWARDED IN CONTEST

Irene Bowes of Bartlett St. was the winner of a trip for two to Paris, as the ninth and final vacation prize in a shopping promotion contest sponsored by the downtown merchants' association.

The winner was drawn by LeRoy Rounseville, of Roy's Flowers in ceremonies at the Strand Theater, organized by Ed Kasper.

Mrs. Bowes said she submitted her entry at Grant's while she was doing some pre-Christmas shopping.

$876M For Policyholders Of Veterans' Life Insurance

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) announces that more than 2 million active policyholders of veterans' life insurance will share in its 1997 distribution of $876 million in insurance dividends.

With dividends on various types of policies averaging from $200 to $900, veterans will automatically receive the payments on the anniversary date of their policies with the individual dividend amount varying according to age, type of insurance and length of time the policy has been in force.

Because payment is automatic, those eligible for money need not send a written request for it.

Looking At His Own Party

McCauley: Republicans Must Build From The Ground Up

By FRANK McCAULEY

The Presidential election is history and the state-wide defeat of many Republican candidates is being analyzed and second-guessed by the press and politicians of both parties.

Blame is being directed to Jim Rappaport, as well as Republican Party Leaders. (They did not provide adequate support for Republican candidates, etc., etc.)

The losses suffered by the Republican Party in the election were easily predictable as far back as a year ago! All the ingredients for a major Democratic sweep were in the mix at that time.

Newt Gingrich, who became the first Republican Speaker of the House in 42 years, became the favorite "bogeyman." Flush with power Newt attempted to move too fast too soon and became a controversial figure.

The Democratic Party in Massachusetts has enjoyed a large registration advantage over registered Republicans. In addition, the Democratic nominee-to-be was an incumbent President who was extremely popular with the Massachusetts electorate. The large majority of voters who only vote in Presidential elections tend to vote Democratic.

The strategy for the Republican Party in 1996 should have been to hunker down to protect those incumbents in the state legislature. Jane Swift, a popular incumbent state senator in western Massachusetts, should have been encouraged to stay put and postpone a run against Congressman John Olver until 1998. Senator Lucille Hicks of Wayland, who has served in the state legislature since 1981, should have been asked to postpone her retirement for two years.

Both of these seats fell to Democrats reducing the Republican membership in the Senate to eight members. On the bright side, 13 House Republicans seeking re-election were victorious over Democratic challengers while three incumbents were defeated.

In the Senate all three Republican incumbents involved in contested elections were re-elected, including a landslide victory by Senator Robert Hedlund of Weymouth, who beat back a strong challenge by Assistant Dist. Atty. Robert Delahunt.

Gov. Weld has received unfair criticism because of the election results. The Governor's appearance on the ballot as a candidate for the U.S. Senate gave a strong boost to all Republican candidates across the state. As a member of the Republican State Committee (1992-1996), I had the opportunity to work with Jim Rappaport, Party Chairman, the target of some criticism. All in all, I feel that he has done a creditable job.

The great tragedy of the 1996 Presidential election was the ill-fated candidacy of Bob Dole. An able and experienced legislative leader, he allowed his presidential political ambitions to get in the way of his common sense! He would have been better off staying in the Senate where he would have been Majority Leader for the remaining two years of his term.

Now that the elections are over, the question of the future of the Republican Party in Massachusetts should be addressed. Republican Party registration has held steady at between 13 and 14 percent of the total voting population in recent years.

Many young people who are interested in holding elective office gravitate to the Democratic Party because it is easier to be elected as a Democrat than as a Republican. One can be a conservative and enunciate principles in line with Republican philosophy and fail to be elected as a Republican, while running as a Democrat be elected and vote in the same manner as they would if they were in the Republican Party.

To become an effective political force in Massachusetts, the Republican Party must rebuild from the ground up. In Quincy, a group of young Republicans led by Republican City Committee Chairman Brian Glennon, School Committee member Christine Cedrone, and City Council candidate Mark Roberts, are attempting to rebuild the Committee by attracting Quincy residents not involved in political activity.

Their task will be a difficult one since Massachusetts will continue to be a strong Democratic state in the future. While only 15 percent of the present labor force in the country belong to unions, (down from 35.5 percent in 1945), Massachusetts is a strong union state.

In addition, many residents are employed in the higher education and medical field. These groups tend to vote Democratic because of the financial largesse they receive due to the clout that the Democratic members of Congress have in the channeling of federal funds to the state.

While the future of the Republican Party in our state may seem bleak at this time, there is a basis for hope. Not so long ago the Southern states were solidly in the Democratic column. Now members of Congress from the South tend to be Republican. If our young Republicans are willing to work together in a united effort to improve the party who knows what can be achieved?!

We've proven we can elect Republicans to our top constitutional offices.

Your Social Security

Retiring From Your Own Business?

By CAROL BOYLE

Are you in this picture? You own and operate a business. You're at retirement age and the golf course looks more inviting every day. You don't want to sell the business. Perhaps you could put it in a family member's name. You would continue working, but not work as much. That way you could spend more time on the course and collect Social Security benefits at the same time.

Before you consider such a plan, you should talk with your local Social Security office. We'll need to know whether you'll be completely retired or whether you plan to have some involvement in the business. To get all of your Social Security benefits, you must retire, or at least reduce the extent of your involvement in the business to match any reduction in your reported earnings.

When you work for wages, it's easy to determine whether you're retired. Your earnings tell the whole story. But when you work in a business that you or your family owns, or you're an officer in a corporation, it's not that simple.

Because you could be in a position to control the amount of earnings reported in your name, you may need to furnish us with additional information—such as tax returns or corporate records—when you file your application, or when you file your tax return (if later). This will help us decide whether you have reduced your services in the business to match the reduction in your income. You cannot simply pay yourself a smaller salary to stay under Social Security's earnings limits. Your earnings must match the work you do.

When you continue to receive compensation, we consider the work you performed and the amount you earned while working and compare it with your work and earnings after "retirement." We determine the reasonable value of the services you perform for the business, based on the time spent and the nature of the services, and compare it to the income you receive. If the value of your services exceeds your income, we determine a dollar amount for those services and count it against Social Security's annual earnings limits.

The annual earnings limit is the amount you can earn at a certain age before your benefits are reduced. Here's how the reduction is figured: If you're under age 65, your 1996 benefits are reduced by $1 for every $2 you earn over $8,280. If you're age 65-69, your benefits are reduced $1 for every $3 you earn over $12,500. There's no earnings limit after you reach age 70.

Social Security isn't trying to tell you when to retire or how to run your business. We're merely encouraging you to check with us before filing for retirement benefits to make sure you are aware of the documentation you'll need for the interview. We also want to remind you that you have to "retire" to collect "retirement" benefits—or at least significantly reduce your involvement in the business and keep your earnings within the income limit. That will permit us to pay some or all of your Social Security benefits.

When you decide to retire, call our toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, to make an appointment to talk with a Social Security representative. Our lines are busiest early in the week and early in the month, so if your business can wait, it's best to call at other times.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

AN OPEN-AND-SHUT CASE

One type of case connected with the law of negligence is "res ipsa loquitur," which means "the fact speaks for itself." Common cases of this sort involve consumers who find inappropriate "ingredients" contained in foodstuffs which they ingest and then become sick as a result. This injured party, who incurs medical damages, can recover them under res ipsa loquitur by showing only that the container and the food held within were in the exclusive control of the manufacturer and that, under normal circumstances, the thing that caused the sickness is not found in boxes of food intended for public consumption. Thus, the law of "res ipsa loquitur" does not provide that the injured party specifically prove a negligent act by the manufacturer, but only, if the manufacturer had exercised due care, the negligent act would not have occurred.

HINT: "Res ipsa loquitur" is used particularly in malpractice suits in which the surgeon leaves an instrument inside the patient.

If you have been injured by someone or something, call 773-2880 to schedule a free consultation. We need to discuss how the law protects you so that you can receive appropriate compensation for the damages. Our office is located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. By law, you are entitled to seek damages in monetary terms so that as an injured party you will be made whole again.

35,000-square-foot senior center, a senior transportation program and more.

•Revitalization of the Fore River shipyard. In September, President Clinton announced that $100 million in federal loan guarantees would be released for the project, and Sheets said the modernization phase of the plan should begin with the next six weeks. Preparation for the first two tankers to be built at the shipyard should begin by the fall, he added.

•Completion of the new Quincy Point elementary school, for which the City Council passed a $10 million bond issue last May.

•Groundbreaking for a new addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center, which received a $3.5 million state grant for the project last September. The mayor said he will ask the City Council for additional funding for the balance of the project—an approximate cost of $6 million to $7 million—and the groundbreaking should be held in August.

•Groundbreaking in the spring for the long talked-about Quincy Center Concourse linking Burgin Parkway with Hancock Street and Southern Artery. Funding for the $8.6 million state project was set aside last year and the roadway will be completed in 1999, Sheets said.

•Opening of the Old Colony commuter rail line in Quincy Center. Funding for the state project, first announced in late 1995, was approved last year and construction should begin in the near future, according to the mayor. "It is expected that the first train should pull into the station in September of this year," he noted.

•Announcement of a new Quincy Center hotel. Negotiations between Quincy 2000 and Dallas-based Lincoln Properties—which owns Presidents Place and an adjacent vacant lot, the proposed hotel site—are ongoing, Sheets said.

The mayor also noted that careful economic planning allowed the city to cover a $2 million snow and ice deficit from last winter. In addition, he spoke of the importance of the hiring of Tourism Director Jo-An Thomas and Downtown Development Coordinator Bruce Arons as well as the unveiling of Quincy 2000's Quincy Center Action Plan and how downtown revitalization will continue.

"We are meeting our highest aspirations as a city," he said. "We have not reached all of them, but in this past year, we have followed where they have led and we have made great progress."

Another portion of the address focused on the city's upcoming preparation for a millennium celebration to be held two years from now in conjunction with similar festivities statewide and nationwide. Sheets said the endeavor will include the raising of private and public funds for a series of events highlighting the last 100 years of the city's history as well as formation of a major commission "to ensure that all planning is done properly and that aspects of our history will be contained in the millennium celebration."

"We want 1999 to be the most unforgettable year of this century and this millennium," he said.

The mayor added that he wants to form a Quincy Harbor and Revitalization Committee that will work toward the revitalization of the city's beaches, clamming industry and commercial and recreational boating as well as submit a report to Sheets by the end of the year on a proposal to create a national park at islands surrounding Quincy, Boston and possibly other local communities.

During his address, Sheets also mentioned a number of events that sparked excitement in the city, including a speech by First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton during a Democratic rally at the library in October, the unveiling of a Korean War Memorial at Veterans Memorial Stadium in July, the city Flag Day Parade in June and other celebrations.

However, Sheets also took time to mention the passing of Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall and Fr. Cornelius Heery, long-time pastor of Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy, both of whom died last year.

"Their footprints will always be found wherever our future takes us," he said. "They will be missed, but not forgotten."

Sheets concluded by saying that the city's efforts today ultimately will be judged by future generations of historians.

"They will recognize that what we have accomplished for Quincy in this century is as meaningful for the future of our city as were the actions undertaken in our first century by John Hancock and John Adams," he said.

FOUR FORMER MAYORS and the oldest living former Quincy city councillor were among those who attended Mayor James Sheets' fourth mid-term address at City Hall. From left are former Mayors Arthur Tobin, Walter Hannon, Francis McCauley and Joseph LaRaia as well as Lillian Helfrich and her husband Alfred, 92, who served as a councillor under the city's Plan "E" form of government from 1950 to 1955.

Raymondi: Council President's Term Should Be Longer

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi wants to increase the length of time a councillor can serve as council president.

Raymondi said this week he plans to bring up the matter for discussion at the City Council's next regularly-scheduled meeting Jan. 21.

"The current rule has been in existence for at least a decade, and I believe it's time to take another look at it," said Raymondi. "It's just a structural issue with me."

Currently, the president of the Quincy City Council is limited to one two-year term. The council president has the power to appoint the heads of council committees and serves as acting mayor when the mayor is out of the city.

Peter Kolson, the Ward 1 city councillor, is the current president. He began the second year of his term this week.

DAN RAYMONDI

Raymondi said two alternatives to the two-year term would be to have no limit on the number of terms or to limit the time span to eight years which would be consistent with certain State House positions.

"Two years....I just don't see why it should have to be that short," he said. "As one individual city councillor, I would rather not be restricted to who can I vote for."

duties such as welcoming dignitaries to the city and cutting ribbons.

There were those in Quincy who entered the first grade when Della Chiesa was Plan E mayor and had him hand them diplomas as Plan A mayor when they graduated from high school.

Sheets already has made history as mayor. He is the only Quincy mayoral incumbent to twice be re-elected without opposition.

Only two other mayors in the city's history have been given an unchallenged ride to re-election. Thomas Burgin and Francis McCauley were each accorded the honor but just once each.

Sheets has worn well these seven years in the mayor's office and is still riding high on a wave of political popularity. Sheets will have no major opposition to a fifth term. None of the present city council members where serious mayoral candidates usually come from, will challenge him.

He could possibly have another run without any opposition at all unless a nuisance candidate decides to get in mainly for the publicity or to be able to tell his grandchildren he once ran for mayor of Quincy.

Council Hearing Jan. 13 On Site Plan Review

The City Council will hold a public hearing for a proposed site plan review process Monday, Jan. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The Quincy Planning Board was to hold a hearing on the matter last night (Wednesday).

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath has said that although the two boards already have held hearings on the matter—which was introduced by Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi—the two new hearings are necessary because the council has not taken a vote on the issue since its June 3 hearing.

Raymondi said this week he hopes the council, which has the final say on the matter, will vote on his proposal within the next three months.

Raymondi's proposed ordinance would create a "site plan review" process designed to protect neighborhoods from increased traffic and other problems caused by new commercial buildings and apartments.

Specifically, the site plan review would apply to new buildings or additions to existing ones larger than 10,000 square feet and apartments with 13 or more units. Single-family homes would not be affected.

The process would make it mandatory for developers to show that their project would have no adverse effect on the surrounding neighborhood and to agree to pay for any necessary street improvements. In addition, city department heads would have to review the project.

The Planning Board would have the final say on each project. It would be given the authority to request changes on anything from architecture to landscaping.

Raymondi introduced the measure after Shaw's Supermarkets announced plans to build a new "superstore" at the site of the former Quinail headquarters on Quincy Avenue. Under current zoning laws, Shaw's needed only to obtain a permit from the Quincy Building Department to get the project off the ground.

Harold, McDermott Named To Hospital Board

City Councillor Paul Harold and Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott have been re-appointed to serve on the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers.

The two were unanimously named to a second term on the board by their council colleagues following Mayor James Sheets' fourth mid-term address Monday at City Hall.

Despite Frigid Temperatures

More Than 21,000 Attend Fifth First Night Quincy

By MICHAEL WHALEN

More than 21,000 people attended the city's fifth annual First Night Quincy celebration on New Year's Eve despite frigid temperatures that likely kept many would-be attendees indoors.

First Night Chairman Michael Cheney said although attendance was down from the total of nearly 30,000 who attended Quincy's previous First Night event, this year's celebration was a major success considering the cold weather. An official tally from button sales was not available at press time, but police estimated the number at between 21,000 and 24,000.

"The cold actually drove people indoors, and that's what First Night is all about," said Cheney. "We advertised ourselves as being weather-proof, and that's what we were. Many of the indoor sites were at capacity, and we received a lot of compliments."

"So it worked out perfectly. And once again, there was no trouble and there were no arrests. It was an overwhelmingly successful event."

New attractions at this year's First Night included a 13-foot-high fifth anniversary cake created by Montilio's Bakery and a World Wide Web site on Chestnut Street. Returning favorites included a laser light show, truck-decorating contest and parade, international food festival and a fireworks display at the conclusion of the event.

Cheney said special recognition, however, should be given to the live bands and performers who provided entertainment at the event's indoor sites which were packed because of the freezing temperatures.

"I'd say the inside entertainment was the story this year," he said. "And because it's a multi-cultural event, we had something for everyone, attractions for all nationalities. We had it all."

He added that events for the next First Night Quincy already are being planned, and the suggestions of those who attended First Night '97 will play a major role in what new attractions are brought in.

"We're already planning a giant gingerbread house that kids will be able to walk in and out of, as well as other events," said Cheney. "Next year is going to be bigger and better again."

Sheets To Discuss Squantum Gardens While In Washington

Mayor James Sheets will be in Washington, D.C. next week to discuss planned senior facilities at the Navy-owned Squantum Gardens with Navy officials.

Sheets will leave for the nation's capital Jan. 16. While in Washington, he will attend the annual mayor's conference there in addition to meeting with Navy officials at the Pentagon.

The mayor said a lease for the Squantum site has been finalized and is awaiting final signatures from the Navy. The five-year lease has an option for three five-year extensions, although Sheets, who hopes to begin moving seniors into Squantum Gardens by April, said he wants the land to be conveyed to the city by this summer.

"That's what I'll be discussing with the Navy--the conveyance of the land the city and related issues," he said. "We expect the land to be transferred this year."

Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade also will participate in the discussions with the Navy, Sheets said.

Squantum Gardens Aging Council Topic

The Quincy Council on Aging board will meet Thursday, Jan. 23 at 2 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

COA Board Chairman John Noonan urges all members to attend and help plan for the many board activities for the coming year. Highlights on the agenda include responsibilities of the board related to the acquisition of the Squantum Naval Gardens by the City of Quincy, and the second annual Quincy Seniors Conference scheduled to be held next September.

Ward 2 City Councillor Dan Raymondi, chairman of the City Council Committee on Senior Affairs, along with other city officials recently concluded a series of public hearings held in all six city wards to receive public input on the takeover of the Squantum Naval Gardens by the city.

The proposal will be submitted in January by Mayor James Sheets to the City Council for final approval. A lease for the property has been obtained from the Navy Department and the process of filling the units, which are now vacant, will soon commence.

The COA proposes to operate an elderly van program that will provide "door to door" services for Quincy's elderly. The existing COA van program already provides transportation to the elderly persons who have medical appointments. The COA will expand the service to provide needed transportation to and from nutrition sites, the city's business areas, city agencies, and the various neighborhood centers to enable all seniors to participate in varied programs being offered throughout the entire city.

The COA anticipates expanding its elderly van program to a total of 16 vans within five years to meet the fast growing senior population needs.

The COA proposes to design and construct a 30,000 square foot senior center at Squantum Gardens. The center would be the central facility to cater to all elderly of Quincy. It will be an up-to-date facility containing the COA headquarters, an Alzheimer's clinic, adult day care program, nutritional and meal site with an industrial kitchen, social services such as stroke support, guidance counseling, recreational activities, a senior health clinic, and numerous other programs similar to those now being provided in similar senior centers in Massachusetts.

The Quincy Commission on the Family plans to use five 2-bedroom units in one of the buildings as transitional housing for Quincy families and the remaining unit as an office for the commission and will oversee these units. That will provide emergency housing for Quincy families and suddenly find themselves in extreme need of housing.

The Quincy COA board at its Jan. 23 meeting, will also start planning for the September Quincy senior conference as a follow up to the most successful first annual senior conference held last year.

The September conference is co-sponsored by the COA and the Quincy Commission on the Family with the cooperation of Mayor James Sheets.

A meeting of the planning committee will be held Wednesday, Jan. 29 at 1 p.m. in the Quincy Senior Drop-In Center. The Quincy COA, with the cooperation of many city agencies and the mayor's office sponsored a one day mini-White House Conference on Aging last year.

(NAPS)—Here are two pieces of news you may want to insulate yourself (and your home) against.

First, the U. S. Department of Energy reports there will be fuel shortages this winter. This usually means higher heating costs. Second, the 1997 Farmer's Almanac is predicting an extremely cold latter half of the winter throughout the country with above normal amounts of snow.

To prepare now for the colder weather, the CertainTeed Home Institute recommends you call your local utility for an "Energy Audit" of your home. Most audits are offered free of charge and can uncover areas within a home where there are energy leaks.

Many homes, for instance, built before 1980 may not be insulated to today's energy standards. A well-insulated home can cut heat loss by up to 30 percent, according to many utilities, and reduce the burden on the local utility in the process. If you feel uncomfortable in your home or believe it could be underinsulated, the CertainTeed Home Institute suggests you call a professional insulation contractor. An insulation contractor can examine your attic and sidewalls and suggest ways to upgrade them to appropriate effectiveness. The higher the R-Value, the greater the insulating power.

An insulation contractor can also suggest other areas that should be insulated in your home, such as crawl spaces, basements, water heaters, ducts and pipes. Insulating water heaters, for instance, can help you retain as much as 12 percent of energy that would otherwise be wasted.

One material many contractors are using today for upgrading insulation levels in attics and sidewalls is Insul Safe III® Fiber Glass Insulation. Insul Safe is noncombustible, noncorrosive to pipes and wires and will not provide sustenance for pests and vermin.

To learn more about saving energy and insulating, write for a free "What You Should Know About Blown-In Insulations" and "How To Select An Insulation Contractor" pamphlets from the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 or call 1-800-782-8777. Also visit us on the Internet at <http://www.certainteed.com>.

Markarian's Late Goal Sparks NQ To Victory

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Coming off a hard-fought victory over Taunton last Saturday, the North Quincy High School hockey team battled host Weymouth last night (Wednesday) at 7:40 p.m.

Results of the game were not available as of press time.

The Red Raiders return to the ice at home Saturday at 7:50 p.m. against Bridgewater-Raynham. Next Wednesday, Jan. 15 at 6:40 p.m., NQ hosts crosstown foe Quincy in the first of two meetings this season.

"We have a tough road ahead of us," said NQ coach Tom Benson. "Weymouth is one of the best teams in the league, along with Falmouth. After that, any of the other teams can beat each other. We're playing better hockey now, and both the Bridgewater and Quincy games are at home, so we'll see what happens."

In a 6-4 league triumph over Taunton, NQ sophomore defenseman Paul Markarian scored two goals, including the game-winner on an end-to-end rush with 6:46 left in the third period.

Fifty seconds after Markarian's score, senior center Winter netted an unassisted insurance goal to secure the Red Raiders' second victory in as many games.

"We were up 4-2, but took some penalties and they tied it up," said Benson. "We didn't quit, didn't roll over and die. Paul scored a minute later, then Rob scored right after that to seal it for us."

In other recent action, Wood scored twice to lead the Red Raiders to a 5-2 win over non-league foe New Bedford.

"This was a big win for us, because it stopped a four-game losing streak," said Benson. "The kids played their best game of the year, playing strong defense and putting some goals in the net. I'm happy about that, playing well and winning the game."

SENIOR CENTER ROB Winter beats a Taunton opponent to the puck in North Quincy's 6-4 victory last Saturday. Against the Tigers, Winter collected a goal and two assists as the Red Raiders recorded their second triumph in as many games.

TAKING A SHOT at the Taunton goaltender is North Quincy's Bill Walker (22), who netted his first varsity goal in the win over the Tigers. The Red Raiders' next game is against Bridgewater-Raynham at home Saturday at 7:50 p.m.

Presidents' Defense Shuts Down Abington

Following a 4-1 triumph over visiting Abington Monday, Quincy tangled with Barnstable yesterday (Wednesday) at home at 6:40 p.m.

Results of the game were not available as of press time.

The Presidents will be back in action against visiting Silver Lake Saturday at 4:30 p.m. Quincy visits crosstown rival North Quincy next Wednesday, Jan. 15 at 6:40 p.m.

Leading the way for Quincy against Abington was assistant captain Chris Haidul, who collected one goal and two assists. Also contributing offensively were Derek McTomney, Bob Harvey and Scott Cooper, all of whom netted one goal. Joe Vallatini (two assists), Steve Verlicco, Bob Hall and Mark Glynn assisted on Quincy's scores.

With solid defense from top to bottom, the Presidents held the Green Wave to just 11 shots on goal, including four in the first two periods. Quincy goaltender Chris Burns, who stopped 10 of Abington's shots, picked up the victory.

Meanwhile, Quincy's offense peppered Abington goalie Mike Polvere, who kept his team in the game with 34 saves.

Abington finally got on the board in the third, but Quincy had already taken a 4-0 lead into the final period and coasted to the non-league victory.

In other recent action, Glynn's third-period goal gave Quincy a 3-3 tie with Falmouth last Saturday night. Cooper had a goal and two assists, while Hall also scored. Goaltender Burns made 16 saves for QHS.

Quincy also tied Plymouth South 3-3, battling back from a two-goal deficit against Plymouth South with third period goals from Hall and Harvey. Cooper had a goal and an assist, while Glynn added two assists for the Presidents.

THE LONG GOOD-BYE

The luxury tax has been the object of scorn by automobile manufacturers and car buyers alike since its inception in 1990. In 1993, the tax was lifted from boats and other luxury items, but remained firmly affixed to cars. Now, all that is slowly coming to an end. An amendment attached to the recently signed Small Business Job Protection Act/Minimum Wage Bill calls for the luxury tax to be phased out by 2003. The bill lowers the tax rate for automobiles costing more than $34,000 to nine percent for the remainder of 1996, to eight percent on January 1, 1997, and lowers it one percent every year thereafter until the termination date of December 31, 2002. The bill contains a technical amendment to adjust the tax threshold (from the original $30,000 to $34,000) for inflation.

HINT: The luxury tax was nearly repealed in 1995, when a repeal was attached to the balanced-budget amendment, which was vetoed. For all your automotive needs and wants, come to LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Quincy Sits Atop OCL Following Big Victory

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Combining tight defense, accurate shooting and domination of the backboards, the Quincy High School boys basketball team knocked off visiting Old Colony League giant Taunton, 72-60, Monday night.

With the victory, the Presidents (7-1) improved to 6-0 in league play. The loss was Taunton's second of the season and first in the OCL.

"This was a great, great win over a really good team," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "The kids pushed it up a notch for this game. We were down five at the half, but these kids just did not believe they would lose, and carried that attitude through the second half. We're playing intelligent, unselfish basketball and it showed against Taunton."

Quincy is back in action Friday night at 7 at Bridgewater-Raynham. Next Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m., Quincy visits crosstown rival North Quincy in the first of two meetings this season.

Against Taunton, senior forward Bob Walsh was Quincy's leading scorer with 30 points, followed by senior guard Brad Smith's 16 and forward Geoff King's eight. Smith and King also played solid defense, with King blocking six shots and collecting 10 rebounds. Freshman Dan Kelly and senior Carmen Lorenzano also played solid games, especially down the stretch.

"The difference was our kids made them work for every shot," said Franceschini. "We extended the defense and came up with 11 steals. We played 32 minutes of exceptional defense. We put the pressure on them, not letting them play loose. When they got a little tight, they couldn't make their shots."

"Offensively, we worked the clock, got the ball inside, which was a big key to our success. We also controlled the boards at both ends, including 12 offensive rebounds. Geoff and Carmen did great work on the offensive glass, getting us second and third shots."

The Presidents broke open a close game with a 10-0 spurt that pushed their lead to 14 points. During the run, the Presidents came up with three steals and converted them into transition baskets.

The Tigers rallied to cut the lead to eight, but were forced to foul the Presidents late in the fourth quarter. Quincy made its free throws down the stretch to seal the victory.

"We had to play great to win and we did," said Franceschini. "The kids are taking what the defense gives them, finding the opponent's weaknesses and taking advantage of them."

In other recent action, Kelly paced a balanced Quincy attack with 14 points in a 76-58 triumph over Plymouth South last Friday. Jarod Downey and Lorenzano scored 11 points each, while King added 10 second-half points.

In the first round of the Ocean Spray/Marshfield Classic, Quincy suffered its only setback of the season, a 66-60 loss to Marshfield. The Presidents rebounded with a 69-49 romp Scituate in the consolation game.

Quincy escaped the Cape with a 68-66 victory over host Barnstable. Lorenzano poured in 20 points, collected seven rebounds and seven assists. Smith added 13 points and five assists, and Kelly chipped in with eight points and five assists.

The rest of the standings: Patriot Glass (50-38); Eco Muffler (48-40); Dom's (48-40); Everlasting Engraving (46-42); Mike's Auto Body (44-44); EMC Construction (43-45); Bernie's (39-49); Country Ski & Sport (16-72).

Chris Baker leads the boys division with a 96 average, followed by Todd White at 95 and Mike Mezzetti at 93.

In the girls division, Melissa Cooke has the top average with 92. Andrea Healy is second at 86, Mary Fernald is third at 84.

Following an 11-point victory over Barnstable, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team took on visiting Bridgewater-Raynham last night (Wednesday) at 7. Results of the game were not available as of press time.

North returns to action Friday at 7 p.m. at Falmouth, then hosts crosstown rival Quincy next Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the first of two meetings this season.

"These are big games for us," said NQ coach Ted Stevenson. "Bridgewater was picked as the second best team in the league, and with their size, it should be a tough game for us. We only beat Falmouth by one, so we have to be ready for them."

"Quincy is playing very well, better than they have in recent years. They're much smaller than us, but they press and they're very quick and have a lot of depth."

Sweeney Brothers and Marylou's News lead the Olindy's Junior All Star Kid's Bowling League with 53-35 records.

The rest of the standings: Jason Miller bowled 27 pins with his average of 48 with a high three of 200 and a high single of 75.

High teams this week were Patriot Glass and Mike's Auto Body with a team total of 1367. The PG squad is comprised of Jason Badget (287), Barry Doherty (249), William Badget (230), Todd White (306) and Jason Fontaine (295).

Mike's team is comprised of Elizabeth Fernald (266), Nick Campbell (246), Jamie Fontaine (253), Mary Fernald (271) and Jason Miller (200).

"If we handle their pressure and get it inside, we should be in good shape. We've had success against them recently and hope to continue it next week. We expect the usual war."

An important piece in the Red Raiders' puzzle, sophomore guard Brian Doyle, may be back for the B-R game. Doyle suffered a sprained ankle in a loss to Taunton Dec. 30.

"We hope he'll be back for the Bridgewater game, but we're not sure he'll be ready," said Stevenson. "He's given us 10-12 points a game off the bench as our sixth man. The trainer said Doyle is iffy for Wednesday, but he (Doyle) said he'll be back."

In their 57-46 triumph over Barnstable last Friday, the Red Raiders overcame a sluggish first half, sparked by forward Matt Bromley's 12 second-half points.

Three other Red Raiders reached double figures in points, led by guard Mike Johnston's 15. Guard Chris Erler scored 14 and center Brian Ross chipped in with 11.

"We didn't play well in the first half; we made seven of 14 from the line and weren't running our offense well," said Stevenson, whose Red Raiders trailed by four at halftime. "We came out and played very strong in the second half, making our shots and playing well as a team."

In other recent action, the Red Raiders lost to league power Taunton by a 70-42 margin.

"We talked about it, and we don't think we played too bad," said Stevenson. "We were down seven at the half, but we missed some shots in the second half. They (Taunton) are just a very good team, with five real strong players."

In the recent Holiday Scholastic Tournament, NQ lost to Boston Latin, 79-67, in the tourney opener before edging Falmouth, 42-41, in the consolation game.

Marylou's News, Sweeney Brothers Kid's Bowling Leaders were Todd White, who bowled a high single of 113, and Mary Fernald, who bowled a 108, her personal high single.

Jason Miller bowled 27 pins with his average of 48 with a high three of 200 and a high single of 75.

High teams this week were Patriot Glass and Mike's Auto Body with a team total of 1367. The PG squad is comprised of Jason Badget (287), Barry Doherty (249), William Badget (230), Todd White (306) and Jason Fontaine (295).

The previous week's bowlers of the week were Todd White, who bowled a high single of 111; Andrea Healy, who bowled a 283 and a high single of 111; Jason Miller, who bowled a 181, 23 pins over his average of 46 and his personal high single of 69; Chris Kirschner, who bowled his personal high three of 292 with a high single of 103; and Sherry MacKenzie, who bowled a 235, with a personal high single of 93.

Everlasting Engraving bowled a 1382, their high total for this year. The team is comprised of Lisa Archer (209), Andrea Healy (283), Sherry MacKenzie (235), Caitlin Worley (213) and Melissa Cooke (268).

Squirt B's Defeat Allston-Brighton

Fresh off a strong performance in the K of C Tournament, the Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt

"Killer B's" continued their winning ways with a 5-1 victory over Allston-Brighton.

Goaltender Pat (Toaster) Maloney, aided by defensemen Paul Grazioso, Myles Clancy, Dennis Rugg, Gene Nazzaro, Dan Durocher and Joe Norris, thwarted the vaunted A-B attack.

The B's forwards proved too much for A-B to handle, executing the game plan of coaches Frank Casper and Dick Morrissey with their trademark diligence and discipline. The B's will rest this week before returning to the ice next Saturday morning.

Eight First-Place Finishes Spark NQ Over Plymouth South, 56-35

The North Quincy High School girls indoor track squad upped its record to 2-0 with a 56-35 win over Plymouth South last Friday.

The Red Raiders took on Silver Lake Tuesday, then battle Bridgewater-Raynham next Tuesday, Jan. 14 at 4:30 p.m. NQ tangles with Falmouth Wednesday, Jan. 22 at 5:30 p.m.

"We're running the gauntlet these next few weeks with Silver Lake, Bridgewater-Raynham and Falmouth all in a row, but it's a defining moment for our club," said NQ coach Geoff Hennessy. "We're as good as anyone on paper--we need to do it on the track."

Against Plymouth South, junior Sarah Beston became only the fourth NQ girl to clear 5'0 in the high jump.

NQ got first place finishes from Lauren Molloy in the mile (6:31.9), Dorothy Cronin in the 1,000 (3:19.5), Jasmine Gonzalez in the 600 (1:41.1), Kellie Johnston in the 300 (42.3 seconds), Casey Ngo in the 50 (6.4) and Wingsze Wuen in the shot (31-10 1/2). The team of Ngo, Johnston, Gonzalez and Sharon Lee grabbed the top spot in the 4x176 relay (1:33.7).

National 'Hoop Shoot' Contest First Round Begins Saturday

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks will again co-sponsor the Elks's National "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw Contest.

The first round of the Quincy contest will be offered Saturday at 10 a.m. at the following gymnasiums: Atherton Hough, Atlantic Middle, Bernazzani, Beechwood Knoll, Merrymount, Montclair, Daniel Webster, Snug Harbor, Squantum, and Wollastone.

The first round will also be held Monday, Jan. 13 at 3 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School gym and Wednesday, Jan. 15 at 3 p.m. at the Parker School gym.

The Quincy competition is the first step in a National Contest for boys and girls ages 8-13. Contestants are assigned to three separate age categories, in both boys and girls divisions. The age groups are 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13. The contestant's division is determined by their age on April 1, 1997.

The participants are awarded points for successful free throws. The boys and girls in the age 8-9 group will shoot from four feet in front of the regulation foul line.

The program is free and will be supervised by recreation leaders. Contestants may participate even if not previously enrolled in the recreation program.

For more information, call 376-1394.

Pee Wee Champions

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association Pee Wee House League All-Stars, sponsored by Colonial Federal Savings Bank, brought home the championship of the 23rd annual Snowflake Classic in New Bedford.

Under coach Pat Clifford, Quincy claimed the title with a 5-1 victory over Barnstable in the championship game on New Year's Day. Andy Ross was selected as the game's MVP after scoring two goals. Brian Lewis, Pat Clifford and Glen Liberatore also netted goals for the winners. Assists were credited to Lewis, Mike Doyle, Lee Sheehan, Jamie Chiochio, Ryan McFarland and Colin Maxey.

To advance to the championship, Quincy defeated

Woonsocket, R.I., by a 4-1 score. John Ryan lit the lamp twice and Chiochio and Mike Brewster added single goals. Assisting on the scores were Clifford (two assists), Chiochio, Liberatore, Ross and Brett Keyes.

Standout defenseman Lewis received tournament MVP honors. Clifford was the tournament's sharpshooter, collecting four goals and three assists. Netminders Matt Peters and Tom Shruhan gave up only five goals over the four-game tournament. In addition to Lewis, Quincy's solid defensemen were Maxey, McFarland, Andy Mahoney, Shane Newell and Ryan Tobin.

Squirt B's Reach K. Of C. Tourney Finals

At the annual Quincy Knights of Columbus Hockey Tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena, the Quincy Squirt "Killer B's" reeled off four wins before losing to South Boston, 5-2, in the tournament final.

The B's, coached by Frank Casper and Dick Morrissey, advanced to the final with a 4-1 triumph over perennial powerhouse Hingham in the semifinal round.

A 3-2 come-from-behind overtime victory over Braintree propelled the B's into the semifinal round. The B's trailed 2-0 for most of the game, but late in the third Quincy scored twice to tie and won it in overtime.

With a late third period goal, Quincy put Milton away, 6-5, in a battle of two heavyweights earlier in the tournament.

In their first game, the B's came out flying and stung Canton by a 4-1 score.

Quincy's outstanding players included goaltender Pat (Toaster) Maloney, who kept the B's in every game, and Richie (Can't Leave Him Alone) Stone, who had six goals in the tournament. Captains Pat Casper, Joey Norris and Danny Deroucher led the B's with outstanding performances.

Forwards Andy McDonough, Paul Lennon, Jake O'Donnell, Andrew Patten, George Snowling, Matt Haskins and Billy (The Kid) Cox played with intensity and determination. Defensemen Geno Nazzaro, Dennis Rugg, Paul Grazioso and Myles Clancy elevated their play to a new level. The heart and soul award went to Danny Sullivan, who played a solid tournament and refused to back down in the face of adversity.

Girls Pee Wee II Win

A Thought For The Week

SCOTT DEWARE

Today life moves fast and we are faced with many temptations. Thus we often fail to keep in mind the Golden Rule - do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

We often join in gossip (usually speculative or half-true gossip), or judge others. Now many who read this article can say they haven't succumbed to this temptation at one time or another?

If we seek the good in others, and talk about it, results are often astonishing.

Faith in the goodness of a weary soul has often helped produce inspirational conduct and performance. For each of us has good in him, and none among us is perfect.

We like this saying by John Wesley, "Do all the good you can, by the means you can, in all the ways you can, at all the times you can, to all people you can, as long as ever you can."

We are always most appreciative of any comments on the thoughts you read here. We look forward to hearing from you.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

ORDER NO. 96-072 December 23, 1996
The Quincy City Council will hold a PUBLIC HEARING on Monday evening, January 13, 1997 at 7 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chamber, 1305 Hancock Street, on the following:
Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy, that the revised ordinance of the City of Quincy 1993, as amended are further amended as follows:
In Chapter 17:04, Zoning, add a new section 17:04:250 to read:

That the City Council add a new zoning control procedure to be known as SITE PLAN REVIEW which shall require a permit for (1) all multi-family or apartment development in excess of twelve units; and (2) all development where the area of any new structure is 10,000 square feet or more excluding single-family homes and related accessory structures.

Purpose:

The purpose of the SITE PLAN REVIEW permit procedure is to ensure: (1) That the design and construction of developments will not create a detrimental impact to neighborhoods or to the environment;

(2) That development will be in harmony with surrounding areas;

(3) Compliance with all the requirements set forth in the Zoning Ordinances of the City of Quincy will appropriate city agency review and public input;

(4) Appropriate safeguards and impact mitigation for all such development.

Permit Granting Authority:

The permit granting authority shall be the Planning Board. This will insure departmental review by the Planning Department and incorporation into the final development plans all appropriate City Agency recommendations. The permit shall be a written authorization which will include the conditions and special conditions deemed necessary and appropriate by the Planning Board, acting as the Permit Granting Authority (PGA) and shall be recorded and enforced as Special Permits issued by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Procedure:

This procedure for the PGA shall be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, and Article I, Section 15 of the Revised Zoning Ordinances, the same as required for a Special Permit. In order to receive a Permit under Site Plan Review a majority vote of the PGA shall be required.

Provisions for Development Plans:

Site Plan(s) and profile drawings of the proposed development signed and stamped by professional Land Survey and/or registered professional Engineer shall be filed with the PGA. The Plan(s) and profile shall show both existing and proposed:

- access and egress to and from the site;
- lot lines and easements, if any;
- building and structures;
- topography with appropriate contours;
- surface water bodies, wetlands and area subject to the 100 year flood evaluation;
- soil profiles, if required;
- landscape features, walls, walks and lighting;
- landscaping proposed as determined appropriate and consistent with the screening required by section 84;
- location of parking areas required by Section 73 and facilities for internal vehicular and pedestrian circulation;
- site drainage and supporting data, if required;
- location of site utilities and supporting data, required;
- loading facilities as required by Section 76;
- traffic study, if required by the PGA, given the proposed development of the site and the expected traffic impact; and
- architectural drawing of the proposed building(s) and structure(s), if required by the PGA.

Criteria for Approval:

The PGA shall ensure that there will be reasonable use of the site consistent with its underlying zoning subject to the following criteria:

- Adequate capacity of local streets to accommodate traffic to be generated by the proposed use. In addressing this criteria, the PGA may consider projections of increased traffic volumes due to the proposed development and its impact on existing streets and the ability of the applicants to mitigate the traffic impacts at the site and affected adjacent streets and ways;
- Adequacy of the public infrastructure to service the area and the immediate vicinity of the site. The public infrastructure includes the city's water, sewer and public safety protection;
- Protection of adjoining properties against serious detrimental uses by providing for adequate site drainage, offensive sounds and sights and landscaped screening and buffers;
- Convenience and safety of vehicular and pedestrian movement within the site and location of driveways and adjacent streets;
- Adequacy of parking and loading arrangements; and
- Adequacy of the methods for disposal of water, sewerage and refuse and other wastes resulting from the permitted use on the site.

Education Dept. Review Of Schools Jan. 13-17

School Supt. Eugene Creedon of the Quincy Public Schools recently was informed by Education Commissioner Robert Antonucci of an upcoming Department of Education Coordinated Program Review visit to the Quincy Public Schools.

The department's onsite visit will occur during the week of Jan. 13-17. Such visits are routinely conducted by the department to satisfy federal and state special education requirements to review periodically specific educational programs and services in local school districts throughout the Commonwealth.

The department is conducting the review of several programs during a single visit in order to be more efficient in the time spent on this mandated activity by both department and school system staff, and also to make strong connections with the program under Educational Reform, according to the superintendent.

Creedon said the department's Coordinated Program Review process will address the program areas of special education, Title 1, bilingual education, and nutrition as well as include a review of school district program procedures, a study of individual student records and an onsite visit by a Department of Education team. The department team will conduct interviews of district administrators, teachers and parents, conduct observation of instructional sites and prepare a report for the Superintendent and School Committee.

A written response by the school district to any identified issues noted in the department's final report will be developed by school officials. At that time, the school district may request technical assistance from the state department of education.

Creedon said he is confident that the department's Program Review process "will be a useful and positive experience for all staff in the district, and that the report will be a useful planning document for continued development of educational services for all students."

Department of Education Program Review procedures provide that any member of the public may request to be interviewed by telephone by a member of the department's visiting team. For more information, call the assistant superintendent's office at 984-8742 or call the Department of Education at 388-3300, ext. 273.

it would be completed in a few weeks.

Raymondi told the board that about 40 persons attended a meeting held Monday with a representative from the Thomas Blasting Co. In presenting a petition signed by abutters, Raymondi spoke of the representative's "complete lack of sensitivity" in dealing with the blasting process. Raymondi said the representative said a window blowing out or broken china has "nothing to do with the blasting."

At that point, Mulvey made it clear that no occupancy permit would be given if damage caused by blasting is not recognized as such.

A discussion on the safety of propane gas versus natural gas caused Fire Chief Thomas Gorman to state that both are flammable and "gas is gas," but that there are more safeguards under propane than gas. He added that oil was not considered in the construction of Wal-Mart because the area is a flood plain zone.

Water And Sewer Rebate Money Available

A new state-funded water and sewer rebate program to help low-income homeowners in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton will be administered by Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc.

Eligibility for the "Low-Income Sewer and Water Assistance Program" is limited to homeowners and is based upon both household income and household size.

The program will reduce annualized bills of low-income homeowners by 25 percent or $200, whichever amount is less, said QCAP Executive Director Rosemary Wahlberg.

"I am very happy that the state legislature decided to put $2 million in this year's budget for providing relief to the folks who have been hit hardest by rising water and sewer rates," Wahlberg said. "While the cost of heating fuel continues to consume a significant portion of household income for a lot of people in this country, water and sewer costs in this area are rapidly becoming as burdensome."

Eligibility rules for water and sewer assistance are the same as those for the federally funded Fuel Assistance program, except that the water and sewer program is limited to homeowners.

Homeowners already receiving fuel assistance do not need to apply, Wahlberg said. "We will be notifying those people about program details," she said.

Homeowners who have not yet applied for fuel assistance will have to make just one application to both programs. "If someone wants to apply for just the water and sewer program, that is okay," Wahlberg said, "but obviously we recommend that eligible households take advantage of both programs."

The application deadline for fuel assistance and sewer and water assistance programs is March 31. Fuel assistance is available to homeowners and renters alike.

Households that become eligible for fuel assistance and the sewer and water assistance are also eligible for: 1 33 percent discount on Mass. Electric bills, a 40 percent discount on Boston Edison bills, a 20 percent discount on Boston Gas bills, and a monthly discount of $9.50 on NYNEX telephone bills.

Concourse Design, Safety To Be Discussed Jan. 23

Recommendations for the design and safety features for the bridge and roadway over the MBTA tracks will highlight the agenda for the next meeting of the Quincy Center Concourse Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC).

The meeting will be held Thursday, Jan. 23 at 3:15 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The CAC is composed of 10 members appointed by Mayor James Sheets to review plans for the $8.6 million roadway linking Burgin Parkway with downtown Hancock Street on the west side and McGrath Highway on the east side.

The members, who represent Quincy business and residential property owners are Leonie Bailey, David Ezickson, Arline Goodman, James Hession, John Keenan, Kathy Missell, John Noonan, Bernie Reisberg, Charles Ryder and Mary Smith.

Chairman Ezickson urges all members to attend the next meeting because of construction deadlines. The first phase, the bridge over the MBTA tracks, is scheduled to get underway this spring. The CAC must decide certain pedestrian safety aspects of the bridge to finalize crosswalks and design.

MWRA Awards Contract For Sludge Plant Expansion

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) announces the award of a $22 million contract to the Poole and Kent Company of Baltimore, Md., to expand MWRA's sludge-to-fertilizer plant.

eral court order, the MWRA must complete expansion of the pelletizing facility to accept secondary sludge, as secondary treatment commences at Deer Island this winter.

The expansion includes the installation of 12 centrifuges and two drying trains while upgrading four existing drying trains to improve air emissions, operational safety, processing capacity and reducing energy usage.

Modifications to the sludge processing facility began in October 1994 with the award of the first of three contracts. Phase 1 included installation of a pellet cooling system and a pilot test was implemented to improve air emissions.

In December 1995, Phase 2 was awarded. The second phase, currently underway at the plant, includes improvements to the rail loading capability to transport dewatered sludge and the addition of four silos to provide pellet storage.

The contract for Phase 3 is the last of the planned sludge plant expansion projects.

IRS Office Opens For Filing

The New England District IRS has announced its district-wide filing season office hours.

The organization's Quincy office at 1458 Hancock St. is open Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays from 8 to 11 a.m. and noon to 4 p.m. to distribute forms, answer questions and assist taxpayers with federal tax inquiries.

The IRS also has several phone numbers that can be used for tax purposes:

•To use TeleTax, which contains recorded information on specific tax topics and provides automated refund status checks (information on how to use the service is available on each tax package), call 1-800-829-4477.

•To order tax forms and publications, call 1-800-829-3676. The same number can be used to order Publication 910, which describes year-round services, tax time assistance and frequently-requested free publications.

•Those who are hearing-impaired, have access to TTY/TDD equipment and are seeking tax assistance should call 1-800-829-4059 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Braille federal tax materials are available at regional libraries for the blind in conjunction with the Library of Congress.

For Outstanding Community

Olin Taylor Selected Sun 'Citizen Of The Year'

Olin A. Taylor of Taft St., Quincy, who has made helping others, especially veterans, ill-children and the less fortunate a "labor of love," is The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1996.

Taylor, who will celebrate his 80th birthday Sept. 8, was selected by a panel of judges from among 40 nominees submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

The 12 recipient of the annual award, he will be honored at a reception in March at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Established in 1985, the award honors an individual for outstanding community service over a period of time or in a specific year.

"I feel honored and I am very grateful," Taylor said when he was informed of his selection. "To me that's quite a distinction. I think it's an honor anyone would like."

There were other deserving nominees in strong contention but after considering all 40 nominees, the panel of judges selected Taylor for the honor.

Taylor, a retired senior technical specialist with Polaroid Corporation, has refurbished, repaired or replaced, at his own expense, more than 2,100 veterans' plaques and markers for

Mayor, Officials, Horses Going To Clinton Inaugural

Quincy will be represented by Mayor James Sheets, an unknown number of other city and state officials and a couple of four-legged friends at President Clinton's second inauguration in Washington, D.C. Monday.

Sheets, who leaves for Washington today (Thursday) to attend a mayor's conference and to meet with Navy officials about planned senior facilities at Squantum Gardens this week, will attend the inauguration with his wife Joann. Also joining the mayor for the trip will be Planning Director Richard Meade and Executive Secretary Michael McFarland.

The mayor also has been invited to attend a presidential breakfast at the White House with other mayors Friday and attend a function at Ethel Kennedy's home on Monday night.

Sheets said he also has been invited to the two previous presidential inaugurations.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey said he also plans to attend the inauguration. He said a handful of other Quincy residents, including Rep. Ronald Mariano and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, were possibly going to attend, although that could not be confirmed at press time.

Participating in the inaugural procession leading to the event will be two horses from the Quincy Police Department's Mounted Patrol Unit, Patriot and Crackerjack, who will be ridden by Sgt. Daniel Kennedy and Officer Jack Sullivan.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said the two horses will travel with two others from the Boston Police Department's unit. The four horses will be transported in two vans to Washington where the National Park Service will oversee their care.

For Library, College, Other Improvements Sheets Seeks $11 Million Bond Issues

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets is sending a $9.9 million bond package for an addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library and other city improvements, as well as a separate $1 million bond issue for Quincy College, to the City Council next week.

Sheets said the expenditures that comprise the bond package, which totals $9,955,000, are necessary in order to maintain public safety and the quality of life in the city.

"It's absolutely essential," he said. "We're going to have to continue improving our buildings, our public safety capacity, and so forth."

The bond package includes:

- $6.7 million for the library addition. Sheets said a $3.5 million state grant obtained by the library last year, as well as additional monies solicited through fund-raising, will make possible the completion of the project by 1997. A groundbreaking is scheduled for September.

- $1,050,000 for improvements to the Newport Avenue extension. The mayor, who said the roadway has "collapsed, for all practical purposes," noted that the balance of the project will be paid for by a $2 million public works grant.

- $880,000 for handicapped accessibility, an elevator, new roof, asbestos cleaning and other improvements to the JFK Health Center on Hancock Street. Sheets said the planned department of inspection services subsequently will be housed in the building.

- $825,000 for wiring, installation, and other costs associated with the Enhanced 911 telephone system which will be headquartered in the Quincy Police Station by the end of the year.

- $500,000 for a new fire truck. The mayor said it has not yet been determined which of the city's fire stations will receive the vehicle but added, "We just know we have to continue to replace our fleet."

Terms of each of the individual bond issues in the package will differ in length, according to the mayor.

Sheets said the city's Fiscal Year 1997 debt service, or bond indebtedness, is Quincy graves. His volunteerism encompasses many other worthy causes and endeavors including building toys for young hospital patients, fabricating card holders for the DAV, and holding positions on various community boards.

"I believe he (Taylor) is an asset to our family, his community and the City of Quincy. I feel he is unique for his efforts over many years," wrote Cynthia Booth, one of Taylor's daughters, in nominating her father.

Taylor was also nominated by Christopher Carroll of Sycamore Rd. Carroll is chairman of the Quincy Conservation Commission which Taylor has been a member on for over 20 years.

"He is very dedicated to environmental issues and the City of Quincy," Carroll said in his nomination. "He is a well respected citizen of Quincy and is a dedicated husband, father, grandfather and friend."

Taylor said helping others makes him feel good about himself. "I have the time, I have the equipment, I have the expertise and I have the desire to help people. Helping others is a labor of love. As long as I am physically able, I will continue to help people because it makes me feel good."

Taylor said he got involved in repairing grave markers after he retired from Polaroid in 1985. His former company had given him a milling machine which "helps me fix anything," Taylor said.

It was Bob LaFleur, the former graves registration officer for Quincy Veterans' Services, who first asked him if he could repair a damaged marker. "He (Bob) knew I had the machine. He asked me to give it a try and I've been doing it ever since."

Over the years, he has refurbished and repaired markers made from bronze, aluminum, plastic and steel. But Taylor is quick to point out he has not done this alone. He thanked Richard Dedy Jr. of South Shore Plating on Forest Ave. for letting him use a sandblaster to clean tarnished markers and David Sugarman of Sugarman Scrap Metal on Centre St. for donating all necessary materials.

"They've been very generous to me. I couldn't have repaired the plaques without their help," Taylor said.

His pride and dedication in repairing grave markers is known not only in Quincy but in other communities.

"I've been asked by other towns and cities to help restore their grave markers," Taylor said, "but I told them I've got enough things to do here in Quincy to keep me busy."

In fact, Taylor has been very active in the community for many years.

He was first appointed to the Quincy Conservation Commission by former Mayor Arthur Tobin. As testament to his commitment to environmental issues, he has been reappointed by every mayor since. It is a non-paid appointment involving meetings and site observations.

He has served the city as a trustee for the Thomas Crane Public Library for 12 years. A life member and former Grand Knight of the Quincy Knights of Columbus, he is a current trustee for the K of C. In addition, he is a communicant of St. John's Church, a member of the Holy Name Society and has served as an usher over the years. He also assists with ongoing repairs at the church. Poor boxes and chalices are just two of the items he's repaired.

An active member of the Morrisette American Legion Post, he was the post photographer for more than 30 years and the post historian for five years. His work has won top honors for the post in state and national events. For his work and contributions, he was selected the "1993 Legionnaire of Massachusetts."

Over the years, Taylor has hand-crafted unique and creative toys and donated them to the Italian Home for Children, the Ronald McDonald House, Quincy Hospital, the V.A. Hospital and the children's clinic at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute.

He has been a transportation volunteer, sharing the driving responsibility for cancer patients.

In addition, he has designed, fabricated and delivered unique card holders for the D.A.V. which permits the veterans to enjoy card games. A Disabled American Veteran himself, he has donated reading material and toilet articles to the Veterans' Hospital.

Taylor has done numerous volunteer photographic work for a variety of charitable, veteran and civic groups. Most recently he went to the West Roxbury V.A. Hospital and took photos of the veterans so they could send them to their loved ones.

Taylor has volunteered his mechanical services to a local program which loans wheel chairs and other equipment to the disabled. He has taken the initiative to make repairs at Quincy playgrounds at no expense to the city.

He is always available to assist elderly and shut-in neighbors with chores and repairs.

Of all his volunteer work, Taylor said repairing grave markers is the most gratifying.

"When I repair a plaque and give it back to Veterans' Services, that gives me the most satisfaction because I feel that I'm doing something and I am giving something back."

Taylor, a native of Corsicana, Texas, has been married to the former Frances (Hunt) of East Milton for 51 years. They first met at a USO show in Plymouth in 1942 while Olin was stationed at Camp Edwards.

He served with the Army Field Artillery 36th Division for six years before he was honorably discharged as a second lieutenant in 1944. While in the service, Taylor was a signal corps instructor as well as a fighting and physical training instructor.

They have four children: Cynthia Booth of Randolph, employed by Polaroid; Virginia Taylor of Duxbury, a nurse mid-wife; Frances Wiedemann of Pembroke, an x-ray technician; and Gregory Taylor of Hingham, a locksmith for Harvard Medical.

Site Plan Review Runs Into Opposition

A proposed site plan review process ran into the same opposition from the business community it did last June at a City Council public hearing Monday night.

Six business representatives spoke against the plan at a lightly-attended City Council public hearing. Two residents and Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond, who proposed the process, voiced support.

The major concern of opponents was the limitation on the size of structures that would be affected by the plan. The site plan review would apply to new buildings or additions to existing ones larger than 10,000 square feet and apartments with 13 or more units. Single-family homes would not be affected.

Robert Curry of Curry Hardware said 20,000 square feet would be fairer to family businesses trying to expand or to move to the city.

"I think 10,000 is very restrictive," he said. "I think 20,000 is more realistic."

Bob Pacino of Bob's Speed & Auto agreed.

"Like Bob Curry, I'd like to see at least 20,000," he said.

Jack McDonald of The Common Market Restaurant pointed out that more than 600 people signed a petition last June against the site plan review process because of its restrictiveness.

"These business owners have been here for years," he said. "And this is the first time those men came here and said, 'this is not good for the city,'" he said.

Maralin Manning of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Gene Rizzo of the Quincy Business Council also said the process would simply create "more red tape" and "another layer of bureaucracy."

Raymond and those who spoke in favor, however, said the process is designed to protect neighborhoods from increased traffic and other problems caused by new commercial buildings and apartments. Raymond introduced the measure after Shaw's Supermarkets announced plans for a new "superstore" on Quincy Avenue without informing neighbors, a plan that has since been withdrawn.

Currently, such a plan needs only the approval of the Quincy Building Department. The site plan review process would mandate that such projects be reviewed by city department heads and approved by the Quincy Planning Board.

Raymond added that the Town of Braintree has a site plan review process for structures larger than 500 square feet, far smaller than the 10,000 he has proposed for Quincy. Planning Director Richard Meade also noted that the Planning Board last week recommended that ward councillors be required to hold a public hearing on projects of 10,000 square feet or more.

The council's Ordinance Committee meeting will discuss the matter again at a later date before a vote on the proposal is taken.

JOINT ADMISSIONS AGREEMENT is signed by Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan and Sherry Penney, chancellor of the University of Massachusetts at Boston on Monday night at Quincy College as Patricia Gales (far right), vice president of educational services at the college and others look on. The agreement will allow Quincy College graduates in nine specific areas to transfer directly to UMass Boston without loss of credit.

Parking Problems Need Immediate Attention

Editor, The Quincy Sun
Much has been written and published of late regarding renovation and building plans for Quincy Center.

I understand the City Council has recently endorsed a comprehensive plan for the area that will make this business area very competitive in the next millennium. A comprehensive plan designed to encourage shoppers and tourists to visit the Hancock Street area of Quincy. From inviting new storefronts to elaborate roadways it all sounds exciting. However, I have one important statement of fact for those planners with lofty ideas for the future of Quincy Center.

We most certainly cannot encourage either new businesses or new shoppers to this area until one obvious problem is solved. Right now both parking areas are filled to capacity as early as 9 a.m. with cars circling at this early hour for an open spot in the Hancock lot. Remember the retail stores are not open for business until 10.

It is my opinion that planning forward for additional parking designed to suit the anticipated need is a "good thing" but do the city officials realize they already have a problem that needs immediate attention. We need some drastic stops taken if those who are conducting business here today are to survive. Otherwise you can simply resell our vacant stores and maybe with the anticipated parking planned to next wave of entrepreneurs will survive.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

GETTING DOWN TO FACTS

Before a civil case is tried in court, both sides are allowed to conduct a formal investigation about the facts of the case. This preparation for trial, called discovery, generally entails one side asking the other (or a witness) written or oral questions. Each party may also request the admission of certain facts by the other. In addition, discovery can be conducted to make available to one party documents and records that, up to that point, were in the exclusive control of the other party. The purpose of the various forms of discovery (interrogatories, depositions, requests for production of documents and requests for admission) is to create a level playing field upon which the trial can be played out on the basis of the facts of the case.

Hint: Discovery is usually conducted within a fairly tight time-frame.
Even if you are unsure whether there is a remedy available to you under the law, it is important for you to seek the advice of a lawyer. We'll help you assess the situation and discuss what reasonable options exist. It is our intention to pursue a case only if it is in your best interest. If you've been injured, call 773-2880 today for your free consultation. Our office is located at Grindley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. If there is no recovery, there is no fee.

Take A Bow, Mike

You might not always agree with Mike Cheney on issues that come before the City Council.

But whether you do or not, you'll probably agree on one thing: when it comes to work, Cheney is a roll-up-your-sleeves-and-let's-get-at-it kind of guy.

Whether it's looking out for his constituents or heading up such popular major community projects as First Night and Arts in the Parks he puts his all into it.

Before we get too far into 1997, I think Cheney deserves a "well done" for the success of First Night, the multi-entertainment non-alcohol New Year's Eve fun extravaganza for families to gather together at, to welcome in the new year.

This last one was the fifth annual and despite the frigid weather, drew 20,000 to 24,000 people--mostly moms, dads and children. And it went off without a single incident to mar it.

Cheney had over 30 different types of entertainment going on simultaneously including a parade, laser light show, live bands, ice sculptures, and all capped off by a spectacular fireworks display. P.T. Barnum, himself, would have marvelled at it.

But Cheney ducks credit.

"I'm blessed with wonderful volunteers--500 of them who help plan the night and are there to help make sure everything goes right," he says.

Among those volunteers each year are members of his family. There were 18 of them on hand last month including his mother and father, Tom and Barbara Cheney, his wife, Tish, and their three children, all pitching in to help.

The First Night celebration takes a year of planning and Cheney and his volunteers are already beginning to work on the next one.

Any outdoor event is always a gamble with the weather especially New Year's Eve when staying home is an easy choice if cold temperatures and icy winds combine for a below zero-like setting outside.

But the weather doesn't discourage Cheney and company. And when a huge crowd turns out, that's all the warmth they need.

When it comes to his city council duties, it isn't exactly a piece of cake for him.

He works nights as an MBTA mechanic.

At the end of the Monday night council meetings, he's off to work--not home. And after spending the night at work, he drops by City Hall in the morning to see if there are any messages from constituents.

Often times he doesn't get to bed until late in the afternoon. Then it's up checking City Hall, spending some time with his family and then off to work again. There are days when he doesn't sleep.

"He's one of the hardest workers I've ever seen," says Jeanne Reardon, clerk of city council committees.

"He is never afraid to give someone his home telephone number. And if they call and he's not there, if they leave a message he will get back to them."

If a constituent had a major emergency and needed a bulldozer, snowplow or a boat, Cheney is the type who not only would get it for him, but ride on it to make sure it got there, in time.

In 1862 in order to support the Civil War effort, Congress enacted the nation's first income tax.

Take a bow, Mike.

THERE DOESN'T seem to be any big rush of candidates for the school committee seat former Mayor Frank McCauley is vacating to run for councillor at-large.

But two names have popped up as being interested: former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien and Mark Roberts who ran for the Ward 2 council seat won by Dan Raymond.

IF YOU'VE EVER been mistaken for someone else you might appreciate why Quincy District Court Magistrate Arthur Tobin is still smiling.

Tobin was walking across the lobby at the courthouse recently when a woman said to a companion: "That's him. I know it's him."

As Tobin neared her, she said:

"Hello, Mr. Bellotti! (As in Frank Bellotti).

Tobin smiled and said hello, not wanting to disappoint her.

"I knew it was you," she said.

A couple of days later, Tobin was standing outside St. Anthony's Shrine in Boston.

And along came Boston Mayor Tom Menino.

They have known each other since 1971 when Tobin was in the state senate and Menino was an aide in the nearby office of Senator Joseph Timilty.

They said "Hi" to one another and chatted awhile. And as Menino started to go into the church, he said: "Have a Happy New Year, Walter." (As in Walter Hannon, who he also knows.)

But Menino caught himself. As he was walking away, he turned, smiled and said: "Arthur!"

"I went from Arthur Tobin to Frank Bellotti to Walter Hannon in just a couple of days," laughs Tobin. (But Shirley says he will always be Arthur to her.)

STORK REPORT: Tom Koch, executive director of Quincy Park-Forestry-Cemetery Departments, and his wife, the former Christine Keenan, are parents of their first child, a son. Cornelius Richard Koch arrived Monday at Brigham and Women's Hospital, weighing in at 8 lbs., 10 ounces. He is named for Fr. Cornelius Heery, beloved late pastor of Sacred Heart Church and for Koch's father, the late Richard Koch, Sr. who held the same post Tom does now and who founded the Koch Club and spearheaded many worthy and civic causes. Good footsteps to follow, Cornelius Richard.

PET PEEVE DEPT: Why do we have to put up with plastic zippers? You buy what you think is a nice jacket for the outdoors and the darn zipper won't work. Gets off track and stuck, usually half-way up or down. Whatever happened to those good old, reliable metal zippers? I haven't seen a decent zipper since Remick's closed.

THINKING OUT LOUD: Whenever I do any shopping at the South Shore Plaza and then leave to go to my car, I always get that uneasy feeling that it might not be there.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN EARLY 1920's postcard view looking south on Hancock St. in Quincy Square. Granite St. is on the right. The store on the corner was for many years the Thom McCann show store and is now the site of Stephen Leigh jewelers. The A&P on the left was in the Howard Building, which is now disguised by a bronze colored facade and owned by the Bank of Boston. Even with practically no traffic, the city saw justification for a police officer standing in the lower left.

Remembering Martin Luther King

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A birthday event which marks a turning point in history. So that all the Lord's children may be free. The truth shall ring throughout the land.

His protests brought dignity and nobility to his oppressed people, as well as their oppressors.

Unbeknownst to many, he increased his intelligence by studying every day, and graduated valedictorian in his class at Crozer Theological Seminary. He then went on to receive a Ph.D. in theology at Boston University in 1955.

In 1959, he traveled to India to study Gandhi's techniques of non-violent protest. For successful non-violent resistance to oppression, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964, which got the message across that we are all equal human beings.

"I have a dream, that someday all God's children shall be free." We have a nicer world today, and we are all freer from tyranny, because of Martin Luther King.

Granite House Seeks Computer

[The following was submitted for publication.]

Dear Friends of Granite House:

Let me begin by wishing you a happy new year. I am writing this letter to ask for your help and for guidance in a matter important to this program.

Two of our staff members, David Maynard and Paul Bleckly, have proposed to offer an ongoing educational group for our residents regarding computer use, specifically teaching Internet access and use. In order to offer this group to our residents we will need the donation of a computer with specific equipment.

A previously-owned computer would be great. The equipment we will need includes a 386DX or faster computer, 650 mg or higher hard drive, a 14.4 or faster modem, a monitor with VGA graphics and a card, 2x or higher CD Rom, and Windows 3.1.

We plan to hold different fundraising functions to raise money for the monthly fee to access the Internet.

Any suggestions you might have will be very much appreciated. Please do not hesitate to call me with your thoughts or ideas. Our telephone number is (617) 479-4043.

And thank you for your ongoing support of our program, its residents, and their families.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Fourth War Loan Campaign Launched

By PAUL HAROLD

Patrick O'Malley, general chairman of the local war finance committee, announced a series of events as part of the city's promotion of the sale of war bonds.

Next month an all army two and one-half-hour musical show was scheduled for the auditorium at Quincy High School, sponsored by the retail merchants' association. In the meantime, a 9 a.m. rally at the Strand Theater was planned to inspire and instruct downtown retail clerks in the selling of the bonds.

A special fund-raiser at the Neighborhood Club would feature Lt. Commander Jack Dempsey, former heavy weight champion of the World. Admission to that event was the purchase of a $500 bond.

YMCA - ARMED FORCES MEMORIAL URGED

The directors of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce called for the construction of a new YMCA facility to both expand facilities and to serve as a memorial to the Armed Forces.

Noting that the existing 40-year-old Washington St. building was outdated and woefully inadequate, they pledged their full support in raising funds for a new facility.

The new facility, directors said, should include athletic fields, an A.A.U. swimming pool, 150 residential rooms and parking.

SALTONSTALL HEADS SCOUTING SALUTE

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall headed the 40-person head table at the 25th anniversary dinner to celebrate the Boy Scout program in Quincy, held at the Masonic Temple.

Scout Executive Edgar Wylie noted there were 37 troops in the city, with plans to another 17 troops that year.

One of the original organizers of the scouting program in the city was former Mayor Joseph Whiton, who was among the "old boys" who attended the anniversary celebration.

QUINCY-ISMS

Clarence Edwards, chairman of the Quincy Salvage Committee, called for greater cooperation so that the city could meet its quota in the collection of tin cans and fat. . . The U.S.S. Hancock was launched at Fore River. It was the third vessel named to honor the Quincy-born patriot. It was of the same design as its sister ship, the Lexington, that was launched in September 1942. . . Robert Booth was re-elected commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club at its annual meeting in the Bradford Building. . . Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols were in the service: William, a lieutenant in the Navy; Nathan, a radioman in the Navy; and Warren, a lieutenant in the Army Engineers. . . Completing basic training at Sampson, N.Y. were Philip Shaheen of Washington St., Daniel Davis of Spring St. and William Thompson of School St. . . The only scorers in the first half of the CYO basketball game at the Atherton Hough gym were Sam Phelan and Joe Fasci for Blessed Sacrament. Houghs Neck defeated Sacred Heart, 19-17. . . Dr. Albert Young was chairman for the erection of an honor roll at the Squantum fire station listing Squantum residents serving in the armed forces. . . Mayor Charles Ross joined with officials at the Eastern Mass. Street Railway in ceremonies opening the new bus waiting room at Hancock and Depot Sts. Buses would no longer stop in front of city hall. Also attending was Police Chief John Avery. . . Howard Willard of Wollaston, the state's chief coastal warden, told the Kiwanis Club that 3600 barrels of shellfish were harvested from Quincy waters. . . Carle Hayward was re-elected moderator at Bethany Church. . . British officers and men stationed at the Squantum Air Base were entertained by the Wollaston American Legion. . . Dr. Kalman Friedman, who served four years as rabbi, was honored at the Jewish Community Center. . . Chaplain Lt. Matthew Keough of the U.S.S. Quincy thanked the citizens of the city for donations for the purchase of a portable speaker and broadcasting equipment. . . Mrs. Harold Slate held a food sale for the B'Nai B'rith at her Monroe Rod. home. . . Seven girls from the Quincy War and Price Rationing Board checked the prices of three food products to insure that merchants were obeying the OPA price ceilings. . . Edward Dobbyn of Faxon Ave. was honored at Beston Hall for 20 years as president of Local 7. . . In the church league at the YMCA Beth Israel and Central Baptists forfeited a game because neither could field a team.

SHINE Program Provides Senior Insurance Information

The SHINE Program at the Quincy Council on Aging provides senior citizens with information on health insurance.

SHINE (Serving Health Information Needs of the Elderly) is developed, funded and managed by the state Executive Office of Elder Affairs and administered through local councils on aging. Volunteer health benefit counselors review present coverage, help process claims, inform seniors of their rights and refer them to appropriate agencies.

The counseling is confidential and free of charge. For more information, call 376-1247.

Adams Arcade Building Renovation Completed

The completed renovation of the exterior of the Adams Arcade Building at 1469-1489 Hancock Street is a great example of what is being accomplished by The Quincy 2000 Corporation's public/private partnership with the city. Both front and rear facades are now completed, and a restored flag pole with a new flag is now flying atop this key building in our downtown district. Planning for the reuse of the remaining vacant space within the building is currently underway.

The word from the majority of the retailers in Quincy Center is that 1996 turned out to be a pretty good year for sales compared to 1995. Among the businesses I spoke to, Pier One (which just extended its lease at its present location in Quincy Fair Mall), Hobbytown, Rhyme & Reason and Presidential Camera all reported solid increases in retail sales. It is good news for the downtown and another indication of growing consumer support for Quincy Center businesses.

Quincy Deli owner Frank Rojas opened for business Jan. 6. The deli is located at 1524 Hancock St. I had lunch there last week and the deli sandwiches are great! Frank loves what he does and you can taste it in his food.

A new quality retail sporting outerwear clothing store will soon open at 1140 Hancock St. If all goes smoothly, the store will open for business by the first of March. I am really excited about the new business coming to Quincy Center. More details to follow in a future column.

The Quincy Center Concourse Citizens Advisory Committee has been doing an excellent job on assuring that the final design plans for the bridge and roadway over the MBTA tracks assure maximum pedestrian safety and be user-friendly at the same time. The time and dedication given to this committee by its volunteer members is greatly appreciated by the local community.

Requests for proposals for Design and Consulting Services for a Directional and Interpretive Signage Program for the Quincy Center Area have been sent out by The Quincy 2000 Corporation. This project is part of the Quincy Center Action Plan recently endorsed by the City Council. One of the key recommendations of the Quincy Center Action Plan is an improved system of directional, educational and interpretive signage for Quincy Center.

Till next time--be sure to check out what's "happening" downtown Quincy Center--and feel free to write me with your comments and suggestions. (Mailing address: The Quincy 2000 Corp., 1250 Hancock St., Suite 802N, Quincy, MA 02169.)

Registration Jan. 21-23 For Continuing Education Program

Registration for the winter/spring term of the Quincy Adult and Continuing Education Program will be held Tuesday through Thursday, Jan. 21-23 from 1 to 3 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Center for Technical Education on Coddington St.

Courses include: Computer Applications I, Computer Applications II, Introduction to Keyboarding, Desktop Publishing, Macintosh Intermediate, Introduction to the Internet, Gifts from the Kitchen, Gourmet

Cooking, AC and Refrigeration, Electrical Code and Theory I II III, Oil Burner Repair, Welding, Plumbing Code and Theory I II III, and Woodworking I and II. GED testing also is available through the program. Test dates are monthly. Classes will begin Monday, Jan. 27 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Applicants may acquire a course description booklet or pre-registration materials by calling Keith Segalla, director at 984-8888.

Mayor's 'Fireside Chat' On QCTV

The 16th annual "Fireside Chat," featuring Mayor James Sheets, will be aired on Quincy Community Television's Channel 3 tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. and Tuesday, Jan. 21 at 5 p.m.

The show was produced by QCTV's "Cable Talk" production crew of host John Noonan and producer Bob Gohl.

Beginning in 1982 with former Mayor Francis McCauley, the "Cable Talk" crew has presented, in an informal setting in front of a fireplace, the mayor of Quincy discussing the year the past and his plans for the new year.

Topics covered this year include development plans for downtown Quincy, proposed senior housing in Quantum Gardens, the planned return of shipbuilding to the Fore River shipyard, snow removal costs, lobbying efforts in Washington, D.C. and Sheets' planned trip to the Amazon later this month.

Night Spot Expands Again

Good Rock Music And New Format At Shooters

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Want to listen to good, original, local rock music? Then look no further than Shooters, located at 58 Ross Way in Quincy Center.

Originally an upscale billiard hall, Shooters has always been innovative in its seven-year existence. The past few months, as the club has showcased original local bands which have received numerous accolades from its loyal patrons.

"In the seven years we've been around, we've always taken chances, done things differently than other places," said Jamie Pansullo, who co-owns Shooters with fellow Quincy native and resident Kevin Ryan. "We've expanded five times and changed our format around, too. We're the first on the South Shore trying something like this, showcasing original rock music bands."

Original bands play at Shooters Saturday nights from 9 to 10 and Sunday nights from 8 to midnight, when three original bands are on the bill.

Two of the bands, Joe Merrick Band and Chapter In Verse, have garnered such positive responses from the Shooters audience that they've been given headline acts Thursday and Saturday nights in January and February. Merrick, from Randolph, headlined Jan. 9 and will again Feb. 8, while Chapter In Verse, a Boston group, headlined Jan. 3 and returns Feb. 1. Other bands that have received rave reviews include Gripe, Stone Zoo, Seven Acres, The Irresponsibles and Mood Swings Confusion.

"The original bands are going over really well," said Pansullo, 32. "It gives local musicians a place to be seen, to showcase their music. We enjoy offering something new—new music, new sounds. We get tired hearing the same old thing over and over, and I'm sure other people get tired of it, too."

Shooters, open every day from 4 p.m. to 1 a.m., offers live entertainment Thursdays through Sundays, including DJ's and dancing every Thursday through Saturday. The DJ's play a half an hour of dance music between the bands, which usually play 45-minute sets, according to Pansullo.

Describing Shooters as "clean and respectable," Pansullo said it has "something for everybody."

"If you want to dance, listen to great bands, play pool, shoot darts, have a couple of cold drinks and unwind, or watch the game, you can do it here," he said. "It's like a 'Cheers' atmosphere, with very few problems, even with 3000 people passing through every week."

SHOOTERS, 58 ROSS WAY in Quincy Center, has showcased numerous original rock bands on Sunday nights for the past three months, including Gripe, a Boston-based quartet. Gripe will be one of five bands performing at Shooters this Sunday as part of a fundraiser for Father Bill's Place, which starts at 6 p.m.

A North Quincy High School and Franklin Institute graduate, Pansullo got the idea of opening an upscale billiard hall when a former girlfriend brought him to Jillian's, a billiard hall in Boston.

"When I saw the place, I was amazed by the size and how upscale pool had actually become," said Pansullo, who has been friends with Ryan since they were in seventh grade. "Soon after that night, I left my job and started doing research on billiard halls and their popularity."

Pansullo then asked Ryan if he was interested in opening a billiard hall in Quincy. Ryan, 33, an Archbishop Williams High School graduate who also attended UMass-Boston, was working in real estate at the time.

"I had to ask him three times before he said, 'Let's do it,'" said Pansullo. "He and I had $40,000 between us saved up, so we went to US Trust for a loan, which is how we initially got started."

After they were granted a license by the license board, Pansullo and Ryan opened The Shooters Club, a 5000-square foot upscale billiard hall, at 1585 Hancock St. in the Quincy Fair Mall in October 1990.

"When we first started, we were open 10 a.m. to 1 a.m., with just him and me working," said Pansullo. "There has not been a day in seven years when one of us hasn't been here."

Two years later, the co-owners asked the city for a beer and wine license in a new location while keeping their existing location. Once the license was granted, they opened a 1200-square foot billiard hall next door, with four pool tables. Six months later, Shooters received a full liquor license and was allowed to expand with four more pool tables in the new hall.

In July 1994, Pansullo and Ryan approached the Ford Motor Co., the owner of the building at 58 Ross Way, when they learned that Ford had taken over for a failing business.

"We gave them (Ford) our business plan, showed them how long we'd been in the business and our record," said Pansullo. "We signed a lease in July and moved in in October."

When Pansullo and Ryan first relocated Shooters to Ross Way, they had 10 pool tables. Soon, they obtained an entertainment license and brought in DJ's Thursday through Saturday nights. Shooters' co-owners later brought in alternative rock bands from in and around Boston for Saturday night performances. The format was eventually changed to cover bands all three nights with a DJ before and between the acts—until the last few months.

"We've been very successful with cover bands," said Pansullo. "We've been filled to capacity ever since we started doing bands. The original bands have been very helpful; they play for one-tenth the amount cover bands cost, so this place will be one where they can make money and people will watch them."

Now that they have brought in a number of original bands, Pansullo hopes to eventually get "semi-national" rock acts like Letters to Cleo, Beck, and the Lemonheads.

Since they opened, Shooters has been a community-oriented establishment, having done benefits for Fr. Bill's Place, a shelter for the homeless in Quincy, along with the Thomas Crane Public Library and the former WEEI 590 Fund.

This Sunday, Jan. 19 at 6 p.m., Shooters will conduct another benefit to raise money for Fr. Bill's Place, with five original bands performing: The Lennons, Zinnia Bloom, Stone Zoo, Gripe, and Chapter In Verse. Admission is $5. Free parking is available in the Ross Way parking garage.

Already selling five brands of cigars, Shooters will have Cigar Nights the first Wednesday of every month starting in March, said Pansullo. Shooters will also publish a quarterly newsletter, the first of which was sent out last week.

Shooters' co-owners would love to see the South Shore become a launching ground for nationally-known rock acts, like Boston and its surrounding community.

"It would be nice to see the South Shore become a big venue for up and coming bands, like Boston and other cities already are," he said. "All bands, no matter how big they are now, had to start somewhere playing the bar scene. We just hope people will continue to come out and support local bands."

Tactical Weapons Training On Moon Island Saturday

The Boston Police Department will hold a tactical weapons training session on Moon Island Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The announcement was made by the office of Mayor James Sheets, who said the department is acting within the parameters allowed by its original enabling legislation.

Moon Island, which is owned by Boston but falls within Quincy's city limits in Squantum, has been the object of some tension between the two cities in recent years.

Boston police have operated the gun range at the site since 1958, and Boston's bomb squad has detonated explosives there for years.

However, Squantum residents have complained in recent years about gun noise, stray bullets and vegetation stripped by Boston police from a four-acre tract without an environmental study.

Recently, state Department of Environmental Affairs Secretary Trudy Cox to study other possible sites for a police gun range on Moon Island.

Quincy officials made the request after learning that the City of Boston filed an environmental impact report for a planned project at the site. Boston officials did not include a request to study other possible sites in its first draft report.

Officials in Boston said that action was not necessary because the work the police department plans at the site is within the existing range, not an expansion area.

City councillors and other Quincy officials, however, say the project is an expansion of the old range, smaller than the one originally planned but more extensive than the current range.

In addition to the site study, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, whose ward includes Moon Island and City Councillor Michael Cheney have asked that Quincy residents be appointed to a Moon Island Advisory Committee.

Sheets Seeks $11 Million Bond Issues

$5.97 million, considerably lower than the $7.84 million figure that existed when he first took office in Fiscal Year 1990.

"Even with the bond, we shall still be below the debt service of 1990," he said. "We're in good shape, bonding-wise. The city can afford this. And it's all essential."

Sheets also will send a $1 million bond issue for various improvements to Quincy College to the City Council for its next meeting Tuesday night. However, the responsibility of paying back the debt service on that five-year bond will be the college's, not the city's, so there will be no expense to the taxpayers, he said.

Neighborhood Meeting On MWRA Pump Station

Ward 5 City Councillor Stephen Durkin and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority were to sponsor a neighborhood meeting on the MWRA's plans to build a new Quincy Pump Station last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll School, Fenno St.

The existing Quincy Pump Station, which pumps city sewerage to the Nut Island Treatment Plant, was constructed in 1906 and is outdated. The MWRA plans to spend $19.5 million to update all of its Quincy facilities including the Pump Station, Houghs Neck Lift Station, Squantum Pump Station and associated sewers.

Aging Council Writing Workshop

The Quincy Council on Aging will sponsor a writing workshop entitled "Working From Memory" Tuesday, Jan. 28 from 10 a.m. to noon at the JFK Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy.

A $10 registration fee is required. Participants should bring writing materials and favorite pictures. No writing experience is necessary.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH

Osteoporosis: Most Of Its Victims Are Women

Osteoporosis, a disease in which bones become thin, brittle and easily broken, now affects 25 million Americans, 80 percent of whom are women.

Between one-third and one-half of all postmenopausal women have the disease. Around the time of menopause, when natural estrogen production sharply decline, a period of rapid bone loss begins that can last five to 10 years. It is this post menopausal bone loss that accounts for the high proportion of women with osteoporosis.

Bone is living, growing tissue that is constantly being broken down and rebuilt. Osteoporosis occurs when more bone is removed than replaced. The disease results in the loss of height, "dowager" hump, and increased susceptibility to bone fractures, especially of the hip, spine, and wrist.

Diagnostic Techniques

Since osteoporosis can develop silently for decades until a fracture occurs, early detection of low bone mass is essential. Safe, accurate and non-invasive tests are available for measuring bone mass and assessing the risk of fracture. If you would like to learn more about bone density testing, ask your doctor.

Treatment Options

The best "treatment" for osteoporosis is prevention. The most basic preventive strategies are to eat a diet rich in calcium and engage regularly in weight-bearing exercise such as walking, jogging, tennis, low-impact aerobics and dancing. Calcium is needed throughout life to help maintain healthy, strong bones while exercise prevents or slows the progress of osteoporosis by causing new bone to form.

At mid-life, women also may consider estrogen replacement therapy (ERT), which replacements or supplements the body's falling estrogen levels with medication. ERT helps keep calcium in the bones, thereby maintaining bone density and preventing osteoporosis.

Experts believe that ERT is most effective during the five to 10 years following menopause, when bone loss is at its greatest. But, older women also may derive benefits in starting ERT to prevent further bone loss. While ERT can be beneficial, it also has risks and should be undertaken only after a careful discussion with your doctor.

Another treatment option for mid-life women is alendronate, a bisphosphonate drug that has been shown to increase bone density and prevent fractures with few side effects.

Postmenopausal women also may be treated with calcitonin, a hormone produced in the thyroid gland that is involved in calcium regulation and bone metabolism. This hormone has been shown to slow bone loss. It is available in nasal spray form or can be administered by injection.

On the horizon are a variety of new medications now under study, including other bisphosphonates, selective estrogen receptor modulators, sodium fluoride, parathyroid hormone, and vitamin D metabolites.

While osteoporosis is treatable, strategies to prevent this debilitating disease are available from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Whatever your age, it is never too early or too late to take steps to protect yourself against osteoporosis.

To Find Out More

For more information about osteoporosis, ask your doctor. You also may call the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, which has a special hotline to put you in touch with information, resources, and support that can lead to bone-healthy living at any age. The toll-free number is 1-800-95-BONES.

'Before Pregnancy' Program Jan. 28

"Before Pregnancy:

Planning a Healthy Beginning," will be offered Tuesday, Jan. 28 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. by Harvard Pilgrim Health Care at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The class addresses the changes one can make prior to pregnancy to help a mother and baby have the best chance at a healthy beginning. The basics of early pregnancy will be covered, including topics such as pre-existing medical conditions, genetic counseling, environmental hazards, nutrition, fetal development, and early access to care.

The free event is open to the public. For more information, call 654-7280.

THAT "SAD" TIME OF YEAR

The holidays are over, days are gray and summer vacation is months away. You probably ought to feel down, right? Not if by "down" you mean "depressed." Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD) is a form of depression caused by the kind of light deprivation that is common from about September through April, when sunlight hours get edged out by darkness. For reasons that aren't fully understood, SAD can cause mild to severe irritability, listlessness, inability to concentrate, carbohydrate craving, weight gain, decreased energy, and lowered sex drive. Researchers have theorized that during periods of reduced sunlight, there is a drop in levels of the brain chemical serotonin, which helps regulate mood. For mild cases, it may help to keep rooms brightly lit and to spend as much time in outdoor daylight as possible. More debilitating cases may call for more intensive light or drug therapy. P.S. Some 35 million Americans suffer from SAD, often without being aware of the cause of their "blues."

SAD is more common than you think! If you think you might be suffering from this disorder call your physician for an appointment to see what help is available. For more information, visit COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, at 700 Congress St., in Quincy or call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli at 472-2550. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Acupuncture And Arthritis

By DANIEL KARP
Licensed Acupuncturist
Arthritis is a degenerative disease of the joints and their surrounding tissues. Depending on the type of arthritis, there may be pain, restricted movement, swelling, inflammation, loss of strength, or joint deterioration.

Acupuncture has successfully treated thousands of cases of arthritis, stopping pain, restoring flexibility, and halting the degeneration in the joint. Many people who have not responded to medication and physical therapy achieve remarkable success with acupuncture. Based upon my excellent results in these cases, I suggest a consultation whenever there is a diagnosis of arthritis or other similar joint disorders (bursitis, tendinitis, rheumatism, spondylitis).

How does acupuncture treat arthritis? To answer this question, we must understand what causes arthritis. Essentially, impaired circulation in and around a joint starts the arthritic disease process. As the circulation of blood, lymph, and joint fluids decreases, the cells in the area begin to degenerate, due both to a lack of nourishment and to buildup of waste products (cellular metabolites).

As circulation breaks down further, inflammation and degeneration in the joint begin. Unchecked, this process often continues until the pain is chronic and severe and movement is seriously impaired.

Acupuncture successfully treats arthritis through its well-known ability to stimulate and increase circulation. Using tiny stainless steel needles, electrical stimulation, and heat therapy, treatment is applied to the key circulatory centers in and around the joint. Repeated treatment of these areas, couple with similar techniques designed to increase circulation through the system as a whole, regenerates the blood vessels and tissues in and around the joint, allowing them to return to normal. After a series of treatments, symptoms such as pain and stiffness are brought under control, and in many cases are permanently cured.

I believe acupuncture to be the most effective treatment for arthritis today. If you need help with your arthritis, call me at 471-5577 and make an appointment for a free consultation. I look forward to helping you get better!

Tips For Joggers and Walkers

(NAPS)—The American Lung Association advises people who exercise to be aware of the quality of the air they breathe. That is because some medical experts fear that jogging on high-air-pollution-days may cause short-term lung damage. Recent research based on measurements of carbon monoxide levels in runners' bloodstreams before and after exercise suggests that running in an urban area for 30 minutes is roughly equivalent to smoking 20 cigarettes a day.

Here are some tips to keep in mind:

- Listen for air quality reports on radio and television.
- On days when the ozone (smog) level is unhealthy,

Running in a typically polluted urban area for half-an-hour is the equivalent of inhaling the carbon monoxide from smoking a pack of cigarettes in one day.

exercise in the early morning or evening when smog levels are lower.

• Do not exercise on days when pollution levels are dangerous.

• If you experience symptoms such as tightness in your chest coughing or wheezing, stop exercising immediately.

The American Lung Association supports the use of cleaner-burning reformulated gasoline in areas that experience or contribute to unhealthy ozone levels. Long term exposure to ozone may produce changes in lung tissue that results in accelerated decline in lung function.

The reformulated gasoline program is designed to reduce harmful emissions from motor vehicles. More information about this program is available from the National Reformulated Gasoline Hotline, 1-800-GO-TO-RFG.

The Major Premise In Chiropractic

[The following is from IndeK Chiropractic, 71 Parkingway, Quincy.]

The major premise in chiropractic is that in all matter there exists a Universal Intelligence which continually gives it to all its properties and actions.

This Intelligence is seen everywhere in nature. The migration of birds at a specific time of the year to the timing of the blossoms in your garden, are just a few examples of this great Intelligence.

Force or energy is what binds this Intelligence to matter. In our environment a form of energy resonates within all living matter.

An example of this energy can be seen in music, as when we play classical music to plants, they appear to grow stronger. The Universal Intelligence even guides our body's inborn or Innate Intelligence to harness this energy.

The Chiropractic Adjustment removes interference to the expression of this energy and thus improves health potential.

Podiatrists Recommend Flexible Shoes That Fit

Shoes are the most expensive piece of apparel that parents will buy for their children because, before a child reaches age 10, their foot size will change more than 30 times. This fact isn't meant to discourage parents so much as it is to encourage careful and educated shoe buying.

The American Pediatric Medical Association (APMA), which is based in Bethesda, Md., also believes that young children do not need shoes until they begin to walk in areas that could potentially affect their feet, such as rough or dirty surfaces. When shoes are worn, they should be flexible and fit properly to ensure normal development of the foot.

Dean Wakefield, director of public affairs for the APMA, says that children's feet attain almost half of their adult size in the first year. Thus, it is extremely important for parents to measure a child's foot every four to six weeks to make sure shoes still fit. Shoes that are too small, for example, are harmful because they restrict growth and development.

The APMA recommends shoes that are wide enough at the ball of the foot and the toe box. The length of the shoe should be a thumb's width longer than the child's largest toe.

Saving used children's shoes for younger siblings and friends may seem practical and cost-effective, but this is not healthy for a child's feet. Shoes conform to the shape of an individual's foot, which means that size and it cannot be guaranteed in a hand-me-down pair of shoes. In addition, fungal and viral organisms can be transferred.

The best way to avoid these problems, Wakefield says, is to discard children's shoes when they've been outgrown, even if the shoes remain in good condition.

COME IN SO WE MAY FIT YOUR CHILD.

Accurate measurements of all areas of the foot will be taken.

Fit is more than just how shoes feel or look. Fit is a whole system of checks and balances which make sure your child's shoes contribute maximum balance. Trust Hanlon's. Because even though your child's feet go back a year or two, Hanlon's perfect fit goes back over fifty years.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnig D.C.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?

Chiropractic is that branch of the healing arts that deals with the structure and functions of the spine, and specializes in the evaluation and treatment of back and neck pain among other systems. Chiropractors feel that the cause of many back and neck problems stems from the misalignment of one or more of the 33 spinal bones (vertebrae), and the subsequent nerve pressure that may result.

A Doctor of Chiropractic may often use an x-ray and extensive diagnostic tests to determine if such a misaligned vertebrae and/or "pinched nerve" exists. These "pinched nerves" may often be the cause of back and neck pain, headaches or perhaps pain, tingling and/or numbness in arm or leg. It is the job of the chiropractor to determine if such a problem exists, and to correct it, naturally, without medication or surgery.

The Doctor of Chiropractic uses techniques learned through years of study whereby he/she applies pressure with his/her hands to areas of the spine that are misaligned, in order to restore joint mobility and function and relieve pressure on pain sensitive structures. A chiropractic adjustment provides a safe, painless, drug free, method for reducing the pain and pressure caused by the pinched nerve or misaligned vertebrae.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 110 Billings Road, N. Quincy, 773-4400.

REAL ESTATE MARKET

1996 A Great Year For Quincy Real Estate

By ART FOLEY

The year 1996 was a great year for real estate in Quincy and the surrounding area with the number of sales in most categories showing increases.

Two- and three-family units show fewer sales than previous years with an increase in price because there was a shortage of the product - not a lack of interest.

See the accompanying chart for 1995 and 1996 showing the number of units sold and the average price per unit.

QUINCY SALES 1995 vs. 1996
	#Sales	Avg. Price	Highest Price		#Sales	Avg. Price	Highest Price
Single Family	545	131,425	410,500	Single	570	140,607	430,000
CONDO	296	102,601	505,000	CONDO	344	105,194	530,000
MULTI (2/3)	200	142,903	*375,000	MULTI(2/3)	177	151,960	265,000
4-8 UNITS	24	169,224	—	4-8 UNITS	27	208,874	—

* Two Family on Shore Ave. with Water View

As you can see, more single-family homes were sold and the average price is up 7 percent. That's a good increase, but thankfully, not like the crazy increases of the '80s. Note the highest price for a single-family was $410,500 in '95. This home was on Crabtree Road with a great view of the ocean. In 1996, the highest price for a single-family was $430,000 (it was on Adams Street), although this sale also included a buildable lot of land.

What is surprising is the high prices of some condos in Quincy (condos at Marina Bay have been the highest-priced residential properties sold in '95 and '96). In 1995 four condos, all at Marina Bay, sold for over $300,000 (two went for $505,000); in 1996 nine condos sold for over $300,000 (two of these over $400,000 and one over $500,000). The high end market for condos at Marina Bay is taking off. Condos in general continue to do well with moderate increases in number of sales and price.

Two- and three-family homes continue to be strong with a shortage of good inventory. You can now see some multis exceeding the $200,000 level again, nine in '95 and 15 over $200,000 in '96, but most are still well below that.

The largest appreciation is in investment (4-8 unit) properties with an annual increase of over 23 percent. This number is less reliable with such a small sample. All in all, the market is stable and continuing to provide great buys. Apartment rentals continue to be very strong.

I would like to take a moment to thank the following sponsors of the Quincy Library House Tour (in addition to myself) who without hesitation gave $250 each to sponsor a home on the tour:

Flavin & Flavin Real Estate (Ed Flavin), Condon & Walsh Real Estate (Joanne Condon Walsh), Hunneman/Coldwell Banker (Joe Delaney), ERA Central Real Estate (Vin Moscardelli), The Ink Spot (Mary Weafer).

I'm sure many of the other real estate officers in Quincy would have participated but they never had the chance since nearly everyone who was asked immediately said "yes." The House Tour was a huge success. Kudos to the Thomas Crane Public Library and everyone involved. A great day was had by all.

I'm hoping in the future to examine category of properties more closely. When you see an increase of 6.5 percent in real estate for the Northeast it's really quite meaningless when you consider in Quincy alone there are probably a dozen sub-markets all reacting differently, depending on the economics of that market.

When you can buy a two-bedroom condo for $56,000 or go to Marina Bay in the highrise and pay $500,000, you're talking two different worlds. They are two distinctly different markets so it's like comparing apples and pomegranates.

Wishing everyone a healthy real estate market for 1997.

Presidents 'Focus On The Positives'

The Quincy High School girls hoop team squared off against crosstown foe North Quincy High School Tuesday night in the first of two meetings.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

The Presidents take the floor again Friday night at 7 against visiting Falmouth and next Tuesday night, Jan. 21, at 7 at Silver Lake.

In a 59-39 non-league loss to Hull Monday night, Quincy's Julie McLaughlin scored 11 points and grabbed eight rebounds.

"Julie was our best all-around player," said Quincy coach Bob Noble. "Point guard Kerry Duffy also played a good game."

Still in search of their first victory (before the NQ game), the Presidents are slowly but surely improving, said Noble.

"Every game, there's something to build on," he said. "We focus on all the positives and set goals within each game to accomplish. The girls play hard every game, right down to the last second, which is the bottom line."

"Their attitudes have been great all season, never giving up and working hard every day. As a coach, that's all you can ask for."

PRESIDENTS' JUNIOR FORWARD Pam Gray vies for a rebound against Bridgewater-Raynham. Quincy hosts Falmouth, one of the best Old Colony League teams, Friday night at 7.

Falmouth Next Obstacle For Quincy

Following the first of two meetings against rival Quincy High School Tuesday night, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team returns to the hardwood Friday night at 7 at Silver Lake.

The result of the NQ-QHS game was not available as of press time.

In their first meeting with Silver Lake, the Red Raiders easily handled the Lakers, 59-38, in NQ's season opener. However, NQ coach Ted Stevenson has noticed a steady progress in the Lakers, including 6-6 center/forward Jon Bond, who was held in check in the first meeting with North.

"Silver Lake is a much improved team since we played them," said Stevenson. "Bond is scoring about 20 a game now after we held him down the first time, so we'll have to keep an eye on him."

The Red Raiders also play next Tuesday night, Jan. 21, at 7 at Weymouth.

Last Friday night, North brought home a 66-62 double-overtime victory over host Falmouth. The key, according to Stevenson, was NQ's ability to grab offensive rebounds and convert them into points.

"We beat them on the offensive boards," he said. "We got eight offensive rebounds and putbacks for 16 points. We had the size advantage, but we've also emphasized to our wings to crash the boards."

In the second overtime, NQ guard Mike Johnson collected an offensive rebound and scored to put his team up by four points. In his first game back since suffering a sprained ankle, North guard Brian Doyle hit a pair of free throws at the end of the second overtime to seal the victory.

"Brian played pretty well in his first game back," said Stevenson. "We're glad to have him back, because he's an important part of the mix."

A missed shot by North in the first overtime pushed the game into the second overtime. Falmouth forced the first overtime period with a three-pointer at the buzzer.

Center Brian Ross paced NQ offensively with 23 points. Guard Chris Erlar added 16 and forward Matt Bromley chipped in with 15.

Earlier in the week, North lost to undefeated Bridgewater-Raynham, 64-58. Leading the way for the Red Raiders were Ross with 26 points, and Erlar with 20.

Raiders Ready For Improved Silver Lake

Coming off the first of two showdowns against North Quincy High School Tuesday night, the Quincy High School boys basketball team will be back in action Friday night at 7 at Falmouth.

The result of the NQ-QHS game was not available as of press time.

Despite Falmouth's sub-.500 Old Colony League record, Quincy coach John Franceschini knows the Clippers have had more than their fair share of tough losses and are capable of defeating the Presidents.

"Falmouth's a deceptive team, because it has five losses by less than three points, including two in overtime," said Franceschini. "They haven't been blown out, just run into some tough luck, so we'll be prepared for a good game."

The Presidents also play next Tuesday night at 7 against visiting league opponent Silver Lake.

Last Friday night, inaccurate second-half free throw shooting led to Quincy's downfall in a 78-72 loss to host Bridgewater-Raynham. The loss was Quincy's first in Old Colony League play and second overall.

Trailing by 12 at the half, the Presidents rallied to within three points, but missed free throws down the stretch prevented them from tying the game and taking the lead. B-R, meanwhile, converted nine of their 11 free throw shots in the second half to seal the win.

"We made all five of our free throws in the first half, but we shot ourselves in the foot in the second half, making only four of 14 foul shots," said Franceschini. "With the exception of the free throws, we played an excellent game. We showed a lot of intensity on defense against a big team."

Leading the Presidents' balanced offensive attack were Brad Smith, with 15 points, followed by Carmen Lorenzano with 14, Geoff King with 12 and Bob Walsh with 11.

Red Raiders Host Lakers Friday Night

The North Quincy High School girls basketball team, after its first of two showdowns against Quincy High School Tuesday night, returns to action Friday night at 7 at home against Silver Lake.

The result of the NQ-QHS game was not available as of press time.

The Red Raiders also play next Tuesday night at 7 against visiting Weymouth.

Last Friday night, the Red Raiders lost to visiting Falmouth, one of the top squads in the Old Colony League, by a 58-45 score.

Senior Jill Picardi was the leading scorer for North, netting 12 points in the losing effort. Dawn Kohler, Kerry Skehan and Laurie Flynn had eight points apiece.

QHS, NQHS Faculty In Basketball Fundraiser

Thursday, Jan. 30 at 7 p.m., members of the Quincy High School faculty will take on the North Quincy High School faculty in a basketball game at the NQHS gym in a fundraiser for the FIRST Robotics National Competition.

The money raised will go to help finance the FIRST Robotics National Competition at Epcot Center in Orlando, Fla., where Quincy placed fourth last year.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for students. For tickets, call Pat Quintilliani (QHS) at 984-8844, Gerry Quintilliani (NQHS) at 984-8990 or Keith Segalla (CTE) at 984-8888.

Graduates of QHS or NQHS who are interested in selling tickets or participating are also being sought. The entire Quincy community is being asked to support this project.

Barter's Bullies Capture Snowflake Tournament

Quincy Youth Hockey's Squirts, nicknamed Barter's Bullies, captured the Southeastern Massachusetts Snowflake Tournament championship with a 5-0 shutout of Duxbury.

The Bullies recorded two shutouts, scored the most goals and went undefeated in the tournament. Head coach Billy Barter and assistant coaches Ed Faherty, John Flaherty and Paul Coscia stood proudly with the team during the award presentation. The Bullies thank Sugarman's of Quincy for being the team sponsor.

In the win over Duxbury, Joe Thorley scored twice in the first period, assisted by Brendan Linnane and Danny Donovan. Paul Graham lit the lamp in the second on passes from Thorley and Donovan. Joey (The Iceman) McManus netted a third-period goal, set up by Chris (The Bulldozer) Sheehan and Brendan Clifford. Closing out the scoring was Jonathan (One Time) O'Connor who blasted one home off a pass by Tim Mullen.

The Bullies advanced to the championship with a 2-1 triumph over Tri County. The Tri County forwards fired everything possible at Bullies' goalie Ryan (The Beezer) Barter, only to have the puck bounce back at them. The Bullies' defense was once again on the mark, as Clifford took the Beezer's rebounds out of the zone, denying Tri County a chance to score. O'Connor and Keith Flaherty worked the blue line, feeding the forwards.

McManus scored the first Bullies goal, assisted by Linnane. Netting the eventual game-winner was Thorley, set up by linemate Graham. Alex (Shaf) Shaffer pounded the Tri County goalie numerous times, only to see the goalie snatch his shots out of the air.

Earlier in the tournament, the Bullies' offense was on fire in a game against Hingham, scoring nine goals en route to the win.

Mullen kicked off the scoring parade in the first, lifting a shot past the Hingham goaltender on a pass from Paul McLean. Leading 1-0, the Bullies went to work in the second, lighting the lamp four times. McManus notched back-to-back goals, set up by the man in the corner, Linnane. Mike Faherty broke loose and sent home an unassisted goal and Donovan notched a goal on an assist from Thorley.

The scoring rally continued in the third, with Mike Tetreault netting an unassisted score. McLean, who was on fire throughout the tournament, took a pass from O'Connor and put the biscuit in the basket. After Graham and Thorley put a play in motion for a score, Sheehan notched an unassisted goal to close out the scoring.

In an 8-1 romp over Hingham, the Bullies racked up four goals in the first, three in the second and one in the third. McManus, Thorley and McLean all netted two goals each, while O'Connor and Mullen added single goals. Assisting in the scoring barrage were Tony (Benji) Benigni, Donovan, Flaherty and Tetreault.

In a hard-fought 1-0 blanking of South Boston, McManus scored an unassisted goal in the second, carrying the puck the length of the ice before beating the Southie goalie.

ers and Nick (The Quick) Manning continued to turn back Franklin attacks until the game was well in hand. Lavery finished the scoring as Grazioso served up his third assist of the game.

The second win was an 8-0 shutout of Wellesley, which was particularly sweet as Quincy avenged an earlier loss to Wellesley. Kevin Richardson played an outstanding game on defense, garnering two assists by continuously forcing the puck into the Wellesley end. Manning was superb in goal and received able assistance from defenseman Kyle Carmody, Pat Maxey and Timmy Duggan.

Lavery and Grazioso

each had two goals and one assist. Germain's constant hustle and alert passing earned him two assists. Ryan and Brendon Conley netted one apiece while linemate Josh Giordani assisted twice and scored once.

Feldoff chipped in with two assists while holding down his defensive assignment. Brendon Craig, also a dominant force on defense with two assists, finished off a great game by scoring on a centering pass from Steve McGrath after Billy Barter dug the puck out of the corner. Powers' strong play at center created many opportunities for the Quincy team.

Hockey

Presidents Clicking On All Cylinders

Fresh off wins over Silver Lake and Barnstable, the Quincy High School hockey team played rival North Quincy High School yesterday (Wednesday) at 6:40 p.m. at Quincy Youth Arena.

Results of the game were not available as of press time.

The Presidents hit the ice again Saturday at 4 p.m. at Taunton. Next Wednesday at 7:40 p.m., Quincy battles host Weymouth.

Pleased with how the team has performed to this point, Presidents coach Bob Sylvia cites the players' dedication and understanding of the system as the main reasons behind their success.

"The kids are playing good hockey right now," he said. "They're buying into the philosophy on the ice and in the classroom. They're taking their experience at Quincy High seriously. We're dealing with the type of kids who are listening in the classroom and on the ice, which is why we are where we're at. They understand our strategy and know it works.

"It's been a while since we've been in this position. I can't remember this good a first half of the season, with only one loss. We're halfway to achieving our goal of qualifying for state tournament. We've got something good going, and if we play the type of game we can play, we'll be successful more often than not."

Solid contributions from each player is another reason the Presidents are reeling off win after win midway through the season.

"You can't single out one player, because we have a lot of guys contributing," said Sylvia. "We have players who understand their roles and are buying into our system of forechecking, backchecking and defense."

Keeping things in perspective has also allowed the Presidents to focus on the upcoming game and leave the past behind—win or lose.

"Our objective is take each individual game as it comes, to put each game more in perspective," said Sylvia. "If we do our best one game, and it doesn't result in a win, we move on and concentrate on the next."

Last Saturday, Chris Haidul scored two goals and assisted on another in Quincy's 5-2 triumph over host Silver Lake. Quincy goalie Chris Burns stopped 14 shots to pick up the win.

Other offensive contributors for the Presidents were Bob Harvey, Scott Cooper and Derek McTomney, who scored one goal each.

In a 7-3 victory over Barnstable last Wednesday, second-period goals by McTomney, Cooper and Joe Vallatini led visiting Quincy. Haidul and Mark Glynn also scored for the Presidents, while teammate Steve Verlicco added three assists.

Despite Comebacks, NQ 'Can't Get A Win'

Following ties against Bridgewater-Raynham and Weymouth, the North Quincy High School hockey team battled its arch rival, Quincy High School, last night (Wednesday) at 6:40 at Quincy Youth Arena.

The result of the game was not available as of press time.

The Red Raiders' next game will be Saturday night at 7:50 against visiting Plymouth South. Next Wednesday, Jan. 22, at 6:40 p.m., North plays host to Falmouth.

Last Saturday night, North rallied to tie B-R, 3-3, on a late third-period goal by Eric Wood, his second score of the game.

North fell behind 2-0 after one period, then rallied to tie the game with two second-period goals. Wood got NQ on the board off passes from Bill Walker (one goal, two assists) and John Barron (three assists), then Walker netted a goal, set up by Wood and Barron, to tie the game at 2-2.

B-R took the lead again with about eight minutes left in the game, before Wood knotted the game at 3-3 with less than four minutes to play. Barron and Walker set up the tying goal.

"We had to come back twice in this game, and the fact that we did was encouraging, but I thought we should've beat this team," said NQ coach Tom Benson. "We just can't seem to get a win."

In a 1-1 tie against Weymouth last Wednesday night, North took the lead on an unassisted goal by Mike Sullivan but Weymouth's Rick Falco tied it up with a late third-period goal. Falco's tally tarnished the performance of NQ goalie Brain Beaton, who turned away 40 Wildcat shots and won the praise of his coach.

"Brian played one of his best games, coming up big with some key saves in the third period," said Benson. "They had a five-on-four for three minutes in the third, and we killed it off."

The injury bug bit the Red Raiders again as one of the team's top scorers, senior center Rob Winter, suffered a broken wrist and will miss the rest of the season, said Benson. North already had lost senior defenseman Eric Wood to a season-ending ankle injury.

Pee Wee B's Win Twice

The Quincy Pee Wee B hockey team overpowered Wellesley and edged Waltham in recent Greater Boston League play.

Six different players lit the lamp for Quincy in a 7-2 triumph over Wellesley. Leading the balanced attack were Rob Mooney, two goals and one assist, and Matthew Conso and Jeremiah Hasson, with one goal and two assists each.

Also contributing offensively were John Chevalier and John (Chopper) Walsh, with a goal and an assist each. Frankie Guest also scored with Jimmy Devlin, Matt Aleva and Steve Romanowski providing assists. Brian Cooper and Scottie Markarian also played solid games up front.

Quincy dominated play the entire game defensively with Bruce Maggio in goal and Pam Sullivan, Bobby Donovan and Sean Moriarty on defense.

In other action, Quincy eked out a 2-1 victory over Waltham. Having tied Waltham 1-1 earlier in the season, this game was a hard fought contest between two evenly matched teams.

Quincy led 2-0 at the end of the second period on goals by Matthew Conso and Mike McGonagle with Jeremiah Hasson and Pam Sullivan assisting.

Waltham scored midway through the third to cut the lead in half. This hard-hitting game was marked with excitement throughout but especially during the last two minutes of the game, when Quincy had to kill off a Waltham power play to preserve the win. The victory was a solid team effort.

The first came in the first round of the state play-downs with a 5-1 triumph over Franklin. Matt Germain opened the scoring with an unassisted goal for a 1-0 Quincy lead after one period. Liam Powers posted the only goal in the second off a pass from Matt Grazioso.

Ryan Feldoff got things rolling in the third, scoring off passes from Matt Lavery and Germain. Lavery and Grazioso then set up Germain for his second goal of the game. Quincy's blue-line

Girls' Track

North Quincy Girls Suffer First Loss

The North Quincy High School girls track team was knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten following a 64-27 loss to Silver Lake.

"Our people all turned in their best times of the season, but Silver Lake was just a little better," said NQ coach Geoff Hennessy.

"They appear to be in championship form now."

Silver Lake runners turned in league-best performances in five different events and appear headed for an undefeated dual meet season.

"We have a lot of young and inexperienced kids compared with the rest of the league," said Hennessy. "It's still six weeks to the state meet, but we'll be ready. You can't peak for every dual meet. The OCL is very equitable now. Come the conference championship, four or five teams have a shot at it and we're one of them."

Several Raiders remained undefeated. Casey Ngo took the 55 meter dash (7.4 seconds) and Jasmine Gonzalez won the 600 (1:36.8). The only other NQ winner was freshman Sarah Houghton in the two mile (13:29.5).

NANCY GLENNON of Quincy captained the Suffolk University women's tennis team that finished 6-9 this fall. A senior majoring in sociology, she participated in four varsity sports: softball, cross country, basketball and tennis during her college career.

Mite House

Doran & Horrigan, Harold, Ayers, Winners

Alex Smith's hat trick sparked Doran & Horrigan to a 7-3 triumph over Lydon-Russell in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Mite Division jamboree action.

Thomas Henry added a goal and three assists, and Michael Lebel collected a goal and two assists, Sam Conley had a goal and an assist, Joe Ferris netted a goal and Brian Carney chipped in one assist for D&H.

For Lydon, Jeff Bailey notched two goals, Ted Finnegan had a goal and an assist and Nash Winters collected an assist.

Mike Lohnes recorded a hat trick in Paul Harold Club's 4-1 win over Barry's Deli.

Senan Gambon also scored for Harold, while Joe Canavan collected three assists and Rob DeAngelis and Doug Haskins each set up a goal.

Matt Quigley netted Barry's lone goal, assisted by Glen Gibbons.

Matt Lawlor lit the lamp once and set up another score to help lead Doherty & White to a 3-1 victory over Bruce Ayers Club.

Also netting goals for D&H were Corey Lumaghini and Eric Kenney, while David Guerriero chipped in one assist.

Scoring the Ayers goal was Matt Flaherty, assisted by Brian Sullivan.

Mike MacPherson's five-point game (hat trick, two assists) sent Quincy Sheet Metal to an 8-4 triumph over Samoset Pharmacy.

John McInnis also had a solid offensive game, notching two goals and two assists for QSM. Mike Little scored two goals, Allison Griffith netted one goal, Ryan O'Keefe had two assists and James Patten and Ted Walsh had one assist apiece.

Leading Samoset offensively was David Djerf, with one goal and one assist. Other goal scorers were Tina Kelley, Kyle Tobin and Meg Shea, with Zach Sloane contributing one assist.

Pee Wee House

Lewis Sparks Morrissey To Two Victories

Brian Lewis collected a hat trick and three assists as Mike Morrissey Club rolled over Colonial Federal, 10-3, in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee Division jamboree action.

Andrew Ross and Bruce Maggio each recorded a hat trick and one assist, Jim Devlin scored one goal and John Mateau and Brian Kenney added two assists each for Morrissey.

Mike Delahoyde netted two goals, Glen Liberatoro added one goal, Dan Coughlin had two assists and Tom Walsh contributed one assist for Colonial.

In Neponset Valley Survey's 5-4 triumph over Skinner's Winners, John Ryan netted a hat trick to lead Neponset.

Also scoring for NVS were Mike Donelin and Mike Brewster. Donelin added two assists and Lee Sheehan and Shane Newell each chipped in one assist.

Pat Clifford tallied twice and had an assist to pace

Skinner's. Ryan Tobin and Colin Potter each collected a goal and an assist and Ryan McFarland added an assist.

In a high-scoring affair, Mike Morrissey Club emerged victorious, 12-8, behind four goals and one assist by Brian Lewis.

Other offensive stars for Morrissey included John Mateau, two goals and three assists; Andrew Mahoney, two goals and one assist; Jamie Chiochio, two goals; Brian Kenney and Mike Maguire, one goal and one assist each; Andrew Ross, four assists; and Mike Conley, one assist.

For Skinner's, Colin Maxey was the big scorer with two goals and three assists, while Ryan Tobin and Pat Clifford each netted two goals, Brett Williams and Ryan McFarland each scored one goal. Adding one assist each were Tom Kelley, Andy Flores, Joe Cunningham, Neil Gavin and Mike Cox.

Squirt House

O'Leary, Duval Lead Keohane's To 5-3 Victory

Matthew O'Leary and Daniel Duval each collected a goal and an assist to lead Keohane's to a 5-3 victory over Burgin Platner in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt Division jamboree action.

Also scoring for Keo-hane's were Brian Lynch, Joseph Stenford and Kristen DiMattio. Jarod Abbott notched two assists and Kevin French added one assist.

Billy Jones scored a goal and added an assist for Burgin. Kevin Shinnick and Jimmy Kennedy netted the other two goals, while Nick Puopolo and Andrew Pangraze each had an assist.

Casey Winter notched a hat trick to spark Johnson Motor Parts over Green Environmental by a 5-1 score. Michael McNulty and Jeffrey Bossart scored one goal apiece, Pat Malone had three assists and Bret Martinson added one assist for JMP.

Scoring for Green was Bob Newcomb, assisted by James Sheehan and Terrence O'Connell.

Soccer Skills Program Registration Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department announces that it has limited openings in a soccer skills program for girls in grades 5-7.

The program, conducted at Broad Meadows Middle School, has openings on Thursdays in the 5:45 to 7 p.m. class and 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. class.

The same program is conducted on Wednesdays, with the only openings in the 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. class.

Each program will feature activities and instruction designed to improve the fundamental soccer skills of each youngster. Participants will also take part in mini-games and contests. Under the supervision of Paul Bregoli, coach of the North Quincy High School girls soccer team, the program is free and open only to Quincy residents.

Registration will be offered at the programs on a first come, first serve basis.

For more information,

call the Recreation Department at 376-1394.

Kelly's Five Points Pace Girls Pee Wee II

In the Quincy Youth Hockey Girls Pee Wee II team's 11-1 triumph over the Ashburnham area Bandits, Lisa Kelly paced Quincy's offense with four goals and one assist.

Also contributing offensively for Quincy were Danielle Gatto, with two goals and three assists, and Melissa McNamara who added one assist and played a solid game. The win was a entire team effort.

ALL IN ALIGNMENT

With both two- and four-wheel alignments available, how does a car owner know which to choose for his or her vehicle? In the event that a wheel alignment is indeed necessary, the type chosen should be made on the basis of the car's suspension. All independent suspensions need a four-wheel alignment. As a rule, this includes many, but not all, front-wheel-drive cars. With a four-wheel alignment, all four wheels are adjusted relative to one another. Cars without independent rear suspensions, including many rear wheel-drive cars, can often make do with a front-end alignment because there is nothing to adjust on the rear wheels. All that is needed is to set the adjustable angles of the front wheels with respect to one another. With properly aligned wheels, car owners can assure themselves that their wheels will not counteract one another as they roll down the road.

HINT: A thrust-angle alignment not only sets the adjustable angles of all four wheels relative to one another, but to the centerline of the vehicle as well.

For most of your car's maintenance needs, including alignment and complete front end work, rely on our ASE Certified technicians at Leo & Walt's Sunoco. A Thought For The Week

"Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul; and the heart of man knoweth none more fragrant" - Hosea Ballou

We live in a world today that is fraught with many trials, concerns and frustrations. Many people are so involved with their busy activities that many times they expect more thanks than they give. They take their many blessings for granted... Yet we all know of those rare people who seem to be continually thankful for what they have - be it much or little... On the other hand, we all know people who are never content about anything. They complain bitterly about everything and anything.

This poem by Clyde McGehee titled "GRATITUDE" expresses this thought quite beautifully:

For sunlit hours and visions clear,
For all remembered faces dear,
For comrades of a single day,
Who sent us stronger on our way,
For friends who shared the years' long road,
And bore with us the common load,
For hours that leaved heavy tolls,
But brought us nearer to our goals,
For insights won through toil and tears,
We thank the Keeper of the years...

Richard E. Donovan, 69

Major League Pitcher; Investment Executive

Richard E. "Dick" Donovan, who Ted Williams said was one of the toughest pitchers he ever faced, died Jan. 6 at South Shore Hospital. He was 69.

Mr. Donovan, a product of the old Quincy Park League, went on to a brilliant 15-year career in the major leagues which included a 20-game winning season, three appearances in the World Series and two All-Star Game selections.

Mr. Donovan, who grew up in North Quincy, was a retired investment broker.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Jan. 9 at St. Anthony's Church in Cohasset where he was a resident at the time of his death.

Ken Coleman, former radio and television voice of the Boston Red Sox who grew up with him in North Quincy and played on the Sacred Heart Quincy Park League with him, gave the eulogy.

Coleman told The Quincy Sun:

"He was a real nice guy and a very, very good player. He was modest, quiet, had a great sense of humor, and didn't talk a lot about himself. He never pushed for anything, never wanted the limelight. He's probably the best baseball player ever to come out of the South Shore area."

Former Red Sox outfielder and current scout Sam Mele, who managed the Minnesota Twins when Donovan played for the Indians, reminisced about Donovan's jovial personality off the field and his focused demeanor on the field.

"He was an excellent friend, one of those guys you could count on one hand," said Mele, who was friends with Donovan for more than 30 years. "Dick and I shared a lot of good times. He was something-down to earth, always in a good laughing mood, kidding around and joking with people."

"He never shunned anybody. I was talking with (former Red Sox infielder and Hall of Famer) Bobby Doerr about him, and he recalled what a great fellow Dick was. But he was also a very serious pitcher and a pretty good hitter."

A two-time All-Star, Donovan pitched 15 years in the major leagues. He pitched for the Braves from 1950 to 1952, the Detroit Tigers in 1954, for the Chicago White Sox from 1955 to 1960, the Washington Senators in 1961 and the Cleveland Indians in 1962. He pitched in three games for the White Sox in the 1959 World Series.

His best year was in

RICHARD E. DONOVAN

1961 with the Senators when his ERA (earned run average) was 2.40. The next year, when he was with the Cleveland Indians, he was a 20-game winner, had a 3.59 ERA and was named the American League's pitcher of the year. His lifetime ERA was 3.67.

"A lot of people don't realize how good a pitcher Dick was," said Coleman. "He didn't win any games until around his 28th birthday in 1955 with the White Sox, when he won 15 games. Ted Williams said the toughest pitch to hit was the slider, and Dick had the best slider he ever faced. Ted had great admiration and respect for Dick."

Following his retirement from baseball, Donovan attended many investment courses and went on to work for Eastman & Dillon in Boston and was executive vice president for Bache & Co. in Boston.

He later opened his own real estate appraisal office in Quincy before retiring in 1994.

He also was a distributor for Earth Care Products of Massachusetts in Quincy, which features such products as outdoor benches made from 100 percent recycled plastic.

Born in Boston, he was a member of the class of 1945 at North Quincy High School. He served in the Navy.

He lived in Cohasset for more than 30 years. He was a member of the Cohasset Golf Club.

He is survived by his wife, Patricia J. (Casey) Donovan; a son, Peter C. Donovan; and a daughter, Amy J. Donovan, both of Cohasset; a brother, James Donovan of Needham; a sister, Eleanor Papile of Quincy; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Woodside Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home, Cohasset.

Donations may be made to the Jimmy Fund, care of the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, 44 Binney St., Boston.

Domestic Violence Unit To Receive $360,000

Congressman William Delahunt announced this week that Quincy will receive $360,000 to fight domestic violence under a new Justice Department program funded under the 1994 Violence Against Women Act.

The grant will be used to create a new domestic and sexual violence protection unit with the Quincy Probation Department. The unit will establish a number of programs and services to assist victims and monitor and apprehend abusers who threaten victims, abscond, or violate their protective orders.

In addition, the City of Brockton will receive a sum of $174,749 for its battle against domestic violence through the program, according to Delahunt, who made the announcement at Brockton City Hall.

The program is designed to encourage communities to adopt innovative, coordinated practices that foster collaboration among law enforcement officers, prosecutors, judges and victim advocates, and help communities implement policies that mandate or encourage the arrest of domestic violence offenders.

The cities are two of only nine jurisdictions in Massachusetts and 122 nationwide to receive the awards under the program. The Quincy grant is the largest, and the Brockton grant the third largest, in the state.

"This is great news for Quincy and Brockton," said Delahunt. "These funds will enable our region to make major new strides in combating violence against women."

Brockton will use its grant to develop a coordinated task force to enhance the community's ability to respond to domestic violence. The task force will monitor the police response to domestic violence calls, ensure compliance with state laws mandating arrest of abusers, and provide training to members of the police department, neighborhood crime watch groups, the Citizens Police Academy, and the department's Crime Prevention Academy.

Delahunt also noted that the Town of Barnstable has experienced an 18 percent drop in reported domestic violence cases since receiving a grant last year to fund its domestic violence task force.

"This is an important new beginning," he said. "The Barnstable Police and their partners in the Domestic Violence Task Force deserve high praise for their leadership in responding to this epidemic."

As Norfolk County district attorney for 21 years, Delahunt pioneered the first domestic violence unit in the nation.

Fore River Watershed Assn. Meeting Jan. 29

The Fore River Watershed Association will meet Wednesday, Jan. 29 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The group is preparing for the start of a two-year project funded by a $50,000 matching grant from the state. Activities associated with the project will be detailed and ideas for other association programs will be discussed.

An update regarding ongoing work with the MBTA and MWRA and local municipalities related to issues of concern to the association will be provided. Strategies for increasing volunteer participation and the membership base also will be discussed.

“I could have bought a new car, but I bought a used Saturn instead.”

-Lillian L. Wiley

We sell used cars exactly the same way we sell our new ones. Which seems to have made a lot of people happy. People who didn't realize that a used car could actually come with some peace of mind. Or that shopping for it could actually be a less-than-excruciating experience. Dare we use the word "pleasant?" (Yep, we dare.) Hope to see you soon.

SEN. PAUL TSONGAS (right) is shown in the Senate hearing room in Washington, D.C. with City Councillor Paul Harold (left), then state senator, and Richard Porter in August 1980. Harold and Porter testified in support of a bill that would allow for restoration funds for United First Parish Church. The bill was signed by President Jimmy Carter in October 1980, but has not been implemented because of difficulty in interpreting how federal aid can be provided to a church. Porter is the grandson of Quincy's first mayor, Charles Porter, elected in 1888 when Quincy became a city.

Tsongas Remembered As Man Of Principles

By PAUL HAROLD

The recent death of former Senator Paul Tsongas has generated tributes from different parts of the country and different constituent groups, and the City of Quincy should be included among them.

Senator Tsongas was known for a lot of legislative achievements, but one of local interest surely involves his work with the National Park Service and his efforts to gain federal monies for the restoration and upkeep of United First Parish Church.

Until Tsongas was elected to the U.S.

House of Representatives, most of the focus and resources of the Park Service were directed to the western part of the country. The concept of "parks" included facilities such as the Grand Canyon or Yosemite. Congressman Tsongas changed all that with establishment of the Lowell National Park. It highlighted the nation's urban industrial history, rather than western national reserves. That new focus opened up opportunities for Quincy.

In 1980 legislation was filed that would allow for federal aid to United First Parish Church. The church met all the criteria for inclusion in the park system but two: it was not owned by the U.S. government, but more troublesome was the fact that it was an active house of worship.

To bypass what was seen as a bureaucratic impasse, Senator Tsongas agreed that the simplest and fastest way to resolve the issue was to just change the law. Along with Congressman Brian Donnelly, he did just that. He convinced President Jimmy Carter to sign the bill, despite the fact that he

'Jungle Jim' Sheets Going Down The Amazon

Maybe you can call him Jungle Jim.

Or, maybe not. But in any event, Mayor James Sheets will leave this week for a trip down the Amazon River.

Sheets said he will fly Saturday to EQUITOS, Peru where he will board an expeditionary vessel that will take him along the river. During the trip, he will visit jungles, rainforests and villages in Peru and Brazil as well as take time for some fishing.

The mayor said he has taken a number of preventive injections and pills for the trip and added that he has wanted to visit the Amazon for a number of years.

Among those traveling with Sheets will be Robert Curry of Curry Hardware, Edward Keohane of the Keohane Funeral Home and former Bank of Boston Regional President Bruce MacKillop.

Sheets returns to the city Feb. 1.

Six Members Voice Support Council To OK $6.7M Bond For Library Addition

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The planned expansion of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center will receive the necessary green light from the City Council when it votes on the matter in the near future.

Six of nine council members have said they will vote in favor of a $6.7 million bond issue that will provide the balance of funding needed for a new library addition. Two-thirds of the council must voice support of a bond in order for it to be passed.

Most of those polled also said they will support other items sent to the council by Mayor James Sheets this week in a $9.9 million bond package, although a couple of councillors said they want to take a closer look at those before making a final decision.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin said she is pleased to know the library is such a priority for the council.

"We've had a lot of council support since the project was first proposed," she said. "I'm happy to hear they're planning to vote for it quickly, because we're anxious to get the project started."

McLaughlin said there will be countless benefits that result from the library expansion, including handicapped accessibility, public parking, public meeting room space, four times as many computers, an expanded Children's Room and much more.

Councillors who said Tuesday they will support the library bond include Council President Peter Kolson, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond, Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and at-large Councillors Timothy Cahill and Paul Harold.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney, chairman of the councillor's Finance Committee, said he will reserve comment until after a meeting of that committee is held. Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin could not be reached for comment.

Kolson said the library bond is a necessary and timely expenditure.

"The library really is one of the centerpieces of Quincy," he said. "And right now, our bonding status is strong."

Kolson also noted that Reported 'Doing Great' Former Mayor Hannon Undergoes Heart Surgery

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Former Mayor Walter J. Hannon was reported in "good condition" Tuesday after undergoing triple bypass heart surgery at University Hospital, Boston.

As The Sun went to press, City Clerk Joseph Shea said he was informed by Hannon's daughter, Betty, that her father was "doing great" and that his condition was "good."

Shea served as Hannon's executive secretary during his administration and has remained a close friend. Shea was to officially inform the City Council of Hannon's surgery and condition at its meeting Tuesday night.

Hannon, who is 65 and served two terms as mayor from 1972 to 1975, underwent similar heart surgery 15 years ago.

His political career spanned 12 years, starting in 1963 when he was elected Ward 5 city councillor.

WALTER HANNON

He served four terms as councillor. In his final campaign for re-election to the Ward 5 seat in 1969, he turned back a challenge from William Delahunt who went on to become Norfolk County district attorney and is now the Congressman from the 10th Congressional District. Hannon edged Delahunt by 60 votes.

Hannon defeated Joseph Brett for mayor in 1971 when incumbent James McIntyre left office to become full-time counsel to the Massachusetts Senate.

Hannon was re-elected in 1973, defeating challenger Grace Saphir.

His most memorable and last election battle came in 1975 when he lost the mayor's office in a recount to Joseph LaRaia after a hard-hitting campaign.

On election night, Hannon went home as an apparent third-term 483-vote winner over LaRaia. But LaRaia filed for a controversial recount which declared him

Neighborhood Meeting Tonight; Public Hearing Next Week

Citizens Group Asks Council To Oppose Plan For Apartments

The Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Parks Associations (QCWPA) have asked the City Council to deny an application from The Meadows at Marina Bay, LLC to build a 136-apartment development in Squantum.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers plans to hold a neighborhood meeting on the plan tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St. In addition, the City Council will hold a public hearing Monday, Jan. 27 at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

QCWPA President Arthur Chandler noted that in 1991, the Quincy Conservation Commission denied a request for a golf course at the same site, located at Lot 23 of Seaport Drive and Victory Road in Marina Bay. The same developer, he said, is the proponent of The Meadows plan.

Chandler, in a letter to the council, urged that the site be preserved for conservation purposes.

"This Squantum area is important for flood control, storm damage prevention, prevention of pollution and protection of shellfish and wildlife habitat—a crucial conservation area needing protection."

Chandler said all interested residents should attend the neighborhood meeting tonight and/or next week's public hearing to voice their opinions on the matter.

the winner by a narrow 134-vote margin.

During his dozen years in the political arena, Hannon built a reputation for not ducking issues, but standing up and being counted. He had, as some put it, a candid shoot-from-the-hip style as a councillor and mayor.

Hannon recently retired from an executive post with Massport and joined the O'Connell Company with which he was once associated. His duties with the O'Connell Company include preparing plans for a golf course at the landfill site area off Ricciuti Drive in West Quincy.

Jo-Ann Bragg Seeks School Committee Second Term

School Committee-woman Jo-Ann Bragg will officially kick-off her candidacy for re-election at an Announcement Party tonight (Thursday) from 6 to 9 p.m. at Raffael's, One Enterprise Drive, North Quincy.

Bragg, who was elected to the School Committee in 1993, has three children who have graduated or still attend the Quincy Public Schools and one grandchild. A certified tax professional, she has 18 years' experience as the proprietor of Up & Running, an income tax and accounting business.

Bragg was educated in Quincy Public Schools and holds a degree from Quincy College. She has a long history of involvement as an active parent and is a former president of the Citywide Parents' Council.

During her first term on the School Committee, Bragg visited every school. Chairwoman of the committee's Budget and Finance Subcommittee, she said she has listened to the community and taken a pro-active approach to solving problems.

"Each year when we build the school budget, we set priorities," she said. "I want to make sure class size, technology, maintenance, handicap accessibility and safety are included in those priorities."

JO-ANN BRAGG

Bragg said one of the reasons she wants to continue her work on the School Committee is to make sure a system-wide technology plan is carried to fruition.

"Computer training is essential in today's market," she said. "Technology skills are necessary for practically every job. In the future, the information highway will be even more advanced. Our graduates must be technologically literate to meet the demands of the next century."

Bragg is also founder and executive director of The Teen Get-Away, a drop-in youth center whose members have pledged to be substance and violence free. The program has kept thousands of teens off the street in a safe, supervised environment.

Since serving on the School Committee, Bragg has pushed for CPR/First Aid training for staff and students and fought to expand the World Language middle school program. She noted that safety and security is another issue with her, saying her insistence the safety programs of the city's schools be evaluated led to improved security systems and an increase in security staff.

"It is important to make sure our schools are safe and secure," she said. "If you don't feel safe, you don't have a positive learning environment."

Bragg also stressed the importance of parental involvement, saying, "There have been numerous studies that show there is a direct relationship between parental involvement and a child's success in school. When children see their parents involved in their education, it sends a message that is really important."

She added that her long history of involvement at all school levels gives her an acute awareness of the concerns facing the community and classrooms.

"I can bring a parent's perspective to the decisions that School Committees make," said Bragg. "I want to continue the work I have begun and will work hard for the betterment of our schools and community."

had vetoed similar bills only months before to aid the San Antonio missions.

This example speaks to his responsiveness to his constituents and his political skills. But what is enduring about Paul Tsongas is that he was a man of principles.

Ironically, in his attempt to honor John Adams, a man he greatly admired, it was Adams' own words to date, calling for separation of church and state, that has prevented direct federal aid to Adams' memorial—a house of worship.

Following Inaugural

Clinton Renews Pledge For Shipyard Support

The plan to revitalize the dormant Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point received support from President Clinton and others during Mayor James Sheets' visit to Washington, D.C. this week.

Sheets, who attended Clinton's second inauguration in the nation's capital Monday, said he spoke briefly with the president about the shipyard proposal. Clinton, who pledged to release $100 million in federal loan guarantees for the project while visiting Boston last October, renewed his pledge to help the plan come to fruition, according to the mayor.

"He said he would do everything he could to bring the shipyard plan into reality," said Sheets. "He also said Quincy was one of his and Hillary's favorite cities." The mayor said he presented Clinton with a New England Patriots hat during their meeting.

Sheets discussed the shipyard's future with others while in Washington. He said he was particularly pleased with a conversation he had with Rodney Spear, the new secretary-designate of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"I was pleased because he was familiar with the shipyard plan," he said. "His words were, 'I want to make the deal happen.' I plan to write to him and invite him to visit Quincy."

Sheets also spoke about the plans for the shipyard with labor officials, including AFL-CIO National Secretary-Treasurer Richard Trumpka and Don Kinisky, an assistant to Laborers International President Arthur Coia.

The current plan for the revitalization of the shipyard has been proposed by Sotirios Emmanouil, president of Swampscott-based Massachusetts Heavy Industries. Should the plan be realized—much of which depends on the U.S. Maritime Administration—it could mean as many as 2,000 jobs at the yard.

A number of officials, including the mayor, have expressed optimism about the plan. Sheets said he is hopeful modernization of the shipyard will begin later this year and that shipbuilding will begin again in the city by January 1998.

Sheets, Navy Official Discuss Squantum Gardens Plan

Mayor James Sheets met with Deputy Undersecretary of the Navy William Cassidy this week to discuss planned senior facilities at Squantum Gardens.

Sheets discussed the plans with Cassidy while visiting Washington, D.C. to see President Clinton's second inauguration and to attend to other matters.

The mayor said he could not disclose the details of the discussion, but said it centered on the eventual conveyance of the Navy-owned site in Squantum to the city.

"It was a very good meeting," he said. "We think we may have come up with a mechanism to allow the transfer of the property through public conveyance, which means no cost to the city."

Sheets said the lease agreement between the city and the Navy is a "done deal," but the Navy needs to remove asbestos from the site before seniors can begin moving into the apartments there.

Sheets, who hopes seniors can begin moving into the site by May, said he hopes the conveyance issue can be solved within the next six months.

'Pennies For Prevention' Campaign Launched

Impact Quincy's Alcohol Action Group (AAG), in conjunction with the office of Mayor James Sheets, will host a breakfast meeting with Quincy business leaders today (Thursday) to launch its citywide "Pennies For Prevention" Campaign.

The meeting will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The "Pennies For Prevention" Campaign hopes to raise awareness of alcohol abuse problems in Quincy. The AAG, co-chaired by Fr. William McCarthy of St. John's Church, recently began fund-raising efforts at First Night Quincy 1997.

In April 1996, the AAG presented 65 recommendations to Sheets to address the city's alcohol abuse problems.

Cahill Re-Thinking

Looks like we could have a political version of "don't count your chickens before they're hatched."

This one goes like this: don't count on Tim Cahill's city council at-large seat being vacant before it is vacated.

Cahill, who was elected Norfolk County treasurer last November and assumed his duties three weeks ago, planned to finish his current council term and not seek re-election this year.

But, now he says: "I am re-thinking my situation. I want to keep my options open and to let others know I might run for my council seat again."

Reason for the reconsideration:

The county treasurer's job could soon be gone with the political wind.

The push is on in the state legislature to abolish county government. It's something that's been talked about for over 20 years. But now it seems to be getting serious.

"If county government is abolished, I will run for re-election to the council," Cahill says.

Cahill says the fate of county government should be known by summer. And if the decision is to do away with it, he would have sufficient time to take out and file nomination papers for this year's city election.

The move to do away with county government gained momentum when Middlesex County financially fell apart.

Cahill said that perhaps only Middlesex will be affected this year and the other counties left alone for awhile.

Norfolk County, he says, is in good financial shape right now but he has some concerns the operation of the county hospital in Braintree could change that.

Cahill's re-thinking could put the brakes on candidates who have been thinking of running for what they thought was to be an open seat.

change McCauley's plans? Would he instead run for re-election to the school committee?

And if he did, that could be bad news for anyone considering a bid for an open seat that may not be open.

MEANWHILE, Sal Giaratani is one of those thinking of running for the School Committee and probably with his eye on the McCauley seat.

Giaratani who has run before says he has been thinking about another run since Christmas and will make a decision by St. Patrick's Day. ("I'm half Irish," he notes.)

And Columbus Day would be too late, Sal.

GIARATANI

SUPER BOWL TICKETS may be hard to come by but there will be at least two Quincy representatives there. Judge Warren Powers of Quincy District Court and Atty. George Burke will be heading for New Orleans tomorrow (Friday). The two are long-time friends and former law associates. Burke says the tickets are for "good seats." How did they get them? "From Bob Kraft," Burke says. (Don't know if he's serious.)

POWERS

MILESTONE: Vic DiGravio, Sr., one of Quincy's all-time outstanding athletes, former top-notch college basketball officer and a real nice guy, will mark his 80th birthday Feb. 19.

DIGRAVIO

Vic starred in football and basketball at Quincy High School in the mid-1930s and went on to semi-pro football with the Quincy Manets and Fore River Apprentices.

He was a draftsman at the Fore River shipyard and became one of the most respected college basketball referees. He had an offer to join the NBA but turned it down.

In the 1960's, the State Department sent him to Germany and Japan to conduct officiating clinics for U.S. servicemen.

Vic was an outstanding quarterback in his football playing days. And that talent seems to run in the family.

Both of his sons, Vic, Jr., who owns the Spotlight in downtown Quincy and Ron, now a teacher in Marshfield, followed in his footsteps.

Both were standouts at Weymouth High School and went on to quarterback college teams, Vic at the University of Vermont and Ron at Purdue. Ron also played in the Canadian Football League.

Vic, Sr. was inducted into both the Quincy High School Football and Basketball Halls of Fame. His two sons are in the Weymouth High School Hall of Fame.

Hard to believe he's on the doorstep of 80. The father of four, he has 11 grandchildren and--get this--five great grandchildren with two on the way.

Vic's family is collecting birthday cards and notes of congratulations from his friends and former colleagues. (Please, no gifts, they emphasize.)

Cards and greetings can be sent to him at this address: 130 Mediterranean Drive #12, Weymouth, MA 02188.

Happy birthday, kid. Everyone should look as good as you at 80.

McCAULEY

GILLIS

McINTYRE

Former Mayor John McCauley, former City Clerk John Gillis, now a county commissioner, and Charles McIntyre, son of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, are among those considered potential candidates. Question: would they run if the seat isn't open?

Cahill, who rolled to an impressive county-wide victory to wrest the treasurer's office away from Republican incumbent Robert Hall, now has a ready organization for another county-wide run.

"I have political thoughts for the future," he acknowledges, but does not elaborate.

Question: could those thoughts be about a run for sheriff in 1998? That job would still be there as an elected one even if county government goes down the drain.

Stay tuned.

THE CAHILL SITUATION could not only affect the council at-large field but the school committee, too.

Frank McCauley planned to vacate his school seat to run for the vacant council seat. Not to challenge council incumbents.

If Cahill decides to seek re-election, would that

ATTORNEY AT LAW

PATIENTS REWARDED?

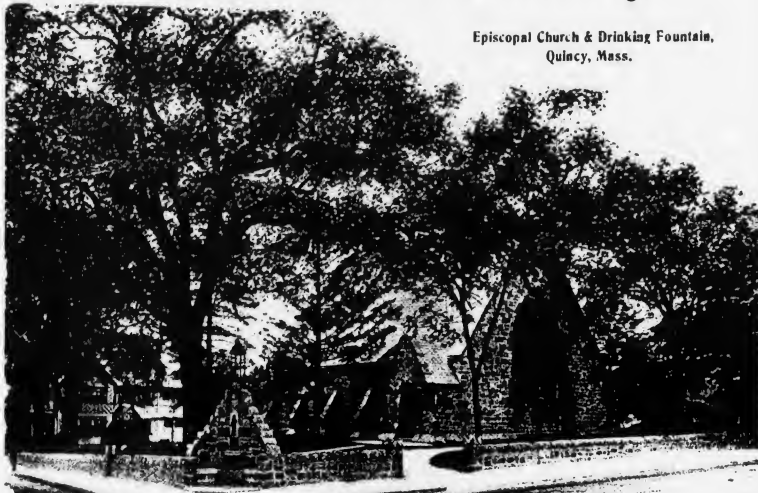

The most recent data available on the subject reveals that back patients' chances of winning large legal settlements in court are not as great as they once were. According to a study conducted by Jury Verdict Research (a legal watchdog group in Horsham, PA.), juries sided with claimants in personal injury cases in 52% of the cases that went to trial in 1992, down from 61% in 1987. Jury Legal Research also points out that doctors and hospitals are prevailing more often in medical malpractice cases. While patients won 42% of malpractice cases against doctors in 1987, they won 25% of their cases in 1992. Claimants won 59% of their cases against hospitals in 1987 and 50% in 1992. These numbers point out the importance of having a lawyer properly assess an injury victim's chance of winning his or her case before deciding whether to press legal action.

HINT: The fact that lawyers most often take on personal injury cases on a contingency basis shows that they are willing to take a financial stake in the outcome of the cases, along with their clients.

Everyone is responsible for his or her wrongdoings even if the injury caused was unintentional. If you have been injured due to another person's negligence, it is important to speak with an attorney as soon as possible. Without the help of an attorney, you may be forced to settle for what those parties responsible for the injury consider adequate. If you need help, call 773-2880 for a free consultation. Scenes From Yesterday

Episcopal Church & Drinking Fountain, Quincy, Mass.

THIS IS A 1913 POSTCARD view of Christ Church on the corner of Elm Street and Quincy Avenue. The oldest Episcopal parish in Massachusetts, it was organized in 1701 by colonists who wished to remain with the Church of England. They built their first church on School Street near the present site of St. John's. Their ancient burial ground remains there. Built in 1874 this is the third church built on this corner site by the parish. Fire destroyed the first two. The Quincy granite wall and the drinking fountain shown here on the corner where removed when the streets were widened.

Tsongas A Man Of Principle

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Someone once said, "It isn't how long you live but how well you live." All of us, I'm sure, hope that we will be remembered long after we have lived. We hope that we will use our time wisely. We hope we will have made a difference when all is said and done. I thought of all of this as I read the news accounts of the death of former U.S. Sen. Paul E. Tsongas.

As a conservative Democrat, I did not always see eye-to-eye with Tsongas when it came to numerous public policy issues. However, I always believed he was a man of principle. He took stands and held to them. He lived a life that was never lulled into complacency. His was the spirit of discontent. Like Bobby Kennedy before him, he didn't say "why?" he said, "why not?" He described Robert F. Kennedy as "visceral and rooted." And so was he, to most of us.

Growing up in Lowell, life was a challenge to be conquered. You didn't run from trouble but headlong into it. He ran for Lowell City Council and won. He ran for Middlesex County Commissioner and won. He ran for U.S. Congress and won. He ran for U.S. Senate and won. Finally, he ran against his cancer, refused to submit to it and won for nearly 14 years. Tsongas didn't have time to look back but only to the future.

Back in 1972, I lived in East Somerville and remember voting for him as county commissioner. I had heard many good things about him during his tenure as a Lowell city councillor. Yes, I knew he was a liberal but I had a feeling he wasn't a liberal living back in the good old days and my feelings proved correct. I remember the headlines he caused when he addressed an ADA convention back in 1980 saying, "I believe that liberalism must extricate itself from the 1960s when we had the answers."

Someone said Tsongas was a real person and not a plastic pol. A Jewish friend of mine called him a mensch, meaning a real human being. Personally, I always saw him as a long-term survivor refusing to give into the odds. He never saw a stacked deck, just a challenge to be won. He was soft-spoken, caring man, at times looking so out of place in the world of hard-boiled politics. He seemed almost too nice to be a politician.

Back in 1978 as a conservative activist, I had campaigned for Avi Nelson in the GOP primary against U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke but when Nelson lost, I switched over to Tsongas because of the passion he had displayed on the campaign trail. I always wished he had been more conservative but I always knew I could trust him to tell it the way he saw it.

Boston Mayor Tom Menino called Tsongas "a good and decent man." President Clinton said, "In a life devoted to public service, he set an unparalleled example of integrity, candor and commitment."

Paul E. Tsongas will be remembered as someone who tried everyday to make life better for all of us. He tried to be a voice and a vote for tomorrow's hopes and dreams. He wouldn't know a hollow euphemism if it crashed into him.

Like many other good people before him, he leaves us too soon and too young. He should have had more time but what time he had he used well. His legacy hopefully will be to ensure that we learn from his example not only in public office but his example in enduring his suffering. He was truly an undefeated human being.

President
Quincy Animal League

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Quincy Animal League stands solidly behind the Germantown public housing tenants who wish to keep pets in their apartments.

Of course, rules and regulations are necessary. Cats should be spayed or neutered and preferably kept indoors. Dogs should be taken out on leash only, and all pets should have rabies or distemper shots.

If these rules are enforced, there is no reason to deny pets to responsible owners. Irresponsible owners, on the other hand, would be warned about rule violations and face possible eviction if the rules are ignored.

Punishing the good with the bad is harsh and unreasonable. All Quincy residents who are pet owners should write to the Quincy Housing Authority immediately and tell them to change their present policy.

Shipyard Launches USS Northampton

By PAUL HAROLD

The USS Northampton was launched at Fore River Shipyard this week, the first warship completed since the end of the war.

Work on the new type of command ship was suspended at war's end and was only recently scheduled to be finished. It was the first major warship to be built at the yard since the launching of the USS Salem on March 25, 1947.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S NEARS COMPLETION

A capacity congregation attended St. Chrysostom's annual meeting in the new church's basement which was recently approved for occupancy. The upstairs of the new church structure was expected to be completed in a few more weeks.

Rev. Frank Green, the rector, spoke of his plans for the new year and proposed a vote of thanks to Rev. Victor Sawyer and the members of the Wollaston Methodist Church for the use of their church during the construction of the Episcopal church.

SEN. LODGE TO ASSESS SUBSIDIZED HOUSING

In a letter to John Keniley of Wollaston, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge said he would ask federal housing officials to assess the need for additional subsidized housing in the city.

Keniley, president of the Quincy Home and Property Owners Association, said the city had no need for additional housing, noting there were already 580 units. The total included 144 temporary units at Cleverly Court and Pond St. villages, 36 at West Acre and 400 at Snug Harbor.

Super Dips For Super Bowl

While having a check up at the dentist last week, I asked him what his favorite dip or appetizer was. Although he had no favorites, he mentioned two of the ones he thought were popular and still are today. They are French onion dip and Fondue. Today's recipe for dips will be easy to make on Super bowl Sunday, or the day before so you won't miss a play. And there's one you can make at half-time!

Seafood Dip

6 ounces of either canned shrimp or crabmeat

2 tablespoons grated onion

1 cup of mayonnaise or miracle whip

1 cup sour cream

1/2 cup finely chopped celery

In a bowl, add the chopped shrimp or crabmeat and then all other ingredients. Chill and serve with any kind of chip or cracker. (chipped beef may be substituted for the seafood). Just in case you want to make a cooked appetizer. Here is a great artichoke one.

Hot Artichoke Dip

1/2 cup plain yogurt

2 large cans artichoke hearts (mashed)

1 cup grated parmesan cheese

dash paprika

Drain the artichoke hearts and mash well. Add all the remaining ingredients until well blended. Sprinkle with paprika and place in a baking pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. It can be served hot or cold.

Chili Dip

1 cup sour cream

1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or teaspoon dried

1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon chili powder salt to taste

Mix all ingredients well and chill. Serve with raw vegetables including carrots, celery, broccoli, or cauliflower.

Half Time Nibbles Cheese Crisps

1 cup grated cheddar cheese

1/2 cup mayonnaise

1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1 teaspoon mustard

sesame seeds for topping

24 of a favorite cracker

Blend cheese, mayonnaise, Worcestershire, mustard and spread on crackers. Place on cookie sheet, sprinkle with sesame seeds, bake in a 400 degree oven for about 5 minutes.

There's always the easy ones. Open a jar of Mexican salsa and serve with tostitos, or open a package of Knorr's mixed vegetables and add sour cream and serve with vegetables or crackers.

Some low cal nibbles can range from stuffed celery stalks with seasoned light cottage cheese to cucumber slices spread with cottage cheese, seasoned with a little anchovy paste. Then forgetting the old diet, a cheese assortment may include a cheddar, swiss, provolone or any cheese which can be cubed and speared on a toothpick. Serve with crackers and cubes of fresh fruit.

Of course, even after you read this column, you may still revert to serving peanuts, popcorn, potato chips and cheese and crackers. Whatever, have a great time watching history being made in New Orleans!

Ward 4 Crime Watch Meeting

Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico conducted a meeting of the Ward 4 Crime Watch last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

The meeting was held to address traffic concerns and suspicious activities in and around the Blue Hills Reservation as well as other issues pertaining to Ward 4, Precinct 1. Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department and Sgt. Michael Kelly of the Massachusetts State Police were in attendance.

D'Amico held general office hours before the meeting beginning at 6 p.m.

Civil Service Exam For Police Officers April 26

The next Civil Service examination for police officers will take place April 26.

In making the announcement recently, state Reps. Stephen Tobin, Ronald Mariano and Michael Bellotti said individuals interested in taking the test must submit an application to the Massachusetts Human Resources Division by Jan. 31, 1997.

"Dedicating oneself to the protection of life and property of a community is a very noble and courageous endeavor. I want to wish the best of luck to all those civic-minded citizens who will take the challenge of participating in this exam," said Tobin.

Mariano said candidates must be between the ages of 19 and 32 as of Jan. 31. Some municipalities, however, will appoint applicants over the age of 32 as long as they pass the examination and meet certain medical and physical standards.

Applicants who pass the written examination will be ranked on the eligible list according to their relative scores and applicable statutory preferences (residency, veterans). Bellotti said the initial physical abilities testing will be done at the time the individual is offered an appointment in order to gain entrance to the police academy.

To obtain an application, interested parties can either visit the Department of Personnel at City Hall or the Human Resource Division at One Ashburton Place in Boston weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call Tobin at 722-2396.

Delayed Library Opening Jan. 30

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, will delay opening until 11 a.m. on Thursday, Jan. 30.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin said the library, which normally opens at 9 a.m., will open two hours late because of a general staff meeting.

The meeting will allow staff members to discuss plans to move reading and other materials into library branches in anticipation of the planned construction of a new addition at the main library, she said.

CHECK FOR $250 was recently presented by Christine Cedrone (left) of Lincoln Property Co. to Jeanne King of Merrymount and her son Geoffrey, 9, at Presidents Place. Through the program sponsored by Lincoln Property, names of those who made donations to the Toys For Tots Program were drawn for prizes. King was the grand prize winner, while runners-up received gift certificates to various Presidents Place shops.

Public Garden Task Force Meeting Tonight

The Quincy Public Garden Task Force, in cooperation with the Quincy Parks Department will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

A team of graduate studies student from Harvard University Radcliffe School of Design III will present their open space plan and study of Quarry Street parkland plan for the Quincy Parks Department.

The presentation, which is open to the public, will focus on the area's history, topography, soils, points of interest, Quarry locations, landscape design, vegetation and stages of implementation. Part of the design work is designated to a children's interactive garden, lookout garden and alternative garden. Teachers who are working with the Agriculture-In-Classroom Program or with similar activities, are encouraged to attend.

Presenters are, Martha Pliska, Betsy Collier, Pahl Raciocot, Robin Bouyer, Kathy Moakler, and Joshua Tauffman.

In 1966, the city-owned land on Quarry Street was transferred to the ownership of the Quincy Parks Department.

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

What's the statute of limitations for my tax return? This is one of the most frequently asked questions we hear during the month of December when taxpayers who have not filed their tax return for the last year or several years appear in our office.

The answer for these taxpayers is simple, there is no state of limitations for taxpayers who fail to file their tax return. For taxpayers who file their returns, the statute of limitations for assessments is three years from the due date or the date the return was filed, whichever is later. You must remember that the statute of limitations does not begin to run if your return was filed by the IRS, not signed, incomplete, or if the taxpayer has committed fraud. If a taxpayer omits 25% or more of their income, the statute of limitations is six years from the due date of the return, or date filed, whichever is later.

The refund statute expiration date is within three years from the date the original return was filed or two years from the date the tax was paid. An original delinquent return with prepaid credits such as taxes withheld is considered a timely claim for refund, if it is filed within three years from the due date, including any extensions of time for filing.

Morrissey Named Legislator Of The Year By Mass. Municipal Association

The Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA) has named state Sen. Michael Morrissey of Quincy its Legislator of the Year.

Morrissey was honored for his commitment to helping support cities' and towns' initiatives as a member of the Massachusetts Legislature.

Throughout his service in the House and Senate, Morrissey has developed a reputation as a staunch supporter of local aid for cities and towns and a vocal spokesman for his constituents. His experience in the Legislature has been instrumental in the creation of innovative solutions to complicated issues, and he has supported issues that affect the quality of life in Massachusetts.

"I am proud and honored to be selected by the Massachusetts Municipal Association as their Legislator of the Year," said Morrissey. "I have always tried to listen and work closely with local selectmen, city councillors and mayors to have the Legislature be responsive to local concerns, particularly the need to increase local aid to help fund our city and town programs. I thank the MMA for recognizing my years of work on behalf of our local communities."

Morrissey is currently chairman of Government Regulations and will continue to play a pivotal role in the state's future policy on such major issues as gambling, utilities and telecommunications.

Morrissey also served three years as chairman of the Public Service Committee. During that time, the Police Chiefs' Association proposed legislation that would have prevented cities and towns from removing a police chief without "just cause," and Morrissey worked with the MMA and the chief's association to preserve both parties' interests.

He also sponsored legislation which provides a $100,000 benefit to the families of public safety officers killed in the line of duty.

The award was presented by Paul Connors, executive secretary for the Town of Randolph.

Your Inner Health

By DR. BRUCE INDEK

At the start of life, we were created to be innately (inborn) healthy. Your body utilizes this most important virtue to self-heal and self-regulate.

Evidence of self-healing can be seen when you cut your finger. Given enough time, the cut will heal to perfection and needs no assistance. Self-regulation is evidenced through the process of perspiration as your body cools itself. These two most important aspects are how your body adjusts and adapts to its outside environment.

Your brain, spinal cord and nerves which are the basis of the human nervous system is the master control center for self-healing and self-regulation. When there is optimal function within the nervous system your body has the potential to reach its optimal health. If a germ or emotional stress challenges the body, your nervous system goes into action to coordinate the appropriate response by defending and/or maintaining your health.

If there exists a time when an interference to the nervous system occurs, then the self-healing and self-regulating mechanism falters and ill health will eventually happen. The most common interference occurs at the level of the spine and in chiropractic, it is called "subluxation." A subluxation is the process whereby a spinal bone shifts out of its normal alignment or locks in a poor position, thus causing nerve interference.

Subluxations can occur from the time we are born until the day we die. They are caused by an abnormal stress to the body be it physical, chemical or emotional. Physical stress can come in the form of lifting improperly or even long hours at the computer. Chemical stress is evidenced by poor diet or pollution. Emotional stress can even be the fight you had with your loved one, boss, or getting cut off on the road.

Most subluxations correct themselves through rest and activity and some do not. These few subluxations that do not correct themselves will diminish your health potential and thus weakens the body.

Chiropractors have the expertise and knowledge of detecting subluxations and correcting them. If you want to maximize your innate potential to be healthy then a screening for subluxation by a chiropractor is essential to your well-being.

WHAT CAN CAUSE HAIR LOSS?

Whether it's a gradual thinning or sudden loss in clumps, losing your hair can be alarming. A person's hair can be an indicator of general health and well-being. When the hair falls out, it may be a sign of some other physical problem. For example, if hair suddenly comes thin, with one or more bald patches developing, the reason may be such underlying conditions as lichen planus, an itchy skin disorder. Children sometimes contract fungal infections such as ringworm, which results in hair loss. Certain medications can cause temporary hair loss as well. Someone who has experienced a fever may notice hair thinning two to three months later. Women who have given birth also sometimes experience hair thinning a couple of months after the event. (In both of these delayed reaction hair losses, normal growth usually resumes on its own.) Finally, hair loss or thinning is a common, natural part of aging for many people.

P.S. Hairdressing techniques such as tight braiding, bleaching, and permanent waving can also damage hair, causing temporary loss.

If you are wondering about the effectiveness of various hair replacement treatments, you might want to check with your physician before spending a lot of time and money on over-the-counter medications. We have the information you need to make good decisions for yourself. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I are here to help. We are at 700 Congress St., Quincy. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Call 472-2550 for an appointment. Orthodontics: A Healthy Smile At Any Age

By DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

Orthodontics means more than a beautiful smile: it means a healthy smile, too.

Also known as dental facial orthopedics, orthodontics is the dental specialty concerned with correctly positioned teeth, jaw bones, jaw joints, and chewing muscles. Now people of all ages can enjoy healthier teeth and gums and a better bite for normal chewing, swallowing and breathing. With today's evaluation and treatment techniques, a healthy smile can be yours.

Beautiful Smiles

Everyone knows braces straighten crooked teeth but it should be mentioned that the scope and purpose of orthodontics is much broader than beautiful smiles. Orthodontic treatment also plays an important role in improving overall oral health.

Everyone wants an attractive smile, and everyone is entitled to have a healthy one. Orthodontics possess the expertise to correct irregularities of the bite and facial structure in the mouth and jaw area. The goal of orthodontic treatment is to achieve balance and harmony between the teeth and face for a lifetime of beautiful,

DR. FRED ATTARZADEH healthy smiles.

Everyone wants a beautiful smile. An attractive smile enhances self-esteem, which can actually improve the quality of life itself. But there are other very important reasons for considering orthodontic treatment. Some of the orthodontic problems can be present behind perfectly acceptable smiles and if left untreated can severely jeopardize the health of teeth, gums and jaw joints. Some of the most prevalent problems include:

- Teeth which are too crowded. These teeth are very difficult to clean, making them very prone to decay even with good oral hygiene.

- Teeth which are too far apart. This, especially if caused by early loss or extraction, can result in healthy teeth tipping into the open spaces or becoming loose. Deterioration of the supporting bone may also occur.

- Protruding upper or lower teeth. These teeth are unattractive and do not meet properly during chewing which can cause abnormal wear of the surfaces as well as excess stress on supporting bone and gum tissue.

- Misalignment of jaw joints where they hinge. This may be a result of a malposition tooth and can cause chronic headaches or pains in the face or neck.

New Medical Survey Shows: Men Mostly Unaware Of How Hormones Impact Overall Health

Older American men are largely unaware that male hormones such as testosterone play an important role in their overall health, according to a new national survey of men 45 years or older.

Fewer than four in 10 (36 percent) men in this age group said they believe hormones play a "great" or "very great" role in the health of older men.

Men in this age group are more likely to choose sex drive (71 percent) and the ability to father children (63 percent) than disease (31 percent) when asked what they associate with male hormones, the nationally projectable survey of 573 men reveals. Just 28 percent of men 65 and older and 23 percent of African-American men choose disease.

"Men need to realize that while hormones have many positive effects, they can also have a negative impact on their health," said Robert Edelstein, M.D., a urologist with Boston University Medical Center. "For example, in prostate cancer, which is the most common type of cancer among men, the male hormone testosterone can act like fuel on a fire. To slow down the growth and spread of advanced prostate cancer, you need to shut off the fuel supply. Hormonal medications called LHRH agonists and antiandrogens are actually used to block the cancer-promoting activities of testosterone."

The American Cancer

Society (ACS) estimates that 317,000 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer in 1996. Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in American men and will claim some 41,400 lives this year, according to ACS estimates. Nearly half (43 percent) of prostate cancer cases are diagnosed in either locally advanced or metastatic stages, when the disease has spread beyond the prostate gland, and when hormonal therapy is the main way to treat the disease. More than 80 percent of all prostate cancer cases are diagnosed in men 65 and older, and African-American men have the highest prostate cancer rates in the world.

Sun Super Bowl Survey Says:

If Local Fans Are Right, Patriots Will Come

The Patriots will "whack the Pack" in Super Bowl XXXI Sunday.

At least that's what many local pigskin prognosticators are predicting in the NFL championship.

Of the 38 local football fans interviewed by The Sun, 35 predict the Patriots will win their first championship in the New Orleans Superdome. Only three see a Green Bay victory.

Here are the predictions:

Mayor James Sheets:

31-28, New England: "When Bill Parcells has had two weeks to prepare his team, I think he's a tough coach to beat. He's a technician. He's a master at picking at your weaknesses. And I think the odds are the American Football Conference is going to win one."

Tom Galvin, vice president of Boston Gear Works in Quincy:

20-12, New England: "There's no doubt in my mind. The Patriots are going to win it. Their defense will make the difference."

Ken McPhee, North Quincy High School football coach:

21-14, New England: "I think the Patriots are a quicker team and overall they have better team speed. I think Drew (Bledsoe) and Curtis (Martin) will have big games."

Joe Shea, City Clerk: 27-24, New England: "I think (Drew) Bledsoe, who had mediocre playoff games, will get rid of his happy feet and be hot as a pistol. And the defense will hold up."

Kerry Driscoll, Secretary to Mayor James Sheets:

21-14, New England: "The Patriots have worked so hard to get there. They're a good team and they have the best fans. It's time they finally win one."

Kerry Walsh, Handshakes Cafe:

31-24, New England: "The Patriots defense will prevail against Green Bay's offense."

Ron Affsa, Hairplace One and Two:

31-17, New England: "In the dome, speedier players and teams will prevail, and the Patriots are the speedier of the two teams. They match up well with the Packers."

Mark Bertman, Rogers Jewelry:

26-9, New England: "The Patriots have better coaching, and it's great that the team came together at the right time."

Charles Sweeney, former School Committeeman:

48-13, Green Bay: "I'll be rooting for the Patriots but I'm afraid Green Bay is going to win. They have a better team."

Paul Beston, Quincy resident and Milton teacher:

21-14, New England: "I think it's their year. (Coach Bill) Parcells will make the difference. He's been there (Super Bowl) twice before."

Maralin Manning, director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association:

10-7, New England: "I think the fact that Green Bay is on the cover of Sports Illustrated will jinx them. The whammy is on the Packers. But let's get it over with and on to something else."

Bruce Ayers, Ward 6 Councillor:

24-21, New England: "This is a different team than the one that got beaten up by the Bears. With the coaching staff and the caliber of players they have now, I think Green Bay and a lot of people have underestimated them. The way they played against the Jaguars showed how they can rise to the occasion."

Art Foley, CEO, Century 21 Annex:

34-31, New England: "I think the Patriots' defense is probably the number one defense in the league right now. I think Bledsoe will have a good game and it will all come together."

Marie Watts, secretary at the QCPBA:

24-10, Green Bay: "I desperately want the Patriots to win. I think it hinges on Drew Bledsoe. But I'm afraid Green Bay, which has had a great season, is going to rattle him and that could be the difference."

Dan Raymond, Ward 2 Councillor and former captain of the Quincy High School and Holy Cross football teams:

20-19, New England: "The defense will be a big key and if (Drew) Bledsoe has a good game, I think they will pull it out. I'm hoping for a competitive game between these two good teams."

Jo-Ann Bragg, School Committeewoman:

28-14, New England: "The Patriots, without a doubt. They're going to kick butt. Green Bay is a strong team, but I think Bledsoe is going to have one of his best games ever and I think he's the key to winning."

Joe Mannarino, executive director, Quincy 2000:

21-17, New England: "Their defense will hold 'em. I think the MVP will be Chris Slade."

Don Hunter, publicity chairman, Quincy Community United Methodist Church:

28-17, New England: "I think they have a good offense and a good defense. There hasn't been a touchdown scored on them in the last two games."

Bob Galligan, innkeeper, Best Western Adams Inn:

21-17, New England: "The defense will do its thing in the first half and the Patriots will score two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. (Drew) Bledsoe's finally going to have the game of his life at the end of the game instead of the beginning."

Pat Gibbons, co-owner, Dee Dee's Lounge:

27-17, New England: "I think Drew Bledsoe will have the game of his life and the defense will hold them. They'll send the Big Tuna on his way."

Bob Fitzgerald, president, South Shore Buick:

24-21, New England: "I'm going to be optimistic, because we're due for a winner. If they play the game of the year, they'll win. Anything short of their best effort, they'll lose."

Paul Harold, Councilor-at-Large:

27-14, New England: "It's our turn to win. There's a lot of local pride pushing the team, and I think that's going to help them during the game."

George Burke, Quincy attorney who will attend the Super Bowl:

27-21, New England: "Bledsoe's going to have his best game ever and our defense is going to be immense."

Eric Weiner, general sales manager, Saturn:

24-20, New England: "I think it will be a close game, and with any luck the Patriots will squeak it out by a field goal or so."

Tim Cahill, Norfolk County Treasurer:

20-17 (OT), New England: "They have a better coach. If he keeps them in the game, they'll be fine. Adam Vinatieri will kick a field goal to win it in overtime, the first overtime in Super Bowl history."

Christine Cedrone, School Committeewoman: "I think the Super Bowl is like the Turkey Day game--you never know what to expect. This is the first time in a long time the Patriots have been in the Super Bowl, and they have a lot of momentum going into it. I think it will be a tough game all the way through, but I believe the Patriots will win."

Peter Kolson, City Council President:

24-16, New England: "I think the Patriots are a faster team; overall, they have better team speed. Green Bay's record is not as good playing on artificial turf and I think the Patriots' defensive team, like Chris Slade and the other guys, will raise holy heck with that passer (Brett Favre). The whole key is how well the offensive line of Green Bay plays."

31-24, Green Bay: "The difference is (Brett) Favre. He'll show why he's the league's MVP. Drew Bledsoe's time will come."

Peter Chella, Quincy High School football coach:

24-21, New England: "I think playing on AstroTurf will give the Patriots the opportunity to win, because they have a speed advantage over the Packers. The Packers' biggest advantage is their more experienced personnel on the defensive line, so the Patriots will need to control the line of scrimmage, especially on offense."

Mike Cheney, Councilor At-Large:

17-14, New England: "The Patriots are the underdogs, but I think the defense is really going to bail them out. I've seen both teams play, and I think it will be an uphill battle for the Patriots, but one they can win. They have all the momentum, which I think will be a key factor, because the spirit within can overcome a lot."

Bill McColgan, production and program manager for Continental Cablevision:

24-17, New England: "I think the turf will favor the speed of Curtis Martin and Terry Glenn. I think the Packers are going to find out how good the Patriots are at defense. I also think it's time for the AFC to rub it in the faces of the NFC like they've done to us the past 12 years."

Larry Chretien, energy program director for Quincy Community Action:

24-14, New England: "I think the Patriots' defense will continue playing like it has been the last seven weeks. Drew Bledsoe is due for one of his better games. It'll be difficult to score against the Packers but it will happen."

Steve Westgate, Charlie's Mini Market:

21-14, New England: "I think the defense will hold the Packers back and pull it out. We're due."

George Nolan, a Patriot season ticket holder for 15 years and a CPA with Steve Mansfield, Co. in Quincy: 28-21, New England: "It'll all come down to defense and I believe the Patriots' defense will be a little bit better."

And some bold predictions from the Sun staff:

Bob Bosworth, Sun Editor:

30-16, New England: "I see a big day for the Patriots' secondary (three interceptions) and a bigger day for my fraternity brother, linebacker Dwayne Sabb of UNH. By the fourth quarter, MARK BERTMAN, right, and son, Jeff, of Rogers Jewelers in Quincy Center, get into the Super Bowl spirit by showcasing their collection of autographed New England Patriots footballs from the late 1970's and early 1980's. Jeff wears the jersey of former Patriot Tom Neville, a close friend of Mark's who is now a jeweler in Alabama. Neville, who played for New England in the late 70's and early 80's, also played for Denver and the New York Giants.

they'll be plenty of whine with all that cheese."

Liam Fitzgerald, Sun Sports Editor:

28-21, New England: "(Drew) Bledsoe, who has struggled at times in the playoffs, will silence his critics by having one of the best performances of his career. The Patriots defense, which has carried the team to the Super Bowl, will turn it up another notch and contain the potent Green Bay offense down the stretch."

Mike Whalen, Sun Assistant Editor:

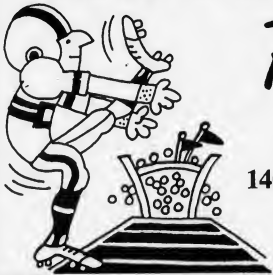

27-24, New England: "Big days for Drew Bledsoe, Curtis Martin, Ben Coates, the offensive line and special teams. Brett Favre will get knocked silly by Willie McGinest and/or Chris Slade at least twice. Adam Vinatieri's field goal makes the difference."

Marie D'Olimpio, Sun Social Editor:

34-17, New England: "I pick the Pats because of the excitement they have created--and they seem so ready and motivated."

Don't Pass Up 'Free' Improvements

by JoAnne Liebeler Home Improvement Specialist

(NAPS)—A two-year long consumer research study shows that most homeowners are passing up "free" home improvements that could save them up to hundreds of dollars each year in lower heating and cooling bills. Matt Michel, vice president of Decision Analyst, Inc., the firm that did the research, said consumers are often shocked to learn how much money they waste and how much discomfort they needlessly endure in their homes.

"Installing a programmable thermostat and a humidifier is 'free' because they can pay for themselves many times over in energy savings," Michel said. "And a high efficiency whole-house air cleaner is 'free' because it helps your heating and cooling system run more efficiently." High-efficiency air cleaners also provide health benefits, he explained.

Michel said one of the most memorable things he heard during the research came from a consumer who said, "What you're telling us is, if we make these free home improvements, it can be winter outside, it can be summer outside, but in my home it can be spring all year round."

Decision Analyst's surveys of more than 75,000 households also found that nearly half of all homeowners do not get the recommended annual preventive maintenance done on their home's expensive heating and air conditioning systems. The research was commissioned by Honeywell and Contracting Business magazine.

For more information on how to save money and make your home healthier, more comfortable and more convenient, check out Honeywell's Perfect Climate® internet site at <http://www.honeywell.ca/perfect-climate>. 'Showcase Of Homes' At Bayside Expo Center

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) will present its second annual "Showcase of Homes," a real estate show for consumers interested in previewing residential market listings and learning more about the home purchase/selling process, from Saturday, Feb. 1 to Sunday, Feb. 9 at the Bayside Exposition Center in Boston.

Scheduled to be held in conjunction with the 18th annual North American Home Show, MAR's "Showcase of Homes" is designed primarily for first-time, trade-up, vacation and second home buyers who want to educate themselves on the home search and property transaction process before entering the spring market.

Specifically, the nine-day program will offer consumers the opportunity to view more than 30,000 property listings from all across the state, including many via on-line computer. Inventory will be available in all price ranges for consumers to view, with a majority of single-family listings in Barnstable, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Suffolk, Plymouth and Worcester

Additionally, home seekers will have an opportunity to obtain loan pre-qualification and pre-approval from up to 12 different mortgage lenders, and prospective home buyers and sellers will be able to attend up to eight different hour-long education sessions related to the property transaction process. Session topics include how to present an offer, make a counter-offer and negotiate contingencies; alternative financing for buyers, home inspections and property disclosure issues, tax tips for buyers and sellers, listing and pricing a home for sale, and how to select a real estate agent.

The joint MAR Showcase of Homes and 18th annual North American Home Show will feature over 500 exhibits by real estate brokerage firms, mortgage lenders, builders, landscape, interior design and remodeling companies, home inspectors, and appliance, furniture and home entertainment distributors. In addition, attendees will be able to request community and school district profile data, as well as current lists of Realtor firms by community from the MAR exhibit.

Admission to the show is $6 for adults, $3 for children under 12. For more information on MAR's Showcase of Homes, call 1-800-725-6272.

Shut Out Unwanted Noise

(NAPS)—As more and more people work out of their homes today, a quiet atmosphere for an in-home office becomes a top priority. If constructing a new home or remodeling an existing room to become an office, sound control is something you'll want to speak with your builder or contractor about.

One of the most economical ways to make your home or office quieter is with basic home insulation. It can be inexpensive, relatively simple to install and add greatly to the comfort and value of your home.

Materials placed in walls and ceilings of a home can provide a barrier to sound from the outside and from room to room. Experts say fiber glass insulation is best because it absorbs sound and is very inexpensive.

Ask your builder to insulate the interior walls with basic insulation such as CertainTeed's Fiber Glass Insulation or with a new process called Blow-In Blanket System (BIBS). This system combines fiber glass insulation, such as CertainTeed's Insul Safe III, with a binder and pneumatically blows it behind a netting into wall cavities to give you sound control, privacy between rooms, higher energy efficiency and lower annual energy bills.

In addition to insulation, there are some additional "sound" steps you can ask your builder or contractor to take:

- Install thick carpeting and padding throughout

A new home insulation system is not only energy-efficient, it also helps shut out unwanted noise in your home.

your home to reduce impact sound.

- Caulk around windows.
- Choose solid wood, not hollow core, interior doors where privacy is demanded.
- Use double pane storm windows to help reduce sound transmission through windows.
- Install telephone hook-ups, intercoms or audio built-ins on interior walls.
- Caulk holes made by wiring, which penetrate connecting structures with non-hardening caulk or dry packing.
- Seal openings around ceiling fixtures.

North Quincy Girls' Post Wins Over Silver Lake, Quincy

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following victories over crosstown rival Quincy High School and Silver Lake, the North Quincy High School girls basketball team looked to reach the 500 mark Tuesday night against visiting Weymouth.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

North tangles with host Plymouth South Friday night at 7 and battles visiting Barnstable next Tuesday night, Jan. 28, at 7.

In a 54-46 triumph over Silver Lake, senior center Dawn Kohler paced the Red Raiders with 18 points and seven rebounds. Junior forward Laurie Flynn added 10 and junior guard Kerry Skehan scored nine for NQ.

"That was probably Dawn's best game this year," said NQ coach Ken Panaro. "She shot real well from the free throw line, making eight straight after missing her first attempt. As a team, we made 13 of 14 free throws, which is important in a close game."

Panaro was also impressed with the Red Raiders' improvement in the rebounding category, which was a problem earlier in the season.

"We're starting to rebound better, not allowing the bigger kids to sneak in on us," he said. "We've been working on rebounding drills in practice, which has really proved helpful come game time."

"I'm happy with how we're progressing and playing with a lot more confidence. The girls are passing when they need to pass and shooting when they have the opportunity to shoot."

Earlier in the week, North disposed of Quincy, 53-41, behind the scoring of senior guard Kerry Ginty (18 points) and senior forward Jill Picardi (16 points).

Ginty, a co-captain, tied a school record for most three-pointers in a game with four, last accomplished by former Red Raider Tara Myles. Ginty, who had 31 career treys before Tuesday's game (including 13 this season), also broke Myles' career mark of 25 three-pointers.

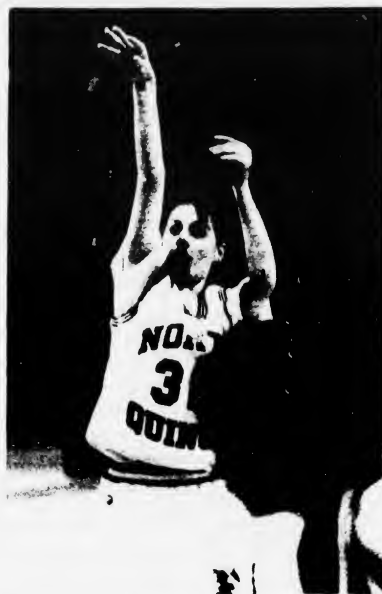

GUARD KERRY SKEHAN, who scored nine points in North Quincy's win over Silver Lake last Friday, dribbles past a Laker defender and looks for an open teammate.

With the Red Raiders up by four in the second half, Ginty drained back-to-back three-pointers to push NQ's lead to 39-29.

The Presidents battled back, scoring the next six points to cut the NQ lead to four with eight minutes remaining. That was as close as Quincy would get as the Red Raiders went on a 14-6 spurt to seal the victory.

Improved Presidents Battle Weymouth

Improving with every game, the Quincy High School girls basketball team took on Silver Lake Tuesday night in search of its first triumph.

The result of the game was not available as of press time.

Quincy's next game is against visiting Weymouth Friday night at 7. The Presidents host Plymouth South next Tuesday night, Jan. 28, at 7.

"The first time we played Weymouth, we didn't play particularly well, but I think it's a team we can compete with," said Quincy coach Bob Noble. "If we go out and play well and keep showing improvement, we'll have a fair shot at winning. We're looking forward to it."

Against Falmouth last Friday night, the Presidents stayed with the undefeated Old Colony League leaders until the Clippers pulled away in the final minutes.

"We played pretty good for most of the game," said Noble. "Once we had to start fouling them in the last four or five minutes of the game, they made their shots and built a big lead. They're a big, talented team, so it's no mystery why they are undefeated."

Earlier in the week, Quincy lost to rival North Quincy High School, 53-41, at the Red Raiders' gym.

Pacing the Presidents was senior forward Julie McLaughlin, who led all scorers with 19 points, including Quincy's first eight points of the game. McLaughlin also collected 12 rebounds.

Against North, junior point guard Kerry Duffy broke Quincy's single game record for assists with 10, eclipsing the former mark of seven.

"I thought this was our best game overall," said Noble. "We were in it for a while, but North made some big shots in the second half to put it away. The girls never gave up, playing hard until the final buzzer, which is all you can ask for as a coach."

Quit smoking.

Kiwanis Hockey Tourney Feb. 17-23

The 24th annual Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament, which will feature teams from throughout the Northeast, is scheduled for Feb. 17-23 at the Quincy Youth Arena. Semifinals and finals are scheduled for Feb. 22-23.

Teams from four divisions--Mites (6 to 9 years old), Squirts (10-11), Pee Wees (12-13) and Bantams (14-15) will participate, said tournament director Jack McInnis.

"It's quite a good tournament," said McInnis. "We'll have a lot of teams from out of state, including four or five from New York right now. We get quite a few out-of-staters every year."

"The tournament is well-run, with good competition and a good reputation. We even put on the flyer 'The Most Exciting Tournament on the East Coast.'"

Running the tournament for the first time, McInnis said his biggest responsibility is getting as many teams as possible to send their applications to participate in the tournament.

"We're looking to get plenty of teams to sign up, to get the word out there," he said. "Right now, we have about 15 or 16 applications, but over the next few weeks, we'll get bombarded with applications. Some wait until the last minute, but most get them in early."

The cost to participate is $435 for US teams, $400 for Canadian teams and is free for European teams. Last year, when an Austrian team participated in the tournament, McInnis said the team stayed with Quincy players, which made for a "neat experience for both sides."

The deadline for applications will likely be the first week in February, so the schedules can be sent out to the participants, said McInnis.

An employee at the Youth Arena whose duties include driving the Zamboni and cleaning the rink, McInnis has coached his daughter, Jill, on teams in the Mite A's and Squirt A's and will be her coach on a Pee Wee A squad this year. "Admission is free," said McInnis, "and it's great hockey if people want to come down and watch."

The tournament is the largest fundraiser for the Kiwanis Club of Quincy. Proceeds, disbursed throughout the community, are used for scholarships, camperships and other worthy causes.

ROUGH GOING

When car owners are plagued by a rough idle in their cars, they should have their auto technicians investigate a partially clogged (or leaking) fuel injector or a defective ignition wire as possible causes. A diagnostic checkup can quickly identify either condition. Another cause of rough idle that frequently goes undiagnosed is a defective charcoal canister purge system. This component is covered by the five-year/50,000-mile warranty. A defective purge valve on those automobiles equipped with them can cause an overly rich fuel mixture. It can even result in the discharge of black smoke from the tail pipe. In any case, it pays for car owners to remember that any time that their cars' engines do not run properly, a diagnostic check is called for.

HINT: When a late-model car does not run as it should, there is usually a malfunction in one or more of the computer's sensors or in an emission-control device. Our ASE Certified service technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO will do their part in making sure your car is properly maintained, whether it is something as simple as a tune-up to more complex engine work. Here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550), we look forward to giving your car the same level of personal attention we give our own. Revitalized Raiders Top Silver Lake, Quincy Winners of three straight, including victories over Silver Lake and Quincy, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team looked to continue its winning ways Tuesday night at Weymouth.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

North Quincy hosts Plymouth South Friday night at 7 and visits Barnstable next Tuesday night, Jan. 28, at 7.

"These are teams we should beat, and we hope to win all three and qualify for the tournament with 10 wins," said NQ coach Ted Stevenson. "If we play as well as we have been, we should win all three, but we can't take any team lightly. When you do that, that's when you get hurt."

Junior center Brian Ross scored a game-high 18 points as the Red Raiders coasted to a 47-37 triumph over Silver Lake last Friday night. Senior point guard Chris Erler chipped in with 15 for NQ.

Defensively, North contained Laker center Jon Bond, who managed only 12 points against a matchup zone defense.

"We concentrated on where he was in the zone, always having his man stay with him," said Stevenson. "He only scored 16 points in two games against us, and he averages almost 18 a game, so we're pleased with how we shut him down. Our entire defense was tremendous."

Ross had a monster game against rival Quincy, pouring in 33 points as NQ defeated the Presidents, 57-45, earlier in the week. The second leading scorer in the Old Colony League (20.1 ppg), Ross scored 18 points in the first half alone, as the Red Raiders scored 11 of the game's first 13 points en route to a four-point halftime lead.

The Presidents kept it close, trailing 43-37 with eight minutes remaining, before NQ went on an 8-0 spurt to put the game out of reach. Ross canned a jumper, hit a layup, assisted Matt Bromley for a jumper and took a pass from Erler for a 51-37 NQ advantage.

"We talked before the game about playing our game and not their game, and the kids did a super job of staying under control," said Stevenson. "We got the ball inside to Ross, who was awesome, and Erler did a fabulous job bringing the ball up against all their pressure. We did exactly what we wanted to do and came away with a big win."

Hockey

Tournament Slot In Presidents' Future

Off to its best start in 10 years, Quincy High School's hockey team won its seventh game of the season, downing host Taunton, 4-3, in OCL play Saturday night.

Last night (Wednesday) at 7:40 at Hingham, the Presidents played the team that handed them their only loss, Weymouth. The Wildcats defeated Quincy, 4-3, back on Dec. 21 at the Quincy Youth Arena. The result of the game was not available as of press time.

If the Presidents (7-1-3) defeated or tied Weymouth, they could clinch a tournament slot with a win against visiting Bridgewater-Raynham Saturday night at 7:50.

"We have 17 points, so we're close to getting the 20 points to qualify for the tournament," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "Our opponents will be a lot tougher the second time around, but I'm sure we'll get the three points."

"We're playing pretty good hockey and getting good goaltending from Chris Burns, which is probably the biggest reason we're doing so well."

In the victory over Taunton, junior center Chris Haidul collected two goals and one assist to lead the Presidents. Joe Vallatini and Scott Cooper also scored and Burns made 18 saves for QHS.

"Chris played a real good game in net," said Sylvia. "We weren't as sharp as we could've been, but we were able to get the win despite not operating on all cylinders. That's the mark of a good hockey club."

Earlier in the week, Quincy's Bob Hall scored a late third-period goal as the Presidents tied North Quincy, 1-1, at Quincy Youth Arena.

"That game was a goaltender's battle, a vintage game," said Sylvia. "Both teams came ready to play, and played a good, clean, hard game. We both had good opportunities to score; we felt we had enough to win, but both goalies were very hot. I thought (NQ goalie Brian) Beaton played exceptionally well."

North's Mike Sullivan tallied early in the third period to snap a scoreless tie before Hall poked in the rebound of a Scott Cooper slap shot to force the tie.

Presidents Look To Get Back In Win Column

Coming off three consecutive road losses, the Quincy High School boys basketball team hoped to break its losing streak against Silver Lake Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

Quincy next takes the court at Weymouth Friday night at 7, then visits Plymouth South next Tuesday night, Jan. 28, at 7.

"The big thing is the kids are realistic about those losses, because they were at three tough places--Bridgewater-Raynham, North Quincy and Falmouth," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "The OCL is a dogfight, and we're right in the middle of it."

"And it's not like we've been playing lousy. We've just run into some real tough shooting nights, but I'm confident we'll get our share and have a good second half of the season."

Inaccurate field goal shooting by Quincy resulted in a 59-53 loss to host Falmouth last Friday night. Senior Carmen Lorenzano scored 11 points and freshman Dan Kelly added 10 for the Presidents.

"Our poor shooting destroyed us," said Franceschini. "Some nights, the ball just doesn't fall, and this was one of those nights. We shot approximately 35 percent from the field and didn't get to the free throw line enough in crunch time. We had our chances late, but we just couldn't get it done."

Last Tuesday night, the Presidents were victimized by the powerful inside game of Brian Ross and Co. and lost to host North Quincy, 57-45.

"They had a good game plan and executed it well against us," said Franceschini. "Ross was tremendous, hitting shots from inside and outside. We usually take guards out of games with our defensive pressure, but (Chris) Erler did a great job bringing the ball up for them."

"We also shot horrendously inside, missing very easy shots, which prevented us from cutting their lead to single digits. All those factors led to us losing that game."

NQ Faces Off Against Barnstable Saturday

After three consecutive ties, the North Quincy High School hockey team picked up a win, defeating Plymouth South, 4-1, Saturday night at Quincy Youth Arena.

The Red Raiders (4-4-3) battled Falmouth last night (Wednesday) at 6:40 at Quincy Youth Arena. The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

North next plays at Barnstable Saturday night at 8 and will have the revenge factor in mind following a 1-0 loss earlier this season.

"We outplayed them that game, but just couldn't score," said NQ coach Tom Benson. "Hopefully we can go down there and play well and get the win."

In the win over Plymouth South, Senior center Eric Wood notched two goals and two assists and junior left wing Jay Allen scored his first varsity goal to lead the Red Raiders. Senior right wing Matt McDonough also tallied for NQ.

"We played a really good game, the best of the year so far," said Benson. "We played physical hockey, got some scoring and solid goaltending and turned in three good periods."

"We backchecked well and played good defense. Paul Markarian, Dan Stock and Brian Degan all played good games on defense."

Trailing 1-0, NQ tied it up before taking a 3-1 lead with two second-period goals. A fourth goal gave North some breathing room in the third period.

Last Wednesday, North battled rival Quincy to a 1-1 tie at the Quincy Youth Arena.

After two scoreless periods, North's Mike Sullivan scored 20 seconds into the third period on an unassisted rush. With solid goaltending from Brian Beaton, North appeared to have the game in hand. However, Quincy got the equalizer late in the game when Bob Hall tapped in a rebound of a Scott Cooper slap shot.

Quincy Wrestlers Pick Up Three Wins, One Tie

After dropping the first seven matches, the Quincy High School wrestling team has recorded three recent wins and one tie.

Last weekend, Quincy (3-9-1) defeated Nauset, 45-36, and lost to Hingham, 57-24.

The previous week, the Presidents defeated Duxbury, 42-12, Sharon, 40-37 and tied Southeastern Regional, 33-33.

Senior Dai Nguyen (103 lbs.) has been the story with a 22-2 overall record and championships in three tournaments (Wayland, Lowell and Sanford).

"It is no small feat to win the Lowell Tournament," said Quincy coach Lou Venturelli. "Dai had to win five matches, the last being over last year's All-State Champion, Adam Reys of Burlington, 6-4."

Nguyen won his first 21 matches, nearly all by pin, before suffering a defeat at 112 lbs. to Bridgewater-Raynham's Steve Dorr.

Also shining for Quincy are the two senior captains, Kevin Connolly (152) and Seve Tan (140). Both sport 8-2 dual meet records.

Junior Pat Harrington

"The team is really beginning to gel," said Venturelli. "The small turn-out (20 wrestlers) really hurt us. We'll continue to work hard and give it our best."

Quincy will host Duxbury, Plymouth South and Cambridge Ringe & Latin at the CTE Saturday starting at 10 a.m.

North Girls Edged By B-R, 46-45

The North Quincy girls indoor track team lost a close one to Bridgewater-Raynham, 46-45, in Old Colony League action last week.

Although the Trojans had this meet clinched before the relays, NQ proceeded to win both baton events.

Winners again for North (2-2) were Casey Ngo (55 meter dash) and Jasmine Gonzalez (600), who both remained undefeated. Freshman Lynda Wilson won the mile (5:50.9), Sarah Beston took the high jump, and Kristy Deputula won the shotput, leading another NQ sweep of the weight event.

The 4x200 relay of Ngo, Gonzalez, Sharon Lee and Kellie Johnston ran the second fastest time in the OCL (1:53.5), and the 4x400 team of Dorothy Cronin, Genevieve O'Brien, Liz Leuchte and Ha Le closed out the scoring for the Raiders.

North traveled to Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday) for a pivotal meet against the Clippers. The winner could clinch the runner-up spot in the dual meet race.

"We just don't have the depth in the middle and long distances to compete with teams like B-R and Silver Lake, but in a bigger meet we do because we have top athletes in several events plus ever-improving relays," said NQ coach Geoff Hennessy. "The OCL Meet can't come soon enough."

North's freshman and sophomores compete in the Annual Red Auerbach Meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Reggie Lewis Center.

Athletes competing include Ha Le, Lisa Della-Croce, Katie Ceurvels, Kellie Johnston, Liz Leuchte, Genevieve O'Brien, Corinne Sullivan, Dorothy Cronin, Sarah Houghton, Heather Meighan, Lynda Wilson, Angela Scott, Kelly Lockhead, Tia Harris and Ellen Tang. The meet is directed by Lou Tozzi, former NQ coach and current Director of Pupil Personnel Services for the Quincy Public Schools.

Speedskater Determined To Return To Competition

Olympian Cashman Undergoing Therapy For Broken Ankle

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy native and Olympic bronze medalist Karen Cashman is undergoing physical therapy after suffering a broken left ankle and ligament damage in a speedskating competition in Milwaukee.

Cashman, who anchored the U.S. women's short-track speedskating team to a third place finish in the 1994 Winter Olympics in Lillehammer, Norway, was injured while racing in the World University Games Trials on Dec. 31 at the Petit National Ice Center. She was racing on the second day of competition in the 500 heat when she made an outside pass into the first position skater on the inside, fell and slammed into the boards feet first.

At the time of the mishap, Cashman, who is vying for a spot on the U.S. Olympic speedskating team for the 1998 Winter Games in Nagano, Japan, was in first place overall.

Cashman's parents, Jane and Fred Cashman of Furnace Brook Parkway, had driven 1,100 miles to watch Karen compete.

"My husband was timing the event and I was in the stands watching when I saw (Karen's accident) happen. I wasn't sure at first if it was her because three or four skaters went down.

"Then I heard someone screaming and I knew it was her," Mrs. Cashman said. "I was just praying it wasn't more serious, like paralysis. It was a terrible and horrifying experience for Karen."

Cashman was taken by ambulance to the Froedert Memorial Hospital where she had emergency surgery which lasted three hours. Both ankles were injured, the left one broken with ligament damage.

Mrs. Cashman praised the hospital and its staff for the medical attention and treatment Karen received. She was hospitalized for nearly four days and then remained in Milwaukee for another week of aftercare.

Cashman is now undergoing rehab physical therapy at the U.S. Olympic Training Center, 421 Old Military Rd., Room 103, Lake Placid, NY, 12946. She will be on crutches for six to eight weeks. The screws in her ankle will be removed, perhaps by early March, but her leg plate will be permanent.

Mrs. Cashman said her daughter is trying to stay positive through this ordeal.

"She's stressful but positive. She's concerned but determined. She's doing a lot of physical therapy. She can't wait to get back on skates," Mrs. Cashman said.

Karen is disappointed that she will likely be unable to compete in the World Trials the weekend of March 7th. For the first time, the trials are scheduled to take place in the new Iorio Rink in Walpole.

"She wanted to be at her best, but it doesn't seem that is to happen," Mrs. Cashman said. "But," her mother added, "Karen is still hopeful."

Karen is also disappointed that she will not exhibit her skating at the Bay State Games in Williamstown, MA this weekend. "But she is really pleased that she will be able to make speeches to the athletes and participate in the parade and watch the competition," her mother said.

Karen was a Bay State Games medalist while she was a figure skater.

The orthopedic surgeon and Karen are very optimistic that she will be ready for the Olympic Trials at Lake Placid in mid-December. That is when the 1998 U.S. Olympic speedskating team will be selected.

Mrs. Cashman said the orthopedic, Dr. Greg Schmerling, has a good track record helping speedskaters recover from injuries.

"He's a terrific surgeon. He operated on one of the speedskaters who had a serious hip injury. She's back competing and recently won a big race in long track (speedskating)," Mrs. Cashman said.

Cashman, a 1989 graduate of North Quincy High School, is a senior at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, MI. She is studying administrative dietetics and nutrition as well as psychology.

Asked when Karen might return to Quincy, her mother replied, "I'm sure she'll get back but I'm not sure when. She really wants to stick with the physical therapy."

Mite A's Stomp Somerville, 8-2

The Quincy Mite A team defeated Somerville, 8-2, at the South Boston MDC rink.

Matt Tobin had a hat trick and Evan Harrington had two goals. Scoring one goal each were Matt Jones, Chris Rooney and Matt Giordani.

Assists were dished out by Matt Jones (2), Matt Tobin (2), Evan Harrington, Pat Devlin, Paul Fasoli, Matt Giordani, Raymond Marchand, Jonathan Conso and Chris Rooney.

Frankie Sorrento had another strong game between the pipes for Quincy. Coaching the Mite A's are Jim Conso, Ed Rooney and Jim Donovan.

Pee Wee A's Top Charlestown

Ryan Donahue and Charlie Sorrento each had two goals to lead the Quincy Pee Wee A team over Charlestown, 6-4, last Saturday night at St. Sebastian's.

Scoring one goal apiece were Jim Cashins and Shawn Richardson. Jordan Virtue had three assists. Other assists were dished out by Joe Fitzpatrick, Brian Stock, Dan Sheehan, Dave Germain, and Charlie Sorrento.

Offensively, Billy McKeon and Brian O'Hanley played well for Quincy. Jill McInnis, Peter Turowski and Kevin Patten played strong defensively.

Shaun Flaherty was solid between the pipes. The Quincy Pee Wee team is coached by Jack McInnis and Mike Connelly.

Squirt A's Top Duxbury, 3-2, To Win Santa Claus Tournament

The Quincy Squirt A team won the Santa Claus Tournament in Hingham with a 3-2 triumph over undefeated Duxbury in the finals.

At the awards ceremony, the team expressed appreciation to its sponsor, The Quincy Fire Fighters, coach Bill Richardson and assistant coaches Al Grazioso and Steve McQuade.

Quincy started the scoring in the finals when Tim Duggan's pass connected at center ice with Liam Powers, who netted the breakaway. Duxbury soon answered to end the first period at 1-1.

The Quincy squad took back the lead early in the second on an unassisted goal by Matt Grazioso, but Duxbury soon answered to tie the game again, 2-2.

Late in the second, Grazioso scored the eventual game-winning goal on excellent passes from Kevin Richardson and Brendon Craig, both of whom played tenacious defense throughout the tournament.

Nick Manning was outstanding between the pipes as he held Duxbury scoreless throughout the third period, with strong defensive support from Pat Maxey and Kyle Carmody.

In the semifinals against Canton, Brendon and Ryan Conley combined with Josh Giordani to tie the game at 2-2 in the second. Matt Germain scored Quincy's first goal with an assist from Grazioso and they repeated their one-two punch for the go-ahead goal late in the second. Steve McGrath and Billy Barter led Powers with great passing as he scored Quincy's fourth goal for the victory.

Quincy advanced to the finals over two other teams with identical 2-1 records because it had allowed the fewest goals in earlier rounds. The team also came back from a 5-2 first-round loss to Hingham. Germain and Grazioso each scored in that game with assists by Ryan Feldoff and Matt Lavery.

In the tournament's second game, Quincy shut out the South Shore Eagles, 5-0. Giordani, Duggan, Germain, Powers and Lavery each netted a goal for Quincy. Maxey had two assists and Lavery, Craig, Grazioso, Germain and Duggan all had one assist each.

FLAG FLIES OVER the Adams Arcade Building, 1469-1489 Hancock St., Quincy Center, marking the completion of facade improvements at the site and other buildings in Quincy initiated by Quincy 2000. The building includes Ryder's Curtains and Expose Fashions.

Facade Improvements Lauded At Flag-Raising Ceremony

The event was held to celebrate the completion of exterior improvements to the property and to celebrate the implementation of one of Quincy 2000's latest efforts, the Commercial Building Renovation Program.

The $300,000 Federal Community Development Block Grant Program initiative is designed to revitalize the exterior facades of commercial buildings in the city's primary business districts. Quincy 2000's facade improvements grants encourage property owners to invest more than they would be able to afford on their own.

Officials said the $300,000 in grants for exterior improvements invested by Quincy 2000 has leveraged approximately $1 million in private investment for exterior and interior improvements.

Among the projects:

•General contractor Paul Rogan Co. and Quincy architectural firm Holmes & Edwards teamed up to complete the improvements to the Adams Arcade, located at 1469-1489 Hancock St., which is home to Ryder's Curtains and Expose Fashions.

•The owners of 1043-1049 Hancock St. hired Quincy architectural firm Donahue Associates and general contractor A.H. Campbell and Sons to design and complete the improvements for The Fowler House Cafe, Young's Beauty Salon, and Century 21 - Personal Realty Annex.

•The owners of 1659-1661 Hancock St./1-5 School St. completed the improvements to their property with the assistance of architect Marc Maxwell and general contractor Ryan Construction. The property is the home to Taxman, Myung's Tailoring, and Dina's Unisex Hair Salon.

McKenna Brothers rehabilitated 30 Chestnut St., which houses Mary Smith Associates, Office Solutions Plus, and Gigi's Barbershop.

There are additional facade projects which are not fully completed that are also part of the first round of Commercial Building Renovation Program projects.

Quincy 2000 officials applauded the contributions made by contractors, architects, property owners and the Quincy 2000 Design Review Committee who have made the program a success. Officials said by raising the flag at the Adams Arcade and encouraging reinvestment, Quincy 2000 hopes to make Quincy Center more appealing to residents, visitors and merchants.

Quincy 2000 expects to request additional funding from the city to sustain the positive momentum that has been generated throughout the business districts by those improvements, officials said.

High School Faculties In Hoop Fundraiser Jan. 30

Thursday, Jan. 30 at 7 p.m., members of the Quincy High School faculty will take on the North Quincy High School faculty in a basketball game at the NQHS gym in a fundraiser for the FIRST Robotics National Competition.

The money raised will go to help finance the FIRST Robotics National Competition at Epcot Center in Orlando, Fla., where Quincy placed fourth last year.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for students. For tickets, call Pat Quintilliani (QHS) at 984-8844, Gerry Quintil-iani (NQHS) at 984-8990 or Keith Segalla (CTE) at 984-8888.

Graduates of QHS or NQHS who are interested in selling tickets or participating are also being sought. The entire Quincy community is being asked to support this project.

Barter's Bullies Edge Belmont, Tie Southie

Quincy Youth Hockey's Squirts, sponsored by Sugarmans of Quincy, continue to live up the nickname Barter's Bullies. This team of scrapers, skaters and hard-hitting hockey players have put the fear of the Bullies in their GBYL B division.

The Bullies recently hit the road, heading to Somerville for a matchup with Belmont. Two-third period goals sent Quincy to a 3-2 come-from-behind triumph.

Trailing 2-0, the Quincy squad went to work. Jonathan O'Connor on the point carried the puck in and provided a pass to Danny Donovan to put Quincy on the board.

In the third period, the playmaker was Mike Faherty, who set up Donovan for the pass to Paul Graham for Quincy's second score. Rounding out the scoring was Alex Shaffer, who waited in position for a pass from Mike Tetreault, who stick handled past the Belmont defense into position for his move.

Bullies' tough protection was the name of the game for the defense. Keith Flaherty used his powerful shot heard around the rink to clear the zone. Chris (The Bulldozer) Sheehan dug in, denying the Belmont forwards access to his turf. Tony (Benji) Benigni and Brendan Clifford kept the Belmont forwards at bay at the blue line.

Ryan (The Beezer) Barter was the player to watch between the pipes as he blocked, kicked and caught anything Belmont had to offer.

The next GBYL encounter was a rematch with the Broadway Bad Boys from South Boston. Both teams stepped on the ice ready to battle and skated to a 0-0 tie.

With the exception of any scoring, this game had it all: superb goaltending by Barter and his counterpart on South Boston, good passing and rushing by the forwards and solid backchecking, and a power outage that made it feel like being in the old Boston Garden.

Skating was the story of this game, as Quincy's Justin Thorley darted up ice and teammate Tim Mullen worked the corners. Joey (The Ice Man) McManus was up and down the ice with puck in tow. Paul McLean skated up ice past the Southie defense and knocked the netminder to the ice with a wrist shot. Brendan Linnane slowed the Southie forwards with his hard-hitting defense.

Both teams and their fans look forward to their next showdown in the coming months.

Scott Pollard Returns From Deployment

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Scott C. Pollard, son of George C. Pollard of 93 Centre St., Quincy recently returned from a five-month South American deployment aboard the destroyer USS Moosbrugger.

The ship with its home port on Little Creek, Va., was part of the U.S. force that participated in exercise service exercise involves the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, and the navies of Venezuela, Brazil, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Paraguay and Colombia.

Pollard's ship and the South American navies together conducted surface-to-air and surface-to-surface gunnery operations, anti-submarine operations, and electronic warfare command and control exercises.

The deployment enabled Pollard to visit Colombia, Chile, Brazil and Uruguay.

Pollard, a 1979 graduate of Orange Park High School of Orange Park, Fla., joined the Navy in September, 1982. He is a 1989 and 1991 graduate of Florida Community College, Jacksonville, Fla., with a A.S. degree and an A.A. degree, respectively.

RIBBON-CUTTING WAS part of the flag-raising ceremony held recently in front of the Adams Arcade Building in Quincy Center in celebration of facade improvements at the structure and other buildings initiated by the Quincy 2000 Commercial Building Renovation Program. A Thought For The Week

It has been said that the way we think about things makes us what we are. It has also been said that anything we face is never as important as our attitude toward it. The way you think about your job determines whether or not you enjoy your work, how well you do it and even more. It makes the difference that results in success or failure.

F.W. Woolworth was given the insignificant job of gathering remnants from all the shelves in his employer's store and selling them for what he could. The rapidity with which the remnants were sold gave him the idea for a five-and-ten-cent store. We all know what happened. The results were a chain of stores across the country and the making of a fortune...

"Small opportunities are often the beginning of great enterprises." Couldn't it be said that you can't do a poor job if you are interested in what you're doing? Couldn't it be said that it is just as true that if you don't care about your company or its product, you can't do a really good job, no matter what the extent of your education or IQ?

the bond would not have been possible without a $3.5 million state grant—which is to fund the balance of the Crane project—that members of Quincy's State House delegation helped secure in September. He added that he and Rep. Stephen Tobin approached former Library Director Warren Watson to discuss an expansion of the building several years ago.

Cahill, the newly-elected county treasurer who has long been considered the council's fiscal conservative, said the library bond is the main reason he will support the $9.9 million bond package.

"I'm going to look at it a little closer, but it's within our debt limit, and that's why I'm comfortable with it," he said. "You can't have a great city without a great library, and the (Crane) library is overcapacitated."

McDermott agreed, saying that the state's bypassing of the Crane building for a requested state grant in 1995 was a "big disappointment" for all concerned.

"It's (the library expansion) been something I think has been necessary to the city for a long time," he said.

Of the other projects for which the mayor wants to bond, McDermott said he is "100 percent behind" planned improvements to the Newport Avenue extension and noted, "I'm pretty sure I'm going to support the entire package."

Harold, chairman of the council's Library Committee and Raymond both said they need more information about the other projects in the bond package before they can commit their support, but added that they also stand behind the library expansion.

"I'm supportive of the library portion," said Harold. "The project is something that's been on the horizon for a while."

"I support the library bond issue," said Raymond.

"I'm looking forward to the addition being built and the library being accessible to all."

Other items in the $9.9 million bond package Sheets sent to the council for its consideration next week include:

- $1,050,000 for the improvements to the Newport Avenue extension.

- $880,000 for renovations to the JFK Health Center on Hancock Street.

- $825,000 for wiring, installation and other costs associated with the Enhanced 911 telephone system to be headquartered at the Quincy Police Station.

- $500,000 for a new fire truck.

In addition, the mayor sent a $1 million bond issue to the council for repairs and departmental equipment for Quincy College. Sheets said, however, that the responsibility of repaying the debt of that bond will be the college's, not the city's, so it will not impact Quincy's taxpayers.

NQHS Participating In BankBoston Program

North Quincy High School is participating in BankBoston's Investment In Education program this year.

The school/community partnership awards educational equipment to schools that accumulate bank issued "School Investment Points."

During the last two school years, BankBoston has awarded more than 20,000 teaching tools to schools across New England. The dollar amount of those awards tools more than $2.5 million.

BankBoston spokesman Bruce Spitzer said, "The recent merger of Bank of Boston Corp. and BayBanks Inc. means that we now have a network of 450 participating branches. This will afford more schools and community members the opportunity to participate in this worthwhile program."

Community members who want to help NQHS's efforts have two ways to earn points. In addition to the many routine banking transactions that qualify for points, completing a Bonus Certificate at any branch is worth 75 school investment points with no cost or obligation.

"Our goal is to save enough points to update our technology equipment through Investment in Education, said NQHS Principal

Peter Chrisom. "With the support of parents and community members, we're hoping to meet and possibly exceed that goal."

Many items utilized by schools are offered through Investment In Education.

"The list of awards is outstanding. Items we really need like computers, audio/visual equipment, calculators and sporting goods are available," added Chrisom.

BankBoston School Investment Points will be issued through May 16.

For more information about the program or to donate School Investment Points to the program, call Chrisom at 984-8745.

Dr. Brian Bloom Director Of Pulmonary Rehabilitation At N.E. Sinai Hospital

Dr. Brian Bloom, MD, of Quincy was recently named director of Pulmonary Rehabilitation at New England Sinai Hospital and Rehabilitation Center.

At Sinai, he directs the pulmonary rehabilitation task force to formalize a program of inpatient pulmonary rehabilitation, an area where Sinai established clinical strength.

Dr. Bloom, a member of Beth Israel/Bridgewater Park Medical Associates, is board certified in internal medicine, pulmonary disease and critical care. He graduated from Boston University School of Medicine where he was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, the medical honor society.

He completed internship and residency on the Osler

Medical Service at The Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Bloom returned to Massachusetts to complete fellowships in pulmonary and critical care medicine at Boston University. Prior to joining Sinai and Bridgewater Park Medical, he was a research fellow investigating the molecular biology of fibrosis and has published in the field.

Dr. Bloom also worked on the pulmonary rehabilitation services of Jewish Memorial Hospital and Boston Specialty and Rehabilitation Hospital and has contributed to the clinical pulmonary literature.

'Follow Rules Of The Road' Mullen Asks Motorists' Pedestrians' Help In Reducing Fatalities

Police Chief Francis Mullen, in response to several recent traffic fatalities, is urging drivers and pedestrians to follow the "rules of the road" that apply to both sides.

"I'm looking for public cooperation," he said. "The police department alone cannot prevent accidents. We need the public's help, both motorists and pedestrians. Everyone has to do their part."

Mullen has issued the following rules to be followed by drivers and pedestrians alike.

DRIVERS

Drivers of passenger cars, vans, small trucks and motorcycles must constantly share the roadway with other people and other vehicles. In addition, because at least one of every five motor vehicle deaths involve a pedestrian, drivers should be especially aware of:

- Children. These pedestrians are often the most unpredictable and hardest to see. Be cautious when driving near school zones, parks, bus stops and playgrounds.

- Joggers and skaters. The popularity of jogging and in-line skating have created more pedestrian hazards. People engaged in these activities do not always obey traffic signals and crosswalk rules.

- Pedestrians, when backing up. Don't just use your mirror when reversing. Turn your head and look out the windows before you back up. If children are nearby when you are backing out of a driveway, get out of your vehicle and check behind it.

- You must always yield to pedestrians who are walking or crossing a roadway.

- If you are stopped at a traffic light and the light turns green, you must yield to any pedestrian already in the crosswalk before proceeding.

- When turning right on red, after coming to a complete stop at a red traffic light, you are allowed to turn right on red after giving the right-of-way to pedestrians and other vehicles, unless a "No Turn on Red" sign is posted.

Drivers are reminded that pedestrians always have the right-of-way. Also, the law says you must slow down and stop, if necessary, if a person is walking in the street you are traveling on. Always look ahead for places where pedestrians may be in the road but not visible from a distance, such as around a curve, at the top of a hill, or from between parked cars.

PEDESTRIANS

Pedestrians also have responsibility to be aware, for their own safety. Although the law tells us that pedestrians have the right-of-way, this does not mean that a pedestrian can just dart out in front of traffic and the traffic will stop for them. This type of action can lead to the pedestrian being injured or worse.

Pedestrians should:

- Use a crosswalk whenever possible, even if it means walking a little farther.

- Never cross between parked cars.

- Always cross at a corner.

- At crosswalks with pedestrian signals, use the push button located on the signal pole and wait for the "Walk" signal.

- Before crossing a roadway, stop at the curb, look left, then right, then left again before crossing.

- Continue to be alert for oncoming cars, looking left and then right while crossing.

- Never assume the oncoming vehicle has seen you or the red light. Drivers who have struck pedestrians have reported being blinded by the sun, distracted by a search for a street sign, or simply taking their eyes off the road for a split-second.

- When crossing the street, wave to the oncoming vehicle to make sure the operator has seen you. Try to make eye contact with the driver if possible.

- Use caution at intersections where drivers might be making a right turn on red. These drivers are usually more interested in oncoming traffic and seldom think about a pedestrian. Again, make eye contact with the driver to make sure you have been seen.

"Please use caution while either walking or driving," said Mullen. "Remember, the life you save may be your own."

'Quincy Can Be A Great Success Story' City Urged To Promote Many Pluses

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A specialist on downtown development who has been involved with a number of projects across the country said Tuesday that Quincy has the tools to become a great success story.

However, those results can only be achieved if city officials and civic leaders work together with state and federal officials to "get on the same page" and strive toward a common goal, he said.

Jim McLean, general manager of Beacon Management Company in Springfield, made his comments at Tuesday's meeting of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. He spoke to the group at the request of QCBPA President Daniel Flynn.

McLean was involved with the leasing and marketing of the successful Quincy Market in Boston from 1975 to 1986. He subsequently was involved in projects in California, Tennessee, Texas and elsewhere before returning to Massachusetts and Springfield, where Beacon Management has been involved in the revitalization of that city through a number of efforts.

Among the visible results of those efforts, McLean said, are nearly 400,000 square feet in retail space, 200,000 square feet in entertainment space, increased community policing, cleaner and better-lighted streets, a continuing marketing campaign promoting the city, and more.

Funding for such projects, he noted, included federal, state and city monies and was obtained by getting the necessary leaders to work together and lend their support. Through such efforts, at one point, a total of $2.1

Candidate For At-Large Seat

McCauley Entry Prelude To Council Battle Royal?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Former Mayor Francis McCauley may have set the stage for a political battle royal with his decision this week to run for the city council at-large.

It now appears there could be at least four major candidates for the three council at-large seats.

The three in addition to McCauley are incumbents

Potential candidates in the "thinking-about-it-stage" are former City Clerk John Gillis, former Councillor Leo Kelly and Charles McIntyre, who made a strong political debut in 1993 and is now a Norfolk County assistant district attorney.

What makes it more interesting is that one of the three seats which looked like it would be vacant and up for grabs now looks like it might not be.

That's the one occupied by Cahill, who after his election last November as Norfolk County treasurer, had planned then to finish out his council term this year and not seek reelection.

But the push now on to abolish county government which would eliminate the treasurer's job has given Cahill second thoughts

QCBPA To Address Parking Needs

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association has appointed a new task force to address the issue of parking space in the city's downtown.

QCBPA President Daniel Flynn said at the association's meeting Tuesday that the group "will augment the mayor's task force" in its efforts to locate more parking in Quincy Center.

"There just doesn't seem to be enough of it," he said.

Deanna Gazarian of Phase II Jewelry, who has volunteered to serve as chairman of the QCBPA task force, agreed, saying the problem has developed to the point where the association felt the need to take some action.

"I think we've decided to take the bull by the horns," said Gazarian, who noted that the task force will conduct surveys to see where and why people are parking in the downtown.

Sun.

Flynn added that he sees the opportunity for public and private partnership to secure new parking and said Mayor James Sheets is behind the downtown merchants in their search for more parking space.

"The mayor is very much aware of our need for new space," he said.

Sheets is on vacation this week and was unavailable for comment.

Hospital, Nurses At Odds Over Staffing Levels

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy Hospital administrators and the union representing registered nurses were at odds Tuesday over staffing levels at the health care facility and the disagreement could end up in court.

Nurses, represented by the Massachusetts Nurses Association, are considering filing a class action grievance against the hospital's overtime policy, said Marie Marecki, chair of the MNA bargaining unit.

"We also hope that members of the community, after hearing and reading about this issue, will begin calling the mayor and the Board of Managers of this hospital to address the overall problem of nurse staffing.

"This community is paying Quorum more than $800,000 to run this hospital, and the community is being shortchanged where it matters most--at the hospital bedside," Marecki said.

Registered nurses at the hospital said the nurse staffing levels are "extremely low." That

Ledger Seeks Permit To Rent Out 300 Parking Spaces

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Patriot Ledger's request for a permit to increase their parking space by 300 cars to accommodate employees of Putnam Investments will have to wait until a traffic study is completed by Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon.

The Ledger's present parking space accommodates 200 cars. They plan to transport passengers in a shuttle bus to and from Putnam Investments.

In addition to the increase in cars, their present storage of 2,000 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of the cars would be increased to 5,000 gallons of gasoline at the site at 200 Crown Colony Drive.

According to Richard C. Boyer, a representative for the Patriot Ledger, the shuttle bus would travel from 6:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the morning and from 4 p.m. to 7 or 8 p.m. in the evening.

Chairman Joseph Shea called the parking problem in the city "critical" and explained to the license board that the Ledger was seeking an "ultimate source of parking."

Building Inspector Matt Mulvey told Boyer he would like to see an "actual layout" as to where the buses would pick up passengers and said he hoped it would adhere to the state handicapped laws.

Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico expressed concern over the increased traffic from 300 extra cars, and said he feared that the shuttling of more people would "affect a very sensitive traffic pattern as of now." He said he would reserve judgement when he receives assurance from Gillon when the traffic study is completed.

A representative from the Harvard Pilgrim Health Care said he feared cars would overflow onto their building also on Crown Colony Drive. He suggested an additional traffic study.

Shea said the board will meet with Gillon, D'Amico and a representative from Putnam.

The meeting was continued until either the end of January or the beginning of February.

million was secured and used to benefit Springfield, he said.

McLean said a city's downtown area is another major key to any city's success.

"I am convinced that the downtowns of America in cities like Quincy...are the untapped resources of America," he said. "And the balance and glue of every downtown is the retail base: the merchants and retailers."

McLean said Quincy Center is an excellent example of a well-rounded downtown with its retail base, easy access via the MBTA, educational facilities, historic sites and other attractions. He stressed, however, that something must be done to promote it so it can become even stronger.

"This is a great downtown," he said. "It's a treasure. But you've got to let people know. Don't let it be the best-kept secret around. You've got to take it up a notch."

The way to do that, he added, is to appoint one person who can visualize the city as it will appear in the next 10 to 20 years and let him or her lead the effort with two or three other key people. McLean suggested Mayor James Sheets might be the logical person to be chosen.

"I've never met him, but I've heard wonderful things about him," he said.

Others who could do their part include those who serve as "ambassadors" to the city, such as business leaders, hotel managers and even cab drivers, he added.

McLean noted that a "Springfield USA Summit" was held in Springfield, Massachusetts at which the leaders of all of the communities in American named Springfield met to discuss promotional ideas. He said a similar "Quincy USA Summit" here in the city would be a good idea.

"Nobody is going to sell you unless you sell yourself," he said.

McLean said Springfield also has been promoted through signage, advertising at Bradley International Airport, lapel pins distributed throughout the city, and other avenues. He suggested that advertising at Logan Airport, lapel pins and blazers, and increased signage are some ways Quincy can promote itself.

"How many cities in America can call themselves 'The City of Presidents?'" he said. "Only one. These are nothing wrong with Quincy, Massachusetts and there's everything right with it. You have an enormous opportunity. If you take advantage of it, you may someday appear on the cover of Time magazine as a great American success story."

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

ASSESSING YOUR CASE

Anyone who suffers a serious injury should take immediate steps to consult with an attorney to find out the legal steps he or she might take.

Aside from taking into account the severity of the injury, the lawyer will want to consider the ability of the person who caused the injury to pay a monetary judgment, as well as whether the wrongdoer is liable under the circumstances. These are factors that should be decided by a lawyer. An accident victim who takes the time to mull over his or her circumstances is wasting precious time, during which evidence must be gathered and witnesses should be questioned. If an accident causes a victim to seek medical treatment and/or results in lost time from work, an attorney should be consulted without hesitation. HINT: Personal injury cases are usually handled on a contingent-fee basis, thereby making litigation more affordable by the plaintiff.

Have you been injured? Remember that your legal rights are only as good as your ability to protect them. For a free consultation, call 773-2880. My dedicated staff and I will work hard to represent you and settle your case as fairly and as quickly as possible. We will handle your case on a percentage fee basis. This means that we only receive payment if a recovery is made on your behalf. Our office is conveniently located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street

QCBPA Examining Historical Commission's Signage Authority Role

A new signage committee has been formed by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association to look into the feasibility of limiting or eliminating the Quincy Historical Commission's jurisdiction over signage in the downtown business district.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun and chairman of the QCBPA signage committee said the committee will examine the possibility of changing the downtown's Historic District boundaries to remove that part of Hancock Street from Granite to School streets, and/or limiting the Historical Commission's authority to historic buildings only.

Bosworth was a member of a city signage committee with representatives from the mayor's office, business community and the Historical Commission that worked a year and a half putting together the proposed new signage ordinance now going to the City Council.

"The proposed ordinance is a strict one, but overall, it's a fair one," he said at a general membership meeting of the QCBPA Tuesday.

He said the business community "scored some points" under the new ordinance. For instance, the existing law allows a downtown business to display only one sign bearing its name—a pet peeve with several Quincy Center merchants—while the new ordinance would allow two or three signs, Bosworth said.

"I personally think the new ordinance should be enforced by the building inspector without the Historical Commission being another layer of authority," he said.

McCauley Candidate For City Councillor At-Large

Former Mayor Francis X. McCauley, a present school committee member, announces his candidacy for city councillor at-large.

McCauley, who is the only person in the city's history to hold all four municipal elective offices, and will be completing 24 years service in December, said:

"My 24 years service in elective office and my five years as a member and as chairman of the Quincy Housing Authority, will be a major asset in dealing with the problems facing Quincy as its citizens prepare for the 21st century."

He said experience in government will be a campaign issue.

McCauley, who served four terms as mayor from 1982 through 1989, returned to elective office in 1996 after winning a two-year school committee term unopposed.

McCauley, who is 67 and a life-long Quincy resident, is the only one ever to have been elected to all four Quincy municipal offices: ward councillor, school committee, councillor at-large and mayor.

When his two-year

school committee term is completed in December, he will have held municipal office for 24 years—third longest in the city's history.

Only two others have served longer: the late Dr. Nanthaniel S. Hunting and Frank Anselmo who served 36 and 29 years respectively on the school committee.

In his official announcement as a candidate for councillor at-large this year, McCauley noted that during his four terms as mayor the city's financial credit rating was restored to A status and an $11 million free cash deficit and short-term borrowings were eliminated.

In 1989, he said, the city's financial success was recognized by the U.S. Conference of Mayors which selected Quincy for the 1989 Financial Leadership Award.

He pointed to, as accomplishments, major municipal building projects which were completed during his administration. They included: an addition and renovations at Quincy Hospital, modernization of the police station, and a new animal shelter. Saville Hall, a modern addition to Quincy College, was also constructed during this period, he said.

McCauley said that during his eight years as a member of the School Committee he was involved in the construction of the Lincoln-Hancock School, the addition to and renovations at North Quincy High School and the addition to the Merry-mount School.

McCauley said that substantial progress toward revitalization of downtown Quincy was also made during his administration as mayor.

"The Presidents Place project was undertaken and Phase I completed," he about giving up his council seat. It would be a launching pad for a future bid for office if the treasurer's job is done away with.

"I am re-thinking my situation," he told The Sun last week. "I want to keep my options open and to let others know I might run for my council seat again."

He knew has this up-date:

"Right now it looks like I will seek re-election to the City Council this year. People who have voted for me in the past have asked me to run again. That and the county government situation makes running again an appropriate option on my part."

Cahill doesn't have to commit himself as an official candidate until summer when he will still have time to take out and file nomination papers.

But McCauley isn't waiting to see what Cahill will finally do.

When McCauley first thought of running for the council this year, it appeared Cahill would not be a candidate for re-election and McCauley would, in theory, by running for a vacant seat and not challenging incumbents Cheney and Harold.

"But I can't wait," McCauley says. "I have decided to run and that's it. I am just not going to fiddle around with it."

Gillis, who served 36 years at City Hall as assistant and city clerk and is now a Norfolk County commissioner, has said he was "very seriously" considering a run for councillor at-large.

But he said that when it appeared Cahill was not going to seek re-election. And if Cahill does, Gillis probably will not get into the field.

"I don't think I would be a candidate if Tim Cahill runs again," Gillis says. "Cahill is a good friend."

McCauley's decision to run for the council opens up a School Committee seat this election year.

McCauley was elected unopposed to a two-year term on the School Committee two years ago.

It could make an interesting election year.

Thanks Participants In Domestic Violence Service

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Sunday evening, Jan. 12, 1997, Rev. Carol Stine of Quincy United Methodist Church ran an ecumenical service of remembrance and healing for victims of domestic violence in Massachusetts.

The 23 victims came from all over Massachusetts. They were men as well as women and ranged in age from 7 weeks to 46 years old. As part of the service, despite the cold, those of us who attended the service walked downtown Wollaston with candles to those victims who had died.

As one of the attendants and president of DOVE Inc., Quincy's organization serving women and children suffering from domestic violence, I wish to thank Rev. Stine, the United Methodist Church and the other organizations that participated.

St. Ann's Parish, Roche Brothers, Eastern Nazarene College, First Spiritualist Church, the Quincy Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, Christ Church Episcopal, Beechwood Counseling Services, Impact Quincy, Star of the Sea Church, Lydon Funeral Home, United Methodist Women, Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy Hospital Chaplain's Office, The Clothesline Project, NOW and Manet Community Health Center.

We hope that next year, because of programs such as Rev. Stine's, we will be walking the streets of Wollaston to celebrate domestic peace rather than holding candles for victims of domestic violence.

DON'T TAKE TETANUS FOR GRANTED

Like scraped knees and spelling tests, tetanus shots are a bittersweet part of childhood. (At least they should be, if parents follow federal immunization guidelines.) When it comes to their own protection, however, most adults don't give tetanus a thought. That could be dangerous, because tetanus is a serious, potentially fatal disease that strikes hundreds of people in the U.S. every year. The bacteria that cause tetanus may be present in such places as soil and pet feces, in addition to those rusty old nails. Once in the bloodstream, the bacteria make muscles contract, eventually "locking" the jaw and leading to convulsions. Most health care professionals recommend a tetanus booster shot for adults at least once every 10 years. Any grown-up who missed tetanus immunization as a child should talk to his or her doctor about the possibility of taking an initial series of three vaccinations.

P.S. It takes only a minor cut or break in the skin to allow tetanus-producing bacteria to enter the bloodstream.

If you are suddenly injured, or are traveling to a part of the world where conditions are less than sanitary, it is very important that you have up-to-date protection from this disease. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I specialize in heart disease. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Hours by appointment. We're at 700 Congress St. in Quincy. Call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli with questions at 472-2550.

In The Beginning . . .

If you think there's a little too much bureaucracy in our lives these days you might get a chuckle out of this.

Jack McDonald, who owns the Common Market Restaurant on Willard St., has been a vocal opponent of the proposed site plan review as being too restrictive.

You might say he's now calling on God for a little indirect help.

McDonald came across an article written by Frank Zarek, who was the building inspector in Attleboro for 20 years before his recent death.

McDonald sent copies of the article to members of the City Council and one here.

"I thought you would like to read this piece and although it is amusing it certainly hits a chord with small business people," he says.

Zarek's article, entitled "In The Beginning" goes like this:

In the beginning, God created the Heaven and the Earth. Quickly he was faced with a class action suit for failure to file an environmental impact statement.

He was granted a temporary permit for the heavenly part of the project, but was stymied with a cease-and-desist order for the earthly part from the Building Inspector.

Appearing at the hearing, God was asked why he began the earthly project in the first place. He replied that He just liked to be creative.

Then God said, "Let there be light," and immediately the Electrical Inspector demanded to know how the light would be made. What about thermal pollution?

God explained that light would come from a huge ball of fire. God was granted provisional permission by the fire and police departments to make light, assuming no smoke would result from the ball of fire, and that he would obtain a building permit and, to conserve energy, would have the light out half of the time.

God agreed and said He would call the light "day" and the darkness "night." Officials replied that they were not interested in semantics.

God said, "Let the earth bring forth herbs and such as may seed." The EPA agreed so long as native seed was used.

Then God said, "Let the waters bring forth creeping creatures having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth."

Officials pointed out that this would require the approval of the Conservation Commission and the Water Commission, coordinated with the Heavenly Wildlife Federation and the Audubon Society after approval from the Board of Appeals for a special permit use.

Everything was OK until God said He wanted to complete the project in six days. Officials said that it would take a Site Plan Review before the Board of Selectmen and at least 100 days to review the application and impact statement by the Planning Board. After that, there would be a public hearing. Then there would be 10 to 12 months before . . .

At this point, God created Hell.

FORMER COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly says he is still very much a potential candidate for city councillor at large this year.

McDONALD

"I am giving it very serious thought," he says. Even though one of the three seats may not be open as expected.

Tim Cahill, who is now Norfolk County treasurer, had planned not to seek re-election to the council but is now reconsidering.

KELLY

CITY CLERK Joseph Shea has a new title: president. He was installed as president of the Massachusetts City Clerks Association the other day in Milford at a joint meeting of that association and the Massachusetts Town Clerks Association.

SHEA

Shea will serve a two-year term as head of the city clerk's association which also includes assistant city clerks, members of the Boards of Registrars and Election Commissions in the state's 41 cities.

MIKE MCFARLAND, Mayor Sheets' executive secretary, was among those from Quincy attending President Bill Clinton's inauguration.

McFARLAND

"It was my first inaugural," McFarland says. "It was something always to remember. I got to see everything; I felt like a kid loose in a candy shop."

McFarland said he felt pride when he spotted two of the horses from the Quincy Police Department's Mounted Patrol Unit stepping along Pennsylvania Ave. in the inaugural parade.

The horses, Patriot and Crackerjack, were ridden by Sgt. Dan Kennedy and Officer Jack Sullivan in the Second Division of the parade.

"They really looked smart," says McFarland.

REP. STEVE TOBIN has a fund-raiser coming up Thursday, Feb. 6, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Tickets are $100 and will be available at the door.

TOBIN

Is the event a prelude to something special in the future? "I'm just keeping my options open," Tobin says.

Proposed Football Stadium Raises Traffic Concerns

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Quincy's past City Council President Michael Cheney has been quoted in various mediums as favoring the Patriots' sports stadium being relocated in Quincy.

Kudos for his vision, but he gets low grades for his logic.

Obviously, a stadium as being discussed in Boston is a tremendous responsibility at many levels. Prime among them is the concern for traffic.

Quincy's Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon has been working on a single request from a three-year veteran for a handicap parking sign since last October. At this pace of action from the Parking and Transportation Department, we can estimate the parking problems posed for an 80,000-seat stadium in the City of Quincy might be resolved by the year 2025 if left to Mr. Gillon to expedite.

Politicians Should Know Politics Is All Local

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

When I was growing up in Roxbury, my boyhood heroes were James Michael Curley and state Rep. Charlie Iannello. Two old-fashioned Roxbury pols from St. Philip's Parish who obviously had a built-in beeper and a sixth sense when it came to responding to neighborhood problems.

Neither ever gave empty excuses about priorities. You had a problem, they fixed it, or knew who to call to fix it.

Not too many pols today seem to show any signs of that sixth sense. Quincy used to have many such pols when folks like Jim McIntyre, Arthur Tobin and Joe LaRaia were at City Hall but today's pols too often try to blow off trouble by promising action that usually appears missing in action.

Pols always like talking in global terms. They're going to do something about the ozone level but too often can't fix a leaky water pipe.

This is not a swipe at all Quincy pols of 1997. We are lucky to have many good people serving us but we still need more pols like Curley in Boston and McIntyre in Quincy who knew that 'politics' is all local. It's about leaky pipes and potholes. It's about making neighborhoods constantly better. It's about being there in the middle of the fray when you are called into action.

More people will register and vote if they see that it is worthwhile. It isn't about building egos as much as building mutual respect between governors and the governed. It's not blue smoke and mirrors. It's about making government work for the people.

Red Cross Holiday Stocking Program A Success

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A special Red Cross thank you to all those in the community who contributed to our 1996 Holiday Stocking Program.

The success of our Christmas Program depends directly on the generosity of the public at large and your enthusiastic response enabled us to vastly increase the number of eligible youngsters on our rolls for 1996.

We know that a great deal of thought, time, and effort went into filling each individual stocking and they were gratefully and joyfully received by the children in our Program.

A Red Cross salute to you!

Injunction Sought In Shipyard Strike

By PAUL HAROLD

Sam Wakeman, general manager of the Bethlehem plant was in Suffolk Superior Court, before a three-judge panel, seeking an injunction against the striking shipyard workers.

Wakeman said if the strike continued any longer, it would jeopardize operating machinery, could lead to the deterioration of Navy vessels under construction and could undermine the yard's bid on more guided missile ship work.

He noted there were 850 machine tools in the yard that needed regular oiling and greasing to be preserved for production purposes.

3,000 INSPECT NEW HOSPITAL WING

An estimated 3,000 inspected the $2.2 million, six-floor addition to Quincy City Hospital, as part of dedication ceremonies this week.

Dr. Walter Sargent, a 50-year member of the hospital staff, gave the principal speech, noting the progress of the hospital since its founding in 1890.

Among those attending was Dr. Daniel Reardon of Greenleaf St. who at age 13 had attended the original hospital dedication on July 17, 1890. He also was a 50-year member of the hospital staff.

QUINCY GRANITE FOR STATUE PROMISED

In a letter to the Quincy branch of the Granite Cutters of America, Rep. Joseph Brett pledged his support for the use of Quincy granite for the proposed John and John Quincy Adams memorial. Officers of the Quincy branch were Alphonse Mansani, president; Lino Quintilliani, corresponding secretary; and Panfilio DiBona, business agent.

Spaghetti Pie and Rice Pilaf

While on our way to a half hour ride to dinner Saturday night, we were all so hungry that we began exchanging a few recipes.

Our friends Paul and Anita came up with a couple of recipes of their own that both sounded pretty easy and delicious. They are as follows.

Paul's Lo-Cal Spaghetti Pie about 2 cups of either left over spaghetti (with tomato sauce) or freshly cooked.

8 ounces lite cottage cheese whites of 2 eggs

1 tablespoon fresh parsley (minced)
salt and pepper to taste

Slightly grease a nine inch pie plate with olive oil or butter. Place the spaghetti on the bottom of the pie plate making a crust as you would a pie crust.

Mix the cottage cheese and the rest of the ingredients until blended. Pour onto spaghetti crust. Bake in a 350 degree oven until done. (about 25 minutes). Cool for five minutes and then cut in pie shaped slices.

Anita's Rice Pilaf

1 cup thin noodles (crumbled)

3 tablespoons butter (or margarine)

2 cups rice

4 cups chicken stock (or canned equivalent)

In a large frying pan, crumble the noodles and saute them in the butter. Add the rice and stir while cooking for a couple of minutes. Then add the chicken stock and leave the cover ajar while it cooks for about 20 minutes until rice is done to your liking. Add more liquid if the rice dries out before it is cooked.

Asian Lunar New Year Celebration Feb. 1

The ninth annual Quincy Asian Lunar New Year Celebration will be held Saturday, Feb. 1 at 5 p.m. at North Quincy High School, 318 Hancock St.

The event, sponsored by the Committee for Immigrants and Refugees, is being coordinated by Eric Lam of Impact Quincy.

The celebration features music and dance from several Asian countries as well as a supper of Asian cuisine. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children.

Reserved tables will be available with the purchase of VIP tickets from Lam at 472-6027. Regular tickets are available from the Asian-American Service Association, 471-9354; the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 376-1381; Impact Quincy, 472-6027 or the Thomas Crane Library, 376-1322.

Tickets must be purchased in advance.

The celebration demonstrates how the festivals of Asia need not be celebrated only by people of Asian descent. People of all nationalities join in the celebration.

Lunar New Year begins a traditional Asian calendar of festivals dating back thousands of years. The Asian Lunar New Year Festival dates back to ancient agricultural societies which were governed by planting and harvest times.

At the dawn of Chinese history, inhabitants along the Yellow River worked by a calendar based on the observation of the celestial phenomena which governed agriculture. The present Lunar calendar was fixed during the Tang Dynasty (618-907 A.D.).

This New Year (Chinese calendar: 4695) is the Year of the Ox, one of the 12 animals represented in the astrological cycle. The animals which make up the cycle include, in order, the rat, ox, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake, horse, sheep, monkey, chicken, dog, and pig.

Irish Showband Saturday At Sacred Heart School

Sacred Heart Parish in North Quincy will host its third annual "Evening with the Noel Henry Irish Showband" Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Sacred Heart School Auditorium, 370 Hancock St.

There will be a special performance by the Forbes School of Irish Dance. Tickets are $10 per person and tables of 10 may be reserved. Proceeds will benefit Sacred Heart Parish.

For information or ticket reservation, call Ed Burke at 773-7042, Paul Hines at 328-9178 or Sacred Heart Rectory at 328-8666.

Spring Drama Program At Fore River Clubhouse

The Ward 2 Community Center and the Point Players will offer a Spring Drama Program at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Registration will be held today (Thursday) and Thursday, Feb. 6 from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m.

Classes will be held Thursdays from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. and will culminate in a full musical production complete with costumes, props, music and a cast party. All children will have speaking roles and will participate in the staging of the production.

Cost is $4 per week. Children ages 5 to 15 are welcome to join.

For more information, call Phyllis Bagen at 376-1376 or Marianne McCormack at 472-7865.

Women's Writing Workshop Begins Feb. 13

"Singing Our Own Songs," a women's writing workshop, will be held in Quincy for six Thursdays beginning Feb. 13.

No previous writing experience is needed. For more information, call Karen Flood at WomanKind, 479-6831.

Our Policy On Engagement Photographs And Wedding Announcements

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries, beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

At Council Public Hearing Meadows At Marina Bay Draws Support, Opposition

The plan by developer Peter O'Connell to build the Meadows at Marina Bay apartment building drew both support and opposition at a City Council public hearing Monday night.

Approximately 40 people attended the hearing at City Hall.

O'Connell's plan calls for a 136-unit apartment building on six acres of a 66-acre tract near the Victory Road rotary at Marina Bay. A Planning Board hearing on the matter is scheduled for Feb. 12, and the City Council will vote on the project following the board's recommendation.

Among those who spoke in favor of the proposal were the Marina Bay Neighborhood Association, Marina Point Condominium Association, South Shore Building and Construction Trades Council President Thomas McKay and several Marina Bay and Squantum residents.

Opponents included a few residents and members of two local nature groups, Friends of the Neponset Estuary and the Neponset River Watershed Association.

Some opponents said the site should be left undeveloped because it is the last woodland area left at Marina Bay and that development will damage the marsh area, driving away species of birds that use it as a habitat.

Former City Solicitor Douglas Randall—a Marina Bay resident—spoke highly of O'Connell's plan but said a different nearby site should be used.

O'Connell has said he wants to keep the marsh as is and plant trees and other vegetation to create a woodland-area growth area on nearby acreage that now contains empty military ammunition bunkers and construction debris, although that will be up to the Conservation Commission.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, whose ward includes Marina Bay, said after the meeting he will hold more community meetings and listen to what city department heads and boards have to say before making a final decision on whether to support the project. The plan drew mostly support from about 30 residents who attended a meeting held by Ayers last week.

NQHS Course Selection Begins Feb. 3

The course selection process for Grades 9, 10 and 11 at North Quincy High School will begin Monday, Feb. 3.

Students will be instructed in the process by the guidance staff and will have input and recommendations from the department heads and their teacher.

Students and parents are encouraged to read the program of studies and course description booklets which students will receive and bring home. Parents are asked to participate with the students in making informed choices on the course selection sheets.

For more information about the process, call the appropriate guidance counselor at 984-8747. Deadline to return the course selection sheet signed by student and parent is Thursday, Feb. 6.

Celebration To Honor Fr. William McCarthy March 12

A celebration in honor of Fr. William McCarthy's 45th anniversary of priesthood and his 20 years of ministry at St. John's Church in Quincy will be held Wednesday, March 12 at Lantana in Randolph.

The event, which will benefit Father Bill's Place and Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, is being planned and promoted by a working committee of local citizens and by an honorary committee of people touched by Fr. McCarthy's ministry.

FR. WILLIAM MCCARTHY

Local working committee members include Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which operates Father Bill's Place; former Mayor and current Quincy District Court Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin, Rose DiPietro of the South Shore Visiting Nurse Association, Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth and Joyce Hogan of NYNEX.

Fr. McCarthy's pastoral ministry for 45 years has been particularly focused upon the needs of the poor, disenfranchised and homeless. His active concern for the poor led to Quincy's only homeless shelter, Fr. Bill's Place, named for him when it opened in 1988 because of his tireless efforts.

Fr. McCarthy was ordained in 1952 and served at St. Rose's Church in Chelsea for 12 years and St.

Gregory's Church in Dorchester for 13 years before being named pastor of St. John's in 1977.

Although he retired in 1995, he remains actively involved in assisting the poor. His recent work includes educating the community about the homeless and raising resources for Fr. Bill's Place, gathering food for Quincy's poor with and through My Brother's Keeper in Brockton and assisting the prevention efforts of Impact Quincy.

Tickets for the celebration are $50 and tables of 10 may be purchased for $500. Seating is limited, and an early response is recommended.

The committee is also planning a commemorative book highlighting the event and the life of Fr. McCarthy.

To purchase tickets or place an advertisement or congratulatory message in the commemorative book, call 376-2255.

Family Night At YMCA Friday

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., will hold a Family Night event Friday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. for families in the greater Quincy and South Shore area.

The cost is $6 per family.

"We are planning an Olympic theme for our Family Night, complete with games and an awards ceremony," said Tabitha

May, youth and family coordinator for the South Shore YMCA. "The event is open to all families who want to get into the Olympic spirit and participate in a fun, healthy time."

The Y's "Olympic Night" family events include basketball hoop shoot, peanut races, football throw, egg toss, hula hoop contest, standing broad jump, and family flag making. Face painting and child care services will be available throughout the evening.

Pre-registration for Family Night is required. All children must be accompanied by an adult.

Registration is being accepted at the South Shore YMCA front desk, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, or by calling Tabitha May at 479-8500, ext. 144.

Parent Advisory Council Meeting Feb. 4

A NEEDED LIFTER

When a clicking or ticking noise coming from the engine gradually goes away as the engine warms up, the problem is likely a noisy hydraulic lifter.

A valve lifter is pushed upward by the camshaft lobe which, in turn, forces the pushrod in the same direction. The pushrod rotates the rocker arm, which forces the valve downward against its spring, thereby opening the valve. In an engine equipped with solid mechanical lifters, a small amount of clearance is required between the valve stem and the rocker arm. In engines equipped with hydraulic lifters, there should be no clearance. Oil inside the lifter acts as a cushion to gently force the pushrod upward and open the valve. If the lifter leaks oil, clearance can develop between the valve stem and the rocker arm, and a ticking noise will develop. When no adjustment is possible, replacement of the lifter(s) may be required. HINT: Typically, a defective hydraulic lifter leaks oil when the engine is turned off. As the engine warms, the lifter fills with motor oil and gradually reduces the stem-to-rocker clearance, and the noise abates.

Regulations And Ways To Get Through The Winter

The Quincy Department of Public Works has asked that residents follow these rules and regulations during the 1996-97 winter:

Follow The Parking Rules

•Overnight parking is allowed only with an overnight parking sticker, available from the Quincy Police Department. The rule is in effect year-round. For more information, call 479-1212.

•Overnight parking stickers are void during snow emergencies.

•During a snow emergency, no parking is allowed on main streets.

•During a snow parking emergency, parking will be allowed on the even side of non-emergency only.

•The above rules are in addition to normal parking rules. Residents are asked to obey parking laws.

Cars in violation of the above rules, or that are in any way interfering with snow removal activities, will be towed. The average tow and storage fee is $75.

Be A Good Neighbor

•Don't shovel driveways until the storm is over and the DPW has had time to clean up. More than likely, the plow will make more passes and refill them.

•Shovel walkways and sidewalks. This helps to protect your neighbors, delivery persons, and children.

•Assist elderly or home-bound neighbors by helping with shoveling, groceries, etc.

•Dig out fire hydrants; this helps to protect the neighborhood.

•Dig out storm drains; this insures that when the snow starts melting it will have a place to go.

•Don't pile snow on sidewalks or corners. This may force pedestrians into the roadway or cause young children not to be seen by motor vehicles.

Know What Is Happening

•Listen to local radio stations, especially WJDA (1300 AM). They provide the quickest outlet for information from the city to the residents.

•Read local newspapers, including The Quincy Star, The Patriot Ledger and The Boston Globe.

•Watch television news, including Quincy Community Television's Channel 3 as well as Channels 4, 5, 7, 25 and 56 and New England Cable News (cable channel 24).

Services

•Winter sand/salt mix is available to Quincy residents from the DPW at 55 Sea St. and at local fire stations. Residents may take two 5-gallon buckets per trip and must supply their own buckets and shovel.

•Senior citizens can register for help shoveling snow by contacting the Chores Program offered by the Council on Aging.

Call For More Information

Call the Quincy Police Department at 479-1212 for information on parking permits, Snow Emergency Information at 770-SNOW (7669) for the status of snow emergencies, the Snow Hotline at 376-1943 for snow removal information and the Council on Aging at 376-1246 for information on senior assistance.

Here's How To Start An Exercise Program

By DEBRA GRUMBACH

You have made the same resolution year after year: to start an exercise program. You are really going to do it this year, because I'm here to help you.

You've probably read a million articles about the benefits of exercise and even tried to work out a few times but you just weren't sure what you were doing was right. Maybe you didn't see results; maybe you didn't give yourself enough time.

Most people don't realize how much dedication an exercise program really takes. Maybe you think you don't have the time it would take to make an exercise program work. I promise you, though, the benefits are worth it. I recommend that you join a gym. This will allow you access to a variety of equipment, classes and professional assistance.

In any event, I said I would help you, and I will. Here's the program. Stick with it and you will see results.

Before each exercise session you should warm up and stretch (about 10 minutes) and then stretch and cool down after each session for another 10 minutes.

•Week 1: Monday, aerobic activity, 10 minutes; Wednesday, aerobic activity, 11 minutes; Friday, aerobic activity, 12 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, one set of each exercise.

•Week 2: Monday, Wednesday, Friday, aerobic activity, 13, 14 and 15 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, two sets of each exercise.

•Week 3: Monday, Wednesday, Friday, aerobic activity 16, 17 and 18 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, three sets of each exercise.

•Week 4: Monday, Wednesday, Friday, aerobic activity 19, 20 and 21 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, three sets of each exercise.

•Week 5: Monday, Wednesday, Friday, aerobic activity 22, 23 and 24 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, three sets of each exercise.

•Week 6: Monday, Wednesday, Friday, aerobic activity 25 minutes; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, three sets of each exercise.

Exercise List
•Bench Press: works the chest

•Lat Machine Pulldowns: works the back

•Bicep Curl: works the biceps

•Tricep Pressdown: works the triceps

•Dumbbell Presses: works the shoulders

•Leg Extensions: works the quadriceps (front of leg)

•Leg Curls: works the hamstrings (back of leg)

•Calf Raises: works the calf muscles

•Crunches: works the abdominals (stomach)

These exercises are very basic and can be done in a variety of ways. You can use barbells, dumbbells, machines or free weights. The best thing you can do is go to a gym and have someone who is a certified personal trainer or has a weight room certification show you how to do the exercises.

Choose one way to do each exercise and do it that way for the first six weeks. When you can perform the required number of repetitions for each set you should increase the weight. Perform each repetition correctly and rest one minute between each set.

For your aerobic activity you can run, jog, walk, take an aerobics class, use the stairmaster, exercise bicycle, or the rowing machine if your gym has one. Whichever one you choose, try to meet the time goals each exercise session. Also remember that jogging for 20 minutes burns more calories than walking, bicycling or using the stairmaster for the same amount of time at the same level of exertion.

Stick with this program for six weeks and you will see improvements. You won't be looking like Arnold Schwarzenegger but you should be noticing that you are able to do more than when you started.

After six weeks, you should continue to increase your aerobic activity by one to two minutes each week. You may also decide its time to try some different exercises to spice things up. Ask a trainer at your gym what exercises you could substitute for the ones you are currently doing ("i.e., what can I substitute for the bicep curl?"). Maybe you'll like what you are already doing. That's great too! The secret is to stick with it!

Why Bring Him To Us?

Kids take a lot of tumbles. And bounces. And falls. The repeated trauma a child's body endures can add up to spinal misalignments. If left uncorrected, these can contribute to major health problems later in life.

Doctors of Chiropractic are licensed health care providers. We can detect and correct spinal misalignments. We can also start your child on a lifetime of conservative health care that doesn't involve drugs or surgery.

Find out how we can help your baby grow up to be a healthy young adult. Call and make an appointment today.

Back And Neck Pain

By DANIEL KARP
Licensed Acupuncturist
Acupuncture is rapidly gaining a reputation as medicine's most effective solution for neck and back pain.

Hundreds of cases are successfully treated each year. Even people who have not responded to medication and bed rest will respond well to acupuncture treatment.

How does acupuncture relieve these kinds of pain? Back and neck pain rise from three basic causes: injury, chronic tension and poor circulation. In the case of injury, electronic stimulation of the "acupuncture points" reduces inflammation and stops blood congestion. This allows the body's natural pain killers, the endorphins, to soothe the nerves and trigger the healing process. Acupuncture is very effective in these cases.

Where there is back pain from chronic tension, acupuncture triggers the body's "relaxation reflex," causing the painful area to relax deeply and thoroughly. This is especially important in cases where the vertebrae of the neck or back are out of alignment. This is almost always due to uneven muscular tension around the vertebrae.

Acupuncture therapy is usually superior to muscle relaxants in these cases because it can treat the exact muscles and nerves that are causing the problem. For this reason, acupuncture has become widely recognized as the treatment of choice for chronic back pain.

Poor circulation is usually the cause of back pain in the upper back and shoulder area. When blood and lymph fluids cannot penetrate the muscle tissue, metabolic waste products accumulate, causing inflammation, tension, and pain. Acupuncture and heat therapy (moxibustion) restore proper circulation quickly, naturally and effectively.

One of my specialties is the treatment of back and neck pain. My years of success in these cases offers hope to thousands of people with chronic pain. Why suffer any longer? Call me at 471-5577 for an initial consultation with no charge!

Seek Help Early For Hearing Loss

(NAPS)—Could you or someone you know be one of the 28 million Americans who have some degree of hearing loss?

Studies show that people with hearing loss wait an average of seven years before seeking help. For many of these people, what starts as a slight problem may gradually become a severe or profound hearing loss.

"Early evaluation and careful monitoring by a qualified health professional are essential to maximize existing hearing, and to customize treatment programs for people with all degrees of hearing loss—from the mildly hearing impaired to the profoundly deaf," explains Max S. Chartrand, Ph.D., national coordinator of the Cochlear Network of Audiologists and the Cochlear Associates Program.

In the past, people with severe-to-profound hearing loss had no choice but to live in a silent world. Now, the Nucleus Spectra 22 Cochlear Implant System may be an option. This sur-gically implanted device bypasses damaged parts of the inner ear, enabling recipients to receive sound information useful in understanding speech. Previously available only for profoundly deaf individuals, the implant is now also used by people who can hear sounds but cannot understand conversation through listening only.

For more information, call the Cochlear Implant Information Hotline at 800/458-4999 (VOICE) or 800/483-3123 (TDD). The Hotline operates weekdays, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Eastern time.

There may be no better way to get your daily requirement of calcium than by consuming dairy products. Unfortunately, dairy products have a bad reputation for being high in fat. Fact is, there are plenty of low-fat and nonfat options in the dairy section, so you can do dairy without doing in your low-fat diet.

Quincy Action Plans First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., an approved MHFA first time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First Time Homebuyer's Workshop Saturday, Feb. 15 and Feb. 22.

Both workshops will be held at the Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. office located at 1509 Hancock St., Quincy, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to qualify for the many different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

Agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including locating a property within budget, making an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. Fee is $35 per household.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd, housing coordinator at 479-8181, ext. 115.

The workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Proper Insulation Makes House Home-ier, Improves Resale Value

(NAPS)—One of the easiest ways to make your house more comfortable and increase its resale value is often the one that's most overlooked.

Know what it is? Here's a hint. It's the most preferred insulation on the market today.

It's fiber glass and contractors say it offers a wealth of energy efficient benefits. It is also thermally efficient, noncombustible and it won't settle or deteriorate with age.

Whether you're remodeling a family area or building an addition, insulation can be the most important ingredient in making that room more comfortable. There's also a payback as it is relatively inexpensive and will improve your home's energy efficiency by lowering monthly utility bills.

Maintaining a proper insulation level in your home will not only make it more comfortable for you, it will make it more attractive to buyers.

Maintaining proper insulation can also make your home more attractive to potential buyers. In fact, most buyers list energy-efficiency as a prime consideration. The reason? Buyers know they can buy a more expensive home if heating and cooling bills can be kept down.

When adding insulation, it's important to look at the attic, sidewalls and the crawlspaces in your floor or garage.

Here are a few suggestions:

- First, use a ruler in your attic to measure the amount of insulation currently installed.

If you have six inches or less, you need more.

- To check sidewalls press your hand on the wall. If it feels cold in the winter and hot in the summer, it may need more insulation.

- Check under the floors and in unheated spaces. If the floor above feels cold to bare feet in the winter, adding insulation will make the room more comfortable.

Finally, whether you are doing the work yourself or through a contractor, it pays to familiarize yourself with all the recommended R-values for your region and insulate accordingly.

Meeting On After-School Language Program Feb. 4

A pilot program is being planned for the spring which will give elementary students in Quincy an opportunity to meet after school for one hour, once a week to learn a second language such as Spanish or French.

A meeting for parents of students in Grades K-5 will be held Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston to provide information about the program.

The IES Language Foundation, a non-profit agency, would conduct the language clubs at any elementary school that enrolls a minimum of six students. Parents would pay a monthly fee of $39.50 plus a $10 annual enrollment fee.

The fee covers the class, as well as audio tapes and books, for the students to continue their learning at home.

Ross, Bromley Pace Raiders

Taunton Visits Friday

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Coming off a 25-point romp over Plymouth South last Friday night, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team battled host Barnstable Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

The Red Raiders return to action Friday night at 7 when they host Taunton, the No. 11 team in The Boston Globe Top 20 poll and the first-place squad in the Old Colony League.

In the first meeting between the two teams, the Red Raiders trailed by seven at the half before host Taunton pulled away for a 70-42 triumph.

"The kids are really looking forward to it," said NQ coach Ted Stevenson. "We didn't do well down there, but we're playing a lot better now and we're at home, which is a big advantage."

NQ's biggest challenge will be containing two of the OCL's leading scorers, Doug Alves and Jeremy Jackson. Alves leads the league with a 22.5 points per game average, while Jackson's 17.3 points per game average ranks him fourth in the OCL.

"If we can hold those two guys down, we can win the game," said Stevenson. "Alves has had two or three good games against us in the past, so we'd really like to neutralize him."

In Friday night's 76-51 win over Plymouth South, NQ led by four at the break, then scored 23 of the first 27 points in the second half to coast over the Panthers. Numerous turnovers and missed shots by South, combined with NQ's inside power game and its ability to beat South's press, spelled doom for the visitors.

Junior center Brian Ross scored 11 of his 18 points and senior forward Matt Bromley poured in 12 of his 17 as NQ dominated inside in the second half. Ross also collected 11 rebounds and Bromley grabbed seven boards.

"We did a good job getting it into our big guys and letting them finish," said Stevenson. "We controlled the backboards and beat their press for easy layups in the second half. Our intensity level in the second half was as high as I've seen it. The kids really wanted this one."

Stevenson was also impressed with the play of senior forward and co-captain Jim Finn, who scored 12 points and dished out 11 assists.

"He did a great job, stepping up big time for us," said Stevenson. "They had beaten us three times in a row, and he was really psyched up to finally beat them. We blew a 20-point lead down there earlier this season, so this was a really big win for us."

NQ sophomore guard Brian Doyle, who hit for 10 points, had this assessment of the Red Raiders' performance: "If we play like that every night, we can contend with any team in the state."

In other recent action, the Red Raiders lost to Weymouth, 56-51, despite 16 points from Ross and 12 from Bromley.

North Girls On A Roll

Winners of its last four games, the North Quincy High School girls basketball team headed into Tuesday night's matchup against visiting Barnstable looking to keep the winning streak intact.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

The Red Raiders return to the court Friday night at 7 when they play at Taunton.

A lot of the Red Raiders' recent success, said coach Ken Panaro, is the result of "everybody contributing, boxing out more and shooting better."

With seven wins going into the tournament, Panaro feels the Red Raiders have "a legitimate shot" at reaching the tournament.

With three victories in their last six games, the Red Raiders will accomplish that goal.

"Everything seems to be working right now, and the girls have a lot of faith in themselves, which is good," said Panaro. "They think they can win just about anything, which is a great attitude to have."

Last Friday, North Quincy improved its record to 7-7 with a 44-32 triumph over host Plymouth South. Senior Jill Picardi scored 14 points, Dawn Kohler added eight points and Kristen Keohane chipped in with seven as NQ pulled away late in the game.

"Once we broke their trap, we scored some easy baskets near the end," said Panaro. "When we're able to run, we're pretty good. It's when we are in a set offense that we're not so good."

"Jill played really well, making a lot of shots, and Kerry Skehan had a very good first half and hit some threes for us when we were struggling. Kerry Ginty also had a good game, beating the trap with her quickness."

In other recent action, the Red Raiders edged visiting Weymouth, 56-53, sparked by Keohane's 14 points. Kohler and Ginty contributed 13 points apiece for the Red Raiders, while teammate Kristen Bowles played a solid defensive game.

Quincy In Good Shape For Tournament Berth

Looking to pick up an important Old Colony League victory, the Quincy High School boys basketball team tangled with host Plymouth South Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time. As of Tuesday, Quincy was two wins shy of reaching the tournament. If the Presidents beat Plymouth South, they could clinch a tournament slot Friday night at 7 when they host Barnstable, the OCL's last-place team.

Next Tuesday night, Feb. 4 at 7, the Presidents play at first-place Taunton, a team they beat earlier this month.

In recent OCL action, the Presidents lost to host Weymouth, 68-58, last Friday night. The Wildcats' John Stanford (27 points, eight assists) led the way, while teammates Steve Anzalone (seven points, 10 rebounds) and Derek Panora (14 points, 11 rebounds) controlled the defensive boards.

"Stanford had a good game, but the big difference was Anzalone and Panora, who didn't allow us many second shots," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "Free throw shooting also hurt us a bit, as we made six of 12 and they made 21 of 35, most of them in the second half."

Trailing by two with just under three minutes to play, Quincy missed a couple of opportunities to tie the game or take the lead and was forced to foul to stop the clock. Weymouth hit its free throws to pull away for the 10-point triumph.

Leading the way for Quincy was freshman Dan Kelly, who scored 14 points. Adding 13 points apiece were Carmen Lorenzano and Geoff King, who played with a tender sprained ankle. The Presidents played without their leading scorer, Bob Walsh, who sat out the first of two games following his ejection from last Tuesday's Silver Lake game.

The Presidents edged the visiting Lakers by a 46-43 margin, a game Franceschini called "as big as any"

they would play this season.

"That game got us right back where we wanted to be," he said. "Walsh had a tremendous game, negating (Jon) Bond, one of the league's top scorers, for most of the game. It was a very physical game from start to finish."

"Bobby got called for a technical in the first half as part of a double technical with one of their players, then got another in the second half and had to leave the game. But we were able to hold them off and pick up a huge win."

King paced a balanced Quincy attack with 10 points and six rebounds. Teammate Brad Smith added eight points and five steals and Walsh, Lorenzano and Jarod Downey chipped in seven points apiece.

Presidents Tangle With Host Barnstable Friday

The Quincy High School girls basketball team looked to pick up its first victory when Plymouth South came to town Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

The Presidents' next game is Friday night at 7 at Barnstable. Next Tuesday night, Feb. 4, at 7, Quincy hosts Taunton.

Last Friday, the Presidents fell to visiting Weymouth, 53-47, despite 16 points from Julie McLaughlin.

Weymouth's balanced attack was too much for Quincy to handle, led by Heather McIntosh with 12 points and Emily Spring, who added 12 points and 11 rebounds. Teammates Katie Daley (10 points and seven assists) and Jill Panaro (nine steals, six assists and six points) also contributed to the Wildcats' victory.

In other recent action, the Presidents lost at Silver Lake, 57-39, with Old Colony League top scorer Marche Strickland pouring in 25 points for the Lakers.

Quincy was paced offensively by Angela Hogrell and Kim Gray, who scored nine points apiece.

Quincy Edges B-R, 4-3, Secures Tourney Berth

After clinching a berth in the Division 1 hockey tournament with a 4-3 comeback victory over visiting Bridgewater-Raynham Saturday night, the Quincy High School hockey team blanked host Abington, 5-0, Monday night.

The Presidents (10-1-3) played at Dennis-Yarmouth last night (Wednesday) at 7. The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

Quincy is back in action Saturday night at 7:50 when Plymouth South comes to town. Next Wednesday night, Feb. 5, at 6:40, the Presidents host Falmouth, the first place squad in the Old Colony League.

In the victory over Abington, Quincy led 1-0 after two periods before erupting for four third-period goals to seal the triumph. Junior wing Bob Hall scored twice and senior wing Scott Cooper tallied once and added two assists.

Senior center Mark Glynn and junior center Chris Haidul also scored for the Presidents. Goalie Chris Burns knocked away 18 shots to record his second shutout of the season.

Against B-R, the Presidents fell behind, 3-0, after two periods before executing a dramatic rally to secure their first tournament berth in at least 15 years, according to coach Bob Sylvia.

Haidul (two goals, one assist), sophomore left wing Joe Vallatini and junior defenseman Derek McTomney tallied third-period goals to knot the game at 3-3. Hall and Brian Nolan had one assist each.

With five minutes to play, Haidul notched his second goal, the eventual game-winner.

"That was certainly a nice way to clinch, in very dramatic fashion," said Sylvia. "This is the first time in a long time we made the tournament, and I'm very proud of the kids. When we were down 3-0, we tried to wake the kids up and get them back to reality.

"We played terrible for two periods, but then the kids came alive and showed how well they can play when they are focused. They can't get fat heads, because they don't deserve to. This isn't a championship-type situation yet.

"You can't go through the motions and expect to win in the tournament. The kids have to stay focused and put three good periods together or we'll be out of the tournament in no time."

Burns stopped 21 shots for the Presidents to pick up the victory.

In other recent action, Quincy downed Weymouth, 3-1, as Hall and Glynn each collected a goal and an assist. McTomney scored the other Quincy goal.

In a losing effort, BP's Jimmy Kennedy recorded a hat trick, with assists from Andrew Pangrazz and Marissa Deegan.

Andrew Jordan's four goals helped The Quincy Sun double up Keohane's, 10-5.

Dan Reggiannini scored twice, Rob Gagliardi, Mark DeCoste and Steve Ohlson all had a goal and an assist, Anthony Calley netted a goal and Tim Sommers chipped in with two assists for The Sun.

For Keohane's, Brian Lynch lit the lamp twice, Joseph Sweeney had a goal and two assists, James Burke collected a goal and an assist, Kevin French scored once and Chris Haldoupis had an assist.

Green Environmental and Keohane's battled to a 6-6 tie.

For Green, Mike Arrufat netted two goals, Jake McQuinn had a goal and three assists, Pat Kelley added a goal and an assist, Jon Griffith and Bob Newcomb each scored a goal, Nicole Murray and James Sheehan each had two assists, and Terry O'Connell and Kevin Barry each chipped in one assist.

Brian Lynch notched a hat trick and one assist, James Burke contributed two goals and two assists, Joseph Sweeney scored a goal, Chris Haldoupis had two assists, and Jarrod Abbott, Joshua Sawtelle, Brianna Nolan, Robert McLaughlin and Daniel Duval all added one assist for Keohane's.

each tallied once for Quincy, which got a solid effort from the entire team.

North Still In Hunt For Post-Season Play

With a 4-5-4 record heading into its game against visiting Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday, 6:40 p.m.), the North Quincy High School hockey team must pick up eight points in its last seven games to clinch a tournament slot.

The result of the game against Silver Lake was not available as of press time. The Lakers, who defeated the Red Raiders by a goal in their first meeting in December, were a point behind NQ in the Old Colony League standings before yesterday's matchup.

The Red Raiders next take the ice Saturday night at 8 when they play at non-league foe New Bedford. Next Wednesday night, Feb. 5, at 8, NQ takes on host Taunton.

In a 3-3 tie with host Barnstable Saturday night, North held a one-goal lead in the third period before the home team scored a late goal to force the tie.

"That was a tough game, playing in a big rink on the road, but I was pleased with the effort our team gave," said NQ coach Tom Benson. "They (Barnstable) got a real good goal to tie us up, after we fired two point-blank shots at their goalie that he kicked away."

In other recent action, North lost to OCL powerhouse Falmouth, 6-1, as the Clippers clinched a tournament berth with the triumph.

Pee Wee House

Mike Morrissey Club Downs Neponset, Clinches Jamboree

Andrew Ross and Brian Cooper each collected two goals and an assist as Mike Morrissey Club topped Neponset Valley Survey, 5-3, in the finals of the Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee Division jamboree.

Bruce Maggio scored a goal and Tim Gleason had an assist for the winners.

Neponset Valley advanced to the finals with a 7-2 romp over Colonial Federal.

John Ryan had two goals and two assists, Scott Markarian scored twice and added an assist, Tim Coughlin and Mike Brewster collected a goal and an assist, Mike Donelin scored a goal and Mike Manganaro chipped in with two assists for NVS.

Scoring for Colonial were Glen Liberatore and Frank Guest, assisted by Brian Cooper, Tom Walsh and Brian French.

In regular season action, Neil Gavin notched two goals and two assists to lead Skinner's Winners over Neponset Valley, 7-3.

Other offensive standouts for Skinner's were: Mike Cox, two goals and one assist; Joe Cunningham, one goal and three assists; Mike Doyle, one goal and one assist; Ryan McFarland, one goal; and Cris Gates, one assist.

Tim Coughlin scored twice, Mike Brewster tallied once, Lee Sheehan had two assists, and Larry Forman, Jim Kuhn and John Ryan all added one assist.

In Mike Morrissey

Club's 11-4 triumph over Colonial Federal, Andrew Ross netted an incredible seven goals and also had two assists for a nine-point game.

Football Hall Of Fame Meeting Tuesday

The Quincy High School-North Quincy High School Football Hall of Fame will hold a meeting next Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 7 p.m. at the George F. Bryan Post in Quincy.

The meeting will be held to discuss current business and changes to the way inductees are selected. All members are encouraged to attend.

North Wrestlers Earn First Win

Inexperienced and lacking numbers, the North Quincy High School wrestling team picked up its first win of the season, defeating Cambridge Ringe & Latin, 39-9, last Wednesday night.

"This was gratifying, especially for the kids to finally see all their hard work pay off," said NQ coach Mike Mauriello. "We're 1-7, but that's deceptive, because we're still giving up a lot of forfeits. There are 14 weight classes, but we only have nine kids, four of whom are rookies.

"It's difficult, because we're a better team than some of the teams we've wrestled, but when they take the forfeits, we can't make up the points."

The Red Raiders hosted Bridgewater-Raynham last night (Wednesday) at 7. Saturday at 10 a.m., NQ hosts Duxbury, Marshfield and Somerset. Next Wednesday, Feb. 5, at 7 p.m., the Red Raiders tangle with crosstown rival Quincy at the Presidents gym.

Against CR&L, North won seven of the nine matches wrestled, including six by pin. The winners were Matt Kane (103), Jeff Chu (119), Rick Loughmiller (125), Chris Barra (135), Sean O'Toole (140), Jose Villanueva (145) and Neil Costa (160).

"Costa's pin clinched it for us," said Mauriello. "If he lost, we couldn't have won, because they (CR&L) would've taken the forfeits and won the meet."

Kane (12-6 overall, eight pins, 5-3 dual meet record), O'Toole (11-6, seven, 6-2) co-captain Villanueva (9-7, eight, 5-3) and co-captain Costa (9-6, eight, 4-2) have emerged as the team's leaders, said Mauriello. Also contributing for NQ this season are freshman James Martell (130) and junior Man Kit So (152).

"Overall, I'm very pleased with the progress everyone's making," said Mauriello. "Everyone's contributing and giving a solid effort every meet."

"We take a match to match philosophy, so every win is very important. We might not get the win on the scoreboard, but we usually come out feeling very good about how we wrestled."

Poll Shows Support For WQ Patriots Stadium

An overwhelming majority of Quincy residents polled by the Quincy Emergency Management Agency have expressed support for a new stadium in West Quincy for the New England Patriots.

Nearly all of the residents who placed votes in a ballot box provided at the Emergency Management headquarters at 55 Sea St. voted in favor. Deputy Director Tony Siciliano said 163 of the 166 ballots counted indicated support, while there was one vote against it and two ballots were left blank.

Siciliano said he was watching the Patriots play in the American Football Conference Championship game with fellow Emergency Management workers Jan. 12 and came up with the idea of setting up a ballot box in the building.

"We had all read an article about a proposed stadium in Quincy, and everybody loved the idea, so we decided to see what other people in the city thought," said Siciliano. "We left the article on the ballot, so people could read it and decide for themselves."

"I think we didn't do too badly, with the box out there for two weeks, from the AFC Championship game through the Super Bowl."

QUINCY EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT Agency Deputy Director Tony Siciliano places his vote in the ballot box at the Emergency Management headquarters. Siciliano, like the overwhelming majority polled, voted in favor of a stadium for the New England Patriots in West Quincy.

Earlier this month, City Councillor Michael Cheney proposed construction of the football stadium on 178 acres of city-owned quarry land off Ricciuti Drive.

Cheney said a stadium in Quincy would boost the local economy, stabilize property taxes and generate long range growth in the tax base.

A stadium also would create hundreds of construction jobs and bring hundreds of permanent jobs to Quincy, most of which would likely be filled by local residents, said Cheney.

Mayor James Sheets has said the land has been set aside for Quarry Hills golf course, but if the City Council supports Cheney's proposal, he would examine whether a stadium could also be constructed.

Sweeney Brothers Kids Bowling Leader For First Half Of The Season

With a 61-43 record, Sweeney Brothers came in first in the team standings for the first half of the Olindy's Junior All Star Kid's Bowling League season.

The rest of the standings at the halfway point:

Everlasting Engraving (60-44); Patriot Glass (60-44); Marylou's News (59-45); Eco Muffler (54-50); Dom's (52-52); Mike's Auto Body (50-54); EMC Construction (47-57); Bernie's (47-57); Country Ski & Sport (30-74).

In the boys division, Todd White had the high average for the first half with a 96, followed by Chris Baker (95), Mike Mezzetti (94), Steve Joyce (92) and Chris Hall (90).

In the girls division,

Melissa Cooke had the high average for the first half with a 92, followed by Andrea Healy (87), Mary Fernald (84), Elizabeth Fernald (82) and Caitlin Worley (70).

The top high three for a team in the first half was 1413 by Country Ski & Sport. CS&S also had the first half's top high single for a team with 520.

Bowlers of the week were Todd White, who bowled his personal high for this year with a single of 118 and a high three of 315; Chris Chernicki, who bowled 37 pins over his 81 average with a high single of 118 and a high three of 289; Andrea Healy, who bowled her high three of 325, and a high single of 118, her personal high this year; and Sherry MacKenzie, who bowled her high single of 96 and high three of 240, 38 pins over her average of 58.

Country Ski & Sport bowled a new league high three of 1413 and new league high single of 520. The team is comprised of Sean Ochs (81-243), Mike Mezzetti (105-285), Chris Chernicki (118-289), Shaun Giudici (100-288) and Steve Joyce (112-296).

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought
For The Week

What is the secret for successful achievement? There have been many 'secrets' of success presented and defended.

Success comes in cans; failure in can'ts... Success is a series of failures - put to flight... There aren't any rules for Success that work unless you do. The only way to get anywhere is to start from where you are. Real success is more of an inward feeling than an outward show... Some people have ability and some have ambition - those who succeed have both...

It has been said that people fail most frequently because they seek a goal by someone else's path. They stumble most trying to walk the other person's way. It has also been said that you can't find a path to the top; you have to make one...

Success is not a matter of position or possessions. It is a frame of mind. It is the satisfying feeling of a life spent in a worthwhile way, and a feeling of service rendered.

Talking With Your Kids About Drugs

Don't put off talking to your children about alcohol and other drugs. As early as fourth grade, kids worry about pressure to try drugs. School programs lone aren't enough. Parents must become involved, but most parents aren't sure how to tell their children about drugs.

Open communication is one of the most effective tools you can use in helping your child avoid drug use. Talking freely and really listening shows children that they mean a great deal to you.

What Do You Say?

- Tell them that you love them and you want them to be healthy and happy.

- Say you do not find alcohol and illegal drug use acceptable. Many parents never state this simple principle.

- Explain how this use hurts people. Physical harm - for example, AIDS, slowed growth, impaired coordination, accidents. Emotion harm - sense of not belonging, isolation paranoia. Educational - difficulties remembering and paying attention.

- Discuss the legal issues. A conviction for a drug offense can lead to time in prison or cost someone a job, driver's license, or college loan.

- Talk about positive, drug free alternatives, and how you can explore them together. Some ideas include sports, reading, movies, bike rides, hikes, camping, cooking, games, and concerts. Involve your kid's friends, too.

How Do You Say It?

- Calmly and openly - don't exaggerate. The facts speak for themselves.

- Face to face - exchange information and try to understand each other's point of view. Be an active listener and let your child talk about fears and concerns. Don't interrupt and don't preach.

- Through "Teachable Moments" - in contrast to a formal lecture, use a variety of situations - television news, TV dramas, books, newspapers.

- Establish an ongoing conversation rather than giving a one-time speech.

- Remember that you set the example. Avoid contradictions between your words and your actions. And don't use illegal drugs, period!

- Be creative! You and your child might act out various situations in which one person tries to pressure another to take a drug. Figure out two or three ways to handle each situation and talk about which works best.

- Exchange ideas with other parents.

INVITATION TO BID

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for North Quincy Business District Improvements - Street Lighting/Service Connections contract until 10:00 AM local time on Thursday, February 20, 1997 at the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this contract consists of underground utilities work for electrical, fire alarm and traffic control systems. The work is located along Hancock Street between Billings and Hayward Streets and along Billings Road between Felton Street and the MBTA tracks. The work includes installation of conduits/ducts; wires/cables; manholes, handholes; street lighting poles, fire alarm posts; pole foundations, equipment pads and temporary and/or permanent trench repairs.

All work shall be performed in accordance with the Massachusetts Highway Department's Standard Specifications for Highways and Bridges (1988 edition) and Construction Standards (1977 edition), all as last revised, unless specified or directed otherwise.

All work under this contract shall be completed within 120 calendar days.

A non-refundable deposit of $75.00 in cash or check is required for each set of Contract Documents. Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include an additional non-refundable mail fee of $15.00 per set to cover shipping and handling costs. All checks shall be made payable to the City of Quincy.

The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours of 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM at the Offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, Engineering Division, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after January 28, 1997.

A pre-bid conference will be held in the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works on Tuesday, February 11, 1997 at 11:00 AM. All prospective bidders are urged to attend.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total value of the bid in the form described in the Instructions to Bidders. The Successful Bidder shall be required to furnish a one hundred percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a one hundred percent (100%) Payment and Materials Bond from a surety company acceptable to the City. The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

No bidder may withdraw the bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of the opening of the bids.

All Federal, State and City of Quincy regulations in relation to Minimum Wage Rates, Minority Business Enterprise, Women Business Enterprise, Minority Work Force, Equal Employment Opportunity and Employment of Quincy Residents must be complied with.

The project goals in these areas shall be as given below:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on the project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of ten percent (10%) MBE participation and five percent WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs will be required and maintained on this project. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Ordinance No. 532 requiring Contractors working on City-supported construction projects to hire a certain percentage of Quincy Residents is mandatory.

4. The Contractor shall pay the higher of the two minimum wage rates, as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries and the U.S. Department of Labor Wage Schedules, issued in the most current "Wage Decisions" as applicable to the project area.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive, and thus ineligible for further consideration. No waiver for any portion of these provisions will be granted. The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids when such an action is deemed in the best interests of the City. The City does not condone submission of unbalanced bids. Such bids may be summarily rejected.

claim was dismissed by hospital management officials who said the MNA has "portrayed information incorrectly and does not reflect the true staffing situation at Quincy Hospital."

A delegation of nurses were expected to go public with their concerns for patient safety as the Sun went to press Tuesday. The nurses were on the agenda for Tuesday's Board of Managers meeting held at the hospital. At the meeting, nurses were to present their request for an immediate increase in the nursing staff of 20 full-time positions.

In a meeting held Jan. 24, hospital management refused to honor the nurses' request, the MNA said.

In a statement to The Quincy Sun Tuesday, hospital management said Quincy Hospital has not cut nursing staffing levels, nor was there any discussion during current negotiations of making changes in the staff.

The hospital has engaged in contract negotiations with the MNA since November 1995. The staffing levels, according to hospital management, had not been an issue under discussion. They maintain the MNA had chosen to focus on unlicensed personnel in their statewide and national agenda, and only introduced it into discussions with Quincy Hospital earlier this month.

In response to some of the other charges leveled by the MNA, hospital management said:

•The RN/nursing technician model has been in place at Quincy Hospital since 1989, and management has not changed the ratio in that time. The overall staffing ratio of nurse to nursing technicians is 70/30, not 50-50 as claimed by the MNA.

•Quincy Hospital regularly monitors patient satisfaction and has found that patients rate their overall nursing care very highly, this includes both RNs and nursing technicians.

•December was a highly unusual month for hospitals throughout the region due to the early onset of a serious flu epidemic. Management said overtime was mandated, but only after all avenues to staff units were explored.

Working in conjunction with the MNA back in November 1996, the hospital developed a mandatory overtime policy that would be sensitive to staff needs when mandatory overtime was necessary. RN's receive an additional day off when they work mandatory overtime and they can take that day for their next scheduled shift. The hospital's use of mandatory overtime is generally very limited and used only to ensure the care and safety of the patients in the hospital.

"Our first concern is the safety of our patients," said hospital CEO Ralph DiPesa. "We believe that our model of care has provided our patients with outstanding professional and personal care. As we face a changing health care environment, it is imperative that we continue to work together to ensure excellent patient care."

However, nurses said current management practices being implemented by Quorum Health Resources have interfered with the nurses' ability to provide quality care. Quorum Health Resources is the company hired to manage the facility for the city.

"The nurses at Quincy Hospital can no longer remain silent about the chronic lack of appropriate nursing care at this hospital," said Kathy Sachetta, a nurse on the post-anesthesia care unit. "Nurses, in our traditional role as the patient's advocate at the bedside, are appealing for the community's support in calling for increases in nurse staffing levels."

According to the MNA, Quorum, to compensate for a lack of appropriate staffing, is mandating nurses to work overtime on a regular basis. For example, between Dec. 4, 1996 and Jan. 7, there were 56 documented incidents of nurses being mandated to work overtime. The nurses also pointed to what they called "the hospital's excessive use of unlicensed personnel in place of nurses as another factor in the deterioration in the quality of patient care at the facility."

Permit Approved For 300 Gallons Gasoline

The Quincy License Board, after much discussion at Tuesday's meeting granted a request from Granite City Self Storage Company, 95 Old Colony Ave., a permit to store 300 gallons of gasoline in tanks of 6 vehicles being parked there with the following stipulation.

Proposed by Building Inspector Matt Mulvey, they are:

- No more than 6 rental moving vehicles-not to exceed a length of 20 feet.
- Amend license to 50 vehicles, 20 gallons of gasoline per vehicle or 1,000 gallons gross.

•Keep all vehicles on site.

•Allow up to 20 Work Inc. vehicles on site.

•Rental pick-up and drop-off hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

•Any use of Warren Avenue to be consistent with uses allowed for city streets.

•Site and sign lighting to be in compliance with city zoning ordinance.

•Granted to be reviewed at last scheduled meeting in June, 1997.

Mulvey's amendments followed complaints from concerned neighbors, Ward 5 Councilor Steven Durkin and Ward 3 Councilor Pat McDermott about the bright lights focusing in their homes and the safe storage of gasoline from the vehicles.

Donald F. McNally, owner of the building which was formerly Grass Instruments agreed to comply with the rules set by the board and to the review in June.

Dr. George Gales President Of Quincy Hospital Staff

Dr. George Gales of Quincy, an internal medicine physician practicing in the city, was recently elected president of the Quincy Hospital medical staff for 1997.

Other officers are:

Dr. Charles DiCecca of Medford, an orthopedic surgeon with Orthopedic Surgery of Quincy, vice president; Dr. Paul Konowitz of Canton, an otolaryngologist with ENT Head and Neck

Surgery in Quincy, secretary; and Dr. Jonathan Reynolds of Quincy, a radiologist with Quincy Radiology Associates, treasurer.

Free Legal Clinic At Quincy Court

A free Legal Clinic will be held Tuesday, Feb. 4 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Quincy District Court.

Attorneys will be available for a private, one-on-one confidential consultation to discuss any legal issues.

No appointment is necessary. Clinics work on a first come, first serve basis.

The event is being sponsored by the Bar Association of Norfolk County. For more information, call Adrienne Clarke at 471-9693.

Cashing In On A Bet

FOOTBALL FEAST—City Council President Peter Kolson (seated) was treated to lunch recently by Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers after the former won the pair's annual bet on the Thanksgiving Day football game between Quincy High School and North Quincy High School. Because Quincy defeated rival North for the third consecutive year, Ayers had to buy a meal for Kolson at Burke's Seafood in North Quincy and wear Kolson's old Quincy High football jersey. Joining Ayers in serving Kolson his meal of lobster, French fries and more is Margaret Burke.

Council To Investigate Allegations Cheney, Mulvey Clash Over Firing Charge

City Councillor Michael Cheney has accused Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey of improper behavior and says he should be fired. But Mulvey said he is considering taking legal action against Cheney for making false allegations.

At Monday night's council meeting, Cheney accused Mulvey—who was not in attendance—of wrongful behavior. Examples he cited included insulting treatment of a resident who filed an appeal of a Zoning Board ruling and the eviction of a pregnant woman from her home.

MICHAEL CHENEY

City Transfers Braintree Dam To MDC

The city recently transferred the Braintree Dam to the Metropolitan District Commission through eminent domain, according to Mayor James Sheets.

The mayor said the $1 transaction was necessary because of an agreement reached by the city and the Army Corps of Engineers in the 1980s, before he was first elected mayor.

Sheets said the MDC owned all of the area surrounding the dam except not the dam itself—which was owned by the city—and the Army Corps would only complete more than $40 million in flood control work in the vicinity if the MDC was allowed to assume control of it.

Sheets noted that the work extends from the Southern Tide Mill near the Southern Artery, along the Town Brook, through South Quincy and into Braintree.

The mayor added that an act of the state Legislature would be required for the MDC to sell or lease the site.

"It's not a situation where the MDC can do what it pleases with it," he said.

Sheets also said the transaction will not affect plans to reopen the Fore River shipyard. Although water from the dam was needed by Bethlehem Steel and General Dynamics before the shipyard closed in

On 6-3 Vote

Council Passes Site Plan Review

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi's proposal for a site plan review process for certain kinds of development in Quincy was approved by the council Monday night.

The council voted 6-3 to pass the measure. Raymondi was backed by Council President Peter Kolson, Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and Councillor-at-Large Paul Harold.

Voting in opposition were at-large Councillors Michael Cheney and Timothy Cahill and Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott.

In its final form—a couple of amendments were made Monday night—the site plan review process calls for proposals for new buildings or additions to existing ones larger than 15,000 square feet, as well as apartments with 13 or more units, to be reviewed by city department heads and approved by the Quincy Planning Board.

Single-family homes would not be affected by the plan. Because of an amendment added Monday night, neither would projects zoned Planning Board Development or those requiring a Zoning Board of Appeals permit or variance.

Raymondi said he introduced the measure to give neighborhoods greater protection against development that could detrimentally affect them.

"I do think it's in the best interests of the City of Quincy," he said. "Quite simply, site plan review empowers neighborhoods."

Cahill, Cheney and McDermott argued that there are already enough boards that review new development in the city.

"We do not need another layer of government in the zoning process," said Cahill.

Cheney also told his fellow councillors that by supporting site plan review, the council would be forfeiting its authority over projects that would normally be under its scrutiny and handing it to the Planning Board.

"You're giving your power away to a non-elected board," he said.

Cheney and McDermott said the way to protect neighborhoods against certain development is for ward councillors to go through their districts street-by-street and rezone areas where necessary.

Supporters of the proposal such as Kolson, however, said it would provide neighborhoods with an added layer of protection against unwanted forms of development.

"If this protects just one person in five years, or 10 years, then it's worth having in place," said Kolson. "I think this is in the best interest of all the citizens."

Raymondi introduced his proposal after Shaw's Supermarkets announced plans for a new "superstore" on Quincy Avenue without informing neighbors, a plan that has since been withdrawn. That plan, without site plan review in place, only required the approval of the Quincy Building Department.

'Time For A Change'

Shipbuilding Museum Director Resigns

William MacMullen has resigned as executive director of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he received MacMullen's resignation before leaving for his vacation to the Amazon River last week.

"I wrote back to him and expressed my appreciation for all the work he's put into the USS Salem," said Sheets, who serves as chairman of the museum's board of directors. "He did a lot of hard work. He did a good job."

MacMullen worked in

cooperation with the U.S. Navy to bring the USS Salem, the Quincy-built heavy cruiser that serves as the museum's centerpiece, back to the city in the fall of 1994. He offered no specific reasons for the resignation, the mayor said.

"He said he just felt it was time for a change," said Sheets. "I think he's looking for another project."

Sheets noted, however, that MacMullen's decision to leave had nothing to do with the decision last fall by the board of directors to divide his responsibilities among several different people, leaving MacMullen mainly in charge of promotions.

"He had been doing everything by himself before that, and he supported those changes," said Sheets.

Presidents' Day Winter Festival To Feature 30-Foot Snow Mountain

Imported snow for the creation of a 30 foot snow mountain, six ice sculptures, entertainment, a hay ride and other activities are planned for the Presidents' Day Winter Festival to be held Feb. 17 at the Church of the Presidents and at Quincy City Hall.

Those were the plans unveiled by Councillor at Large Michael Cheney chair-man of the First Night Committee at last week's License Board meeting.

Cheney said the First Night Committee has sponsored carnivals and field days in the past several years, but they "decided to do something different" this year. He said he felt it appropriate to have the event on President's Day.

The snow mountain (with snow from the Blue Hills Reservation) will provide snow board demonstrations. Other entertainment will be provided in and outside of the First Parish Church.

Refreshments will be available brought in by caterers. Signs will be posted around the city with highlights of the day.

Cheney said in the event of real snow in the city, they would not import the snow.

He said a traffic plan closing part of Hancock Street plus parking at Ross Parkingway will provide persons to shop in the city as well as enjoy the alcohol free event, which will be held from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

The board granted a one day permit to the First Night Committee.

At Marina Bay Night Spot Neighbors Complain Of Loud Noise; Owner Trying Sound Barriers

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Ed Kane, owner of the Waterworks, Oyster Bar and The Tavern at Marina Bay and his attorney, Robert Fleming tried to update the results of their first summer to the Quincy License Board but came under attack from angry neighbors complaining of loud noise from the music even before they could finish.

Stressing the fact that Kane was not altering the premises from the original plans, Fleming told the board that the old Tent had a capacity of 2,000 customers, and Kane was told to lower that to 1250. Now, he said Kane would like to increase the number to 1,650.

Also that Kane would like the playing of music be allowed until 1 a.m. instead of 11 p.m. And Kane still wants to add the swimming pool.

This brought angry responses from abutters attending the meeting at City Hall who said the noise was already "horrendous" and that they would like to decrease the hours and capacity rather than increase it.

Chairman Joseph Shea tried several times to quiet some of the abutters during the meeting who interrupted Kane while he was trying to explain the new sound barriers planned calling him "a liar".

Kane, who said he invested $2.5 million on improvements and designs and aesthetics at the bay, noted that the most important problem last summer that of parking was no longer a problem.

He said two new parking lots with a total of 900 paved and lighted spaces were added; a shuttle transport to all marina locations allowed access to satellite lots; a medium age of 29 and climbing as reputation spread were the most important successes.

Fleming told the board that Kane's operation nets

$200,000 in state and local taxes, and that tourists from all over the world visit Marina Bay.

Angry residents, one by one came in front of the board with complaints ranging from not being able to park their cars near their boat during a private function, from loud noise coming from Waterworks.

Fleming told the residents that sound absorbing material and sound barriers and the establishment of a sound committee are all in place to help the sound abatement.

Fleming said that some persons are "never going to be pleased" and that some persons "opposed Kane's proposal from Day 1".

He added he felt that "Kane has fulfilled his promise to the City of Quincy when he envisioned shops, and a mature controlled audience of a high caliber basis."

Atty. Peter Elcey who lives at Marina Bay and has his offices there called the noise as "outrageous" and interrupting his business.

BY INVITATION

A person who is invited to enter (and remain) on another's property to conduct business is known as a business invitee. If it is determined that an injured party were a business invitee, then he or she must show that the property owner created or knew of the condition that caused the injury, or could have discovered the condition by exercising reasonable care. In addition, the injured party must prove that the property owner should have realized that the injury-causing condition was an unreasonable risk to business visitors and that visitors would not have been able to discover the danger or have been able to protect themselves from it. Finally, it must also be established that the property owner failed to use reasonable care to protect the injured business visitor against the danger that caused the injury.

HINT: If it can be established that a business invitee knew, or should have known, of the danger, and either assumed the risk or acted to substantially contribute to the property owner's negligence, then recovery against the property owner could be prevented.

If you've been injured while conducting business on another's property, you need to speak with an attorney experienced with personal injury law. We can help you determine if the business invitee knew or should have known of the danger present. For the advice you need, call 773-2880 to schedule a free consultation. Our office is conveniently located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street.

Two-Site System Favored Council Wants E911 At Police, Fire Stations

The City Council Public Safety Committee voted Monday night to leave Quincy's planned Enhanced 911 system divided between the Quincy Police Station and the Quincy Fire Department's headquarters on Quincy Avenue.

The committee wants the E911 setup to remain basically the same as that of the existing 911 system, with five units at the police station and two at fire headquarters.

The original E911 plan called for both police and fire calls to be handled at the police station. The president of the police patrolmen's union and a civilian call taker spoke in favor of that plan, while the president of the firefighters union spoke in favor.

City Data Processing Director Robert Brennan said that under the plan to keep the entire system at the police station, 97 percent of all calls could be handled within 10 seconds. City officials have said the single-site arrangement is the nationwide trend for E911.

Councillors, however, said they felt more comfortable with the idea of firefighters handling fire calls and police officers handling police calls. They then voted to strike $300,000 from a proposed $825,000 bond that would make the single site setup possible.

Mayor James Sheets, who has backed the plan that would place the entire system under one roof, said Tuesday he does not mind if the council backs the two-site system, as long as councillors provide him with any additional funding to keep the system in line with state requirements. The state has mandated that all Massachusetts communities have the E911 system by the end of the year.

The council was to discuss the E911 bond last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at City Hall.

Cheney, Mulvey Clash Over Firing Charge

(Cont'd from Page 1)

"The building inspector should be ashamed of himself," said Cheney. "The mayor should fire him. He does not represent the interests of the city."

At press time Tuesday, Mulvey said Cheney is accusing him of things he didn't do.

"I didn't throw anybody out on the street," said Mulvey. "I didn't throw anybody out of my office. I don't even know what's he's talking about. He just doesn't like me for some odd reason;

I don't know why."

Mulvey said he plans to present the tapes of the council meeting to his attorney to see if any legal action can be taken.

The City Council formed a special committee Monday night to investigate Cheney's allegations. The committee includes Cheney, Councillor Paul Harold, Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin as well as City Solicitor Stephen Durkin and Michael McFarland, executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets said Tuesday he plans to see what the committee finds out before deciding what, if any, action to take.

Concourse Bridge To Be Discussed

The Quincy Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) will meet Thursday, Feb. 13 at 3:15 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room of City Hall Annex to address key components of the proposed bridge over the MBTA tracks.

The new $2.6 million bridge is part of the Quincy Center Concourse linking Granite St. with downtown Hancock St.

The bridge is slated to be constructed this spring over the MBTA Red Line and Old Colony commuter train tracks.

At issue are pedestrian safety features, crosswalks, and traffic control. Following a four hour meeting last month with designers, city officials and Earth Tech planning engineers, the CAC members decided to spend the February meeting as a working session immediately after the customary public forum segment.

CAC members are concerned about the number of bridge crosswalks and wish to arrive at a consensus before making final recommendations to Mayor James Sheets and the concourse task force.

All CAC meetings are open to the public.

IRS NONFILER PROGRAM

A nonfiler is an individual or business that should have filed a tax return, but for some reason did not. Last week a taxpayer came into my office who had not filed a return in seven years. Fortunately this person ended up filing for refunds for the last three years and had no balance due from the closed years.

For others who own money the IRS has opened the doors for these taxpayers to come back into the system. Working with your tax professional taxpayer ers owning delinquent taxes can file installment payment plans or offers in compromise if they cannot afford to pay currently.

While you may have had situations in your life that prevented you from filing in the past, the Nonfiler Program may be your best opportunity to take care of your tax problems.

If you would like more information about the IRS Nonfiler Program please call 1-800-330-2038 and we will send you a free brochure.

Returning To The Council

If Frank McCauley is elected to the City Council this year it will be a political sixth—not a first—for a former Quincy mayor.

Five former mayors before him have travelled the route from the mayor's office to the City Council chamber.

The five: Russell Sears, Joseph Whiton, Charles Bryant, Thomas Burgin and the most recent, Joseph LaRaia.

Whiton, Bryant, Burgin and LaRaia served in the council before being elected mayor and then returned to the council after leaving the mayor's office.

Sears by-passed the council on his way to the mayor's office. He became mayor in 1898 at age 27—youngest in the city's history. He later served in the council from 1917-1920.

Back in the early days, from 1889 when Quincy became a city to 1916, Quincy operated under what was called the "Homemade Charter." Elections were partisan, Democrats against Republicans.

The mayor and councillors were elected to one-year terms then. The council—get this—had 23 members. Three from each of the six wards and five at-large. (Wonder how long those council meetings lasted?)

Whiton, the first mayor under the Plan A charter, served from 1917-1920. He went back to the city council from 1932-1933.

That version of the Plan A charter called for non-partisan elections with two-year terms for the mayor and nine councillors. The councillors were all elected at-large. The charter was modified later to make it six ward councillors and three at-large, as it is today.

Bryant was mayor from 1902-1904. He returned to the council from 1903-1913.

Burgin was Plan A mayor from 1935-1942 and Plan E mayor from 1950-1952. As Plan E mayor, he was actually a city councillor elected by his council colleagues to the title mayor. He presided over council meetings, similar to a city council president, and was a ceremonial head with a city manager the chief executive.

After a stormy fling with the Plan E form of government in the early 1950's, Quincy returned to the Plan A form of government in 1958.

Burgin returned to the council from 1956 to 1959. LaRaia, who was mayor from 1976 to 1977 and then lost to Arthur Tobin, staged the first of his several political comebacks winning a city council seat he held from 1980 to 1987. He then lost a bid for mayor and came back to the council in 1993. In 1995 he was appointed a city assessor.

"Five other mayors have served in the city council after leaving the mayor's office," McCauley notes.

McCAULEY

"So, if I go back, it wouldn't be that big a deal."

Crossing over from the executive branch to the legislative branch has another Quincy ring to it.

Quincy born sixth President John Quincy Adams was defeated for re-election by Andrew Jackson in 1828. But, he was back in Washington as a congressman in 1830, serving with distinction for 17 years until his death. He suffered a stroke at his desk in the House and died in the Speaker's Room Feb. 23, 1848.

SPEAKING OF McCAULEY, he isn't letting any grass grow under his feet in the campaign department. He already has a fundraiser planned for Tuesday, March 4, 5:30 to 8 p.m., at the Common Market, Willard St. Tickets are $50 and can be had by calling his wife and campaign treasurer, Sandra, at 479-6230.

"I decided to go for it and I'm going for it," McCauley says.

IS THERE A Ward 5 city council race in the making? Speculation has Joseph Murphy and Joseph Canavan thinking of running for the seat now held by Steve Durkin.

Murphy is an aide to state Rep. Ron Mariano. Canavan is employed by the Quincy Housing Authority. Both are active in the Ward 5 Democratic Committee.

BELLOTTI

STORK REPORT: Rep.

Michael Bellotti and his pretty wife, Gayle, are expecting a second little constituent in June. They have a daughter, Colleen, 21 months. Mike, a little brother for Colleen and a son for you to carry on the Bellotti political dynasty?

JIM DeCRISTOFARO, who was seriously injured in an accident in California last October, is making steady progress at the Braintree Rehabilitation Hospital and is expected to be released later this month.

He suffered severe head and back injuries when he fell from a DeCRISTOFARO ladder he and his wife, Laura, were visiting his brother, George, and sister-in-law, Anna, in Red Bluffs, Calif.

Jim, who is active in the Ward 2 Civic Association and at St. Joseph's Church, is the brother of former Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro. His wife, Laura, was a popular former meter maid in downtown Quincy. And if a meter maid can be popular, you know she had to be fair when it came to ticketing.

Anyway, friends can visit Jim at the hospital, located at 250 Pond St., Braintree. He's in room 204-B. And he would love to see you. (Or drop him a card.)

'Reading With Your Child' At Snug Harbor

The Title I Program of the Quincy Public Schools starts in preschool through and the Snug Harbor PTO Grade 5 at Snug Harbor, will co-sponsor a parents Lincoln-Hancock, Point-program entitled "Reading With Your Child" Tuesday, Feb. 11 from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the Snug Harbor School.

Elizabeth Fuller of the Wright Group publishing company will show parents how to read to their children and how to listen to their children read to them.

All Title I parents of students in preschool through Grade 5 at Snug Harbor, Webster, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's schools are invited to attend.

Child care will be provided and each parent will receive a free book for their youngest school-age child.

To register for the program, parents can return the flyer distributed in their children's school or call

Title I Director Alicia Colletti at 984-8737.

Bellotti Office Hours Feb. 14

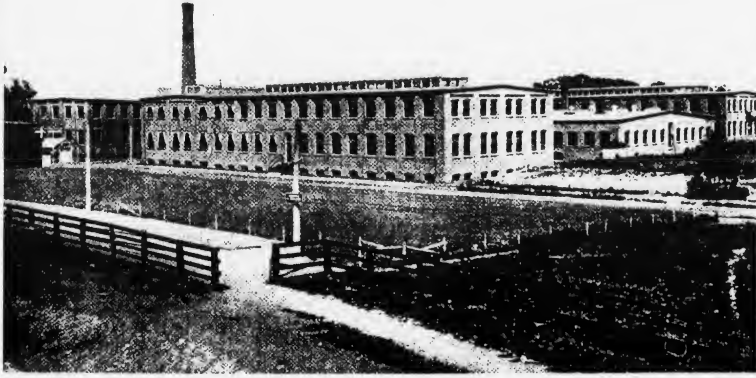

State Rep. Michael Bellotti will hold office hours Friday, Feb. 14 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Squantum Community Center, 136 Standish Rd.

Bellotti, who represents Ward 6, invites all residents to come and discuss with him their concerns as they relate to his function as the State Representative from the 1st Norfolk District.

Those who are unable to attend and would like to meet with Bellotti, should call 722-2210 or 479-0111 to set up an appointment.

Quarries 'Perfect Location' For New Patriots Stadium

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

City Councillor Michael Cheney may have discovered gold in the quarries.

You see, Bob Kraft and the NFL need a home for the New England Patriots as well as a site for future Super Bowls, and Councillor Cheney has proposed what seems like the perfect location.

Cheney has proposed building a stadium on that 300-plus acre site adjacent to the Southeast Expressway. This sizable piece of property will soon sport a 27-hole golf course and could easily accommodate a stadium, parking and all amenities related to such a facility as well. The site is also easily accessible to routes 3, 24, 95, and 128.

Furthermore, this site would be an absolute attraction for five star hotels and other major investment entities. A stadium would be an enormous factor used by the city and the city's tourism bureau to attract megabucks to our tax base.

City officials need to prepare an introductory packet to attract the attention of the media, the NFL, state officials, the investors and Bob Kraft. These decision-makers need to visit the Quincy site before the make any other commitments.

Weld's fiscal conservatism, the NFL's entrepreneurial fortitude, Kraft's dedication to the fans in the New England community and the city of Quincy's enthusiasm provide a golden combination of ingredients to build a first class stadium in this first class city.

Perhaps the stadium would be the new Golden Dome, home of the Patriots, in the City of Presidents.

A Tribute To Paul Tsongas

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Although I did not always agree with Paul Tsongas, when I heard that he gave his own money for scholarships for needy American students, I began to give him my vote whenever he ran for an elective office. For that compassionate act, Paul Tsongas had won my heart for good.

Paul Tsongas was more than just "a good and decent man and wonderful father." As a senator, he was a worthy successor of his predecessor, Sen. Edward Brooke. His concern for human condition went beyond the borders of Massachusetts and the United States. Paul Tsongas always rose to the occasion in his trials and in his triumphs.

U.S. Sen. Paul Tsongas, the Greek Orthodox American Greek, shares the golden pages of Massachusetts and American history with another son of Greek immigrants, Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, the most compassionate governor in this state's history.

Paul Tsongas was the product of American civilization, in whose making, three ancient civilizations took part. The contribution of the Hellenic or Greek civilization is no less valuable than the Roman and the Hebraic. Democracy is the Greek gift to the world and the Greek Orthodox represents the Mother Church of all Christianity, having singularly kept uninterrupted continuity and the uncorrupted teaching from Christ and His apostles.

As I praise the Greeks, in praising Paul Tsongas, I did not forget that the Carpenter from Nazareth, a Jew, is worshipped in all five continents as the Son of God, and that Christopher Columbus, an Italian, discovered the New World.

At the passing of Paul Tsongas it seems appropriate to thank our common Father in Heaven, for such a distinguished civil servant, whose view of the world, inspired by his Orthodox Church, could be capsulized with a Biblical phrase: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." That motto was his guide in his interpersonal and his international relations. For him it was true what was true for the Last Duchess: He loved whatever he looked at and his looks went everywhere.

Soft as velvet and adamant as diamond, Paul Tsongas scratched with his mighty paws into time and showed that he had existed. While on earth, Paul Tsongas belonged to the world and after his passing, he belongs to cosmos. My condolences go first to his wife and to his three daughters, his three graces. Then, also to every man on earth, because Paul Tsongas was the lover of mankind. May his memory be eternal.

Council OK's Funds For Jamaica Trip

By PAUL HAROLD

The City Council approved the expenditure of $4,000 for the purpose of inspecting first hand the composing plant of the National Organic Research Corp. in Jamaica. That company was the low bidder to handle the city's rubbish and garbage contract.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and all city councillors were scheduled to travel to the Caribbean, except David McIntosh who declined the trip. Health Commissioner Dr. Richard Ash also turned down the trip, saying there was no reason for him to go, since he already played his part in approving a site for the facility.

Despite some telegrams critical of the use of public funds, the mayor said it was not a junket. He noted that he didn't even like to fly.

He said the quick two-day visit could result, in the long run, in the saving of millions of dollars of taxpayers' money.

PEABODY SIGNS LAND BILL FOR VO-TECH

Gov. Endicott Peabody signed the home-rule petition filed by Mayor Della Chiesa that would allow for the construction of the new vocational technical school on Faxon Field. State legislation was needed because the land was originally given to the city by Henry M. Faxon to be used for park purposes only. Even though the Faxon heirs approved this new public use, a change in the law was still needed.

The new $3.6 million facility was planned to provide programs for 1,000 students.

RED SOX SALUTE AT ROTARY CLUB

The Quincy Rotary Club held a "Salute to the Red Sox" at the Neighborhood Club, with team players and executives in attendance.

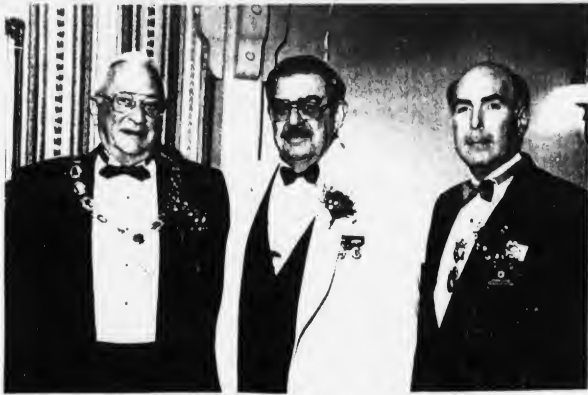

Dick Radatz, top relief pitcher, said if the hitters kept up with the pitchers, the team would be in the pennant race.

Manager Johnny Pesky was asked why there were no trades during the off season. "It's simple," he replied. "They wanted all our top players, Bill Monbouquette, Radatz, Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski."

Braintree Dam Transferred

In the 1980s, the city is seeking a different water source through the state that would be used for any future ship-building purposes.

The dam was built by the Quincy Water Company in 1886-87. The city purchased the dam when it bought out the company in 1892.

The dam is located in North Braintree in the vicinity of Parkside Avenue, Lakeside Drive and Walnut Street.

Quincy Homestead Accepting Applications, Reservations

The Quincy Homestead is now accepting volunteer applications for various positions on the museum and grounds staffs and also accepting reservations for functions and receptions in preparation for the 1997 season.

Volunteers serve in many positions including tour guides, museum housekeepers and in conservation, as groundskeepers and gardeners. Schedules are flexible. The museum is open Wednesday through Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Experience is preferred but no required. All volunteers are required to complete a four-hour training session.

The Museum and grounds located on the corner of Butler and Hancock St. are available for small function and receptions beginning in April and ending in September. There is a special use fee and specific application procedures.

The Quincy Homestead, built on land granted in 1635 served as the home to four generations of the Edmund Quincy family, including Dorothy Quincy wife of gov. and Patriot, John Hancock. Other notable descendants of the Quincys include Abigail Adams, President John Quincy Adams, Judge Samuel Sewell and Oliver Wendell Holmes. It is believed that during the American Civil War, the homestead was a stop for fugitive slaves on the "underground railroad."

The house exemplifies family residence that was added to improve and enlarged over a period of more than 200 years.

Similarly, the furnishings represent the changes in style which occurred in succeeding generations, creating a fascinating historic record of everyday living in house dating back three centuries. The grounds include an 18th century-style colonial garden, fruit trees and a herb garden.

Children Should Have Early Start On Braces

By DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

No one wants to have crooked teeth or a funny-looking smile. So you're lucky if you're getting braces now.

You're just at the right age for braces. When you're young, your teeth, jaws and chewing muscles are still growing, so it's easier for your orthodontist to correct them.

Braces straighten out crooked teeth and help your jaws and chewing muscles grow into a good bite. Your smile and profile look better and your teeth stay healthier.

By wearing braces while you're young, you may not have to wear them as long later, as a teenager. Orthodontics (also called dental orthopedics) gives you a head start on your healthy smile.

Your Orthodontic Evaluation

Before planning treatment, your orthodontist examines your teeth, jaws, jaw joints, face, and profile, and studies how you bite and swallow. Your dental and medical histories are taken. If you're looking for cosmetic changes in your smile or face, you'll be asked about your specific goals for orthodontics.

X-rays and precise measurements traced over them show how your bite can be corrected.

Impressions are taken by biting into material that later hardens. These are made into models.

Models of your bite, used to help plan your appliances, show how your teeth and jaws fit together.

Photos give you and your orthodontist a record of your profile, face, and teeth before treatment.

Your orthodontist also asks questions about your teeth. If you have any questions about your braces, this is a good time to ask.

Why Do I Need Braces?

After looking at your teeth and jaws, your orthodontist may say you have a malocclusion. That means your teeth and jaws don't meet correctly. There are three kinds of malocclusion: Class I, Class II and Class III. You may have other orthodontic problems, too.

Types Of

Malocclusions

•Class I: Your jaws line up correctly, but your teeth are crooked, crowded, turned or spaced too far apart.

•Class II: Your upper jaw is too far in front, or your lower jaw is too far back. It's also called an "overbite."

•Class III: Your lower jaw is too far in front, or your upper jaw is too far back. It's also called an "underbite."

Other Problems

•Open Bite: When you bite down with your back teeth, your front teeth stay open.

•Closed Bite: When you bite down, your upper teeth cover your lower teeth.

•Cross Bite: When you bite down, some upper teeth close inside of your lower teeth.

Your Own Special Treatment Plan

Since every child's teeth and jaws are different, your orthodontist will talk with you and your parents about your own special treatment plan. Some appliances are fixed: they stay on throughout your treatment. Others are removable: it's up to you to put them on (and leave them on!) when you should. How long you wear your appliances depends on the kind of problem you have, how well you follow your orthodontist's instructions, and whether you need other treatment as well.

•Braces: You may wear bonded brackets on your front teeth and full bands on your back teeth. On your lower teeth, you may wear a lingual arch, made of two full bands and a single wire behind your teeth. Fitting your bands is like fitting shoes except, when the right size is found, it's cemented on. For a week or two before your braces go on, you may wear spacers, tiny pieces of plastic or wire between your teeth to make room for your bands.

(Tips: Rinsing your mouth with warm, salted water helps you feel better while you get used to braces. Your orthodontist may prescribe aspirin or an aspirin substitute to relieve any minor soreness after your braces are adjusted, usually every two to six weeks.)

•Elastics may be attached to your braces to help move your teeth. Forgetting to wear your elastics is like pedaling a bike with no chain: all that work and you're not moving at all!

(Tips: Be sure to wear your elastics as many hours as your orthodontist tells you to, attached as you've been shown at the office. When you go on vacation, be sure to take along an extra supply.)

•Headgear: You may wear headgear along with your braces to help move your teeth and jaws into correct position. Most styles of headgear have a metal face bow that slides into headgear tubes on your back teeth. Each style is used for a different bite problem.

(Tips: Be sure to wear your headgear as many hours as your orthodontist tells you. When you take off your headgear, always undo the straps first, and then slide your face bow out carefully. When you're wearing your headgear, don't play rough sports: the face bow can come loose and poke your mouth or eyes. To keep your headgear clean, brush the face bow with toothpaste and wipe the straps with a damp cloth each day.)

•A retainer holds your teeth in their new positions while bone grows in to hold them steady. You may wear a positioner first, to move your teeth slightly and put the finishing touch on your new smile.

(Tips: Be sure to wear your retainer as many hours as your orthodontist tells you. Brush your retainer with toothpaste once a day. When you're eating, keep your retainer safely in its case.)

Teamwork For A Beautiful Smile

Your orthodontist, office staff, dentist, and parents call all help you have a winning smile. You, too, are part of the team. You can help by taking good care of your appliances and by following your orthodontist's instructions carefully while you're wearing your braces.

[Dr. Fred Attarzadeh is a Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry graduate who achieved his orthodontic specialty program from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 1981. He has over 25 years of experience in teaching, research and practice. Currently, he is in private practice at 1050 Hancock St., Quincy.]

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnnig D.C.

WHAT IS A SLIPPED DISC?

The term "slipped disc" has been used commonly, by doctors and patients alike, to generally describe an injury to one of the 23 "jelly-like" shock absorbers found between each of the bones or vertebrae of the spine. These intervertebral discs are ligaments which actually consist of a "jelly-like" middle surrounded by rings of cartilage. While these discs do not actually "slip" from between the spinal bones, they can be worn, compressed, bulged, or ruptured causing pressure on the adjacent spinal nerves. It is this bulged or ruptured disc that pressures or "pinches" the nerve which actually causes the severe back and/or leg pain that may result. Often times, muscle spasms will accompany a disc injury as the body attempts to stabilize or splint the damaged lower back or neck.

While the intervertebral discs may lose some of their height and resiliency and dry out slightly over the years, the final straw of a disc injury may be a sudden twist or slip, an improper lift, or a seemingly minor accident.

Chiropractors are well qualified in the prevention and/or treatment of disc injuries and often employ the modern technology of MRI or CatScan to ensure accurate diagnosis. Chiropractors use a drugless, non-surgical approach which may include manipulation, forms of therapy, proper exercise and bed rest.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 110 Billings Road, N. Quincy, 773-4400.

TWO TALES OF INCONTINENCE

Although it's a subject that rarely comes up in casual conversation, incontinence (involuntary urine loss) is a common problem — and not just among the elderly — varying degrees of incontinence can develop at virtually any age. For example, many women develop it during pregnancy and birthing. There are actually two types of incontinence: stress and urge. Stress incontinence is at work when a sneeze, cough or other sudden movement causes a leak of urine. With urge incontinence, a person is often struck by an urgent need to urinate, even though the bladder may not be full. The good news is that in either case, there are several treatment options. Depending on the cause, certain easy-to-perform exercises may bring relief. Drug therapy has proven effective in other situations. For severe problems, the answer may involve surgery, which often can be performed on an outpatient or overnight basis.

P.S. Avoiding certain foods, including those with caffeine or citric acid, can help ease some cases of incontinence. Check with your doctor.

This condition can be embarrassing, but you need not feel embarrassed if you have a physician whom you feel you can talk with easily and in confidence. When you visit us, you'll find that you are treated with the utmost respect. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, located at 700 Congress St., in Quincy, we specialize in treating heart problems, hypertension and cholesterol. Call 472-2550; office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Why Bring Him To Us?

Kids take a lot of tumbles. And bounces. And falls. The repeated trauma a child's body endures can add up to spinal misalignments. If left uncorrected, these can contribute to major health problems later in life.

Doctors of Chiropractic are licensed health care providers. We can detect and correct spinal misalignments. We can also start your child on a lifetime of conservative health care that doesn't involve drugs or surgery.

Find out how we can help your baby grow up to be a healthy young adult. Call and make an appointment today.

Walking Toward Greater Fitness

(NAPS)—The more you know about walking for your health, experts agree, the better you'll be able to do it. Here are a few hints from Walking Magazine that may help you get off on the right foot:

- Choose a walking environment in which you feel comfortable. This may be at home, on a treadmill. Or you may want to walk around the neighborhood, near the office, in a mall or on a track.
- Decide what degree of sociability you desire. Do you want to go solo, work out in the company of a crowd or have the support of just a partner or two?
- What will you wear? Some people are more comfortable in clingy workout clothes, others prefer the baggy kind.
- Protect your feet by wearing shoes designed for walking and replacing them every 500 miles or so.
- If your exercise routine begins to bore, vary your walking routes, walk with a friend, or listen to a personal stereo.

- If you're using a treadmill, remember not to grip the side safety rails unless you slip or need support while you adjust the controls. If you have to hold on to keep from slipping back, decrease the speed.
- For maximum benefit, walk at a brisk, comfortable pace—fast enough to get your heart rate up, but comfortable enough that you can still carry on a conversation.

- When walking in cold weather, layer your clothing so you can shed or unzip pieces as you warm up. Inner layers should transport perspiration, middle layers provide insulation and outer layers shield you from the elements. Start with thin tops and leggings. For the middle layer a full zip fleece jacket or a half zip fleece anorak can be a good choice. Finally, wear a warm, water-resistant jacket and protect your extremities with fleece or wool mittens and socks, a neck warmer or scarf. Top it off with a hat to hold in the heat.
- Follow this advice and you will find yourself walking on the sunny side of good health. For more on walking, read Walking Magazine available on local newsstands. Or call (800) 924-0084 for a complimentary copy.

Nutrition Program For Seniors At Wollaston Manor

For older people, many who live alone, eating right is often perceived as too much work or not worth the effort.

Michael Oliver, co-founder of "Cooking One-derfully," is presenting a six-week workshop series to residents of Wollaston Manor, 91 Clay St., Quincy.

Oliver introduces the program to senior citizens by focusing on a variety of choices for healthy eating.

"We show people how they can make healthy meals for one or two people, quickly and easily. By hands on instruction, we demonstrate that cooking for one can be painless, even fun. At the end of the six weeks we prove that cooking is not a bother but a pleasure," said Oliver.

Through research and information gathered from the American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society and the National Osteoporosis Foundation, Oliver creates menus that reflect current findings. As a result, people are assured of receiving the most up to date information.

"The 'students' at Wollaston Manor," said Oliver, "will learn cooking and shopping for one idea, how to make their menus heart healthy, why fiber is important in their diets, which nutrients become more important as they get older and have a lot of fun doing so."

Stress Series At Beechwood

Brigitte Novalis-Grygociewicz, a certified clinical therapist, is presenting a series on stress and relaxation at Beechwood Community Life Center, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy.

The next lecture, entitled "Learn To Let Go And Relax," will be held Monday, Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. Other upcoming lectures will include "The Connection Between Less Stress and Sounder Sleep" and "Connecting With Your Inner Self."

Space is limited. To register or for more information, call 471-5712.

Acupuncture Can Help Ease Cigarette Withdrawal

By DANIEL KARP
Licensed Acupuncturist

Acupuncture is a highly effective treatment for cigarette withdrawal. With patients who express a strong determination to stop smoking, the success rate over several years of clinical experience is an amazing 90 percent.

If you have made up your mind to stop smoking and would like some help, acupuncture can definitely help you!

Why is acupuncture so effective in helping people stop smoking? Because it is highly effective in treating the three major problems people encounter as they go through withdrawal: nicotine cravings, tension and irritability, and "breaking the habit." Our patients routinely report a significant drop in their craving for nicotine—even after one or two treatments. Acupuncture is well-known as a muscle and nerve relaxant, and the calming and soothing effects of acupuncture are tremendously helpful during the tense period of withdrawal.

Finally, acupuncture treatment of the nervous system can help a person break the cigarette habit by interrupting the reflex habit arc (hand-mouth reflex) stored in the brain, nerves and muscles.

If you are ready to kick the habit, I can help you! Call 471-5577 for a free consultation. Today is a great day to stop smoking!

Heart Tag Day At Hospital Feb. 14

The Quincy Hospital Auxiliary Heart Tag Day will be held Friday, Feb. 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Education Center of the McCauley Building at the hospital, 114 Whitwell St.

Heart Tag pins will be distributed for a donation and free blood pressure screenings will be available. Homemade fudge and baked goods will be sold. The public is invited.

Raffle tickets are available in the gift shop for prizes to be awarded at 2 p.m. Proceeds will purchase scales for the hospital to weigh bed-ridden cardiac patients.

DID YOU KNOW...

There are two types of "second-hand" smoke which are dangerous to the non-smoker.

MAINSTREAM SMOKE AND SIDESTREAM SMOKE.

MAINSTREAM SMOKE - the smoke the smoker inhales through the cigarette and then exhales.

SIDESTREAM SMOKE - even more dangerous, is the smoke which goes directly in the air from the burning tobacco.

Studies show that there are several cancer-causing substances, as well as more tar and nicotine, in sidestream smoke as compared to mainstream smoke.

In addition, carbon monoxide can be two to fifteen times higher in sidestream smoke.

Smoke-free homes, restaurants, worksites are good for your health!

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

A Full-Service Bridal Salon

Brides Always Special At A Wedding Dress Shop

By LIAM FITZGERALD

In preparation for one of the most important days of her life, the bride is the center of attention at A Wedding Dress Shop, a full-service bridal salon located at 44 Billings Rd. in North Quincy.

"We keep the focus on the bride, to make her feel special," said the shop's owner, Phyllis Gerbick. "We want her to feel pampered and well taken care of, so we try to create a warm environment she'll feel comfortable in. That way she won't feel rushed and will get the attention to detail she deserves and is paying for."

Feeling there was a need for a one-stop bridal shop, Gerbick looked around the city before finally opening her shop's doors in November.

"It's been in the works since last winter, but I wanted to find a location where I could create an environment without compromising space or arrangement," she said. "This was the first place I looked of seven I looked at, so I kept this one in mind and eventually decided it was the place I wanted to be."

A Quincy resident the past 25 years, Gerbick wanted to open her business in the city for a variety of reasons.

"I wanted to stay in the city because it's revitalized and it has a great geographical location, meaning it's easy to get to from north or south of Boston," she said.

"I also think a small business has a good chance of surviving in Quincy these days, with all the loyal neighbors around here."

First and foremost among the services the shop provides are wedding gowns from the collection of The House of Bianchi, Sweetheart and L'Amour for the bride, along with bridesmaid gowns by Bianchi and Dessy.

"We feature and work with a few quality designers rather than a little bit of everything," said Gerbick, who said the shop also has mother of the bride dresses available.

"The most important people are the bride and mother of the bride," she said. "We want the mother to feel comfortable getting attention she deserves as well."

Gerbick invites brides who visit her shop to try on any number of dresses in the shop's private dressing rooms, along with their choice of veils.

"We have a veil room which is just for veils, where the girls can feel free to try on numerous veils, enjoying the moment and hopefully look back on it as a pleasant memory later on," she said.

Brides are encouraged to schedule appointments so Gerbick and her staff can focus their attention on each bride individually.

"Once an appointment is set, I can dedicate that time to that bride, time alone to talk about what they would like to do and walk them through what they need," said Gerbick. "We try to be as flexible as we can, to fit into their busy schedules."

"During the appointment, there's no pressure, no feeling of obligation to stay or purchase something.

They can just come in and experience what I've created, get a feel for what I'm trying to do. We go the extra mile to make them feel good about themselves."

A rather unique aspect of the shop is the variety of services Gerbick and her staff provide for each individual bride: in-house alterations, hairdressing, calligraphy, a makeup artist and a masseuse, all under one roof.

"We have a talented full-service alteration person who can do all kinds of bridal work," said Gerbick. "She can create dresses from scratch, custom make an order, and do all kinds of alterations on any clothing. We alter to fit the bride's specifications."

"We offer quality service and attention they don't get elsewhere. Our service, from beginning to end, right down to the toasting glasses, is the difference. We want the bride to have piece of mind that what she wants is being taken care of, to the smallest detail."

The shop's calligrapher is available to do the wedding's seating arrangement and the invitations, among other items.

"Our calligrapher does lovely work on invitations, after the bride selecting how she wants it done and in what colors," said Gerbick. "They can be framed, specialized and personalized."

Available even on the day of the wedding are the shop's makeup artist, hairdresser and masseuse.

"The makeup artist can come in on the wedding day and work with the bride in the privacy of one of our rooms," said Gerbick. "We also feature a masseuse, who can help the bride get relaxed and comfortable to enjoy the day. The hairdresser can come in and if the girl has a dilemma about a headpiece or her hairstyle, they can work out different styles she can choose from."

A number of accessories to go with bride's dress, including gloves, are also available at the shop.

Before the brides visit her shop, Gerbick would rather they have something to compare her business to by shopping at a few other stores beforehand.

"I encourage them to look elsewhere and shop at least two other stores," she said. "I want to know they've been out there and have an idea of what they want when they come here."

A former nurse who also worked in retail, Gerbick raised two children on her own and never had time to do what she always wanted—until now.

"The hours were too demanding, with two kids to raise by myself, so I went into nursing so I could be there for them when they needed me," she said. "Now, with both my kids in college, I have the luxury and the opportunity to do this and my creative juices are in overdrive," she said. "I love this—to decorate, putting styles together, making things. It's the creative area I enjoy and get a lot of fun and pleasure out of."

"I feel proud when something is purchased here, and I stand behind it 100 percent. When the girls leave here happy, I feel I contributed to their day, making them feel a little more special."

A Wedding Dress Shop is open Wednesday and Thursday from noon to 5 p.m., Friday from noon to 8 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. All other times are available by appointment only and can be scheduled by calling the shop at 479-6016.

Bernazzani Students Raise $300 For Heart Assn.

Students at the Charles A. Bernazzani School recently held a Jump Rope for Heart Day under the direction of physical education teacher Ted Walsh.

More than $300 was raised during the event.

Students had the opportunity to learn and demonstrate the effectiveness of cardiovascular fitness to help keep their hearts healthy. Their participation also keeps other hearts healthy since 90 percent of the proceeds from the event will benefit the research, education and community programs of the American Heart Association.

To ensure the continuation of fitness related programs, 10 percent of the net proceeds will be divided equally between the national and state Alliances for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance.

The following students participated:

Sean Tobin, Adam Graeber, Amanda

Silverman, Alison Ahearn, Noelle Sheehan, Deidre Killcullen, Andrea Jacobson, Colleen Munkley, John O'Donnell, Emily Pahud, Nicholas Falbo, Christine Cahalan, Stephen Smith, Shannon Clark, Matt Haskins, Nicole Cahill, Joey Tesner, Michelle Murray, B.J. Donovan and Meredith Morris.

What You Should Know About Faucets

(NAPS)—The answers to these commonly asked questions about faucets may keep you out of hot water. The information is from the experts at Moen, the leading faucet manufacturer in the U.S.

Q. Why do faucets leak?

A Leaks occur when seals inside the faucet are dirty or worn. While you may choose to replace worn parts, replacing your old faucet with a new one can upgrade the look of your kitchen, bathroom or tub/

Modern faucets offer drip free washerless design, temperature memory and limits, water and energy saving features and easy installation on your existing sink.

shower decor and avoid further repair problems.

Q. Are there washer-less designs for both single-handle and two-handle faucets?

A. Yes. All single-handle and two-handle faucets from Moen are washerless. (Washers and seals are the most common cause of leaks.)

Q. Will a new faucet fit my kitchen sink or bathroom vanity?

A. Standard-size sink openings and faucet dimensions are used throughout the plumbing industry. To help determine which style faucet you need, look under the sink to determine the number of holes and their spacing since they may be covered by an existing faucet.

Q. Why do some faucets cost more than others?

A. Some faucets are simply made better than others with higher quality material like solid brass or chrome-plated solid brass to provide superior looks, performance, and durability. While you may pay more for a quality faucet, you're likely to receive more value for your money as a result of longer, more reliable, trouble-free service.

Free information on faucets, sinks and other plumbing products is available from Moen by calling 1-800-553-MOEN.

Watertight Skylight Adds Resale Value To Your Home

(NAPS)—Imagine being able to enjoy spectacular views of starry skies, snowy nights or fall foliage all from inside your own home. Sound impossible? It's not. All you need is a skylight.

Affordable, easy to install and maintain, skylights can brighten up any room while increasing the value of your home. In addition, many manufacturers have taken the suspense out of skylight performance by designing them to be leakproof, energy-efficient and durable enough to withstand extreme weather conditions.

And if you have an old-fashioned single-pane glass skylight or plastic bubble skylight installed you can end frustrating energy loss and possible leaks by simply replacing your outdated skylights with these new watertight models.

"The money you'll save in heating, cooling and home maintenance costs, coupled with the increase in home value, will more than make up for the cost of replacing these older units," says Gary Hyman, marketing manager for VELUX-AMERICA INC., a leading manufacturer of roof windows and skylights.

The cost to replace old skylights is often a pleasant surprise to homeowners. According to Tom McKeown, president of Skypros, Inc., a firm specializing exclusively in skylight installations, the average cost of replacing a two-foot by four-foot bubble with a fixed skylight (one that cannot be opened) is under $500 and slightly more for steep or flat roofs.

A ventilating skylight, commonly used in high-humidity areas such as kitchens and bathrooms, costs about $650 for the same application.

Manufacturers such as VELUX are designing skylights with insulated, argon-filled glass panes that feature energy-efficient coatings. These coatings prevent heat gain in summer months by blocking most of the sun's infrared energy from entering the home, and heat loss in winter by reflecting warm air back in the home, reducing ing heating and cooling bills. And, according to Hyman, glass skylights provide a clearer view and more light than plastic skylights.

Because skylight flashing (or waterproofing) systems have improved tremendously, skylights can now be easily installed with any type of roofing material including metal, asphalt or fiberglass shingles, slate, cedar shingles and shake, Spanish and concrete tiles. Flashing is usually made of aluminum and prevents the entry of moisture into the home from around skylights and other openings in the roof.

For the most watertight and durable skylight installation with thin roofing materials such as asphalt or fiberglass shingles, L-shaped flashing pieces of roll-formed aluminum are interwoven with the roofing to create a completely watertight seal without caulk or mastics.

For metal and high-profile roofs made of concrete or Spanish tile, the installer forms the pliable flashing to the contour of the roofing material for a watertight seal. VELUX recently introduced a line of systems that meet all of these needs while providing an aesthetically-pleasing, low-profile exterior.

Presidents Secure Berth

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Coming off a victory over Barnstable that assured it a berth in the MIAA state tournament, the Quincy High School boys basketball team played at Taunton Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time. In their first meeting, the Presidents (10-5) handed the Tigers their only Old Colony League loss a month ago.

Quincy hosts Hanover Friday at 5 p.m. in a non-league battle. Next Tuesday night, Feb. 11, the Presidents take on visiting Bridgewater-Raynham in an OCL showdown. Tip-off is set for 7.

With a tournament berth in their possession, the Presidents shift their focus to earning a home game in the tournament, said coach John Franceschini.

"We'll use the rest of our games to get ready for the tournament, with a goal being to possibly host a game in the tournament," he said. "We do face tournament teams the rest of the way, which is a great way to get prepared for post-season play."

The Presidents secured their first tournament appearance in five seasons with a convincing 64-50 triumph over visiting Barn-stable Friday night.

"The last time we officially qualified for the tournament was during the 1991-92 season, when the 60 percent rule was in effect," said Franceschini. "We participated in the tournament in '93 and '94 when the Indiana rule was used, but it's nice to qualify under the current 50 percent rule, with 10 victories."

Senior guard Carmen Lorenzano paced the Presidents with 18 points (14 in the second half), 12 rebounds and seven assists.

"Carmen played superb throughout," said Franceschini. "We gave him the ball, he controlled it and made some tremendous inside plays. He made all good decisions, using his great vision, which may be his best attribute on the court."

With under seven minutes left to play and Quincy ahead 49-35, Lorenzano spun in the lane, tossing in an acrobatic, over-the-shoulder shot while getting fouled in the process. He sank the free throw and Quincy cruised the rest of the way.

Geoff King scored 12 points, Brad Smith added 11, Bob Walsh snared 12 boards and guards Dan Kelly and Jim Munchbach turned in solid efforts in the Quincy backcourt.

"This was another total team effort, as it has been all season long," said Franceschini. "We were a little lethargic in the first half and as a result didn't shoot too well, but we pulled it together in the second half. The defense also stepped up and we controlled the boards, especially in the second half."

nice things out there, and I couldn't be happier for them. It's a tribute to them for all the hard work they've put in to make the tournament."

In a 71-65 triumph over host Plymouth South last Tuesday, Lorenzano led the way for Quincy with 23 points. Smith chipped in with 17 points and King added 15 points and 14 rebounds.

Raiders On The Verge Of Reaching Tourney

Tuesday night against non-league opponent Boston English, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team had the opportunity to wrap up a MIAA state tournament berth with a home victory.

The tournament appearance would be North's sixth in seven years, with last season the only exception.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time. The Red Raiders (9-6) return to action Friday night at 7 at Old Colony League power Bridgewater-Raynham. Next Tuesday night, Feb. 11, NQ hosts Falmouth with tip-off at 7.

"It's not an easy road, with games at B-R, Quincy and Milton," said North Quincy coach Ted Stevenson. "We have our work cut out for us, but if we play like we're capable of, then we'll be in position to win those games."

"We're coming on strong and playing very well right now. The kids have gotten better as the season has gone on, realizing what they have to do and working very hard to get it done."

The Red Raiders narrowly missed a chance to seal a tournament berth in last Friday night's 72-71 home loss to OCL giant Taunton.

Down by seven with 33 seconds left, NQ guard Chris Erler nailed a three-pointer, as did teammate Jim Finn (12 points) to cut Taunton's lead to 72-71. After Taunton turned it over on its next possession, the Red Raiders opted to go to junior center Brian Ross, who had scored a career-high 33 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

With one second left, Ross caught the inbound pass, but misfired on a 10-foot fallaway jumper as time expired.

"It was a prayer, more or less," said Stevenson. "He caught with his back to the basket and a lot of us on the sideline were surprised he even got a shot off."

"He played a tremendous game. We isolated him on their big kids and he thought he could take them one-on-one, and that's exactly what he did. The others stayed within their roles and got him the ball in the right places."

"It was a tough loss, but we had our chances and couldn't capitalize on them. We played with great intensity, but Taunton's a hell of a team."

Ross' 21 points and four blocks paced visiting NQ to a 66-57 triumph over Barnstable last Tuesday night. Erler chipped in 16 points for North.

Quincy Girls Earn First Win

After notching its first victory of the season last week, the Quincy High School girls basketball team battled visiting Taunton Tuesday night.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time. The Presidents (1-15) returned to the court last night (Wednesday) at 7 at Hull. Next Tuesday night, Feb. 11, Quincy tangles with host Bridgewater-Raynham with tip-off at 7.

Last Friday night, the Presidents fell victim to a quicker Barnstable squad by a 78-44 score.

"They're a very good team, they were playing at home and got off to a real fast start," said Quincy coach Bob Noble, whose team trailed 45-21 at the half. "They're a much faster team and their fast breaks allowed them to build a huge lead."

Noble noted the efforts of senior forward Julie McLaughlin (17 points, 11 rebounds) and junior point guard Kerry Duffy (12 points) as two major positives in an otherwise forgettable game for Quincy.

"Kerry played another fine game, which she has done a lot this season," he said. "Julie, who has also been consistently strong, probably played her best game of the season."

The Presidents finally got to enjoy the fruits of their labor with a well-deserved 42-31 triumph over Plymouth South last Tuesday night. Duffy paced host Quincy with 12 points, with Kerry Sullivan pitching in 11 points and Angela Hogrell contributing nine points, 10 rebounds, four

NQ Must Win Three To Reach Tourney

The heat is on for the North Quincy High School girls basketball team, which must win three of its last four games to earn a MIAA state tournament berth.

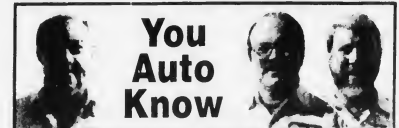

The Red Raiders' quest begins when they host Old Colony League foe Bridgewater-Raynham Friday night at 7. The Trojans began this week with a 10-2 OCL record and a 13-2 overall mark.

Next Tuesday night at 7, North Quincy plays at Falmouth, another OCL power.

North fell to 7-9 following a loss to OCL foe Taunton last Friday night, the Red Raiders' second straight loss after four consecutive victories.

Last Tuesday night, the Red Raiders were defeated by visiting Barnstable by a 77-55 score. Leading the way for NQ was senior center Dawn Kohler, who poured in a team-high 17 points. Junior forward Kristen Keohane scored 11, while Laurie Flynn chipped in six points and seven assists.

NO BARGAIN AT ANY PRICE

Car owners who go in search of bargain-priced brake jobs should be wary of having too little work done to ensure that their cars will stop safely. A disc-brake job that amounts to no more than a replacement of the disc brake pads, for instance, may not be enough. Consumers leaving a shop with a small bill should not allow themselves to be lulled into a false sense of security. Here are some of the things that might be omitted by a less-than-comprehensive brake job which may compromise brakes safety: replacement of cracked flexible brake hoses; replacement of crazed or blue-spotted discs; replacement of discs machined below manufacturer's tolerances; draining the brake fluid and flushing the hydraulic brake lines; and cleaning of the sliding caliper support brackets. Doing less at any price is no bargain.

HINT: Dark blue spots on the surface of a disc brake indicate areas where the metal has overheated and hardened due to severe brake use. Presidents Keep Up The Good Work

By LIAM FITZGERALD

In preparation for the MIAA state tournament, the Quincy High School hockey team keeps rolling along, notching its sixth straight win with a 6-0 shutout of Plymouth South last Saturday night.

"We're pleased that we're winning, and we've beaten the teams we should've beaten," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "But it hasn't been a total plus, because some of the games weren't decided until the third period, which prevented us from giving the third line a lot of ice time."

The Presidents (12-1-3) battled Old Colony League foe Falmouth last night (Wednesday) at 6:40 at Quincy Youth Arena. The undefeated Clippers (11-0-3) tied Quincy, 3-3, in their first meeting a month ago.

"Right now they are the best team in the league," said Sylvia, referring to the Clippers. "They're a great club, with the tradition of championships working for them. We're just learning about that this year. We're still in the hunt for a piece of the OCL title if we beat them, so that's what we're focused on right now."

The result of last night's game was unavailable as of press time. Ranked No. 19 in The Boston Globe Top 20 poll, the Presidents travel to Barnstable Saturday night at 8 for an OCL tilt with the Red Raiders. Next Wednesday night, Feb. 12, Quincy hosts Silver Lake at 6:40 in another league matchup.

"We're heading into the 'meat and potatoes' portion of the schedule," said Sylvia. "They're all capable of beating us if we don't play like we can. It's a challenge for the kids and a great way to prepare for the tournament."

In the Presidents' win over Plymouth South, Chris Haidul scored two goals and Mark Glynn, Lucas Chenette, Matt Langille and Brian Nolan added a goal apiece. Junior goalie Chris Burns (17 saves) recorded his third shutout of the season.

Last Wednesday night, Quincy handed non-league foe Dennis-Yarmouth a 3-0 defeat. Sophomore goalie Jeff Langille got the start and recorded the shutout for the visiting Presidents.

A lot of the Presidents' success, said Sylvia, is a result of the solid play of goaltenders Burns, Langille and freshman Ryan Kreuger.

"We have three excellent goalies," he said. "That's the beauty of the situation--any of the three could play and do a good job for us. Chris has had a remarkable season, never gotten cold and made the big saves when he's had to. He's the hot goalie and our number one guy right now."

"Jeff's also helped us out a lot, especially in that D-Y game when we struggled the first two periods and he kept us in it. Ryan would be seeing a lot of playing time on a number of other teams, but we've only been able to spot him here and there. We know he'll be a great one someday."

What Sylvia and the rest of the squad also admire about this talented trio is how competitive and focused all three are towards winning every game they play.

"They're all great competitors, keeping each other at the top of their games, pushing each other to improve," said Sylvia. "They know if one slips up, there's another quality goalie to take his place. If one of them gets hurt or sick, we have someone else to take his place. It's an unbelievable situation, a coach's dream."

steals and one blocked shot.

With DiBona and Kim Mackey both out with the flu, Quincy was limited to eight players, all of whom played a key role in the win.

"All their hard work all season long finally paid off and I'm happy for them," said Noble. "They earned it and deserved it. It was a great team effort, with contributions from everybody. Pam Gray, Kara McSweeney, Teuta Hajrizaj gave us good support off the bench."

"Becky Mackey did a fine job defensively in place of Jessica (DiBona). Julie (McLaughlin) had eight points and four blocks and played well defensively. Angela played a fine all-around game and Kerry Sullivan played well in the low post."

Quincy got off to a hot start, jumping out to an 18-2 lead and coasting to a 25-9 halftime advantage.

However, with less than eight minutes to play in the game, Plymouth South rallied to cut the Quincy lead to nine. At the crucial stage of the game, Noble wondered if his team would be able to handle the pressure. The Presidents did not let him down.

As she converted a layup, Duffy was fouled and completed the three-point play with a successful free throw attempt. The play pushed Quincy's lead back to 12 and the Panthers never seriously threatened again.

"That was a big hoop by Kerry at an important time, when they had cut into our lead and looked to come all the way back," said Noble. "We handled the pressure well and held them off. I was pleased with how they responded and how they made the big plays down the stretch to seal the win."

Families Needed To Host Latvian Hockey Players

Jack McInnis, director of this year's 24th Annual Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament, is looking for a few families to host some Latvian hockey players during the tournament later this month.

"We're hoping some families with some extra space can make room for a couple of players," said McInnis. "We had a team from Russia here last year that stayed with local families and had a great time in the city."

The Latvian team, a Pee Wee squad comprised of 20 players, is just one of 30 teams which have signed on to play in the tournament as of Monday.

"We had 28 teams last year, so we've already exceeded that number," said McInnis, who added that the cutoff day for entries was yesterday (Wednesday). "This is my first time running the tournament, and it's a big plus to have more than last year. We hope to get more teams before the cutoff day."

The tournament is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 17 through Sunday, Feb. 23 at the Quincy Youth Arena, featuring teams from New England and New York in addition to the Latvian squad. The championship of all four divisions--Mites (6 to 9 years old), Squirts (10-11), Pee Wees (12-13) and Bantams (14-15)--will be held on Feb. 23.

Admission is free. Donations to the Kiwanis charitable fund will be accepted at the door.

NQ's Tourney Hopes Hanging By A Thread

The players on the North Quincy High School hockey team have their work cut out for them if the Red Raiders are to qualify for the MIAA state tournament.

The Red Raiders (4-7-4), losers of their last two games, now must win four of their last five to clinch a tournament berth. Last night (Wednesday) at 8, NQ took on Old Colony League foe Taunton on the road.

"It's a possibility, because anything's possible, but it will be very difficult," said North Quincy coach Tom Benson, referring to the Red Raiders' chances of reaching the tournament. "We just have to take it one at a time and play as well as we're capable of playing."

The result of last night's game was unavailable as of press time. The Red Raiders host OCL opponent Weymouth Saturday night at 7:50 and play at Bridgewater-Raynham in another OCL battle next Wednesday night, Feb. 12, at 8.

In a tough 4-2 loss to host New Bedford last Saturday night, the Red Raiders' goals were notched by Eric Wood and Paul Markarian.

Leading 1-0 heading into the third period, North fell behind on three quick scores and could not recover.

"We just came out flat in the first half of the third period," said Benson. "We got in a hole and couldn't get out of it."

North did cut New Bedford's lead to 3-2, but the home squad netted an insurance goal to secure the victory.

Last Wednesday night, the Red Raiders dropped a 6-1 decision to visiting Silver Lake. Markarian was NQ's lone goal scorer.

North Quincy JV Squad Continues Its Winning Ways

The North Quincy High School JV hockey team continued its winning ways, beating New Bedford and Plymouth South before succumbing to B.C. High, behind the stellar goaltending efforts of junior Anthony Fasoli and sophomore Chris Carthas.

Robbie Bell's two goals provided the offensive thrust in NQ's 3-1 triumph over New Bedford. Matt Struzik and junior center Steve Wigmore chipped in the assists. Jay Allen scored NQ's other goal unassisted. Wigmore, along with Richard Bonvie and John Gavin, provided the Red Raiders with solid forechecking against a strong Whaler defense. Billy Griffin and Jamie Parisi defended against the New Bedford offense.

NQ netted four first-period goals en route to a 7-1 drubbing of Plymouth South. NQ's goals were scored by Billy La, James Mateu, TJ Wilson, Ryan Murray, Tom Gouthro, Bonvie and Struzik. Providing assists were Tom Vitt, John Bertucci, Betsy Stone, Mateu, Bonvie and Gavin. Defenseman Joe Flores was outstanding behind the blue line.

In a 4-2 loss to B.C. High, NQ's goals were notched by Rob Celata and Wilson, assisted by Bertucci and Pat Coughlin. Despite the strong defensive efforts of Griffin, Stone, Vitt and Parisi, the Eagles were able to score two goals to collect the victory.

Next up on the Red Raiders' agenda are Falmouth, Barnstable and Silver Lake.

In earlier action, North defeated Bridgewater-Raynham and Quincy before falling to perennial powerhouse Weymouth at Weymouth.

In a 4-0 triumph over B.R., NQ's Carthas recorded the shutout in net. NQ received its scoring from Wilson, Tim O'Connor, Billy Norris and Mateu. Murray chipped in two assists with Gavin, Coughlin and Vitt adding one apiece. Bertucci was of concern to the B-R defensemen with two end-to-end rushes that forced the B-R goalie to stand on his head to make the saves.

Against rival Quincy, the Red Raiders and Presidents were scoreless through one period. NQ opened the second with three quick goals by Wilson, Coughlin and La. Lucas Chenette answered with a goal for the Presidents. NQ continued its scoring in the third on tallies by Norris, assisted by Murray, and by Celata in the final minute, assisted by Coughlin and Vitt.

Bell and Gouthro provided additional offensive punch for the Red Raiders. Defensemen Griffin and Parisi continually shut down the Quincy offense and provided the transition for NQ to go on offense.

In a tough 7-5 loss to Weymouth, Vitt, Celata, Wilson, Murray and Struzik each scored a goal. Coughlin, Norris, Struzik, Chris Petit, Flores and Stone had the assists. The offensive line of Bonvie, Wigmore and Gavin were particularly strong against the Weymouth defense, peppering the Weymouth goalie with shot after shot.

The Red Raiders started off the season 2-1-1, their best start in years, according to coach Bob Doyle. Doyle coaches the team along with Peter Cahill and volunteer assistants Andrew Vermette and Richard Morrissey.

Led by Struzik's two goals, NQ easily defeated Barnstable, 4-0. Norris and Gavin were the other goal scorers. Griffin had two assists and O'Connor, Murray and Parisi added one each. Fasoli posted the shutout in net.

NQ's offense was still reved up when it met New Bedford at Quincy Youth Arena. Celata and Murray each popped in two goals and single tallies came from Vitt, Coughlin, Wilson and Bertucci. Celata and La each contributed two assists and Wilson, Bonvie and Stone had one each.

A disappointing 2-1 loss to Falmouth was highlighted by a Bonvie goal set up by Wilson and Gouthro. After spotting Falmouth a one-goal lead, North battled back to tie the game at 1-1 on Bonvie's third period goal. However, Falmouth managed to net the game-winner late in the third. Petit and Flores were key players defensively for the Red Raiders with solid offense from Wigmore.

At Shea Rink, the Red Raiders battled Marshfield to a 4-4 tie on goals from Murray, Celata, Bell and Bertucci. Wilson, Murray, Griffin, O'Connor and Vitt provided the assists. Defensively, NQ was led by Stone and Griffin, who made some outstanding contributions along the blue line, and by Carthas, who stood tall between the pipes to survive a last-minute Marshfield flurry.

Kyle Craig and Steve McDonough netted a goal apiece, Scott Richardson had two assists and Corey Lumaghin had one assist for D&H.

For Harold Club, Joey Canavan netted a hat trick, Mike Lohnes had three assists and Glenn Peterson collected two assists.

In Doran & Horrigan's 4-0 blanking over Quincy Sheet Metal, Ian McRae sparked the offense with a goal and an assist. Goalie Glen Misho recorded the shutout in net.

Other D&H goal scorers were Joe Fontana, Brendan Mulcahy and Alex Smith, with assists from Brian Carney, John Kurpeski, Thomas Henry and Mike Lebel.

Kyle Tobin's five points (four goals, one assist) paced Samoset Pharmacy to a 8-5 triumph over Barry's Deli.

Bryan Galligan notched a goal and two assists, Randy French scored a goal and Tina Kelley collected three assists for the winners.

For Barry's, Matt Quigley picked up two goals and an assist, Glenn Gibbons had a goal and two assists, Jeremiah Foley collected a goal and an assist, Jonathan Cahill scored a goal and Mike Barted chipped in an assist.

Levi Silverman blasted home four goals to spark Bruce Ayers Club to a 7-2 romp over Lydon-Russell.

Other Ayers goals were scored by Jim Dunn, Steve McGee and Matt Connor, who also chipped in an assist. Ryan Murphy and Kevin Tyrone both had three assists, David Brigham and Mike Griffin both added two assists and Brian Sullivan collected one assist.

Nash Winters collected a goal and an assist and Steve Graham also scored for Lydon.

Squirt House

Winter's Four Points Lift Johnson Over Keohane's, 6-5

Casey Winter's hat trick and assist led Johnson Motors Parts over Keohane's, 6-5, in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt Division action.

Pat Malone picked up a goal and two assists, Dean Sandonato and Jeff Bossart both scored a goal, Brian Sorenson notched four assists, Dave Oronte had two assists and Brett Martinson, Paul Noonan and John McClintock all chipped in an assist for JMP.

Brian Lynch had a hand in all five of Keohane's goals, netting two and assisting on the other three scores. Matthew O'Leary notched two goals, Kristen DiMaggio scored once and Joseph Steniford and Robert McLaughlin each had an assist.

Nine different players scored for Burgin Platner in a 9-2 romp over The Quincy Sun.

The goal scorers were Kevin Shinnick, Marissa Deegan, Eddie Laura, Nick Puopolo, Jim Kennedy, Andrew Pangraze, Mark Lewis, James Callahan and Brian Lawlor. Shinnick, Deegan and Lewis all collected two assists apiece and Kennedy added one assist.

Pee Wee B's Top Westwood, 5-1

With solid team play offensively and defensively, the Quincy Pee Wee B's downed Westwood by a 5-1 count.

The B's offensive scoring punch was spearheaded by Michael McGonagle (one goal, two assists) and Matthew Conso (one goal, one assist).

The game was scoreless until the end of the first period, when Quincy scored two goals in 15 seconds. McGonagle notched the first, assist by Rob Mooney and Matt Alleva. Mark Terreault netted the second, set up by McGonagle.

Westwood cut the lead in half with a goal midway through the second period, but Quincy answered with goals by Bobby Donovan (unassisted) and Conso, with McGonagle getting the assist.

The B's added another goal in the third as Jimmy Devlin lit the lamp off a pass by Conso.

Bruce Maggio, Sean Moriarty, Pam Sullivan and

Steve Romanowski stepped up defensively and turned in solid efforts. The B's squad held Westwood scoreless on five power play opportunities.

The B's welcomed back Miah Hasson from a knee injury.

The next GBL game for the B's is against Wellesley.

Pee Wee House

Coughlin, Donovan Pace Neponset To 11-5 Romp Over Morrissey

Tim Coughlin netted four goals and Robert Donovan recorded a hat trick and three assists to pace Neponset Valley Survey over Colonial Federal, 11-5, in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee Division action.

Mike Donelin had a goal and three assists, Scott Markarian notched a goal and two assists, Mike Mangano and Lee Sheehan each collected a goal and an assist, James Kuhn chipped in three assists and Shane Newell and Greg Sommers each had one assist for NPV.

Jon Tallent and Brian Cooper each tallied twice for Colonial, while Glen Liberatore collected a goal and an assist, Bryan Petit and John Miller each had two assists and Brett Keyes assisted on one goal.

Andrew Ross collected six points (four goals, two assists) to lead Mike Morrissey Club over Skinner's Winners by a 6-1 count.

Jamie Chiochio picked up two goals and two assists, Bruce Maggio added a goal and an assist and Mike Conso contributed two assists for Morrissey.

Scoring for Skinner's was Ryan McFarland, assisted by Ryan Tobin and Colin Maxey.

Squirt A's In State Tournament

Recent victories by the Quincy Squirt A's in their state playoff games have ensured them a berth in the State Tournament in March.

Matt Grazioso's hat trick paced the Squirt A's to a 3-2 overtime triumph over Franklin. Two minutes into the five-minute sudden death overtime, Grazioso notched the game-winning tally.

Steve McGrath and Matt Lavery collected assists for Quincy, which got a solid effort from its defensemen, particularly Kevin Richardson and Brendon Craig.

A hat trick by Matt Germain lifted the Squirt A's over the Mohawks, 6-0, assuring Quincy a berth in the state tournament. Nick Manning was tremendous between the pipes in recording the shutout. Ryan Feldoff, Pat Maxey and Timmy Duggan played stand-up defense throughout the game.

Kyle Carmody assisted Billy Barter on his goal and Liam Powers sent one home, as did Brendon Conley. Lavery and Grazioso each garnered assists. Josh Giordani and Ryan Conley peppered the Mohawks netminder, only to see him knock the shots away.

The Squirt A's await the outcome of the Milton-Wellesley matchup to determine their opponent in the District finals. The top two finishers from this district, which will include Quincy, are eligible for the State Tournament.

In Greater Boston League play, Quincy doubled up Waltham, 4-2, in a come-from-behind nailbiter. Maxey opened the Quincy scoring off a pass from Craig as coach Richardson gave his defensemen a shot at the forward positions.

Trailing 2-1 after the first period, Quincy tied it up when Germain scored off a pass from Grazioso. Barter scored a goal and added an assist as Quincy pulled ahead in the third. Brendon Conley also earned an assist with an across the net pass to Grazioso, who slammed it home.

Talking With Your Kids About Drugs

How Can I Tell If A Child Is Using Drugs?

Identifying illegal drug use may help prevent further abuse. Possible signs include:

- Change in moods - more irritable, secretive, withdrawn, overly sensitive, inappropriately anger, euphoric.
- Less responsible - late coming home, late for school or class, dishonest.
- Changing friends or changing life-styles - new interests, unexplained cash.
- Physical deterioration - difficulty in concentration, loss of coordination, loss of weight, unhealthy appearance.
- Refuses to talk or be around family.

Why Do People Use Drugs?

Young people say they turn to alcohol and other drugs for one or more of these reasons:

- To do what their friends are doing.
- To escape pain their lives.
- To fit in.
- Boredom.
- For fun.
- Curiosity.
- To take risks.

Take A Stand!

- Educate yourself about the facts surrounding alcohol and other drug use. You will lose credibility with your child if your information is not correct.
- Establish clear family rules against drug use and enforce them consistently.
- Develop your parenting skills through seminars, networking with other parents, reading, counseling and support groups.
- Work with other parents to set community standards - you don't raise a child alone.

Barter's Bullies Host Needham At Youth Arena

With two recent wins, Quincy Youth Hockey's Squirts, aka Barter's Bullies, advanced to the semifinals in the state playdown tournament.

The Bullies, sponsored by Sugarmans of Quincy, dominated Needham and came away with a 7-0 shut-out.

Paul (Cut 'Em Up) McLean sliced the ice past the hapless Needham defense, scoring on a pass from his man in the corners, Timmy Mullen. Joey (The Ice Man) McManus lifted one in, assisted by his fellow spider linemates Brendan Linnane and Mike Tetreault. At the start of the second period, hard-hitting Danny Donovan assisted Paul Graham on a spectacular goal. Alex Shaffer finished off the period with a lamp-lighting shot, assisted by spider linemate Linnane. Shaffer lit the lamp again in the third, set up by Brendan Clifford.

Keith Flaherty notched a score, assisted by Mike Faherty and Chris (The Bulldozer) Sheehan. Rounding out the game's scoring was a rocket launcher from Sheehan, off passes by Flaherty and McLean. The Bullies are known for defending their turf, and Tony (Benji) Benigni kept the tradition intact with a few solid checks. Ryan (The Beezer) Barter recorded another shutout with some outstanding goaltending.

The tournament continued at the Neponset MDC rink with the Bullies holding off the Westwood Squirts, 5-3, allowing the Bullies to reach the state semifinals against Needham's second team.

In the first period,

McManus sent the rubber home, assisted by spider linemate Linnane. Benigni showed the Westwood squad that Bullies don't give up as he netted a goal, set up by Graham and Justin Thorley. The only goal of the second period was by the Bullies' Thorley.

Faherty backhanded a shot into the net, assisted by Timmy Mullen, in the third. Rounding out the scoring for the game was Graham, assisted by linemates Thorley and Donovan. The hard-hitting Bullies defense was led by Jonathan O'Connor, as he covered the blue line like he owned it.

The Bullies squared off against the Needham Squirt B's in a battle for the bragging rights for the states and came away with a 2-2 overtime tie.

Game officials have scheduled a rematch to be played at the Quincy Youth Arena tonight (Thursday) at 6:40. The Bullies are excited to be playing at their home rink with expected overflow crowd of supporters from the Quincy Youth Hockey's players, supporters and extended family.

In the first period of the tie game, Needham got on the board with two quick goals that were works of art. Down 2-0, the Bullies had their work cut out for them.

The Bullies' Benigni notched Quincy's first goal with a backhander assisted by McLean, then tied the game up at 6:16 of the third on another pass by McLean.

The Bullies had done it again, coming back with a solid team effort. The defense was outstanding, covering the blue line and keeping the puck up ice.

Squirt B's Edge Hyde Park, 5-4

In a closely contested game against the Hyde Park Eagles, the Quincy Squirt "Killer B's" prevailed, 5-4.

The B's jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first period. Matt (Flash) Haskins beat the HP goalie on a setup by (Geno) Nazzarro to start the scoring. Andrew Patten scored the B's second goal unassisted. Richie (Can't Leave Him Alone) Stone made it 3-0, with assists by Danny Sullivan and Myles (The Curse) Clancy.

The Eagles stormed back to make it 3-2, before (Captain) Pat Casper pumped in goal number four on assists by Sullivan and Patten. Patten then scored the game-winner on an assist by assistant captain Danny Durocher.

Once again, Pat (Toaster) Maloney played a solid game in net. Defensemen Joey Norris, (Dangerous) Dennis Rugg and Paul (Graz) Grazioso kept the crease clean.

Forwards Andrew McDonough, (Powerhouse) Paul Lennon, Jake O'Donnell, George Snowling and Billy (The Kid) Cox kept the pressure on Hyde Park throughout the contest. Coaches Frank Casper and Dick Morrissey had the right game plan to ground the HP Eagles.

Morrisette Memorial Mass At St. Mary's

The Cyril P. Morrisette American Legion Post will celebrate its 68th annual Memorial Mass Monday, Feb. 17 at 10 a.m. at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy.

Participants and honored guests will meet in the lower hall for coffee and donuts at 9 a.m.

The Mass will be celebrated by Fr. Philip G. Solois, Department of Massachusetts American Legion chaplain. Fr. Solois also serves as national chaplain to Vietnam Veterans of America and in the U.S. Army Reserves as a hospital chaplain to the 455th Field Hospital, holding the rank of captain. His main ministry is that of chief of chaplain service at the Boston VA Medical Center.

Following the Mass, activities will continue with a reception at the Sons of Italy Hall on Quarry St., West Quincy.

SS-Coastline Children Councils Meet Jan. 28

Project Connect Director Charlie Sullivan will speak at a meeting of the South Shore and Coastline Councils for Children Tuesday, Jan. 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at East Congregational Church, 610 Adams St., East Milton.

Project Connect is sponsored by MSPCC and the Department of Mental Health with the goal to increase interagency collaboration and family participation to help children with serious emotional problems in the South Shore area.

Sullivan will show a film, give an update on the progress of the project and answer questions. There will be a brief business meeting and an update on the status of council projects such as the newborn visiting bill, which many area legislators have signed; affordable day care and efforts to help people successfully leave welfare. Other advocacy groups are welcome to join the meeting.

The meeting is free and the public is invited. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Karen Iacobucci at 773-1994.

Emblem Club To Meet Feb. 11

The Quincy Emblem Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Elks, Quarry Street.

Night Spot Neighbors Complain Of Noise

the restrictions given to a couple of businesses in the South Quincy and Quincy Point area and wondered why Marina Bay was treated differently as far as noise is concerned.

Joanne Condon Walsh, a former city councillor who resides at Marina Bay said Kane's attempt to correct some of the problems was "a good faith effort". She stressed that Marina Bay is not Quincy Point or South Quincy where those businesses were of enclosed area with houses next door.

Walsh said she "feels confident that Ed Kane will solve the noise problem" and said she is in full support of this business venture and persons should try to deal with it in a "friendly basis."

George O'Malley, part owner of coastal partners and landlord for the persons renting boat slips said that many ideas were in place to control the sound. He disputed claims from boat owners who said they couldn't park near their boats.

Shea read the names of those proponents and those opposed to the audience.

Maralin Manning, director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association said that Marina Bay is one of the most important businesses in the city and the same consideration should be given Ed Kane as did the developers of the High Rises in Marina Bay.

Dean Rizzo, representing 580 members of the Quincy Business Council of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce said they unanimously support Kane and his proposals.

Rizzo read a letter stating Kane continues to address the concerns brought forward by the residents.

He said Kane is planning on installing several soundproofing barriers at the Waterworks and other locations to alleviate the potential impacts on the surrounding area.

Also that Kane continues to create an atmosphere which will attract an older, more responsible crowd to his facilities and in turn to the adjoining neighborhoods.

At the end of the meeting Kane felt the need to defend himself by reverting to some of the rumors of the past including he was connected to the Mafia, he was going to have a Foxy Lady club plus the blame for many of the noise calls made in the winter months when he is closed.

He said during a wedding, one couple called eight times complaining and three times, policemen and a supervisor was called. It was determined that the noise was not above what the law stated.

Kane showed some pictures to the board with cars parked on the fire lanes even in the winter. Some of the residents were complaining of that happening in the summer and were blaming it on Waterworks.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and building inspector Matt Mulvey discussed background and sound readings that were being held.

Ayers said before the talk of increasing size that the sound issue has to be resolved and advised the board to deter their vote until then.

When Shea and the board were in agreement about when the next meeting will be held, residents spoke out loudly as to why a meeting couldn't be held at night instead when most were not working?

However, Fleming interjected by saying, "Why is it that no other facility or businesses have to hold a night meeting, but that of Marina Bay?"

Shea explained that many of his board members wear "many hats" and have to attend many night meetings.

Finally, the meeting was scheduled for Feb. 18 at 10 a.m.

Delahunt Offering
Financial Aid Packets

availability of information packets on college financial aid.

"Everyone knows the cost of higher education is soaring—in many cases beyond all hopes of average Americans," said Delahunt. "I hope this information is useful in assisting local students and their families weight these difficult questions."

Each packet contains federal financial aid guides, details on programs at Massachusetts colleges and universities, and background on scholarships and other private aid. Also included are samples of federal student financial aid forms and a list of Internet websites for college, financial aid and career planning.

To obtain a packet, call Delahunt's office toll-free at 1-800-794-9911 (South Shore) or 1-800-870 2626 (Cape and Islands).

While compiling and distributing the information packets, Delahunt reiterated his support for pending legislation to create a federal tax credit of $1,500 annually for two years of tuition at a college or university, and for an alternative tuition tax deduction (up to $10,000 a year) for tuition and fees.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

INVITATION FOR BIDS

CITY OF QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS PURCHASING DEPARTMENT
1305 HANCOCK ST., QUINCY, MA 02169 Invites sealed bids/proposals for furnishing and delivering to the City of Quincy:

SCHOOL FALL ATHLETICS
FEBRUARY 25, 1997 @ 10:30 AM

Detailed specifications are on file at the office of the Purchasing Agent, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, 02169, between the hours of 8:30 am to 4:30 pm.

Bids must state exceptions, if any, the delivery date and any allowable discounts. Bids/proposals must be in a sealed envelope (which is supplied). The outside of the sealed envelope is to be clearly marked "BID ENCLOSED" with time/date of bid call.

Firm bid prices will be given first consideration. Bids/Proposals will be received at the office of the Purchasing Agent until the time and date state above, at which time and date they will be publicly opened and read. Late Bids/Proposals, delivered by mail or person, will be rejected.

If applicable, Bids shall be in accordance with Chapter 149 of the M.G.L. as amended. M.G.L. Chapter 39, section 39A, 39B and 39F-R. M.G.L. Chapter 149, Section 26, 27, 29, 35 and 44A-44M.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept any part of a bid or the one deemed best for the City, and waive any informalities in the bidding, if it is in the best interest of the City to do so.

City Receives Grant To Aid Foster Children

The Department of Social Services (DSS), the Department of Education (DOE) and Massachusetts Families For Kids (MFFK) have joined their efforts and resources to provide Quincy and five other Massachusetts communities with training and support services surrounding the emotional, social and academic difficulties many foster children face.

A combined $270,000 will provide a range of opportunities for local school systems to help meet the many needs of children in the classroom. The programs will have a particular focus on working with issues of foster children. Quincy will be running a joint program with Randolph and Weymouth.

"This joint project is a wonderful opportunity to work together to provide all children with the best educational experience they can get," said Linda Carlisle, commissioner of DSS. "The kinds of services schools can provide for staff, as well as for foster children and families are crucial to make everyone aware of the important issues kids face on a daily basis."

The funding, which will run through June, will be used to hire a behavioral specialist to work with children, create direct intervention programs for children and families, and provide trainings for school staff and foster families. The program is designed to create fewer incidents of classroom disruption, decreased referrals to out-of-district placement, continuity of educational programming for the children and help in strengthening the communication between DSS and the schools.

INVITATION TO BID

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for North Quincy Business District Improvements - Street Lighting/Service Connections contract until 10:00 AM local time on Thursday, February 20, 1997 at the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this contract consists of underground utilities work for electrical, fire alarm and traffic control systems. The work is located along Hancock Street between Billings and Hayward Streets and along Billings Road between Felton Street and the MBTA tracks. The work includes installation of conduits/ducts; wires/cables; manholes, handholes; street lighting poles, fire alarm posts; pole foundations, equipment pads and temporary and/or permanent trench repairs.

All work shall be performed in accordance with the Massachusetts Highway Department's Standard Specifications for Highways and Bridges (1988 edition) and Construction Standards (1977 edition), all as last revised, unless specified or directed otherwise.

All work under this contract shall be completed within 120 calendar days.

A non-refundable deposit of $75.00 in cash or check is required for each set of Contract Documents. Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include an additional non-refundable mail fee of $15.00 per set to cover shipping and handling costs. All checks shall be made payable to the City of Quincy.

The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours of 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM at the Offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, Engineering Division, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after January 28, 1997.

A pre-bid conference will be held in the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works on Tuesday, February 11, 1997 at 11:00 AM. All prospective bidders are urged to attend.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total value of the bid in the form described in the Instructions to Bidders. The Successful Bidder shall be required to furnish a one hundred percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a one hundred percent (100%) Payment and Materials Bond from a surety company acceptable to the City. The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

No bidder may withdraw the bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of the opening of the bids.

All Federal, State and City of Quincy regulations in relation to Minimum Wage Rates, Minority Business Enterprise, Women Business Enterprise, Minority Work Force, Equal Employment Opportunity and Employment of Quincy Residents must be complied with.

The project goals in these areas shall be as given below:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on the project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of ten percent (10%) MBE participation and five percent WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs will be required and maintained on this project. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Ordinance No. 532 requiring Contractors working on City-supported construction projects to hire a certain percentage of Quincy Residents is mandatory.

4. The Contractor shall pay the higher of the two minimum wage rates, as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries and the U.S. Department of Labor Wage Schedules, issued in the most current "Wage Decisions" as applicable to the project area.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive, and thus ineligible for further consideration. No waiver for any portion of these provisions will be granted. The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all bids when such an action is deemed in the best interests of the City. The City does not condone submission of unbalanced bids. Such bids may be summarily rejected.

Harold Questions Greek Shipbuilder's Finances

Mayor James Sheets' proposal to apply for $7.8 million in loan guarantees from the federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program for the purchase of the Fore River shipyard was tabled by the City Council Monday night.

The matter was tabled when Councillor Paul Harold objected to it, saying he needed more information. The council can take the item up again at its Feb. 18 meeting if it so chooses.

Councillor Michael Cheney, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said Monday night he would try to schedule a committee meeting for discussion of the matter as soon as possible.

Sotirios Emmanouil, the Greek shipbuilder of Swampscott-based Massachusetts Heavy Industries--the company that wants to bring shipbuilding back to the shipyard--was in attendance at Monday night's meeting, hoping for a positive vote from the council.

Despite Emmanouil's statement that details of his financial situation must remain confidential for competitive reasons, however, Harold insisted that city officials need more information about the private financing that will be backed with federal loan guarantees from the U.S. Maritime Administration for Emmanouil's firm.

"I think the day has come that we have some answers," said Harold.

The councillor also expressed skepticism about the seemingly small amount of personal funding the shipbuilder has in hand for the first phase of the modernization of the shipyard. Emmanouil said he has about $1.5 million to apply toward the yard's purchase and modernization, which carries a pricetag of between $85 million and $90 million.

To date, Massachusetts Heavy Industries has received $48 million in federal loan guarantees from the U.S. Maritime Administration (MARAD) to refurbish the shipyard and install high-tech equipment. It also has the approval of $6.6 million from the state and $1 million in the form of a federal Housing and Urban Development grant to the city.

If Sheets' application for loan guarantees from the CDBG program is approved, Emmanouil would be able to sell $7.8 million in bonds to add to the rest of his financing. The money would help pay for the purchase of the yard, something for which MARAD loans cannot be used.

Sheets also plans to ask the council to approve a five-year waiver of property for Emmanouil at the shipyard.

Other officials, including Sheets and other councillors, have expressed confidence in Emmanouil's plan to begin building ships at the yard by the beginning of next year.

Galvin Guest Speaker At Chamber Breakfast

William Galvin, Massachusetts Secretary of State, will be the guest speaker at a breakfast meeting hosted by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 7:44 a.m. at Lantana in Randolph.

Galvin will discuss the 1996 Democratic primary battle for the 10th Congressional District between William Delahunt and Philip Johnston.

Tickets are $12 for members, $20 for non-members and a table of 10 can be reserved for $110.

For more information, call 479-1111.

Two Quincy Members On Workers' Rights Board

Two Quincy members are on the Eastern Massachusetts Workers' Rights Board that was launched during a recent ceremony at the State House in Boston.

They are: Fr. Peter Quinn, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church in Quincy Center and Fr. Ed Boyle of the Catholic Labor Guild.

The board, organized by Jobs With Justice, is composed of more than 100 community leaders who will hear appeals from victims of workplace injustice and act to correct those ills when appropriate.

Workers who have been victimized while trying to organize unions or defend their rights on the job will also testify. The board is part of a national campaign to defend the right to organize.

Large Retail Store Coming To Downtown

A large CVS-like retail store is coming to downtown Quincy.

The general merchandise retailer will occupy the former Child World store at 1469 Hancock St. which has been vacant for seven years. The space is 6,000 square feet.

Announcement was made Tuesday by Joseph Mannarino, executive director of the Quincy 2000 Corporation.

Mannarino credited Quincy Center Development Coordinator Bruce Arons with bringing the new store to Quincy "after an aggressive recruitment effort."

sive recruitment effort."

Arons is development coordinator for both Quincy 2000 and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Mannarino said the new store, owned by John and Judith Lima of New Bedford, will open in mid-to-late March.

The Limas have a store in New Bedford and are affiliated with eight other general merchandise stores, said Mannarino.

Arons describes the Limas' New Bedford store as a "a generic general merchandise store--similar to CVS but without a pharmacy."

He said the Limas have signed a long-term lease.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said she recently met John Lima in Quincy and he said he was "excited about coming to Quincy."

She described the store as one that offers values with "opportunistic pricing" which it is able to do by purchasing merchandise in huge lots with the other stores it is affiliated with.

$100,000 Project Going To Council

15-Mile Bikeway For Cyclists And Pedestrians Asked

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A Department of Public Works plan to construct a 15-mile, $100,000 bikeway that would link Marina Bay, the Blue Hills Reservation and other sites throughout the city will be taken up by the City Council next week.

The DPW initiative will be introduced as a resolution by Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, chairman of the council's Public Works Committee, at the council's Feb. 18 meeting. The plan already has received a positive response from several federal and city officials.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said the bikeway--which would total about 15 miles in length--would provide residents with a safe, clean and efficient mode of transportation as well as provide direct access to business districts, public transportation and some of the city's more picturesque sites.

"I think it's a need that we have," he said. "And there is federal money for such projects. If we get the funding, we could get started."

Ayers agreed.

"It is a nice, recreational-type path, and it ties into a number of different things, including public safety," he said.

Colton stressed, however, that even if funding is approved, the project requires the approval of the City Council, Quincy Conservation Commission and Mayor James Sheets. Neighborhood meetings and public hearings also would be held for community input.

Most of the funding would come from the federal Intermodal Surface Transportation and Efficiency Act, which would cover 90 percent of the overall cost, Colton said. Estimating the figure to be about $100,000, he noted that the city's 10 percent might be paid in in-kind services such as design work, rather than actual dollars.

Colton said the application for the federal grant is due March 1. If the council supports the project next Tuesday night and other approval from city officials and residents follows, construction "in a best-case scenario" could begin in the spring of 1998, he added.

Raymondi Asks Condo Trash Pickup Study

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi has proposed that the city study the feasibility of providing trash pickup to residential condominium owners in Quincy.

Raymondi introduced his proposal as a resolution at last week's City Council meeting. The resolution calls for Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton and the council's Public Works Committee to look into the matter.

Raymondi also has asked Colton to file a report on his findings to the council by May 19. He noted that if the city does end up providing the service, he would like it included in Quincy's Fiscal Year 1998 budget that must be in place by July 1.

The councillor noted that he would like to hold a public hearing on the matter before the council receives Colton's report. In addition, Raymondi said he wants City Solicitor Stephen McGrath to research the issue so that any related legal issues can be addressed.

The councillor said he has received complaints from some of the approximately 4,000 condominium owners in the city--who pay the same real estate taxes as other residents--and that they also should be provided with the trash pickup.

"It's a question of fairness," he said. "They're taxed at the same rate as other residents."

Raymondi said three things must be determined before the service can be provided to the condo owners:

•Cost. How much would the service add to the city's current contract with Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI), which currently provides trash pickup for the city's other residents?

•Liability. If a condo is damaged during rubbish pickup, who would pay for it? (Raymondi suggested an agreement with condo trusts protecting the city would be a wise provision.)

•Access. Where, exactly, would the trucks pick up trash at each condominium site?

Raymondi said cost is the most important factor.

"If the city can afford to do it, then we should do it," he said. "If we can't, then we won't."

The councillor stressed that the trash pickup would be provided only to individual condo owners and not at so-called "common areas" at condominiums such as swimming pools and clubhouses. He added that if his proposal does indeed come into fruition, the city ini-

'Something Less Risky Than Shipbuilding'

McCauley: More Stable Alternate Might Have Been Found For Shipyard

Former Mayor Francis McCauley thinks an alternate use more stable than shipbuilding might have been found for the Fore River Shipyard if the city had examined other possibilities.

McCauley, who is a present school committee member and announced candidate for city councilor-at-large in this year's city election, said Tuesday:

"It might have been better for the city to have examined alternate uses of the shipyard property. Uses which might have provided higher levels of employment as well as a more stable future for continued economic growth.

"Something more stable and which would not put so much taxpayers' money at risk."

McCauley, who served four terms as mayor from 1982 to 1989, says that reopening the shipyard would be "risking taxpayers' dollars in excess of $200 million for the creation of only 1,000 jobs."

"I have been following with interest the ongoing process whereby shipbuilding would return to the Fore River Shipyard. Sotiros Emmanouil, a Greek shipbuilder, plans to revive the shipyard with a $90 million modernization plan. Upon completion of the shipyard upgrade he claims to have a contract to build six tankers.

"The success of Mr. Emmanouil's plan depends on large scale commitments from the federal, state and local governments (i.e. the taxpayers).

These commitments include federal loan guarantees of over $200 million and a state loan guarantee of $6.6 million dollars.

"Mayor (James) Sheets, in addition to offering a no property tax guarantee for five years, has requested city council approval of $7.8 million of loan guarantees from the federal Community Development Block Grant program," McCauley said.

"The Fore River Shipyard occupied a great deal of my attention during my tenure as mayor of Quincy. In March 1982, Judge Hiller Zobel announced his decision of the General Dynamics tax abatement case. The decision was a disastrous one for the city of Quincy resulting in a $19 million bond issue to pay back excess real estate taxes assessed by the city in the late 1970's and early 1980's.

"Competition in the shipbuilding industry is fierce both between U.S. shipyards as well as foreign shipbuilders who have the benefit of lower wage rates. The shipyard closed in 1986 after unsuccessfully bidding on a number of shipbuilding contracts. In August 1987, the MWRA, over my objections, bought the shipyard from General Dynamics for $49 million. The city took the MWRA to court over this issue. However, the courts upheld the purchase.

"Since 1987 the MWRA has used a portion of the property as a staging area for the construction of the Deer Island Sewerage Treatment Plant. In the fall of 1987 I signed an agreement with the MWRA which allowed the Authority to build a plant for the processing of sludge produced by both the Deer Island and Nut Island treatment plants.

"My decision was very controversial because of fears that the plant would be detrimental to the quality of life in the Quincy Point area. The plant went on line 1991 and with the exception of a few bugs which were ironed out, has operated without causing any environmental problems.

"Since 1989 the MWRA, in accordance with the agreement, has paid the city of Quincy $15,465,905. In addition, the city has received hundreds of thousands of dollars in sewer fees.

City To Hire 10-12 New Police Officers

The city is going to hire 10 to 12 more police officers in April, according to Police Chief Francis Mullen.

The chief made the announcement during a meeting of the City Council Public Safety Committee on Monday night.

Mullen said the salaries of five of the officers will be paid with the help of a $375,000 grant the city received in December 1994. He added that two of the new officers will be assigned to foot patrols in the Brewer's Corner area of Southwest Quincy, making that neighborhood the second besides Germantown to get community policing.

Mayor James Sheets has said he would like most of the other new officers also to be used as part of the Quincy Police Department's community policing program.

Approximately 20 other communities south of Boston have already added one or two new officers with similar grants from President Clinton's 1994 crime bill that aimed to add 100,000 more police officers to the nation's streets.

Quincy's grant will pay up to $75,000 of each officer's salary and benefits for three years. The city will match its $375,000 with $300,00 in municipal funding.

The city already has spent more than $200,000 in the past couple of years to pay overtime for nightly foot patrols in Brewer's Corner and along Washington Street in Quincy Point.

The two-man patrol in Germantown was started in 1992 with a federal Justice Department grant. The city has kept up the patrols there because of positive community response.

Mullen said the city has been unable to spend the new federal money until now because retirements and promotions have kept the patrol officers' roster below the 150 required to begin using federal money. Under Clinton's crime bill, the money can be used to add officers but not to fill vacancies.

The department currently has 146 patrol officers, Mullen said.

FATHER BILL'S PLACE, the city's homeless shelter, recently received a donation of $2,500 from Fleet Bank for planned building renovations and expansion. From left, Fr. William McCarthy of St. John the Baptist Church for whom the shelter is named accepts the check from Fleet Bank Regional Vice President Richard Gormley as Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which operates the shelter looks on.

Will Employ Up To 150

Courier Firm Moving Into JM Warehouse

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A new courier business is moving to the old Jordan Marsh Warehouse which will take up about 4 percent of the 1.3 million square feet and employ from 125 to 150 persons in its workforce.

In a unanimous vote at Tuesday's Quincy License Board, a permit was also granted the Courier Dispatch Group, Inc. to store 1500 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of 75 vehicles, 990 gallons of motor oil, transmission fluids and waste oil above ground.

The business which was located in Boston, but moved to Quincy for more space, will be open 24 hours a day, and deliver among its items bank notes, checks and automotive parts.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said the owner Mark Parece has met all of the requirements and that the storage of the fuel is a reduction compared to that stored by Jordan Marsh.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers said the company has a nation wide reputation and has invested a good deal of money to bring the building up to code.

Building Inspector and board member Matt

Mulvey said Ayers has worked "diligently" the past few years in an effort to rent the building to a viable tenant.

Ayers said that everything was up to city standards and said the owner promises to work within the surrounding communities and be a "good neighbor" which Ayers said is "paramount."

Ayers said the building which has been vacant for three years was once rented briefly about two years ago to Reebok who used 500,000 square feet and stayed about 10 months.

Ayers said he spoke with Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon who said the traffic flow would not be a detriment to the area. It was suggested the courier company use Commander Shea Blvd. as their ingress and egress.

Patrick Cox Family Benefit Underway

A benefit is underway to raise funds for the family of Patrick W. Cox of Quincy, who recently died at age 41.

Among those who survive Cox are his wife and three sons ages 12, 10 and 7 as well as his mother, retired Quincy Public Schools secretary Millie (Moulton) Cox and his father, retired postal worker William Cox Sr.

Cox, like his wife Diane, graduated from North Quincy High School in 1973. A letter carrier in Wollaston for 16 years and a third generation Quincy resident, he coached Little League, was a Boy Scouts cubmaster and taught CCD at his church.

Friends of the family have organized a raffle to raise money for his widow and three sons.

Each person who donates

$5 to the raffle will receive a calendar with 31 chances to win an assortment of prizes including $100 in cash. A prize is given for each day in March. The drawing for all prizes will be Saturday, March 1 at 2 p.m. at The Fowler House, 1049 Hancock St. Winners will be notified by telephone.

For more information or to purchase a calendar, call Jo-Ann Bragg at 471-3822, Jean Burns at 328-8182, Jane (Koch) Connolly at 471-4096, Jeanne Riley at 282-2023 or Theresa Bellotti-Welch at 984-2264.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

LIABLE FOR THE ACTS OF ANOTHER

Is it possible for an employer to be liable for the negligence of an employee which results in the injury of another? The answer is "yes" if certain other conditions are met, including that the negligent act (or inaction) was committed during the course of employment. The legal theory of imputed negligence allows for one person to be liable for the acts or the failure to act on behalf of another. Thus, the company may be liable for the damages caused by its negligent driver in an automobile accident. A parent may be liable for the negligence of his or her child in the event that the parent entrusts a dangerous instrument to the child or fails to supervise or restrain a child with known dangerous tendencies.

HINT: Imputed negligence cases generally revolve around the law of agency, which makes one party the legal agent of another for certain types of actions or inactions.

Do you have the legal right to be compensated for damages suffered? We are happy to provide advice, conduct the case, and be compensated only when recovery is made. Call 773-2880 now to schedule your free consultation. Our office is located at Gridley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street. MacMullen's Exit Amicable

You might say that William MacMullen gave up the ship--the USS Salem--without a fight or hard feelings.

MacMullen's resignation as executive director of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum was not forced. His departure was amicable.

He and Mayor James Sheets, who is chairman of the museum board of directors and to whom MacMullen submitted his resignation, remain on friendly terms.

MacMULLEN

Sheets gives MacMullen the lion's share of the credit for bringing the heavy cruiser back to Quincy, where she was built, as the centerpiece for the museum at the Fore River shipyard.

"If it were not for him and all his hard work we would never have obtained the Salem," says Sheets.

"He's a promoter and he does that well. That's his area of expertise. He feels it is time to move along to another promotion."

The board of directors last November voted to put in place a reorganization plan for the museum. Under the plan MacMullen would concentrate on development and promotions while two board members--Joanne Condon Walsh and Jack McLaughlin--would leave the board and serve without salary heading up the administration and finance division.

MacMullen was in agreement.

"Bill and I don't have any problems," Sheets says. They apparently don't.

The pair are Civil War buffs and had been talking about going to Gettysburg to visit the battlefield and maybe see a re-enactment of that famed battle.

They are both fans of Lawrence Chamberlain who led a bayonet charge they feel turned the tide for the Union in that battle which is considered the turning point in the Civil War.

"Chamberlain later became governor of Maine and president of Bowdoin College," Sheets notes.

In his letter of resignation, MacMullen said: "I hope we can get down to Gettysburg."

And says Sheets:

"Maybe we can do it sometime this spring."

SPEAKING OF SHEETS, the recent Amazon

MacKILLIGAN

Safari went off without a hitch. He and his companions, Bob Curry, Ed Keohane, Bruce MacKilligan and Dick Kertzman of Hingham made it safely through the jungle and down the river with only mosquito and wasp bites their main danger.

While fishing on the Amazon they reeled in a number of deadly piranha.

"They are edible," Sheets says.

In fact, Curry, Keohane, MacKilligan and Kertzman fried up a snack out of curiosity. What they heck, while in Rome do what the Romans do and while on the Amazon. . .

And how is piranha?

"Not bad," says Keohane. "Tastes something like flounder but bony."

His Honor passed on it.

"No way," he says. "I wouldn't touch it."

He'd rather a tuna sandwich.

Beechwood Making Dolls For Hospitalized Children

Volunteers from Quincy and neighboring towns recently gathered at Beechwood on the Bay to launch a new project to benefit hospitalized children.

"The project is designed to make dolls for children hospitalized at Quincy Hospital. The dolls are simple, old fashioned cloth dolls dressed in bright colored hospital johnnies. We hope to provide an ongoing supply--so that all children admitted to the hospital will receive one," said Mary Centola, director of senior services at Beechwood.

Physicians and nursing staff then will use the dolls to explain planned procedures to the children. The child then takes the new hospital doll home as a souvenir.

"As with all volunteer projects at Beechwood, the community folk who volunteer so generously of time and talents also benefit from the fellowship. Finding new people with whom we can share a common interest--especially one that benefits others--is rewarding," said Sharron Beals, Beechwood's executive director.

"The hospital is delighted with this volunteer effort," said Doris Sinkewich, director of parent services at Quincy Hospital. "The children served in our pediatric ward will definitely profit from this project."

Beechwood's doll-making project was organized by Centola and is led by Mary Hennessey, with Roberta Keenan's assistance.

The doll-makers will meet every Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Some will sew, others will cut patterns, and others will fill the dolls. All are welcome.

Beechwood is located at 440 East Squantum St. Light refreshments will be served. Call Centola at 471-5712 for more information.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1912 POSTCARD view of the old Norfolk Downs depot on the Old Colony railroad. A branch of the Bank of Braintree is now in this site. They took this picture of the station from the end of Billings Road. Abandoned in 1959 when the Old Colony stopped running, the demolished the depot in the late 1960's to make room for the MBTA's Red Line. The buildings in the background are all gone as well. They are on the site of the new Super Stop & Shop on Newport Avenue.

Electric Industry Deregulation Could Be Costly For Consumers

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The issue of deregulation of the electric industry has been quietly, but swiftly, moving through our Congress and state Legislature.

Sadly, only the economic windfall for large businesses and the utilities has been the subject of media coverage. Residential and small businesses, who many believe will be hurt by this, have been left out of the loop.

As an employee of the electric industry, and a consumer, nowhere have I read about the new system guaranteeing reliability of service, safety and reduced cost.

The electric utilities tell you they will reduce rates by 10 percent. But what they fail to tell you about are the increased and/or new user fees. The consumer would also have to pay for all economic "stranded costs" that the utilities deemed that they would lose.

Why is the Attorney General of Massachusetts a staunch supporter of this scheme when the Attorney General of Michigan staunchly opposes deregulation as being bad for consumers?

Will residential consumers not only pay higher bills, but also pick up the cost for the loss of billions of dollars in property taxes currently paid by the utilities?

I strongly suggest consumers write their U.S. Senator, Congressman, state Senator and Representative and demand this scheme to be put on hold until these and other questions are answered.

Praises The Sun, Quincy Point Residents

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I cannot express how much your newspaper means to our family.

Recently my mom, Frances Page of Quincy Point, passed away. In her scrapbook, I found many clipping from your paper. Over 25 years ago, it was noted how my son (her grandson) went in the service, was promoted and stationed in Germany. There were birth notices of her great-grandchildren and so much more.

The Quincy Sun is a wonderful little weekly paper.

The City of Quincy is also a wonderful place to reside. I wish I could thank all the neighbors on Baxter Ave. and Moore St. in Quincy Point for all the help they gave to my mother: the Volta family, Mary DeMatia, Karen Fichett and the Marshall family. Without their help, I'm sure she would have been in a nursing home much sooner than she was.

Please keep up the good work.

A 'Thank You' From Visiting Nurse Associates

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Every year, Dedham-based Visiting Nurse Associates Inc., a VNA Care Network Inc. agency, takes a moment during National Visiting Nurse Association Week, Feb. 16-22, to pay tribute to the many individuals who make it possible for us to help patients and families recuperate from illness and injury in the comfort of their own homes. These individuals are our caregivers, administrative staff, board of directors, donors, friends and volunteers.

National VNA Week celebrates not only Visiting Nurse Associates' establishment as a community health nursing agency over a century ago, but also honors our current role as an essential member of today's health care delivery system. Even as the climate of health care changes constantly, Visiting Nurse Associates remains dedicated to its mission of providing high quality, comprehensive home health and community care.

Throughout our 106-year history, we have expanded and adapted our services to meet the needs of your community. Examples of the broad array of services include pre- and post-surgery care; physical, occupational, and speech therapy; cardiac care; wound care; assistance with respiratory problems; IV therapy; psychiatric care; social work services; and treatment of serious illness such as diabetes, Cystic Fibrosis and cancer. Whether you are an infant, child, young adult or senior citizen, our licensed clinical staff is qualified to meet your home care needs.

As we commemorate this special week, we would like to extend our gratitude to all of you who help us bring care to the residents of Quincy and surrounding communities.

Adams Shore Library Costs Rise

By PAUL HAROLD

The new Adams Shore branch library when finally completed was projected to cost twice the original estimate of $300,000.

Mayor James McIntyre sent to the City Council what should be the last appropriation: $76,000 for furnishings and $25,000 for books. This is in addition to an added $175,000 for construction and $25,000 in federal funds.

Feb. 13 - 19
1969
28 Years Ago

"We hope this will be the last appropriation for the library," the mayor said, reflecting on architect fees, land damages, soil problems and unanticipated construction costs.

CITY ENDS CESSPOOL SERVICE

DPW Commissioner John Brown announced that the city would stop cleaning cesspools as of March 1.

He noted that it was uneconomical for the city to provide the service for $3 when the actual cost of $50. It took three employees half a day to clean one tank.

He also pointed out that there were only 70 cesspools left in the city since most properties had tied into the sewer system.

O'BRIEN TO HEAD HOUSING AUTHORITY

The commissioners of the Quincy Housing Authority tapped Clement O'Brien to replace Girard White as executive director.

He was a former member and former chairman of the board and was recently serving in a transitional post until White's retirement became official. His salary was $10,000. O'Brien's career was as a special FBI agent for 22 years.

White had worked as superintendent of the city home and had been the Ward 3 councillor before he joined the QHA.

Presidents' Day Winter Festival Set For Feb. 17

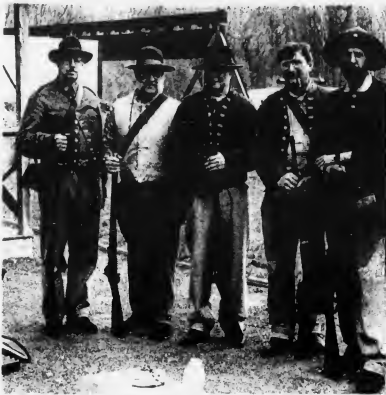

The city will host a Presidents' Day Winter Festival Monday, Feb. 17 from noon to 5 p.m. in Quincy Center.

The announcement was made by City Councillor Michael Cheney and the First Night Committee.

Participants will have an opportunity to ride on a hayride, enjoy the music of the Quincy Alumni Band, watch Dr. Stardust, an international association juggler champion or be entertained by Big Nazo, a group of musical visual artists who transform themselves into giant puppet creatures and masked characters.

The committee invites people to bring their cameras as their will be plenty of photo opportunities. Jarome Shea, ice sculpture artist, will be sculpting an ice sculpture of Abraham Lincoln the day of the event, and there will be a total of four ice sculptures at the festival.

One of the main features of the event will be a Civil War camp and a colonial soldiers' encampment. Members of the Billerica Colonial Minutemen and their families will be in full dress as they enact a day during Colonial times complete with musket black-powder firing demonstrations. Colonial women will be cooking dinner in an open fire. They will be joined by the first Massachusetts Cavalry and the fourth Virginian Cavalry during a civil war re-enactment of the Lincoln era.

"Presidents Day is a celebration of Abraham

Lincoln and George Washington," Cheney said. "It is most appropriate that we have groups representing both eras. A visitor will have a chance to stroll through history without leaving Quincy Square.

"Both groups will feel right at home nested within a stone's throw of the Adams crypt located at the First Parish Church. Tours of the burial places will be available for those wishing to take advantage of Quincy's contribution to American history."

Also at First Parish, Mary Ann Donnelly will portray Louisa May Alcott. The one-woman show presents the life and times of the author of "Little Women" and other well-known stories. After the performance attendees will have an opportunity to ask questions and have an informal conversation with Louisa May Alcott.

For the more athletically inclined, a 25-foot tall snow mountain will be constructed in Quincy Square for the purpose of demonstrating snowboard and skiing techniques. Representatives of the Blue Hills Ski Resort will bring snow-making equipment into Quincy Square for the event. All performances are free and open to the public.

Free parking is available in the Parkway Garage and patrons are encouraged to shop in Quincy Square before, after, and during this day of celebration.

REHAB FOR THE HEART

High-tech surgery and miraculous medications may be just what the doctor ordered for a person's heart problem, but one of the best things a cardiac patient can do to live longer and better is still to get involved in cardiac rehabilitation. Rehab for the heart can take many forms. There are more than 1,000 registered programs around the country, often associated with medical centers, that offer such services as smoking cessation help, dietary guidance, stress reduction, and customized exercise regimens for cardiac patients. Studies have shown that patients who are able to follow up their medical care with the support of these programs often gain years of improved life quality. This has been shown true for heart attack survivors as well as for post-cardiac surgery patients and people coping with heart failure, angina, and other complications of heart disease.

P.S. As many as two-thirds of cardiac patients in the U.S. don't participate in any kind of cardiac rehab—even though they should.

When a person has a heart problem years ago, they were advised to take it easy. Today, we know a lot more about what works for rehab and what doesn't. For more information, visit COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, at 700 Congress St., in Quincy or call me or Dr. Lisa Antonelli at 472-2550. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospital.

Quincy Safari Down The Amazon

THE POVERTY OF Peru is quite evident in these huts in a village along the Amazon.

"JUNGLE JIM" SHEETS contemplates a Tarzan-like swing on a vine in a rain forest. (He didn't).

EDWARD KEOHANE misses no opportunity to promote the Quincy Partnership. Here he presents a youngster in a remote village with a pin from that organization. The Quincy group also handed out Quincy hats, Quincy T-shirts and Super Bowl T-shirts.

THE RIVER BOAT La Turmalina was the Quincy group's home-away-from-home on their trip down the Amazon.

ROBERT CURRY and Richard Kertzman get acquainted with youngsters in one of the villages along the Amazon.

RAIN FOREST JUNGLE is a thing of beauty but getting through it is another thing, the Quincy group discovered.

"DOWNTOWN" MARKETPLACE displays a variety of goods.

A QUICK RAIN squall comes up over the Amazon, looking like the birth of a tornado.

THE JUNGLE WAS tough but life aboard the river boat La Turmalina wasn't so bad. Here enjoying a safari time-out are Richard Kertzman, Mayor James Sheets, Bruce MacKilligan, Edward Keohane and Robert Curry.

Restaurant Approved For Quincy Fair Mall

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board granted a common victualer license to Antonio Marcella, owner of a new Italian restaurant called L'Imperatore at 1591 Hancock St. at the Quincy Fair Mall, with a wine and malt license to follow.

Because of a wait by the Alcoholics Beverage Commission for the approval of a beer and malt license, Marcella's attorney Michael S. Nuesse of Hingham, told the board his client was anxious to begin his food business while waiting.

The restaurant will seat 60 persons for lunch and dinner and will be open seven days a week. Hours are Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. until 12 midnight and on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Marcella, who said he had much experience, told the board he had owned a restaurant in Italy for nine years as well as one in Canada.

While Chairman Joseph Shea said he sometimes "worries about too many restaurant in the area", added "we don't want you to fail --- we want you to succeed".

Shea said the first restaurant there was called Center Stage and has since changed hands a couple of times since then. He said that the owner of Center Stage tried "very hard" to make a success out of the establishment.

Marcella said he will specialize in Italian food from egg plant parmesan to home made pasta and lasagne.

Maralin Manning, director of the Quincy Business and Professional Association said as long as Marcella does what he says, and not have a huge menu, she said she felt as though he could succeed.

She suggested that maybe the sale of cinema tickets along with a dinner might be a good promotional move.

Marcella said he hoped to open in a few days.

Delahunt Wins Award At Prosecutors Conference

Congressman William D. Delahunt received an award from his former colleagues at the recent Massachusetts District Attorneys Association Third Annual Prosecutors Conference.

Delahunt served as Norfolk County district attorney from 1975 through 1996. A recognized national leader in the struggle against domestic violence and sexual abuse, he pioneered the nation's first-ever domestic violence program in a prosecutor's office in 1978.

Delahunt established the second unit in the nation solely dedicated to the prosecution of crimes of sexual assault. As Norfolk District Attorney, he was also on the forefront in the fight against racial prejudice and civil rights violations.

"As Norfolk District Attorney, Bill Delahunt was a leader in the battle against domestic abuse and sexual assault," said Cape and Islands District Attorney Philip Rollins.

"With Bill's representation as our Congressman, I anticipate maintaining our close working relationship on these and other criminal justice issues, including the procurement of additional resources for prosecutors," Rollins added.

"We honor the significant and innovative contributions that Bill Delahunt has made to all prosecutors throughout his career," said Tom Reilly, president of the Massachusetts District Attorneys Association and Middlesex District Attorney. "He is a friend to all of us in law enforcement and we look forward to continuing to work with him in his role as Congressman."

More than 500 prosecutors from across the state were in attendance at the conference when Delahunt received the award.

Ayers, Business Owner Meet With Residents

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers recently held a neighborhood meeting at the location of a new business coming to North Quincy.

Boston Light Electrical Contractors, Inc. is in the process of purchasing the property located at 92-100 Sagamore St. Ayers held the meeting for the purpose of addressing issues and concerns and to introduce the owner to neighbors. Todd Egan, president of Boston Light Electrical Contractors, explained the nature of the business and promised to be a good neighbor.

Business hours will be 7 to 5:30 p.m. and the firm will staff three positions. Aesthetic improvements will be made to the exterior as well as to the interior of the building.

In recent years, Ayers has worked with area residents and city officials to revitalize the Welcome Young area with the closing of the former Sagamore ore Grill, the $100,000 invested in renovations to the Welcome Young Playground, the demolition of the former Teal Building, (now the site of a soccer field), and the new business Applied Image Reprographics.

"We have worked hard to improve the quality of life in Ward 6," said Ayers. "This is the second business to locate in this area to work toward that direction. My intent is to continue to work on the revitalization of Ward 6 and to be sure any new business or development will be beneficial to the surrounding area."

Buckley Appointed MCOA Legislative Committee Chairman

Quincy Council on Aging Director Brian Buckley has been appointed chairman of the Massachusetts Association of Councils on Aging Legislative Committee by MCOA President Barbara Farnsworth.

The MCOA, which is represented by 350 cities and towns in Massachusetts, holds regular meetings throughout the state with this year's Annual Meeting being held in Falmouth in November.

The purpose of the Legislative Committee is to take initiative in helping MCOA meet its agreed upon goals and objectives regarding legislation and advocacy issues regarding elders and aging programs. The committee works with MCOA's Vice President for Regional Representatives and Legislation, Diane Mackie. Committee chairmen also function as part of the Steering Committee which meets 4-5 times per year.

Buckley, who has been an active member in MCOA for 13 years, was first appointed Quincy

BRIAN BUCKLEY

Council on Aging director in 1980.

Buckley, who looks forward to chairing the Legislative Committee said, "The MCOA Legislative Committee has been very active in years past. The committee is very effective in getting the message of Senior Citizens to legislatures. I've always had a great working relationship with our local legislators, Senator Morrissey and Representatives Bellotti, Mariano and Tobin. With their help, the MCOA Legislative Committee will continue to be an effective voice of Senior Citizens."

Plans To Run For Councillor-At-Large

Eugene Griffin of Bigelow St. says he will run for the City Council at-large in this year's election.

Griffin said he is a construction worker and member of Local 223 Laborers International of North America.

He said he is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Boston State College. He is a former substitute teacher in the Quincy public school system and was formerly a bank teller, he said.

Your Social Security

Protecting Social Security Records

By CAROL BOYLE

Because Social Security is automatically deducted from your paycheck, you may not realize that there are other steps you should take to assure that the money will be there for you when you retire, or if you become disabled, and to your family if should die.

When you work, your employer deducts the Social Security taxes from your paycheck, adds a matching amount, and sends the taxes to Internal Revenue Service and a report to the Social Security Administration. By the end of January, you should receive a W-2 form stating the amount of wages the employer paid you during the year that you can use to file your own income tax return. If you do not receive the statement, you should contact the employer.

When you receive your W-2 form, check it for the correct name and Social Security number. Compare the number and name shown on the W-2 with the information on your Social Security card. Report any discrepancies to your employer and local Social Security office right away. Uncredited earnings could adversely affect your future eligibility for benefits, as well as your benefit amount.

You should protect your Social Security number, the key to your Social Security account. The nine digit number identifies your account and permits Social Security to credit your account correctly. If you lose the card, you can generally get a duplicate with a phone call. You should show your Social Security card to your employer when you start a job.

You should be sure to keep your Social Security record up to date. If, because of marriage, divorce, adoption, etc., you change the name you use for work or other official business, be sure to apply for a corrected Social Security card. And once you make the change, be sure to use the name consistently for work, banking, and filing income tax returns.

Finally, Social Security suggests that you check the earnings credited to your account at least once every three years. You can keep track of your account easily by calling and requesting a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement (PEBES). If there is an error in your earnings, you should contact Social Security as soon as possible. If you have the necessary documents showing your earnings, the correction can actually be made online. If you wait longer than three years, it may be difficult to correct the earnings record using the employer's records. (Carol Boyle is Social Security manager in Quincy.)

McCauley Questions Shipbuilding At Fore River

$772,000 in 1996 alone. These funds are used to fund city government operations.

"Since the time the shipyard closed politicians at all levels of government--federal, state and local--have had a mindset to bring back shipbuilding to Quincy. The Fore River Shipyard has had a great history of building ships in wartime as well as peacetime. While there is a certain amount of nostalgia in connection with bringing back shipbuilding, I question the practicality of these efforts for the following reasons:

"Shipbuilding is a world wide, highly competitive industry. Foreign countries such as Japan, Korea, and Germany have modern shipyards, and in many cases lower wage rates than U.S. shipbuilding facilities. A review of the history of shipbuilding in Quincy indicates a 'feast or a famine' situation; either the 'yard' going full blast with employees working 'eight days a week,' or periods with little or no work, resulting in layoffs of workers.

"From time to time there were lengthy labor disputes that developed into strikes that taxed city resources, particularly in the area of police overtime. Finally, it would be risking taxpayers' dollars in excess of $200 million, for the creation of only 1,000 jobs.

"In retrospect, it might have been better for the city to have examined alternate uses of the shipyard property. Uses which might have provided higher levels of employment as well as a more stable future for continued economic growth."

SPOTLIGHT ON H

Prevention Is Key To Good Eye Health

Poor eyesight is not inevitable with age, according to eye physician Dr. Elliot Finkelstein of Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged.

Most older people retain good eyesight into their 80s and beyond, although some physical changes that occur as we grow older may cause a gradual decline in vision. Older people often need brighter lights when reading or cooking and may be more comfortable with daylight driving. Regular incandescent light bulbs may be better than fluorescent lights.

To protect the eyes, Dr. Finkelstein recommends individuals:

- Have regular health

checkups to detect treatable diseases such as high blood pressure and diabetes, both of which may cause eye problems.

- Arrange to see an ophthalmologist (eye physician and surgeon) at one if you notice loss or dimness of vision, eye pain, discharge fluids from the eye, double vision, or redness or swelling of the eye or eyelid.

- Have a complete eye exam every two years after age 40, even if there appears to be no change in vision. Many eye diseases progress without noticeable symptoms.

- Be screened for glaucoma, important for anyone over the age of 35 because the disease seldom produces early symptoms. With a family history of glaucoma or in African Americans, check for glaucoma even earlier.

For those people with poor vision, check to see if you have a condition which can be treated to improve vision. If it can't be improved, there are many aids available.

Telescopic lenses and magnifying glasses, along with a variety of electronic devices provide more power than regular eyeglasses. Some are designed to be hand-held; others rest on the reading material. Also consider using magnifying lamps, machines which enlarge the print of books, and "talking" books on cassettes, records and computer disks.

Dried beans, peas, lentils, etc. are cheap and make a "complete protein" when served with a little meat, cheese or milk.

A Checklist For Healthy Living

(NAPS)—For those in their prime, healthy living provides tremendous benefits, the natural energy, stamina and positive attitude which enable us to achieve all that we aim to in life.

The following is a vital checklist for healthy living, brought to you by PrimeLife:

1. Exercise for 50 minutes at least three times a week. A suggested combination program includes five minutes of warm-up and stretching, 20 minutes of aerobic activity, 20 minutes of weight training, and five minutes to cool down.
2. Eat a balanced diet with no more than 30 percent of calories from fat.
3. Eat breakfast every morning.
4. Don't eat between meals.
5. A daily vitamin supplement may be required. A daily calcium supplement is generally recommended for women. Supplement your daily diet with the vitamins and minerals necessary to attain the recommend-it's time to get back in shape!

6. Do not drink more than two caffeinated or two alcoholic drinks per day.
7. Do not smoke, chew tobacco or dip snuff.
8. Consume eight to ten glasses of water per day.
9. Maintain your recommended weight (see formula below).
10. Get sufficient sleep to feel well rested.
11. Get complete, annual medical exams, semiannual dental exams and biannual eye exams.

Your Ideal Weight:

Men: 110, plus five pounds for every inch in which your height exceeds five feet.

Women: 100, plus five pounds for every inch in which your height exceeds five feet.

The result, for both men and women, is your ideal weight if you have a medium frame. If you have a small frame, subtract ten percent; large frame, add ten percent.

PrimeLife is a positive approach membership association for go-getters in their prime who value the art of a well-rounded, productive life. PrimeLife provides useful information, products, services and discounts which help you to maximize your potential, based on the seven key life areas: health, finances, career, relationships, learning, recreation, and spirituality.

An annual membership is only $9.95; a three-year membership is $24.95 and comes with a bonus copy of the PrimeLife Guide to Personal Success. To join PrimeLife, call 1-800-AT-PRIME, or check them out on the Internet at <http://www.primelife.com>.

Children And Scoliosis

By DR. BRUCE INDEK

Recently a new form of technology has been used to examine the function of nerves and muscles within the spine. This new diagnostic tool is called Surface EMG.

The term "surface" refers to the fact that there is no penetration of the skin with needles. "EMG" stands for Electro-MyoGraphy, which measures how muscles contract and thus function. Spinal Surface EMG measures how groups of muscles function or work around the spine. It is a painless test that involves the placement of special pads strategically placed along the spine. These pads are connected to the EMG machine and a computer that interprets the muscle activity or function and compares it to the left and right side of the spine.

Scoliosis is a curvature of the spine that be acquired or inherited. Muscles along the spine determine how it will grow and thus form. An imbalance in the pulling activity of these muscles can misalign spinal bones and cause scoliosis. It most commonly shows up around early adolescents, 12 to 13 years of age. Scoliosis can cause a wide variety of health problems; if detected early, its effects may be avoided.

Spinal Surface EMG measures the muscle pull activity on the spine and thus detects the early likelihood of scoliosis in children. Visual posture evaluation is also important but often times this technique alone is not very accurate in the early stages of scoliosis development.

Most pediatricians do not employ this technology. At Indek Chiropractic, we screen children with the Surface EMG to measure this muscle activity. When problems are detected early, corrective care can start before the scoliosis forms.

Please contact my office at 472-0661 and make an appointment to have your child screened.

It is wiser to prevent health problems than to allow them to occur.

The best time to exercise? Experts say it's just before going to work. After a workout you are more alert and better able to concentrate.

DID YOU KNOW...

Tobacco doesn't only hurt the user . . . It hurts those around the user also. Just being near tobacco smoke increases a person's chance for getting cancer or lung disease. Some people are allergic to tobacco smoke.

Studies show that pregnant women who smoke may be hurting their babies. For example, babies may be smaller than average or be born prematurely. Infants exposed to tobacco smoke are more likely to die of crib death or get lung disease than those not exposed.

Call 376-1161 or 1162 for further information.

Why Bring Him To Us?

Kids take a lot of tumbles. And bounces. And falls. The repeated trauma a child's body endures can add up to spinal misalignments. If left uncorrected, these can contribute to major health problems later in life.

Doctors of Chiropractic are licensed health care providers. We can detect and correct spinal misalignments. We can also start your child on a lifetime of conservative health care that doesn't involve drugs or surgery.

Young Women At Risk For Osteoporosis

Many people think of osteoporosis—a disease in which bones become thin, brittle, and easily broken—as an “older person’s disease.” But, osteoporosis often has its beginnings in the years before age 35.

That’s when peak bone mass is still being formed—and when prevention is most effective. Given this and the fact that 80 percent of osteoporosis sufferers are female, young women have a special stake in taking positive steps to protect themselves from developing this disabling, painful disease later in life.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health offers these special bone-healthy recommendations for women under age 35:

Add Calcium to Your Daily Diet

Young women need 1,200 mg of calcium per day, which equals four 8 ounce glasses of milk. Most women take in only one-third to one-half of the daily calcium they need. Calcium-rich foods don’t have to be fattening. In fact, a cup of skim milk actually provides somewhat more calcium than a cup of whole milk, with fewer calories and no fat.

Even when a busy schedule only allows a quick meal on the run, you can easily add calcium to your diet. Grate cheese over your salad. Add slices of low-fat cheese to your sandwich. Drink skim milk or calcium-fortified fruit juices instead of soda. Choose low-fat yogurt, frozen yogurt, or ice milk for desserts or snacks. Enjoy high-calcium food like broccoli. Experiment with adding tofu to your favorite recipes. If you have difficulty digesting dairy products, increase other calcium-rich foods in your diet, take calcium supplements, or use lactase pills or drops, which make milk products easier to digest.

Exercise for Strong Bones
The most effective exercise for building bone mass is weight-bearing exercise—that is, exercise that causes muscles to work against gravity. Some examples are jogging, tennis, stair climbing, walking, and dancing.

Healthy Habits Make Healthy Bones
Nicotine and alcohol are toxic to bones. They can interfere with proper nutrition, and no amount of extra calcium can make up for the damage. To help protect your bones, avoid smoking and practice moderation with alcoholic beverages.

Pregnancy and Motherhood
Pregnant women and nursing mothers need even more calcium in their diet, because a baby’s calcium needs are satisfied by taking calcium from the mother’s bones. If you are under age 24 and pregnant or nursing, you need 1,500 mg or calcium. If you are over 24, you need 1,200 mg per day.

Talk to Your Doctor
Proper calcium intake, weight-bearing exercise, and healthy lifestyle choices can help you prevent osteoporosis later in life. Talk to your doctor about how you can improve and maintain your home health.

For More Information
The Massachusetts Department of Public Health has created a special hotline to put you in touch with information, resources, and support that can lead to bone-healthy living at any age. The toll-free number is 1-800-95-BONES.

Beware The Silent Killer

(NAPS)—According to The American Heart Association, more than 58 million American adults have high blood pressure, or hypertension, which can cause heart attack and stroke. Blood pressure screenings are very important because these conditions may have no symptoms.

Many people are not aware that there’s a simple, easy method of screening for high blood pressure—which is also free at many pharmacies, drug and department stores, health clubs, and even military bases. That’s why

Vita-Stat, the makers of in-store blood pressure screening devices have launched the “Sit and Screen Program” to encourage self testing. The blood pressure monitor is about the size of a video game and requires you sit down to take your reading.

In-store blood pressure units recorded over 400 million readings last year. Many people who know to be concerned with high blood pressure, like senior citizens and pregnant women, screen themselves regularly. In-store monitoring allows these people to keep on top of their blood pressure between doctor appointments. In-store monitoring is not a substitute for a doctors’ visit.

Park Dept. Steps Up Tree Maintenance Effort

The Park Department recently launched an aggressive effort to handle the many tree-care requests received by the department this past year.

Aided by a mild season, crews are concentrating on a different section of the city each week in an attempt to prune, trim, and remove trees as necessary. Priority status is given to any tree request considered a threat to the safety of the general public.

Tree Warden Frank McLaughlin will conduct a maintenance survey of each area, determining which trees require care or removal. The Park Department will not remove any tree that is determined to be healthy.

The Forestry Division, with a crew of six men and three vehicles, will be assisted by crews and equipment from the Park

Department maintenance division. The temporary help will be in the form of an additional four men and two vehicles. This will allow two separate crews to work concurrently, one handling trimming and pruning, and the other crew handling the larger maintenance requests.

The realigned work force will help augment the efforts of Forest Division personnel in an attempt to catch up on previous requests. The new system will be employed by the Park Department during the next few winters in an attempt to answer the more than 1,200 tree care requests received every year. The department apologizes for any outstanding requests and advises patience.

The city is estimated to have more than 20,000 trees line its streets, not to mention the many in our parks and open spaces. Our trees provide shade, cleaner air, and higher property values for the surrounding neighborhoods. The City is also in the process of planting 425 trees throughout out city to further add to the sylvan beauty of our communities.

"Our city is fortunate to have a tradition of tree-lined streets," said Park, Forestry and Cemetery Department Executive Director, Thomas Koch. "Our trees are invaluable resource in improving the quality of life for our residents. Along with our many trees, comes a certain amount of required maintenance."

"It is our hope that, with the new management plan in place, we will be able to institute a more proactive maintenance program."

For more information or requests, call 376-1251.

City, State Join Forces To Restore Salt Marshes

State Environmental Affairs Secretary Trudy Cox announced that the City of Quincy has signed an agreement with the Executive Affairs (EOEA) to work together toward the restoration of several salt marshes.

"Wetlands restoration has to be a critical component of our efforts to improve the quality of our coastal and watershed environments," said Cox. "The impetus must come from the local level and must be strongly supported by State and Federal agencies. The City of Quincy has taken a leadership role. We want to highlight their successes so other communities will follow Quincy's example."

Under the agreement, Quincy and EOEA will work together to revitalize the Billings Creek, Broad Meadows, and Parkhurst salt marshes. Quincy's salt marshes and fresh water ponds have suffered extensive losses and degradation caused by urbanization and military facilities. The work is designed to produce direct benefits for the residents by reducing the threat of fires from the elephant grass, curbing illegal dumping, and improving drainage, in addition to the environmental improvements.

By becoming a partner with EOEA's Wetlands Restoration Banking Program under its GROW Wetlands (Groups Restoring Our Wetlands) initiative, the city will gain greater access to the funding resources provided by the Partnership To Restore Massachusetts Wetlands. The partnership includes a number of federal and state agencies and private organizations which have funding programs for wetland restoration projects.

Mayor James Sheets said, "We looked forward to working with the state in restoring these environmentally sensitive areas to their natural state. It is one of the greatest gifts we can give future generations."

In October, 1996, Cox presented the city with an award for its wetland restoration work which includes, to date, Third Marsh, Sailor's Home Pond, and Post Island Marsh. The work at Third Marsh and Post Island Marsh are examples of the results that can be achieved by the rejuvenation of such natural resources.

In fact, the efforts at Post Island Marsh have been the subject of studies by the Harvard University Graduate School of Design (Landscape Ecology), and the Harvard University School of Applied Sciences. Also, the success of the work at Sailor's Home Pond has been the basis for restoration work soon to begin at Butler Pond. Sheets said the city is committed to restoring its freshwater and coastal wetlands for the many public benefits they provide, including: erosion control, storm damage prevention, water quality improvement, recreation, and fish and wildlife habitat.

For more information, call Christy Foote-Smith, director of the Wetlands Restoration and Banking Program at the State Executive Office of Environmental Affairs at 292-5991 or David Colton, Quincy's Commissioner of Public Works at 376-1957.

Accent On Quincy Center

By BRUCE ARONS
Quincy Center Development Coordinator

Two weeks ago, I attended a very positive and informative meeting held by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

I had the opportunity to listen to the guest speaker, Jim McLean, a specialist on downtown redevelopment, who addressed the general membership. His comments were very welcomed and reassuring to those implementing the recently-improved Quincy Center Action Plan.

The Quincy Center Action Plan, developed by the Quincy 2000 Corporation and endorsed by both the QCBPA and the Quincy City Council, outlines strategies for revitalizing Quincy Center over the next five years.

Thanks go to Daniel Flynn, QCBPA president, for introducing us to Jim McLean. Mr. McLean's comments and recommendations are very consistent with the action plan strategies and the revitalization effort now underway.

I am happy to report that one of our favorite resident businesses, Rhyme 'n Reason is alive and well and doing great in their new location in the Monroe Building at 1253 Hancock St. (between the Bank of Braintree and Enchantments). Their new display is twice the size of their former location.

As owner Chris Kusy told me, "This provides a wider selection of toys etc., and twice as much fun for our customers." Stop by their new location and say hello to Chris and Lorraine Kusy. I did, and I had a fun time in their new store location!

According to Joe Haman of Key Realty, the Monroe Building is now 100 percent occupied.

Congratulations to the Siam House Restaurant for passing muster with the Boston Globe food critic. Those of us that eat in the restaurant know how great the food and service is. Now the rest of Quincy and the South Shore knows! (The Siam House is located at 1472 Hancock St, Quincy Center.)

Quincy 2000's successful Commercial Building Renovation Program has really made a dramatic impact downtown. The continuation of this program for this current year is bound to further beautify Quincy Center.

The success of this program has created a greater demand on the limited grant funds, so I encourage property owners who are considering making facade improvements this year to contact Michael Rie at Quincy 2000 as early as possible.

Till next time, be sure to check out what's "happening" in downtown Quincy Center--and feel free to write me with your comments and suggestions. (Mailing address: The Quincy 2000 Corp., 1250 Hancock St., Suite 802N, Quincy, MA 02169.)

(Cont'd from Page 1)

The Child World location in the Adams Arcade Building was where the city a couple of years ago had tried to attract Decelle to.

The exterior of the building was recently renovated through assistance of a grant from Quincy 2000 through the Commercial Building Renovation Program.

Mannarino said: "One of our goals following the completion of the storefront improvements was to recruit a tenant for the remaining vacant space. We're pleased to have met this goal within two months of completing the improvements. This proves that the Commercial Building Renovation Program can improve the viability of the business districts by generating benefits above and beyond the exterior improvements."

Mannarino added that the second round of the Commercial Building Renovation Program will be kicked off later this spring.

The Limas will renovate the interior of the store and have entrance on both the Parkway and Hancock Street.

"This is another example of the growing confidence and investment in Quincy Center," Arons said. "The Limas recognize that Quincy ADAMS ARCADE BUILDING in Quincy Center, which recently received improvements to its exterior facade, soon will have a CVS-like retail store in the former Child World located to the right of Ryder's Curtains and Expose Fashions.

(Sun photo/Tom Gorman)

Center is a place their business can succeed. The filling of this space eliminates one of the few, larger vacant spaces left in Quincy Center."

REAL ESTATE MARKET

State Home Sales Rise 16% In 1996

Sales of single-family homes reached an all-time high in Massachusetts last year as attractive mortgage rates, escalating rent prices, and an improving local economy attracted a record number of buyers into the housing market in 1996, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) said in a recent report.

Sales of detached single-family homes increased 16.2 percent in 1996, rising from 36,455 units sold in 1995 to 42,353 this past year, while condominium sales rose 23.4 percent last year, jumping from 7,054 closings a year ago to 8,704 in 1996, the year-end report showed. "We've got a terrific combination of factors pushing the market to new heights right now," said MAR President Richard C.

Dils of Shelburne Falls. "Most notably, housing affordability has improved as mortgage rates have remained consistently low for the past 21 months, and prices have held relatively stable. In addition, generally low unemployment rates in much of the state have bolstered consumer confidence and sparked an increase in employee relocation into the state.

In many communities, low apartment vacancy rates have also forced rents up by as much as 7 to 10 percent in the past year, drawing large numbers of first-time buyers into the market, according to Dils.

"It's a very healthy market," he said.

The total of 51,057 residential property sales closed in 1996 is the most-ever recorded in Massachusetts in a single calendar year, exceeding the previous high of 49,625 sales reported in 1987, the MAR study found.

During the final quarter of 1996, detached single-family home sales rose 11.3 percent over the same period one year earlier, rising from 9,851 closings in the fourth quarter of 1995 to 10,964 in the last quarter of 1996. Condo sales were equally strong, jumping 14.1 percent, from 1,983 closings in the fourth quarter a year ago to 2,263 in 1996.

Regionally, sales of detached homes rose everywhere except Cape Cod and the Islands, where sales were flat, and the West, where activity fell 4.6 percent. Condo sales improved in most areas as well, as only the Southeast region saw a small decline from one year ago.

Real Estate Appraisal: Is It Art or Science?

News USA

(NU) - It's been said that appraisal is not a science — it's an art. And more than any other part of real estate, appraising seems to be the least understood.

The truth is that appraisal is a science, but a good appraiser must apply both sides of the brain to make a well-balanced analysis of a property's value.

A good appraiser must be able to objectively analyze a property's aesthetic pluses and minuses and their effect on its overall market value. Appraisers cannot allow themselves to be smitten by a property's beauty or made indifferent by its complex statistics.

There are several statistical methods available to the appraiser. Some, like linear or multiple regression, are highly complex. But the one that is probably most familiar to the public is "matched-pair analysis," which takes into account contributory value — the amount a specific amenity adds or subtracts from the overall worth of a property.

For example, if you purchased a home for $100,000 and installed a swimming pool in the back yard at a cost of $15,000, then one month later sold the same home for $110,000, the contributory value of the pool would be $10,000, not the $15,000 it cost to build.

To make a statistical analysis, find a home that sold recently. Next, look at the sale of a similar home with a pool in the same neighborhood. The difference in sale prices is attributable to the difference in amenities, in this case, the pool.

Of course, an appraisal is more complex, but that is the essence of matched-pair analysis. It can be very difficult locating matched pairs to prove the contributory value of various amenities. That's why appraisers spend most of their time searching data files and comparing other sales rather than looking at the property being appraised. Sometimes appraisers use six or more points of comparison in trying to prove the effect different amenities have on value.

Assuming there were no identical home models sold recently, a good appraisal will use comparable sales that bracket key elements of a property's value, adjusting for the difference in contributory value of each amenity and leading to a suggested value for the property.

Appraising is hard work and requires diligent data searches and a knowledge of techniques acquired through years of experience and hundreds of hours of course work.

To help ensure you get the job done right, always hire an accredited appraiser.

The American Society of Appraisers has been educating, testing and accrediting appraisers for over 60 years. ASA accredited appraisers must pass rigorous educational and experience requirements, testing, and review.

To find one in your area, call ASA at 1-800-ASA-VALU (1-800-272-8258).

Officials Investigating Quincy Point Odors

City officials are investigating the cause of strange odors that have been detected in part of Quincy Point.

The problem has been occurring in the neighborhood surrounding Sprague Energy, the former Quincy Oil Co. The area affected by the smell includes Stewart Street, Edison Park, Edison Street, Graham Street, Farnum Street, Thompson Street, Bayview Street and Ave Way.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi said Tuesday about 26 complaints have come from neighbors in the past year, mainly since last fall. Some described the smell as a gaseous odor, while others said they associated the scent with fuel oil.

Raymondi added that progress has been made since a Jan. 23 community meeting was held on the matter.

"Deputy Fire Chief Paul Arty is spearheading the investigation," said Raymondi. "I think he's done a superb job so far."

Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton also is preparing a report on the matter that he will forward to Raymondi and Cuddy, Raymondi said.

According to correspondence sent by Cuddy to Raymondi, there are two possibilities for the cause.

"First, there is a strong odor of what appears to be a petroleum-based product coming from the storm sewers on Southern Artery at Edison Park and Edison Street," Cuddy wrote. "Second, while investigating the outfall pipe which discharges to the Town River through Sprague Energy, we identified a strong gaseous-like odor when we were downwind of Tank No. 11 which contains No. 6 fuel oil."

"This was reported by [a representative of] Sprague Energy to be vapors from the vent pipe and was due to the mercaptan sulfur additive. If the wind was blowing toward the abutting neighborhood that day, I feel the residents would have been able to smell it."

Cuddy also wrote that he has contacted Sprague Engineer's safety engineer, David Argyros, who assigned an environmental engineer to investigate upon being notified of the problem.

In addition, Colton is overseeing an analysis of the contaminated storm sewers. Lieutenant John Menz of the Quincy Fire Department has contacted the MWRA about investigating possible sources of the contamination, and the Boston Gas Co. has found no traces of natural gas in the neighborhood, according to Cuddy.

Raymondi said he will continue to keep residents informed and asked that neighbors who smell anything document the time and nature of the odors and contact him, Cuddy or Menz.

Presidents Top North, Prepare For Sectionals

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following recent wins over rival North Quincy and Brookline, the improved Quincy High School wrestling team will participate in the Division I South Sectionals Friday and Saturday at Braintree High School.

Quincy coach Lou Venturilli expects strong performances from his top wrestlers, including Dai Nguyen (103, 112 lbs.), Jimmy Tan (119, 125), Tony Davy (125), Pat Harrington (130), James Bennett (fifth at the Durfee Tournament at 135) and captains Seve Tan (140) and Kevin Connolly (152). The top six finishers at the Sectionals advance to the state tournament next week at Lowell.

"Dai was a Sectional champion last year, and he's favored to repeat," said Venturilli. "I also hope Seve and Kevin can place and advance to the state tournament. Tony, James, Pat, Jimmy have all had good seasons and should also do well at the Sectionals."

The Presidents took on visiting Marshfield Tuesday night in their last match before this weekend's Sectionals. Results of the match were unavailable as of press time.

Monday night, the Presidents lost a heartbreaker to Plymouth North, 39-36, after taking a 36-21 lead into the final three matches.

"Our inexperience in the upper weights has really hurt us this season," said Quincy coach Lou Venturilli. "A half-dozen meets could have gone our way with an experienced big guy."

Over the weekend, Quincy lost matches to Waltham (46-23) and Newton North (40-37), but picked up its fifth win of the season over Brookline.

Last Wednesday, the Presidents defeated their crosstown rival North Quincy, 18-9, for the fifth straight time.

Without taking any of the forfeits against the undermanned Red Raiders, Jimmy Tan (125), Tony Davy (130), Pat Harrington (135) and Kevin Connolly (152) picked up wins for host Quincy, which won four of the six matches wrestled. Matt Kane (103) and Jose Villanueva (145) were victorious for the Red Raiders.

Gaining valuable varsity experience this year are Long Nguyen (103), Jasper Tan (103), Kang Chen (130), Mike Feeley (145), Larry Mahrouk (145), Mike Chenette (171), Dan Kane (189), Mike Turner (215) and Kris Ricupero (215, heavyweight).

"With eight freshmen, I'm not disappointed in the season (5-17-1)," said Venturilli. "Now it's on to the individual tournaments."

Underrated Raiders Looking For 'Respect'

Hampered by a lack of participants, the North Quincy High School wrestling team is ready to surprise some doubters at this Friday and Saturday's Division II South Sectionals at Marshfield High School.

"This is where we'll earn some respect, I think," said North Quincy coach Mike Mauriello. "It's a very individual tournament, with the top six individuals advancing to the state tournament. I expect very good things from our wrestlers."

"We definitely have a good corps who should compete for sectional and state titles. I think our veteran kids will compete for sectional titles, while I feel good about our rookies and younger guys' chances to advance in state tournament."

Before the Sectionals, NQ tangled with host Plymouth South yesterday (Wednesday) at 4:30 p.m. Results of the match was unavailable as of press time.

Last Saturday at Canton, the Red Raiders lost to Canton and Randolph (36-27) and defeated Hanover (24-17).

"Canton hammered us, but that loss to Randolph is very deceiving," said Mauriello, whose team currently has only six healthy wrestlers. "All our points were legitimate, but they took 30 points on forfeits, meaning they only got six points in matches wrestled."

NQ was led by Matt Kane and Man Kit So, both of whom picked up two wins over the weekend. Usually wrestling at 103 lbs., Kane moved up to 112 against Hanover and won his match, 11-5. Chris Barra, Jose Villanueva and So picked up victories by pin against Hanover.

"So's win clinched the match for us, and after he won, he looked like he just won the Super Bowl," said Mauriello. "He had never won a match before this weekend, so it was great to see him do so well."

Against Randolph, Kane topped previously undefeated Mike Anderson by a 7-4 count. James Martell and So also earned wins by pin.

Last Wednesday night, the visiting Red Raiders dropped a 18-9 decision to rival Quincy.

Kane and Villanueva came away with NQ's only victories in the six matches wrestled. Kane defeated Jasper Tan, 8-3, while Villanueva pinned Quincy's Larry Mahrouk. Quincy, which did not take any of the forfeits, was paced by Jimmy Tan (125), Tony Davy (130), Pat Harrington (135) and Kevin Connolly (152).

HOCKEY

Presidents Shoot For Higher Tourney Spot

Attempting to improve its seeding in the MIAA state tournament, the Quincy High School hockey team tangled with visiting Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) at 6:40 p.m.

The result of the game was unavailable as of press time. The Presidents (13-2-3) are back in action Saturday night at 7:50 when they take on crosstown foe North Quincy at Quincy Youth Arena.

In their first meeting earlier this season, the Presidents scored a late goal to force a 1-1 tie in a hotly-contested, well-played game. Bob Sylvia, Quincy's coach, saw no reason why this weekend's battle would be any different.

"They're out of the running for a tournament spot, but it's still a big game for them, as it is for us," said Sylvia. "It's a good tuneup for us and a chance to get a higher seeding in the tournament, so we'll be just as ready for the game as we would be for any other game."

"It'll be a great game, the same old story of whose the better team that night. They played us as good as any team has this season, including Falmouth. We consider that 1-1 tie with them as one of our better games played this year. Our objection

Basketball

Raiders Clinch Berth, Battle Quincy Friday

By LIAM FITZGERALD

After twice falling short of clinching a berth in the MIAA state tournament, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team got the proverbial monkey off its back last Friday night with a 59-44 triumph over host Bridgewater-Raynham.

The Red Raiders, who improved to 10-7 and secured a spot in the tournament, hosted Falmouth Tuesday night. The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

Besides improving its position in the tournament, North had an added incentive to defeat the Clippers: a win would mark NQ coach Ted Stevenson's 100th victory at the helm.

"It's a standard all coaches would like to hit," he said. "This is my 10th year, and I calculated my record as 99-99, so it would be nice to get over the .500 mark with my 100th win."

North visits the tournament-bound Presidents Friday night at 8 in the season's second meeting between the cross-town rivals. In the first game, the host Red Raiders handled the Presidents' pressure and won, 57-45. Junior center Brian Ross led NQ with 33 points, including 18 in the first half.

"It'll be a war, like it usually is," said Stevenson. "Quincy will be sky-high, it's at their gym, so we have to be ready to play. You circle certain games before the season, and the first two you circle are the Quincy games. There will be a lot of excitement, a packed gym, with kids pumped for the game."

"Again, it'll come down to who gets who to play their game. Last time, we gained control of things and played our style of game, not their up-tempo style. We've won the last three games against them, so we know they'll be looking to break that streak Friday night."

Against B-R, one of the Old Colony League's toughest teams, the Red Raiders contained 6-7 center

Marc Colombo, who managed just two points.

"(Matt) Bromley and Ross did a tremendous job on Colombo, switching off and making it difficult for him to get on a roll offensively," said Stevenson. "Overall, the kids played their best game of the year. Everyone stepped up, not just one or two guys."

"We held them to something like 30 points under their average, which can be attributed to the confidence our players felt going into the game. They outplayed B-R for the most part at home when we lost, so they knew they could beat them, and they did."

Ross paced NQ with 19 points and 13 rebounds, while Brian Doyle came off the bench to chip in 11 points. Jim Finn dished out nine assists and had no turnovers and Chris Erler played his best floor game of the year, said Stevenson.

Earlier in the week, the Red Raiders fell to visiting Boston English, 63-54, despite 35 points from Ross.

Quincy Looks To Halt Losing Skid To North

Following an Old Colony League contest against visiting Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday night (result not available as of press time), the Quincy High School boys basketball team hosts rival North Quincy Friday night at 8 with revenge on its mind.

The Presidents have dropped the last three showdowns with the Red Raiders, including a 57-45 defeat at North Quincy earlier this season. Quincy fell behind early, cut North's lead to four at the break, but could not stop the inside-outside play of NQ's Brian Ross, who finished with 33 points.

"Going into that game, some of our kids never experienced the whole rivalry thing, a packed gym with an enormous crowd," said Quincy coach John Franceschini, whose squad has already qualified for the MIAA state tournament.

"I think we'll be better prepared mentally for it this time around and should perform that much better. A lot of our players have gotten better, developed more of a complete game. I think it'll be a great game."

Despite the distractions that come when these two teams meet, the Presidents' focus will be clear: secure a home tournament game, then prepare themselves to advance in the tournament.

"It's obviously a big game, but our biggest incentive will be getting another win," said Franceschini, whose team will finish the regular season with three home games. "We want to get no less than 12 wins; any more would be great."

"We feel that with 12 or 13 wins, we could probably play a first-round game at home. Of course, our ultimate goal is to win a tournament game, but we'll worry about that when it comes."

Last Tuesday night, inaccurate shooting early on spelled doom for Quincy in an 81-47 loss to host Taunton.

"We started the game one for 17 from the floor, and they were a lot more prepared for us this time," said Franceschini, whose squad handed the Tigers a 72-60 defeat earlier this season. "They got up 22-4 and we were forced to play catch up the rest of the game. They're the best team in the league, playing on their home court, which is a tough place to play. It's a loss, and we've put it behind us and moved on."

Bob Walsh paced Quincy with 14 points.

tive is to make it a real enjoyable game."

After a loss to Falmouth broke their 13-game unbeaten streak (including six straight victories), the Presidents got back on track with a 3-0 shutout of host Barnstable last Saturday night.

Senior Mark Glynn posted his 10th and 11th goals of the season to propel Quincy offensively. Joe Vallatini also scored and goaltender Chris Burns recorded the shutout between the pipes.

"Chris was on his game again," said Sylvia. "He played a very good game, which he has throughout the season."

Last Wednesday night, the Presidents suffered just their second home loss when Old Colony League powerhouse Falmouth came away with a 4-1 triumph.

Taking a feed from Bob Hall, Bob Harvey made a quick move near center ice to break in alone on goaltender Mike Alves. Hall's shot sailed between Alves's pads for a short-lived 1-0 Quincy lead.

Girls Basketball

Last Three Games Must Wins For North Girls

On the losing end of its last three games, the North Quincy High School girls basketball team needs to win its last three games, all on the road, to stay alive for an MIAA state tournament berth.

The Red Raiders' first do-or-die game was Tuesday night at Falmouth, which boasts three players 6-2 or taller. The result of the game was unavailable as of press time.

Regardless if it won or lost to Falmouth, Friday's 6 p.m. game at rival Quincy will be as meaningful as any NQ (7-10) has played for obvious reasons, said North coach Ken Panaro.

"It's an important game no matter what, because it's the city game," he said. "We'll be ready for that one, no question about it. It'll be a tense game, a real nail-biter."

"We were able to beat them last time, but their big girls played well, especially Julie McLaughlin, who really hurt us bad by getting a lot of inside points. We have to try and take them out of their offense."

Panaro added that the Red Raiders will try to use their quickness against the bigger, slower Presidents and wear out their opponents.

For senior tri-captains Jill Picardi, Dawn Kohler and Kerry Ginty, Friday's game will mark their last showdown against the Presidents, a fact their coach wishes was not true.

"All three will be sorely missed," said Panaro, "because all three served their perfect functions."

Last Friday night, despite 21 points and two blocks by Kohler, North fell to visiting Bridgewater-Raynham, 53-43. Laurie Flynn chipped in with nine points and seven assists for NQ.

"We played a great against B-R, the best team in the league," said Panaro. "We made few mistakes and were in it until they hit four free throws late. For a two-and-a-half minute period, we were a little flustered, and they ran off six or eight points, which was the difference."

Perfect Ending For QHS: Defeat North Quincy

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following an Old Colony League contest at Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday night (result not available as of press time), the Quincy High School girls basketball team hopes to end a tough campaign with a victory when it hosts rival North Quincy Friday at 6 p.m.

"We'd love to go out on a positive note, especially for the seniors," said Quincy coach Bob Noble, whose team has managed just one victory this season. "I'd be very happy for them, because they've worked so hard and have had a positive influence on the younger players."

The seniors Noble speaks of who play their final high school basketball game are captains Angela Hogrell and Kerry Sullivan (both forwards), captain Kim Mackey (guard), and forwards Julie McLaughlin and Teuta Hajrizaj.

"They've done a good job, sticking it out and fighting the good fight," said Noble. "They never gave in no matter what. That's a very admirable quality to have, and I know these girls will succeed in whatever they decide to do."

For the returning players, Noble said a victory would serve as a positive note, an incentive to work on improving for next season.

"We have a great group of talented underclassmen, including an outstanding freshman team, so the future does look good here," he added.

In the first meeting between Quincy and North, the host Red Raiders held the lead for most of the game and pulled away for a 53-41 triumph.

"We were in the game there, but (Kerry) Ginty's four three-pointers were really the difference in the game," said Noble. "When these two teams meet, the players seem to rise above their usual emotional and physical capabilities and play their best games of the year. I expect nothing less from them this time around."

In a 68-40 loss to Hull, the visiting Presidents played a solid first half, trailing by only 10 before the host squad "poured it on" late, according to Noble.

Hogrell paced Quincy with 17 points and nine rebounds and teammate Kerry Duffy turned in a solid performance at the point guard position.

Against Quincy, Spoiler Role Suits NQ Just Fine

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Following a game at Bridgewater-Raynham last night (Wednesday) at 8 (result not available as of press time), the North Quincy High School hockey team prepares to battle rival Quincy Saturday night at 7:50 at Quincy Youth Arena.

With a tournament berth out of the question, the Red Raiders (4-9-4) plan on giving the tournament-bound Presidents all they can handle, said NQ coach Tom Benson.

"We have nothing to lose, so we hope to be the spoiler," he said. "We played them well the first time (1-1 tie), so I think we have a good shot at winning. They have some good players, but we do, too. We haven't gotten a break all year, so maybe we'll get some breaks and get a big win."

Last Saturday night, the Red Raiders were defeated by Weymouth, 6-2, at the Quincy Youth Arena.

"We played good the first two periods, but too many penalties did us in," said Benson. "We just ran out of gas in the third, and they got a couple of power play goals on us."

Trailing 3-1, North scored to cut the margin to one, but Weymouth capitalized on a penalty for a power play goal and added three more scores to secure the victory.

Scoring for North were Mike Sullivan and Eric Wood, who Benson called the team's "most consistent scorer all season. He's done a good job for us offensively."

Despite outshooting Taunton by 20 shots (35-15), the Red Raiders came out on the losing end of a 4-1 game.

Down 2-0 in the third, Wood scored to cut the lead in half, but when North pulled its goaltender, Taunton picked up two empty-net tallies seal the triumph.

Sean Tirrell Accepted To Boston College

Sean P. Tirrell of Quincy, a senior at Boston College High School, has received notification of early acceptance at Boston College.

Six City Champions Crowned In National Free Throw Contest

Six city champions were recently crowned in the Elks National Free Throw Contest. The boys and girls ages 8-13 were winners in the contest sponsored by the Quincy Lodge 943 of the Elks and the Quincy Recreation Department.

The six winners now advance to the Circle District Championship to shoot against winners from nine other competitions in southeastern Massachusetts.

Capturing the city championship trophies were Julianna Eagles and Colin Mooney in the 8-9 age category, Lisa Satkevich and David Jaehnig in the 10-11 age category and Jackie Goguen and Rob McDonough in the 12-13 age category.

The champions were the winners in the contest which was originally conducted at 12 gymnasiums supervised by Recreation Department leaders. Over 250 boys and girls participated and the center winners were all eligible to compete in the finals. The competition awards one point for each successful free throw out of 25 attempts.

Bernazzani School gym, offers beginner through intermediate cheerleading skills under the supervision of the recreation staff.

Sessions will include fundamental techniques, voice, partner stunts and team routines. This free program is part of the city's after school and evening recreation activities that use Quincy Public School neighborhood gymnasiums during non-school hours.

Those interested in participating may register at the program. For more information, call 376-1394.

Quincy Athletes In Scholar-Athlete Games

North Quincy High School senior Michael Johnston and Quincy High School junior Jared Downey have been accepted as participants in the 1997 World Scholar-Athlete Games, organizers announced recently.

The Games, to be held June 22 to July 2, will bring together more than 2,000 of the world's finest young scholars and athletes for a celebration of education, culture and athletics at the University of Rhode Island in Kingston and in Newport, R.I.

The Games will feature competition in seven sports (basketball, sailing, soccer, swimming, doubles tennis, track, and volleyball) and six cultural activities (art, choir, dance, symphony, theater, and writing/poetry) for young people ages 16-19 from more than 125 countries and all 50 states.

Johnston and Downey, both 17, will take part in the volleyball component of the Games.

A four-year varsity player, Johnston was a 1996 South Alliance All-Star. An honor student, he has helped with numerous clean-up projects, and was a volunteer painter at the Mary Martha Learning Center in Hingham.

Downey is a three-year varsity volleyball player who will also compete in the 1997 Bay State Games. An honor roll student, he is a member of the student council and the president of his class. He is a volunteer at a local nursing home and a soccer referee with Quincy Youth Soccer.

A Thought For The Week

February marks the birthdays of two of the world's great figures; George Washington, who gave us our nation, and Abraham Lincoln, who preserved it for posterity.

Let us remember that they captured the imagination of the world by their characters, their principles, their philosophies and profound achievements. Their names are forever linked with man's eternal struggle for freedom.

As we pay homage to these great Americans - Washington and Lincoln let us remember that they more than any others embodied and exhibited our distinctive civilization. We honor them for the virtues that made them great. We honor them for their unswerving loyalty and patriotism. Both represented the cause of freedom. It is with deep respect and admiration for their leadership that we pay tribute to them in this month that marks their birthdays.

One does not recall that any nation in history produced two men 87 years apart, who indubitably determined the nation's destiny. America was indeed very lucky to have produced two such towering men in the compass of a century.

Registry Offers Winter Driving Tips

During the winter months, the number of accidents increase due to storms and winter driving conditions.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles reminds motorists to be more cautious during this season. Here are a few tips to help you avoid accidents or snow banks.

- Scrape off the snow from license plates, front and rear lights. This will help other motorists know where you are going.
- Reduce speed - You have more control of a vehicle when it is traveling at a slower rate.
- Check tires - Make sure you have tread and satisfactory seasonal tires to keep a grip on the road.
- Scrape all windows - Make sure all windows are clear of ice and snow so that you have full visibility.
- Do not tailgate - Leave at least one to two car(s) lengths between you and the vehicle in front of you. This will allow you enough space to stop in icy conditions.
- Travel with your lights on during storms - Do not forget to turn on your lights. Lights let other drivers know that you are coming and provide better visibility.
- Stock up the trunk - Make sure you have sufficient materials in case you get stuck. This includes a shovel to dig out of drifts, sand for icy roads, a first aid kit, a blanket, etc. You never know when you may need them.
- Buckle Up - It is the law.

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION
WATERWAYS REGULATION PROGRAM

Notice of Request for Interim Approval pursuant to 310 CMR 9.10 Waterways Application Number W96-7095
Notification Date: February 13, 1997

Public notice is hereby given of the application by Martha Bowen to maintain an existing seawall and pier at 310 Bellevue Road in the city of Quincy in and over the waters of Quincy Bay. The proposed use of the structures is noncommercial docking and boating access to navigable waters and shoreline stabilization for the protection of existing structures and is a water-dependent project.

The Department will consider all written comments submitted within 30 days subsequent to the "Notification Date" in order to decide whether to grant Interim Approval. A public hearing may be held upon request by the municipal official. Furthermore, a municipality, ten citizen group or any aggrieved person that has submitted written comments may also petition to intervene to become a party before the close of the comment period. Failure to submit such petition will result in the waiver of any right to an adjudicatory hearing. Further information regarding this application may be obtained by contacting the Division at (617) 932-7600. Plans and documents for this application are on file with the Department for public viewing at the address below. Written comments should be addressed to: J. Sprague, DEP/DWW, 10 Commerce Way, Woburn, MA 01801.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)
Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed
Mother of the Son of God,
Immaculate Virgin, Assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother.
Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God,
Queen of Heaven and Earth!
I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to suc-cure me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh
Mary conceived without sin,
pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands
(3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory.
Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days
the request will be granted.
This prayer must be published after the favor is granted.

Adams Site Accepting Employment Applications

The Adams National Historic Site is accepting applications through Feb. 21 for full-time or part-time seasonal employment as a museum technician not to exceed six months or 1,039 hours.

The Adams Site includes the birthplaces of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, the Adams Peace field estate including the "Old House" that served as home to the two presidents and their descendants, a visitor center and, through a cooperative agreement, interpretative programs at the crypts of the presidents and United First Parish Church.

The museum technician's primary responsibility is the care, maintenance and preservation of the historic buildings and contents.

To be eligible for seasonal employment, applicants must be a U.S. citizen and at least 18 years of age and submit a OF-612 federal application or resume to the Adams National Historic Site, P.O. Box 531, Quincy, MA 02269 no later than Feb. 21.

Applications may be obtained by contacting the administrative officer at 773-1177.

15-Mile Bikeway For Cyclists And Pedestrians Asked

Presently, the plan calls for the bikeway, which would be limited to cyclists and pedestrians, to emphasize two areas of interest: recreation and transportation.

Recreational routes access parks and sites that accentuate the more scenic features of Quincy, including Marina Bay, the Blue Hills Reservation, the proposed Nut Island Park, Faxon Park, Wollaston Beach and Furnace Brook Parkway.

The bikeway also would connect to all of Quincy's MBTA stations, with the exception of the Quincy Adams Station. While the city could try to work out a plan with the T to allow cyclists to store their bikes, that is not yet definite, Colton said.

Other technical details are very sketchy at this point, according to Colton. For instance, in some locations the bikeway would run parallel to other roadways and in others it would be completely separate, but it is too preliminary to discuss those aspects of the plan in depth, he said.

Still, the project already has received support from city and federal officials. On the city side, the Park and Recreation Board including Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch and Recreation Department Director Barry Welch have responded positively, as have School Supt. Eugene Creedon and Roberta Fitzgerald of the Quincy Planning Department, who serves as administrator for the Quincy Historical Commission.

Federal officials who have voiced support of funding for the program include Sens. Edward Kennedy and John Kerry and Congressman Joseph Kennedy II.

Colton also noted that communities such as Davis and Palo Alto, both in California and Eugene, Ore. have completed similar projects and that bicycle traffic in each case has increased significantly as a result.

Raymondi Asks Condo Trash Pickup Study

tially could provide the service on a "pilot basis" at some of the smaller condo sites to see if it works out.

Currently, Raymondi said, condo associations that hire private firms for trash pickup charge tenants extra for that service. He said if his proposal takes effect, he wants an automatic reduction in the condo fees for those tenants.

Raymondi said other local communities including Revere are beginning to look at the same issue. Revere, in fact, recently passed a related ordinance that may require a home-rule petition which would need approval by the state Legislature.

He added the number of condominium owners in Quincy has grown considerably in recent years, a fact that makes the trash pickup issue more significant than ever.

"Twenty years ago, it wasn't an issue," said Raymondi. "But now, there's 4,000 of these people. That's a lot. You're looking at a significantly growing population."

In Ward 2 alone, there are number of condominiums, including those at Falls Boulevard, Cove Way, South Landing and others.

A new group that will act on behalf of retired Quincy city workers is beginning to take shape.

The Quincy Retiree Association Inc., which held an organizational meeting in November and has met twice since, will be mailing informational literature and applications to eligible citizens following one more meeting March 10.

The association plans to hold its first general meeting, which will be open to the public, Tuesday, April 30 at 3 p.m. at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

Steve Moynihan, who served as director of business affairs for the Quincy Public Schools for 23 years before his retirement, is serving as interim president of the new organization. He said the group will give city retirees a greater voice in the community.

"Right now, when people retire, there's no organization to represent them," said Moynihan. "They're just people. I think we want to speak on issues pertaining to retirees on behalf of all the retirees of the city as one common voice--and have the organization to back us up."

The group will promote, protect and enhance the general welfare of the retirees themselves as well as their spouses and surviving spouses, he said.

Specifically, he added, the association "will monitor legislation pertaining to employee benefits as they relate to retired Quincy employees" and will appear before the City Council, School Committee and other officials when necessary to discuss that legislation.

Moynihan said he got the idea about forming the Quincy Retiree Association Inc. through his involvement as part of Mayor James Sheets' task force, on which he speaks for retirees. Active in the city, he also serves as insurance representative for the Quincy Retired Teachers Association--he works with Bill Phinney, retired assistant school superintendent, while serving in that capacity--as well as consultant to the QRTA's Scholarship Fund.

Numerous city departments have been represented at the meetings held so far by the new retiree association, he added.

Among the action the group has taken since first meeting in November:

Marina Bay Night Spot Given 30-Day Noise Trial

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

After hearing arguments for more than three hours Tuesday, the Quincy License Board Tuesday found it difficult to act on three requests from Ed Kane, owner of Waterworks at Marina Bay.

Kane requested an increase of occupancy capacity from 1,250 to 1,600; live and recorded music to 1 a.m. instead of 11 p.m.; and a permit to install a pool on the Waterworks premises.

Opponents kept coming to the microphone at City Hall stating their complaints about all three requests mainly because of the loud noise.

The board voted to have Kane operate the Waterworks the same hours and same occupancy capacity as last summer on a 30 day trial period while sound is monitored

Several opponents spoke of the loud noise from the music and many told the board that they should deny a vote on all three requests until a noise committee can take levels of sound.

One resident of Marina Bay, Dave Finnegan told the board that he had one solution - that of "enclosing the Waterworks

Kolson Cites Area Complaints

Ward 1 Wants Out Of Bikeway

By MICHAEL WHALEN

City Council President Peter Kolson has expressed opposition to a portion of a proposed 15-mile, $100,000 bikeway in the city running through Quincy's Ward 1, the area he represents.

Kolson said at press time Tuesday that because of complaints he has heard from residents about the project--an initiative of the city's Department of Public Works--he will not support the project unless it does not include Ward 1.

"I applaud the (DPW's) effort," he said. "It's a nice idea. But I want Ward 1 excluded."

Kolson said he does not have a problem with the project going forward in any of the city's other five wards, but added that he will stand by his neighbors on the matter.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee, planned to introduce a resolution on the issue that he hoped the council would support this week. Ayers said the plan can be amended to exclude Ward 1 and said he only wants the council's support so the city can apply for necessary federal funding for the project by the beginning of March.

"The plan is not carved in stone," said Ayers. "If the residents of Ward 1 don't want to be included, then they don't have to be. We just need to get the federal money. How we spend it, we can decide later."

Kolson said he first became aware of his constituents' opposition at a community meeting on the matter held about two months ago. About 100 residents--many from Houghs Neck

Retired Teachers Assn.

Receives $562,500

From Beede Endowment

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The Quincy Retired Teachers Association (QRTA) has received a partial payment of $562,500 from an endowment of more than $1 million bequeathed by a longtime Quincy Public Schools educator who died last year.

The money will be used to benefit the QRTA's scholarship account.

The endowment is a gift from Harry Beede, a former principal at three Quincy schools and science teacher at what is now Quincy High School. Beede, 84, died last April 7 at his home in Palm Harbor, Fla.

Bob Mattsson, QRTA treasurer, said the association received the $562,500 payment last weekend from the Sun Trust Bank in Florida. Although sources told the The Sun last July that Beede had bequeathed $1,022,000 to the QRTA, Mattsson said the association may be receiving another $562,500, which would make the total $1,125,000.

Mattsson noted that the bank is making the payment in two installments for tax purposes.

"I think it's standard procedure," he said.

The QRTA awards scholarships from the interest in its scholarship account, and the amount of money available to eligible students will increase considerably because of Beede's endowment.

Last year, the 23 QRTA scholarships that were awarded totaled $22,700, and the association plans to award about 25 totaling around $29,000 this year (including a one-time-only $2,100 scholarship from the Quincy High School Class of 1941), according to Mattsson. But in 1998 in 1999, the first two years Beede's money will become part of the equation, the total will jump to $66,000 and $102,000 respectively, he said.

He also noted that Beede's will calls for the late educator's money to be used for scholarships totaling at least $2,000. Mattsson said he will propose that figure be increased to $4,000 at a QRTA meeting next week.

The 23 scholarships awarded last year ranged in size from $500 to $4,000, according to Mattsson.

Although Beede never had any children of his own, he always made the students in the Quincy Public Schools a priority, Mattsson said.

"He'll be a father to Quincy students forever," he said.

Mattsson added that Beede's late wife Louisa, a former Quincy podiatrist, also helped establish the trust fund to benefit the QRTA.

"She deserves some credit, too," he said.

Beede, a QRTA member, was principal of Broad Meadows Junior High School (now Broad Meadows Middle School) from the time it opened in 1957 until his retirement in 1970. He was involved in the design, planning and construction of the school.

During his 34 years in the Quincy school system, he also served as president of Central Junior High School (now Central Middle School) and North Quincy Junior High School (now North Quincy High School), where he worked 14 years starting in 1935 as a science teacher. A Quincy native, Beede was a graduate of Quincy High School, Northeastern University and Boston University.

Planning Board Backs Shaw's Site Rezoning

A plan to rezone the site that includes the Shaw's Supermarket on Quincy Avenue has been unanimously approved by the Planning Board and will now go on to the City Council.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, who wants the site rezoned from Business "B" to Planning Unit Development (PUD), said he would like the council to address the matter as soon as possible. Raymondi spoke on the issue before the Planning Board prior to its recommendation last week.

"For pretty much a year, I have focused on this particular parcel, which is in excess of 100,000 square feet," he said. "I'm pleased with the Planning Board's recommendation."

Planned Unit Development will allow local residents greater input into any kind of development proposed for the site in the future by making the City Council the special permit granting authority over any project there.

Raymondi decided the site should be rezoned after Shaw's Supermarket introduced plans last year to raze its existing Quincy Avenue market and construct a new "superstore" at the site. The

The first meeting at 6:30 p.m., will focus on the Crescent Street-Copeland Street-Hall Place neighborhood.

The second meeting at 7:40 p.m. will focus on Ward 4, Precinct 4, the Brewers Corner neighborhood.

Quincy Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna and other police personnel will attend both meetings. All interested residents are welcome.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

ATTORNEY AT LAW

PUBLIC RELATIONS OR PERSONAL RIGHTS?

It is no secret that the business community and insurance companies have launched public relations efforts in recent years to make their case that personal injury awards have had a deleterious effect upon society. Jury Verdict Research Group's analysis of 90,000 jury verdicts in personal injury cases over a recent five-year period indicates that these efforts have been successful. The percentage of personal injury plaintiffs winning their cases declined from 61% in 1987 to 52% in 1992, while the success of medical malpractice suits, product liability suits, and commercial premises liability cases declined from 37% to 31%, from 51% to 43%, and from 53% to 41% respectively. Personal injury attorneys see themselves as advocates for the rights of the individual, believing that truth and the law will prevail over bottom-line motivations.

HINT: The prosecution must show the defendant is guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt" in criminal cases, but in civil cases, the "preponderance of evidence" (whichever evidence has greater weight or is more convincing) shall dictate the outcome of the trial.

The First Robin And . . .

With spring only 28 days away, the first robin will soon come bobbing along and candidates for this year's city election won't be far behind.

Who's running--for sure? You'll soon know.

Looking ahead, nomination papers will be available May 1, reports City Clerk Joseph Shea. Filing deadline is July 27.

The preliminary (primary) election is set for Sept. 16 and the final election Nov. 4.

May 1 is still a way off but some candidates should be surfacing before then with announcements. Especially if they are planning to challenge incumbents or are running for the first time. They've got to get the word out there early.

And incumbents have got to get moving fairly soon, too.

SHEA

SPEAKING OF CANDIDATES. Theresa Lord looks like a strong potential contender for the school committee.

Lord, a Squantum resident, is an attorney, mother and vice chairwoman of the Quincy College Board of Governors.

"She's really giving it serious consideration," says one source close to her.

NEW NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. Jeffrey Locke visited City Hall the other day and met with Mayor James Sheets, City Clerk Joseph Shea and City Solicitor Steve McGrath.

Locke was accompanied by Brian Mahoney, chief administrator in the district attorney's Quincy office at Quincy District Court.

Locke said his visit wasn't political but to get acquainted and to see if there were any public safety problems he might be of help with. It couldn't have been political. He's a Republican (Wellesley) and Sheets, Shea and McGrath are Democrats.

Locke, a former assistant U.S. Attorney, was named district attorney by Gov. William Weld to fill out the term of Quincy's William Delahunt who left Dedham for Washington as the new Congressman in the 10th District.

Locke will stand for election next year hoping to fend off Democrats who are determined to bring that key county office back into their camp.

Locke is the first Republican to occupy the office since the late Myron Lane of Quincy. George Burke and Delahunt, both Quincy Democrats, followed Lane.

The Quincy trio all served as Ward 5 city councillor before going on and up to the DA's job.

A RECEPTION FOR Senator Michael Morrissey is set for Tuesday, Feb. 25, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Anthony's Pier 4, Boston. Tickets can be obtained by calling 376-0900 or obtained at the door.

They're $100 each. And that will probably fan speculation that he is planning on running for another office next year. Sheriff, maybe?

MORRISSEY

AND, Rep. Steve Tobin and his wife, Francine, will host their eighth annual Salute to St. Patrick Thursday, March 13, 6 p.m. to midnight at Pat Flanagan's, in the Parkway. Buffet, band, dancing. Tickets are $15 each.

The speculation Corps. thinks Tobin could be running for another office next year: state senator if Morrissey goes for sheriff or for district attorney.

If it is for the state senate, and he won, he would be bringing that seat back into the family.

His father, Arthur, former mayor and now Quincy District Court magistrate, not only once held that seat but also the state representative seat now occupied by his son.

JOSEPH LaRAIA, former mayor and city councillor now a city assessor, is looking forward to an April graduation.

LaRaia will receive the MAA (Massachusetts Accredited Assessor) designation at the Massachusetts Association of Assessors spring conference.

LaRaia earned the designation by completing assessing courses the last year and a half for the needed credentials. There are an estimated 500 in the state who hold the MAA honor.

SMILE DEPT.: From the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter (and from wherever they got it): Diets--for people who are thick and tired of it.

Two $2,000 McIntyre Scholarships To Be Awarded

Two $2,000 undergraduate scholarships will be awarded to Quincy residents in memory of the late Mayor and Sen. James McIntyre.

Applications will be available at the office of Atty. Carl Johnson III, 1212 Hancock St., the week of Feb. 24 during regular business hours.

Pro-Stadium Is What This City Needs

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Just think, a pro stadium in Quincy up on Quarry Street. Possibly called "Presidents Stadium." Has a nice ring to it.

Wow, would this be just what Quincy needs. We have mass transit, both the MBTA and soon to come the Greenbush train right downtown. Ample parking which includes the Adams T station, Quincy Center T station, the Wollaston T station and the North Quincy T station. Not counting the Braintree T station and the Parkingway. I'm not even counting the stadium's parking. The revenue alone in tourism would generate this city to another level. This would also revitalize the downtown area.

The season is all on Sundays except for Monday Night Football which would mean one or two at the most in the 16-game schedule. You would also bring major league soccer from around the world to Quincy and the South Shore if the stadium were built in Quincy! Revenue!

Having the state's Super

Bowls for high schools here. Revenue!

This also will get a commitment from a major hotel that would love to build in Quincy now that the stadium will be built. Revenue!

Have one of the new hotels built next to the stadium. This hotel would also be able to house the away teams. Revenue!

So what if the city gets a little congested on Sundays? We seem not to have any trouble when we have the Christmas parade with up to a quarter of a million people coming into the city, so what is 80,000 going to do to Quincy? Revenue!

This will also put Quincy on the map to stay. Leasing the land for the stadium. Revenue! Jobs to build the stadium and or hotels. Revenue! This would also give the residents of Quincy first pick at the construction jobs. Revenue!

Residents from Quincy would also get jobs at the stadium. Revenue! Maybe you could incorporate the workers into city union jobs. Wow! Revenue! Mr. Kraft will own the stadium but who will run it? Another part of the city union? Great, Revenue!

Governor Weld is 100 percent behind keeping the Patriots in Massachusetts. Who needs another golf course when you already have two in the Quincy area, plus all the many golf courses in the surrounding areas. Getting a golf course would not generate the revenue that a stadium would. Well, we could get a PGA Tournament in the next 10 to 15 years. With a pro team in Quincy, representing New England. Revenue!

You could have your Fourth of July fireworks at the stadium or have your first night. You could even propose to have the Special Olympics participate at the stadium. Or even the Olympics themselves, the reason being that the Boston area does not have the Olympics is that there is not a stadium large enough in the Boston area to hold them. Just think about it. Revenue!

Just look at what a stadium could do for the economy of Quincy and the surrounding areas. Major businesses will want to move close to the stadium. This will increase office rental space close to capacity. Revenue! Just look at our signs entering Quincy: "Home of the Presidents and Patriots." Revenue!

With the stadium up on Quarry Street so high over the city, that the roar of the crowd would not affect the surrounding property owners. Mr. Kraft and the Patriots also want a training facility to work out in during the weeks before football starts and also during the week before home games. Build one beside the stadium. Revenue!

I work for Quincy Municipal Credit Union and since the article that came out in regards to City Councillor Michael Cheney, I have asked people about this and I've not heard anything wrong or bad with building a stadium. As of all this talk of South Boston not wanting a stadium, I would jump on the bandwagon, because this would be what this city needs. Revenue!

Fond Memories Of The USS Northhampton

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The weekly column of Pail Harold appearing in the Jan. 23 issue brings back fond memories of the Quincy Shipyard's USS Northhampton, a communications ship.

I'm sure very few readers know of this cruiser's importance, and the interest it may attract for historians, but for me, I recall the ship with great pride.

When assigned to this ship in 1959, it was tied up alongside the dock at the U.S. Naval Base, Norfolk, Va. Having shipped out in the early 40s from Norfolk on the USS Oregon, another cruiser, the Northhampton looked very similar. It was anything but similar.

After being on board for a couple of days the flags flown from the masts gave no hint of the ship's importance. The ship-to-shore telephone system with its multi-colored phones indicated something out-of-the-ordinary, and it was!

My assignment as "Press Chief" was soon revealed.

The USS Northhampton is The Emergency Command Post Afloat for the President of the United States and the Joint Chiefs of Staff and is equipped to receive a helicopter on the fantail. As you may recall, in the 1960s the flag ship served our beloved late President John F. Kennedy.

1200 Attend Police Chief Hughes' Funeral

By PAUL HAROLD

Twelve hundred people attended the funeral at St. Mary's Church for Police Chief Joseph Hughes who died unexpectedly at age 52 at his Cross St. home.

A special force of 12 state policemen and eight Braintree police covered the city while all the city's law enforcement community attended the funeral.

Feb. 20 - 26
1952

45 Years Ago

Hughes had served in the police force for 26 years, but only two and half in the chief's position, the shortest tenure in the city's history. He was appointed by Mayor Charles Ross to succeed Chief John Avery.

District Attorney Edmund Dewing said Hughes was "one of the ablest, most respected and best liked men to hold the post in the city's history."

City Manager William Deegan named Captain William Ferrazzi to replace Hughes.

SHIPYARD WORKERS AUTHORIZE STRIKE

Without one dissenting vote, 2,012 members of Local 5 of the International Union of Marine and Shipbuilders, authorized a strike if contract negotiations broke down with officials from Bethlehem Steel.

The Union met at Quincy High School auditorium, joining workers at the other seven yards on the East Coast owned by Bethlehem, in a strike vote. International President John Grogan noted the strike vote was 50 to 1, with a margin of 26,643 to 532.

Local 5 President Donald Edmonston listed the contract demands as a 20-cent an hour raise, a union shop, eight paid holidays, improved vacations and an extension of seniority rights.

FURNACE BROOK CLUB THREATENS SUIT

A spokesman for the Furnace Brook Golf Club threatened a suit to block the school committee's vote to take part of the golf course for a new school.

Meeting at the Fox and Hounds Restaurant, the school board voted four to three in favor of the land taking to relieve overcrowding at the Cranch and Wollaston Schools.

Voting in favor were Mayor David McIntosh, Vice Chairman Wendell Clark, Col. Domenic Chiminello and Rev. Joseph Parkman. Voting against were Carter Lee, Paul Duffy and Dr. Joseph McDermott.

Alcohol Action Group Launches 'Pennies' Campaign

Impact Quincy's Alcohol Action Group (AAG), in conjunction with the office of Mayor James Sheets, recently hosted a breakfast meeting with city business leaders to launch the "Pennies for Prevention" Campaign.

The meeting was held at City Hall and was attended by Sheets and a number of Quincy business and community leaders.

The goal of the campaign to raise awareness of the problems in Quincy associated with alcohol abuse by raising $1 from every Quincy resident. The idea behind the endeavor is that for every dollar raised, $7 in treatment costs are saved.

Co-chaired by Fr. William McCarthy of St. John the Baptist Church, the AAG has already begun awareness and fund-raising efforts through attendance and collection of funds at First Night Quincy 1997.

To date, the AAG has received a commitment of $25,000 from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, contingent upon the group raising $75,000 in funds or in-kind services.

In April 1996, the AAG, in conjunction with an appointed Community Hearing Panel, presented 65 recommendations to Sheets at a press conference to address alcohol abuse in the city.

The report offered suggestions such as designing alcohol-free activities for young adults, families and IMPACT QUINCY'S Alcohol Action Group (AAG), in conjunction with the office of Mayor James Sheets, launched its "Pennies for Prevention" Campaign to combat alcohol abuse at a recent breakfast meeting at City Hall. Group members from left are Bill Spinks, director of prevention and intervention at Bay State Community Services; Fr. adults; creating systems to identify families at risk and to offer them quality services to meet their needs, and collecting separate data on motor vehicle accidents with fatalities and "operating under the influence" charges for placement on computerized software program.

From those recommendations, 18 have already been addressed by the AAG with only the support of limited funds.

Examples of accomplishments include an Alcohol Conference last November to provide training for city department heads and business leaders on alcohol abuse and the implementation and expansion of "Operation Prom Night" at North Quincy High School. "Our goal for the 'Pennies For Prevention' Campaign is to raise awareness and participation of business persons, residents and students in the City of Quincy," said Alejandro Rivera, project director of Impact Quincy. "The Alcohol Action Group has demonstrated tremendous success implementing several of the outlined recommendations and we look forward to expanding our services to the city."

Quincy College Developing Emergency Management Curriculum

Quincy College announces that in conjunction with the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Higher Education Initiative, it is developing curriculum in Emergency Management for an Associate Degree/Certificate Program.

Scott Greenberg, the college's Dean of Community and Business Services, said, "Quincy College wants to be a leader in the promotion of increased opportunities for individuals seeking careers or advancement in the profession of Emergency Management and Mitigation."

While in the preliminary stage of development, the college plans initially to offer the coursework as part of its newly-approved Fire

Science Technology Program. Course topics will include Social Dimension of Disasters, Environmental Hazard Assessment and Mitigation, Public Administration and Emergency Management, and Information Systems for Emergency Management. Curriculum in Fire Science and Emergency Medical Service will also be part of the program along with an unpaid internship component.

All are encouraged to provide input into the program development process.

Greenberg added, "Quincy College is here to provide for the educational needs of community and we sincerely want people's support, insights and inquiries as we move forward in developing an Emergency Management program."

For more information, contact Greenberg at Quincy College, 34 Coddington St., Quincy, MA 02169 or call him at 984-1655.

How To Be Healthy With Acupuncture

Throughout the past 2,500 years more millions of people were helped by acupuncture than by all other medical modalities combined. It is unlikely that acupuncture would have survived for thousands of years if people did not see great value in this treatment method. According to the World Health Organization, acupuncture is one of most effective and safest methods known for diagnosis, therapy, and pain relief and is regarded of key importance for the prevention of illness.

Swimming consumes about 12 calories a minute.

Research in the West has established that acupuncture induces the brain to produce morphine-like chemicals known as endorphins, which act as natural tranquilizers and pain relievers. Research has also shown that acupuncture is a bioelectric phenomenon, and that acupuncture points are sites of lower electrical skin resistance. Treatment is completely harmless and one cannot become "addicted" to acupuncture therapy.

It is said that acupuncture is very effective for chronic pain. True, but it is equally effective in the regulation and normalization of ongoing body processes. That acupuncture can regulate internal body organs, correct oncoming disease and body imbalances has been known since ancient times.

The World Health Organization has compiled a list of common diseases that respond well to acupuncture treatment. This list includes diseases ranging from acute bronchitis, headache and migraine to frozen shoulder, tennis elbow, back pain, osteoarthritis, and many more.

You don't have to believe in acupuncture. Some patients come to our clinic after everything else has failed, and may be very skeptical about acupuncture. These unbelievers will show the same good results, indicating that the acupuncture effect is not hypnotism or power of suggestion.

How To Start Walking Your Way To Health

(NAPS)—Walking is not just a way to get from one place to another—it's also an easy way to live a longer, healthier life, an efficient way to lose weight and a low-stress way to reach performance-level fitness.

One of the easiest forms of exercise, walking can be scheduled into most people's lives and can be attempted by the most sedentary of couch potatoes. Your only investment is a comfortable pair of walking shoes, and while those last walking is free—no membership dues or expensive training equipment.

So, why aren't more people walking?

That's simple. They haven't started. As with other programs getting started can be the hardest part. Here are some tips from experts at Walking Magazine on how to get yourself out the door.

• If you want to walk in the morning, lay your walking clothes out the night before.

• Schedule your walk with a friend or tell everyone that you're planning to go out for a walk.

• Schedule your walk in your appointment book. Take it as seriously as you would a doctor's appointment.

• Promise yourself that you're just going out for a quick walk; say five minutes. Once you're out there, you'll probably walk farther.

• If you can't fit a long walk into your day, try to squeeze in several short walks.

• Start a streak—an uninterrupted series of days where you walk for at least ten minutes. A streak is a terrible thing to break.

• Set a short-term goal, like a certain number of miles a week and reward yourself for it.

If you're beginning, stick with short walks (10 or 15 minutes) at first and build up.

Start every walk with a few minutes of easy strolling to warm up; it helps loosen and warm your muscles and reduces the chance of injury. Finish with some simple stretches to keep your body supple and ready for tomorrow's walk.

For long-term health, aim to walk 30 minutes per day, six or seven days a week. For weight loss and longevity, walk 45 to 60 minutes per day and for performance-level fitness, walk 20 to 60 minutes at a fast pace, five or six days per week.

Always talk to your doctor before making any changes to your exercise program. For more information about walking events, programs, books, resources and clubs, and for a free copy of Walking Magazine, call at 1-800-924-0084.

A few walks a week can make a difference in the way you feel and how healthy you are. Walking can even help you lose weight, if you do it regularly.

DID YOU KNOW...

There is no such thing as safe tobacco. Tobacco in any form, in any amount is unhealthy.

Even those who smoke low tar and nicotine cigarettes have more cancer, heart attacks, strokes and lung damage than nonsmokers.

Even pipe and cigar smokers, who normally do not inhale, have more lip and mouth cancer than nonsmokers.

Tobacco in chewing tobacco and snuff contains nicotine, cancer-causing chemicals and chemicals that injure the mouth and stain the teeth.

The Subluxation

By DR. BRUCE INDEK

At the heart of chiropractic is the term "subluxation." It is defined as a vertebrae (bone in the spine) out of its normal position or its inability to freely move.

When spinal bones become subluxated, they exert pressure or irritation on spinal nerves. Spinal nerves are the main connection between the spinal cord/brain and all of your vital organs and tissues.

The amount of pressure it takes to irritate a spinal nerve from subluxation is equal to the amount of pressure it takes to feel someone's finger on the back of your hand. This small amount of pressure can have enormous consequences on the information being transmitted along the spinal nerve. Since spinal nerves carry information from brain cell to tissue cell and a subluxation can interfere with their ability to transfer this vital information, your health potential can be considerably compromised.

Subluxation can be caused from the time you're born to the day you die. The causes can be from the simple process of being born to the activities of play, stress and the list goes on. Ninety percent of the subluxations we get correct themselves through rest and activity; the 10 percent that don't cause 90 percent of the problems.

Symptoms are not required to have subluxations and a chiropractor is best qualified at evaluating and caring for them. Scientific research is now demonstrating the devastating effects of subluxation on your potential to be healthy.

Your body is the ultimate healer of subluxations and with chiropractic care the natural healing process can be aided. You owe it to yourself to include a chiropractic evaluation in your health care regime.

Why not make the home you live in called your body a healthy place to stay? Call me at Indek Chiropractic, 472-0661, to make an appointment.

A WARNING ON A NEW DIET PILL

Once again, the news is out: There is no magic pill that can make the craving for chocolate donuts vanish or cause those rolls of body fat to disappear. Many dieters' hopes were raised when the drug, dexfenfluramine (Redux) appeared on the market. After all, it had been over 20 years since a new weight-loss drug had been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. Now, however, doctors and the FDA are urging caution in the use of dexfenfluramine, which has been found to raise the risk of developing pulmonary hypertension (tightening of the blood vessels in the lungs). Pulmonary hypertension is relatively rare, but it is often fatal. The new diet drug still may be a wise choice for people whose level of excess weight is causing serious health problems, but it should not be taken routinely for cosmetic weight loss. P.S. Dexfenfluramine may raise the risk of pulmonary hypertension by as much as 30 times.

Your doctor can help you find the best way for you to effect weight loss and add exercise to your daily regimen. It's not as hard as you think and the benefits you'll enjoy, healthwise, make taking care of your body one of your best investments. REAL ESTATE MARKET

A Clean Home Is Attractive To Buyers

In the race to get your house ready to put on the market, here are some tips for making it a winner with prospective buyers:

- Open your curtains and blinds because nothing is more attractive than a house that appears spacious, light and airy. If the view does not add to the sales appeal of the property, then leave blinds down, but open the slats. You can also hang semi-sheer curtains where you need to soften the view but still let the light in.

- Clean your window coverings so that dust is not visibly clinging to the drapes or blinds.

- Air out your house every day so that cooking, pet and other stale odors do not offend prospective buyers. (If you smoke, smoke outside while the house is on the market.)

- Be sure to change the furnace filter in order to cut down on household odors and dust.

- Clean all light fixtures and replace all bulbs with the highest recommended wattage.

- Make sure all switch plates and socket covers are not cracked, broken or smudged with fingerprints.

- Replace any broken or cracked window panes, and repair torn screens.

- Wash all windows, inside and out. Play it safe: Hire a professional if there are difficult heights to reach.

Once you have followed these tips to "lighten up" your home, contact me, your real estate professional for any other special tips to enhance the airy spaciousness of the rooms.

Now Is The Time To Buy That Home

(NAPS)—Now is a great time to buy a house. The economy is stable, interest rates are down and there are more programs than ever to help people make deals with low down payments. Unfortunately, many people don't pursue the dream of owning their own home because they have misconceptions about the house buying process. Here are just a few:

I need a 20 percent down payment.

Saving the traditional 20 percent down payment has been the greatest barrier to homeownership. But if you choose to use mortgage insurance, you can buy a house with as little as a three to five percent down payment.

For example, the median home price in the U.S. is $116,000. To make a 20 percent down payment, you need $23,000. To make a five percent down payment on an insured loan, you need just $6,000. Mortgage insurance works by protecting the lender against part of the loss if the borrower stops making mortgage payments. Loans with mortgage insurance are widely available. They've helped more than 15 million home buyers get over that down payment hurdle.

The home-buying process is too complicated.

Shopping for a home doesn't have to be an intimidating process. You can take advantage of home buyer education courses that cover everything from basic steps to

Many people hold off buying their dream homes because they don't think they can afford them. Today, more than ever before, there are programs to help them buy beautiful, affordable homes with low down payments.

aging money. In some cases you may not need a buying a house to the financial responsibilities of owning a home. Lenders and mortgage insurers work with community groups to make these programs available across the country. Plus, the mortgage industry offers follow-up programs to help you keep your home if, for example, you fall behind on payments because of a job loss or medical emergency in your family.

It's too hard to qualify for a mortgage.

It's easier than you might think. Even if you make less than a 20 percent down payment, the qualification requirements are generally the same. Basically, you need to provide evidence of your income and history of managing money. In some cases you may not need a formal credit history. Instead, you can use a record of on-time rent and utility payments to show you're a good money manager.

I don't make enough money.

If you're a lower-income, first-time home buyer, you may be eligible for special programs that make it possible for you to buy a house with as little as a three percent down payment. These programs involve partnerships with local community groups and are tailored to community needs. They feature education programs that help you learn about the home buying process and post-purchase counseling to help you keep your home if you run into financial trouble. They also offer options in such areas as down payment, mortgage insurance premium and credit verification.

Don't let misconceptions about home buying keep you from enjoying the benefits of homeownership. The mortgage insurance industry has an excellent resource available—a free brochure called "How to Buy A Home With a Low Down Payment." You can get a copy by writing to the Consumer Information Center, P.O. Box 100, Pueblo, Colorado, 81002.

Late Rally Propels Quincy Over North

By LIAM FITZGERALD

With a first-round tournament bye still a possibility, the Quincy High School boys basketball team knocked off Hanover, 64-57, in the first round of the Quincy Invitational Tournament Monday night.

The tournament, sponsored by ERA Central Real Estate, concluded Tuesday night when Quincy (12-7 through Monday) faced Stoughton in the championship game. The result of the game, Quincy's final regular season contest, was not available as of press time.

A victory over Stoughton would guarantee Quincy a home game in the tournament's first round, but not necessarily a bye, said coach John Franceschini.

"A lot of teams are logjammed at 10, 11 and 12 wins, so getting that 13th might put us in the top eight who won't play the first night," said the Quincy coach. "We're assured of at least a home game if we beat Stoughton, but a bye would be great."

The Presidents will learn their fate early Friday afternoon, said Franceschini. The first round games will be played next Monday and Tuesday (Feb. 24-25), with the second round set for next Thursday and Friday (Feb. 28-March 1).

In the win over Hanover, the Presidents increased their defensive pressure and hit their free throws down the stretch, sinking their last six to close out the game. Junior guard Jared Downey led Quincy with 19 points, with senior forward Bob Walsh scoring 15 and freshman guard Dan Kelly adding 11.

Last Friday night, the Presidents pulled off an incredible comeback against visiting rival North Quincy, scoring the game's last 11 points to escape with a 47-45 triumph. Junior guard Jared Downey (15 points) capped the rally with the eventual game-winning basket, a three-point bank shot with 30 seconds to play.

"Downey was the difference for us," said Franceschini. "When we didn't look good offensively, he kept us alive in the huddle and then hit the big shot at the end."

"Our trapping defense also forced some turnovers and we got some big threes when we needed. We kept our poise, even when we were down nine late. The whole team did the job at the end and got us a huge win."

Trailing 45-36 with less than three minutes to play, Quincy turned things around in a hurry. Senior forward Carmen Lorenzano buried back-to-back three-pointers to bring Quincy to within two (45-43) with 53 seconds left.

A turnover by North Quincy gave Quincy the ball right back. Catching the ball on the right wing, Downey fired up a three-pointer off the backboard that fell through for a 46-45 Quincy lead. With the Quincy crowd vigorously backing the Presidents, NQ again turned it over and was forced to foul to stop the clock. Lorenzano hit one of two free throws with one second left to seal the victory.

Walsh scored 10 and Smith and senior forward Geoff King added eight apiece for Quincy.

In Old Colony League news, Walsh and Lorenzano were named to the OCL All-Star team while King was presented with the team's sportsmanship award.

QUINCY SENIOR FORWARD Bob Walsh releases a shot while North Quincy's Brian Ross lends a hand in an attempt to block it.

Turnovers Hurt North Quincy

Coming off a heart-breaking loss to Quincy last Friday, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team looked to bounce back in its regular season finale at Milton last night (Wednesday) at 7.

The result of the game was not available as of press time.

Defeating Milton would likely clinch a home game for the Red Raiders (11-8), though NQ coach Ted Stevenson and his squad hope a first-round bye is in their future.

"If we win, we're pretty sure we'll at least get a home, with the chance we might even get a first-round bye," said Stevenson. "The teams are seeded by record, so 12 wins would be great to have heading into the tournament."

North and the rest of the tournament teams will learn who they play when the announcements are made early Friday afternoon, said Stevenson. The first round games will be played next Monday and Tuesday (Feb. 24-25), with the second round set for next Thursday and Friday (Feb. 28-March 1).

Regarding the Red Raiders' chances for post-season success, Stevenson said the team must remain focused in order to advance in the tournament.

"This is a very funny team," said Stevenson. "We beat one of the best teams in the league, B-R, and lost to another good team, Taunton, by one point. Then we lost to some teams we shouldn't have lost to."

"If the kids are ready to play, they can play with anybody. When they're mentally prepared, they play very well. That's the key for us. If they're not ready, we're in trouble."

In Friday's 47-45 defeat at rival Quincy, the Red Raiders led by nine with less than three minutes to play before Quincy reeled off the last 11 points of the game to stun NQ.

"We just didn't play well down the stretch," said Stevenson. "We didn't make our free throws to put the game away late and ended up paying the price. We might have panicked a little bit when it got close."

"We let them back in the game and they took advantage of it. You have to give Quincy some credit—they did the things down the stretch to win the game."

North's Mike Johnston knocked down a three-pointer to give the Red Raiders a nine-point advantage at 45-36, forcing Quincy to call a timeout. Turnovers and missed free throws plagued NQ the last few minutes of the game, allowing Quincy to take a 46-45 lead on two consecutive three-pointers by Carmen Lorenzano and one by Jared Downey that proved to be the game-winner.

The loss overshadowed another solid performance by NQ junior center Brian Ross, who led all scorers with 26 points. However, when the tide turned in favor of the Presidents and the Red Raiders desperately needed a basket, they could not get the ball to their leading scorer.

In news from the Old Colony League, Ross and senior point guard Chris Erler were named to the OCL All-Star team, while senior forward Matt Bromley was given the team's sportsmanship award.

NQ Girls Sweep Quincy Series

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Fresh off a solid victory over Quincy, the North Quincy High School girls basketball team wrapped up its season Tuesday night at Wellesley.

The result of the game was not available as of press time.

Last Friday night, balanced scoring and tight defense were the key factors in North Quincy's 45-29 triumph at Quincy. NQ improved to 8-11 with the victory.

"We played like a team, spreading the ball around and getting contributions from a lot of girls," said NQ coach Ken Panaro. "The Quincy game is the one everyone looks forward to and wants to win more than any other, so was real nice to win both games this year."

Leading the way offensively for NQ was Laurie Flynn with 13 points, followed by Kristen Keohane with 12 points and Dawn Kohler with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

North Quincy missed a number of shots early and fell behind 7-2, only to embark on a 16-2 spurt and lead at the half, 22-14.

QHS Girls Pg. 16

"We got some great shots early on but the rim seemed to have a cover on it," said Panaro. "Then with our trap defense we got on a run and broke it open. We knew we could run on them and took control of the game."

Panaro also pointed out the tireless effort of senior co-captain Jill Picardi, who made her presence felt on both the offensive and defensive boards.

"Quincy put in a triangle and two defense to take her out of the game, but she was able to grab a ton of rebounds for us, which we really needed," said Panaro. "She really controlled the boards in the first half, concentrating on that aspect of her game."

"She's been solid 20 out of 20 games. We call her the 'scrapper' because she uses her body a lot, boxing out, getting to loose balls and protecting the ball. Whatever we asked her to do, she'd do it and do it well."

The Quincy Squirts and Bantams picked up victories in Monday's opening round of the 24th annual Quincy Kiwanis Club Youth Hockey Tournament at Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy's Mites fell to Milton while the Quincy Pee Wees were scheduled to open up Tuesday against Brockton. The Pee Wees are scheduled to take the ice Friday night at 6:40 against Burrville, R.I. Saturday night at 7:50, the Pee Wees are scheduled to battle the tournament's lone international team, the Latvian squad.

The Squirts shut out Braintree, 3-0, on two goals by Josh Giordani and a goal by Matt Germain. The Squirts were scheduled to play last night (Wednesday) at 6:40 against Whitman/Hanson/Kingston and tonight (Thursday) at 7:50 against Suffolk County (N.Y.) PAL.

goal performance helped the Bantams rout Dorchester by a 9-2 score. Sean Haidul scored twice and Ryan Barry and Thomas Maloney each added a goal for the Quincy squad. The Bantams are scheduled to play tonight (Thursday) at 9 against Needham and Friday night at 7:50 against Lewiston, Maine.

The Mites fell to Milton, 12-1, with the lone goal scored by Matt Jones and assisted by Mike McKeon and Evan Harrington. The Mites are scheduled to take the ice tonight (Thursday) at 6:40 against Suffolk County (N.Y.) PAL and again Friday morning at 10:30 against Lewiston, Maine.

The tournament continues this week with the semifinals and finals scheduled for Sunday at the Youth Arena. The Mites' semifinals are scheduled for 7 a.m. and 8:10 a.m., with the championship game at 3:10 p.m.

The Squirts' semifinals are scheduled for 9:20 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., followed by the championship game at 4:20 p.m. The Pee Wees' semifinals are scheduled for 11:40 a.m. and 12:50 p.m., with the championship showdown at 5:30 p.m. The Bantams' championship game (no semifinals) is scheduled for 2 p.m.

BASKETBALL

Quincy Girls Record Doesn't Indicate Effort

Looking to close out the season on a positive note, the Quincy High School girls basketball team battled visiting rival North Quincy but eventually fell, 45-29, last Friday night.

Pacing the Presidents in her final game was senior co-captain forward Angela Hogrell, who poured in 17 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and made five steals. Junior point guard Kerry Duffy also played a strong game.

Quincy (1-19) jumped out a quick 5-0 lead on a runner by Duffy and a three-pointer by Hogrell, but scored just four points in the next seven-plus minutes as NQ secured an 18-9 lead.

"We started off strong, but then got in a cold spell and couldn't rebound from it," said Quincy coach Bob Noble. "Once they got up 10 or 11 it was an uphill fight that was too steep. We made a little run in the second half but couldn't cut into their lead."

With a four-point play, Hogrell cut the deficit to eight at the half, but Quincy would get no closer than six the rest of the way.

"If you don't score points, you won't win games; it's as simple as that," said Noble. "The effort and intensity were there, but the bottom line is putting the ball in the net and we just couldn't execute offensively."

"Defensively, we did what we intended to do—stop their two best scorers in Kerry Ginty and Jill Picardi. We only have up 45 points, and when you do that you should be able to be competitive, but we weren't. "They (North Quincy) did a good job, taking advantage of their opportunities, while we could not do the same."

Despite the Presidents' struggle throughout the season to win games, Noble admires their determination and consistent effort, even when the situation seemed bleak.

"The record doesn't indicate the effort and commitment each and everyone of these girls made to the team," said Noble. "They're all outstanding kids who gave me all every game and were a pleasure to coach. I consider myself lucky to have been around them this year."

Presidents Tie North, Prepare For Tourney

With the state tournament slated to begin next week, the Quincy High School hockey team tied North Quincy, 2-2, at the Quincy Youth Arena in its final regular season contest.

Quincy (14-2-4) went up 2-0 in the first period, before North cut the lead to 2-1 in the first and tied it in the second. In a hotly-contested showdown, the Presidents failed to capitalize on a five-on-three late in the game and had to settle for the tie. A month ago, the two rivals battled to a 1-1 tie.

Earlier in the week, the Presidents scored four uncontested goals as they trounced Silver Lake, 8-1, at Quincy Youth Arena.

Fifty-five seconds into the game, Quincy's Bob Hall started the onslaught when he stole the puck at the Lakers' red line, skated in alone and slid a backhand by Laker goaltender Tim Troup.

Quincy's Scott Cooper was denied on a backhand attempt by Troup before Hall notched his second goal. Standing alone in the slot, Hall deflecting a Derek McTomney slapper for a 2-0 lead.

The Presidents' lead increased to 3-0 when Joe Vallatini blasted a wrist shot past Troup after a Silver Lake defenseman fell down.

The Lakers cut the deficit to 3-1 with 37 seconds left in the first period, when Dan Buckingham fed Joe Keefe, who tapped the puck beyond the reach of Quincy goaltender Chris Burns.

Burns would not let Silver Lake back in the game, stoning Matt Perry on a breakaway before twice denying Rick Casavant on a deflection and a rebound in the second period.

McTomney took a pass from Brian Nolan and sent a wrist shot past Troup to give Quincy a three-goal lead again (4-1). Cooper and Mark Glynn assisted on Quincy's next two goals, first setting up Nolan in the slot for a 5-1 lead before feeding Bob Harvey on a one-timer. Jake Fleming and Didier Alther netted late third-period scores for the Presidents.

Raiders Edge Southie, Tie Up Presidents

Chad Fitzpatrick netted the tying and game-winning goals for North Quincy as the Red Raiders wrapped up their season with a 5-4 triumph at South Boston Monday morning.

With the game tied 1-1, Southie scored two quick goals in the third period, but North came right back on two goals by Rob Winter.

Again, Southie stormed ahead, 4-3, with only a few minutes remaining in regulation. Fitzpatrick, who knotted the score at 4-4, notched the game-winner with just 1:51 left as North Quincy (5-9-6) held on for the victory.

"It was nice to go out and win, especially coming back the way we did," said NQ coach Tom Benson. "We played really well in the third, scoring four goals and rallying from a couple of deficits. Scott Doherty played well for us in net."

Paul Markarian scored the Red Raiders' first goal and also had two assists.

Ryan Barrett collected three assists and Eric Wood added two assists for NQ.

Last Saturday night, the Red Raiders again battled rival Quincy and came away with a 2-2 tie at the Quincy Youth Arena. In their first meeting of the season a month ago, North tied Quincy, 1-1.

The Presidents took a quick 2-0 lead, only to see goals by John Barron in the first period and Mike Powers in the second period tie the game for North.

NQ goalie Brian Beaton made 40 saves, playing "the best game's he ever played," said Benson. "It was nice for him to go out like that."

The Red Raiders' defense turned it up a notch, holding off the Presidents' five-on-three advantage the last two-and-a-half minutes of the game.

BLOWN A GASKET?

A rough idle, whitesmoke from the exhaust pipe (even after the engine warms up), and either the presence of motor oil in the radiator or water/antifreeze mixture in the motor oil are all symptoms that indicate the need for a new engine cylinder head gasket. Most head gasket failures are due to either general or localized overheating which can cause localized overheating in the head that leads to a blown gasket.

HINT: When a cylinder head gasket blows due to overheating, it nearly always results in the warping of the head, which must then be milled. LEO & WALT'S Sunoco should be your full service auto care center for most every system in your car. Whether you need regular maintenance such as adjusting engine timing or suspect a blown head gasket, our ASE Certified service technicians have the skills to handle it. You'll find us located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). Hours: Mon-Fri 6am-9pm, Sat 7am-9pm, Sun 9am-5pm. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

Talking With Your Kids About Drugs

How Can I Tell If A Child Is Using Drugs?

Identifying illegal drug use may help prevent further abuse. Possible signs include:

- Change in moods - more irritable, secretive, withdrawn, overly sensitive, inappropriately anger, euphoric.
- Less responsible - late coming home, late for school or class, dishonest.
- Changing friends or changing life-styles - new interests, unexplained cash.
- Physical deterioration - difficulty in concentration, loss of coordination, loss of weight, unhealthy appearance.
- Refuses to talk or be around family.

Why Do People Use Drugs?

Young people say they turn to alcohol and other drugs for one or more of these reasons:

- To do what their friends are doing.
- To escape pain their lives.
- To fit in.
- Boredom.
- For fun.
- Curiosity.
- To take risks.

Take A Stand!

• Educate yourself about the facts surrounding alcohol and other drug use. You will lose credibility with your child if your information is not correct.

• Establish clear family rules against drug use and enforce them consistently.

• Develop your parenting skills through seminars, networking with other parents, reading, counseling and support groups.

• Work with other parents to set community standards - you don't raise a child alone.

Planning Board Backs Shaw's Site Rezoning

plan was approved by the city's building department despite the fact Shaw's had not notified neighbors about the project.

Although that plan has since been withdrawn, the councillor said residents need the additional protection offered by PUD.

"My basic philosophy is that the people have a right to know what's proposed for the site, and they have the right to some say in the process."

The City Council recently passed by a 6-3 vote Raymond's proposal for a site plan review process requiring the approval of the Planning Board and other city officials for construction of any new structure totaling 15,000 square feet or more. The Shaw's "superstore" plan also prompted Raymond to make that proposal.

Kane introduced Bill Blaine from New England Audio Systems, who told the board that a half shell would be constructed 20 feet high from the stage floor and the use of velour materials would help stop some of the noise.

Marina Bay Night Spot Given 30-Day Noise Trial

facility" and then added there would no longer "be a problem".

However, Ron Zooleck, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce commending Kane's accomplishments said "no matter what you do here today, some people are not going to be happy." He said he believed the board's decisions could "make most people happy."

In answer to Finnegan's idea of enclosing the area, Zooleck responded by saying that having the activities "outside" was a "popular jewel" which began with the inception of Marina Bay by the O'Connell's.

Zooleck said having a pool only three foot deep would "provide atmosphere" and advised the board to extend the hours of music with the understanding that if the noise gets too loud, "you (the board) can stop it if you want".

Kane introduced Bill Blaine from New England Audio Systems, who told the board that a half shell would be constructed 20 feet high from the stage floor and the use of velour materials would help stop some of the noise.

Atty. Peter Eeley, who lives and works at Marina Bay questioned whether or not Blaine who's had many years experience in controlling sound, ranging from the Hatch Shell in Boston to the White House, if he had an engineer's degree. He replied he didn't have a degree, but told of his many years as a sound engineer.

Taking issue from Eeley, Attorney Robert Fleming, representing Kane said Blaine, who has an impressive list of accomplishments, was "challenged professionally".

Chairman Joseph Shea said he had never asked an attorney where he went to law school, and said that it is not an issue if Blaine "proves he can do the job."

Kane also promised that there would be fewer live acts this summer, but that recorded music will be used as an alternative to the loud noise.

Most of the board members and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers said they wanted to wait until the Waterworks was operating for at least 30 days to see if the noise problem is decreased before any vote to increase capacity or the hours for the music is taken.

After hearing opponents complain time after time about the noise, Chairman Joseph Shea made a motion to create a new 11 member noise committee (one was organized last summer at Marina Bay). Shea suggested members from all over the community, rather than just residents from Marina Bay, be a part of the committee. The noise committee would consist of the following:

• A member of the Quincy License Board.

• Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

• A representative from the Quincy Police Department.

• Ed Kane or a designee.

• Two members of the Marina Bay Neighborhood Association.

• A resident of 1001 Marina Bay Drive.

• A resident of 2001 Marina Bay Drive.

• A boat owner.

• A Squantum community representative.

• Representatives from the Boardwalk merchants. A chairman will be elected by the members and will meet before April 15.

Shea said the sound readings would be done on an "unannounced and continual" with the findings then reported to the License board.

When Firechief Thomas Gorman made a motion for the installation of the pool it did not receive a second, so Shea said "no second, no discussion". Shea added that would be the last vote taken regarding the pool this year.

Kane said he plans to open his facilities in May, either May 1 or May 15 depending on the weather.

A Thought For The Week

SCOTT DEWART

"I was summoned by my country, whose voice I can never hear but with veneration and love." These words were spoken on April 30, 1789, by a tall, tired man, after losing many battles, but winning a war, he had hoped to retire from public life to his beautiful and beloved home on the banks of the Potomac.

His countrymen, though, needed George Washington in peace even more than in war. They called upon him to lead their infant republic forward.

Now Washington responded to the summons is described in his Inaugural Address. In an eloquent passage, the first President of the United States gave his countrymen of that day and of our own day a responsibility which should always guide Americans: "The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply and finally staked on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people."

We Americans have preserved this heritage; its future rests in our hands today, as surely as when the Father of His Country gave his trust to those who heard him on April 30, 1789. We, like Washington, are summoned by our country to preserve "the sacred fire of liberty."

Investigators Treating Death As Suspicious

Investigators are treating the death of a 19-year-old man whose body was found Sunday in a parked car off Quincy Avenue at the bottom of a hill near Roche Bros. Supermarket as suspicious.

Nina Flaherty, a spokeswoman for the Norfolk County district attorney's office, said the man was identified as Derek Sullivan and his death is being treated as suspicious. Results of an autopsy scheduled for this past Monday were unknown at press time.

The body was found in a red Hyundai Elantra by Charles Johnson, a Quincy Point resident who manages a Cigo station near the supermarket.

Johnson told authorities the car appeared undamaged except for a shattered rear window apparently broken by a boulder-sized rock found in the back seat of the car.

Mary G. Gustafson, 87

A funeral Mass for Mary G. (Rinaldi) Gustafson, 87, of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in St. John the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Gustafson died Feb. 13 at South Shore Hospital in South Weymouth after a long illness.

She was a member of the Puritan Bridge Club and Viking Club, both in Braintree, the Puritan Bridge Club in Quincy and Parents Without Partners.

Born in Pontecorvo, Italy, she came to the United States as an infant. She graduated from Braintree schools before moving to Quincy 60 years ago.

Wife of the late William A. Gustafson, she is survived by a son, Donald J. Gustafson of Weymouth; a daughter, S. "Penny" Trainor of West Bridgewater; a brother, Francis Rinaldi of Braintree; two sisters, Anna Tombari of Quincy and Gloria Lane of Weymouth; five grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Lydon Home Renews Lofty Oaks Affiliation

Lydon Funeral Home of Quincy has renewed its affiliation with Lofty Oaks Association, a New Hampshire organization dedicated to reforestation and conservation efforts in Massachusetts.

The firm arranges to have a tree planted for each service that they perform to provide a living memorial in honor of the deceased and to renew the forest life of Massachusetts.

The memorial trees are planted in the spring and fall. The program is part of a large endeavor to restore the landscape and environment with living trees.

After each service, family members and friends are informed that the memorial tree has been arranged for by Michelle and John J. Lydon of the Lydon Funeral Home. When a certified nurseryman has planted the tree, the designated people will receive a certificate of planting suitable for framing and keeping in the family's history.

Ward 1 Wants Out Of Bikeway

and some from Merrymount-said at the time they do not want the project in Ward 1, he added.

Kolson said the residents, who live in the "dike area" that runs from Barbour Terrace in Merrymount to Rockland Street in Houghs Neck, have raised concerns about the project running through their neighborhoods.

The dike, he noted, is a sewer pipe with a 22-foot circumference that already is used as a walking path by area residents. The pipe carries sewage from 22 communities to nearby Nut Island, he said.

Kolson said because there are already a number of pedestrians using the dike-as well as teenagers who occasionally drink along the area at night-residents are afraid that an overabundance of cyclists, skateboarders, joggers and others might cause problems in the area.

"That's what they're frightened about," he said. "They just don't want the increased traffic. They want to keep things the way they are."

Another concern raised, he said, is that a number of local residents have property that extends over the dike, which means some land-taking would be required for the plan as proposed.

"Again, it's a lovely idea," said Kolson. "But it's really just an attractive nuisance. They should just leave things the way they are."

The bikeway, as proposed, would link a number of sites throughout the city, including Marina Bay, the Blue Hills Reservation, the proposed Nut Island Park, Faxon Park, Wollaston Beach, Furnace Brook Parkway and three MBTA stations.

The bikeway must be approved by the City Council, Quincy Conservation Commission and Mayor James Sheets. DPW Commissioner David Colton has said if the federal grant that would pay for about 90 percent of the project is obtained, work on the bikeway could begin as early as the spring of 1998.

New Group To Protect City Retirees' Interests

sets Secretary of State's office in Boston and obtained a federal identification number.

Solicited contributions from various Quincy bargaining groups, and received a $500 contribution from the Quincy Municipal Credit Union to help defray startup costs.

Elected Moynihan and three other retirees as interim officers. The others are Fran Morrill, who worked in the Quincy treasurer's office; Bill Center, who was a firefighter for the city and Anne Scheele, who served as an administrative assistant for purchasing in the Quincy Public Schools.

Voted to form an executive committee consisting of the interim officers and the chairpersons of the following committees (more committees may be added): bylaws, newsletter, membership, nomination and election, social, legislative, insurance and benefits, and financial.

Voted to allow active Quincy employees to join the association as non-voting associate members.

Established a dues structure-$10 annually to cover a retiree and spouse, from April 1 to March 31-as well as a checking account at the Quincy Municipal Credit Union.

Established a post office box: Quincy Retiree Association Inc., P.O. Box 0456, Quincy, MA 02169.

Named Michael J. Long, the legal counsel for the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents who practices law at 21 McGrath Highway, Quincy, as the retiree association's legal counsel.

Moynihan said the association will hold a couple of socials annually in addition to its other general meetings. The group's newsletter will contain obituaries, listings of new retirees, legal columns and other articles, he said.

Community Leaders Would Work With Police Raymondi Proposes Commission As Crime Prevention Network

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi is proposing the creation of a commission that would work in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department to focus on crime-related issues throughout the city.

Raymondi is putting together an ordinance that would make it possible to form the group, which would be known as the Community-Oriented Policing and Problem-Solving (COPPS) Commission. The group would be made up of 15 to 17 members including community leaders, city department heads, clergy, business representatives and others.

If the proposed ordinance, which will be introduced at next week's City Council meeting, receives the support of the council, Mayor James Sheets and Police Chief Francis Mullen, Raymondi said he hopes the group can be organized before July 1, the first day of Fiscal Year 1998.

Raymondi said the growing support in the for increased community policing helped inspire his idea for the new ordinance.

"We're studying the benefits of community policing," he said. "I'm hoping to focus on crime and the fear of crime, street-by-street and neighborhood-by-neighborhood.

"We can no longer make the assumption that crime is a police problem. Crime is a community problem."

Recommendations After School Rape Security Measures For City Buildings

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A Sudbury-based firm has completed a report based on its analysis of the safety and security of public buildings in Quincy.

Liability Consultants Inc. released its findings at a press conference this week. The company was hired for $60,000 to do the analysis upon the recommendation of a task force co-chaired by Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee and Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Mayor James Sheets.

The task force was formed, and made its recommendation, following the rape of a Quincy High School administrator who was attacked while working overtime last year.

Although Liability Consultants concluded in its report that "Quincy has been relatively successful in reducing the risk of crime in its public facilities," the firm made several recommendations concerning various improvements.

The report focused on general management practices and physical security equipment. Following is a summary of its findings:

At Marina Bay Board Asks Fraudulent Letter Probe

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board voted to ask Police Chief Francis Mullen to investigate a fraudulent letter circulated at Marina Bay supposedly signed by Ed Kane, owner of Waterworks dated Feb. 21.

Atty. Robert Fleming, who acts as counsel for WaterWorks displayed the letter at Tuesday's meeting and called it an "absolute fraud" and not prepared by any member of WaterWorks or its parent organization, Eating Up The Coast. Fleming said the purpose of the letter was to create a negative atmosphere against Water-Works and in particular, Ed Kane.

It mentioned certain individuals on the noise committee supposedly endorsed by Fleming. However, he said no discussions with any member of the licensing board about who will serve on the committee ever took place.

Also, Fleming said that the letter fraudulently mentioned the group "Smashing Pumpkins" as one of well-known acts scheduled to perform this summer at the WaterWorks location. Fleming said that particular group would need a "concert hall" to accommodate them.

Joanne Condon Walsh, a resident of Marina Bay, and former Ward 6 Councillor mentioned in the letter as a noise committee member, asked the board to publicly state that the letter is not legitimate so residents "won't think it's the truth".

Also mentioned in the letter as a member of the noise committee was Squantum community representative Mary Collins, former school committee member, and now an aide to Sen. Mike Morrissey. Collins referred to the letter as an "harassment towards persons in business".

Chairman Joseph Shea said he was besieged with phone calls last weekend concerning the letter and said the board doesn't usually take action on

"unsigned letters".

Mullen said he plans to find the person distributing the letter and hopefully the source and report back to the board on March 11.

'Handshakes' Changes Owner And Name

The Quincy License Board granted a change of ownership of Handshakes Cafe, 1354 Hancock St. from Michael Walsh to Craig Bilowz at Tuesday's meeting. The board also issued a common victualer license.

The restaurant, a landmark in Quincy Center was once owned by Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill, who came up with the name "handshakes." It will now be known as "Craig's Cafe" and be open from 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Monday through Friday. Bilowz said he wasn't sure whether or not he will open on Saturdays.

Although the new menu is not completed, the restaurant will feature soups, sandwiches and salads.

Bilowz told the board he had 21 years experience in the food business and was associated with Barry's Deli in Wollaston for 18 years.

Bilowz said he hoped to open either yesterday (Wednesday) or today (Thursday).

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a one day liquor license to the Woodward School Alumni Association to hold a Las Vegas night March 8 at the school, 1102 Hancock St. from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight.

•Granted a Motor 11 License to Charles J. Whalen of City Auto Security, 582 Willard St. (formerly Bob's Auto).

•Allowed Athanasios Kotoulas of Nicole's, 723 Washington St., to change the name to Sabotino's. Plans are being made to change the menu.

•Continued a hearing until March 11 regarding the Dollar Saver Liquor Store at 321 Quincy Shore Drive answering charges of maintaining an unsafe structure. Atty. Robert Fleming representing Gerson Levine said the sprinkler systems and other violations are being addressed.

•Granted a one day permit to the Quincy Youth Hockey Association, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive to hold a "Family Day" on April 6 with a rain date of April 13.

•Allowed the Hire Car Rental, (formerly South Shore Sub) 686 Southern Artery permission to store 100 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of 5 vehicles being parked there. Manager will be Dan Sancomb. The Hire Car Rental is a division of Hertz.

•Voted unanimously against the granting of a Keno License to Brennan's in Quincy Center. Having previously voted against Keno at the 7-11 on Copeland St., and Shop & Save on Independence Ave., Chairman Joseph Shea said he will attend a meeting at the Lottery Commission Friday when appeals will be addressed.

To Make Room For Additional Parking QCBPA Wants Comfort Station In Hancock Lot Razed

The long-closed and problem comfort station in the Hancock Parking Lot is targeted for demolition to make room for more parking.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association recommended that it be demolished for needed additional parking spaces.

The recommendation by the QCBPA's Committee on Parking was made to the City Parking Committee last week.

The QCBPA noted that the comfort station, which dates back to around the 1950s, was closed because of security and maintenance problems in the 1980s and since then has continued to be an area nuisance and a magnet for loiterers hanging around outside it.

Public Works Commissioner David Colton said he feels the need for parking is more important than the comfort station in its present state.

"I think it's a good idea," he told The Sun.

He said razing the comfort station would provide 12 more parking spaces.

He estimated it would cost about $7,500 to demolish the structure and about $10,000 more to create the 12 parking spaces.

The recommendation to raze the station was brought to the City Parking Committee by Maralin Manning, executive director of the QCBPA and Deanna Gazarian of Phase II Jewelry who heads up the association's parking committee.

"The station isn't effective unless it's watched 24 hours a day," she told The Sun Tuesday. "If it's not, then it attracts the wrong kind of people, and that's why it was closed."

Colton said in order for the project to take place, the City Task Force must ask Mayor James Sheets to send an appropriation request to the City Council for the funding. If the council appropriates the money, the city will solicit bids from private firms to do the job, he said.

Colton added that he has spoken to Quincy Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon about the inclusion of restrooms in a new parking garage that has been discussed as a possibility for the Hancock Lot site.

ATTORNEY AT LAW

OVER BEFORE IT STARTED

The majority of civil cases are settled before they ever go to trial. In cases where a motion for summary judgment is met with a favorable ruling, a decision may come sooner than expected. After the complaint is filed and before the case actually goes to trial, both sides engage in the pretrial discovery process. This means that they go about the task of gathering evidence, collecting information and facts, interviewing witnesses, and uncovering documentation. Once both parties have all this information and discovery is completed, either side may bring a motion for summary judgment. Such a motion is granted when all the evidence shows that none of the facts of the case are in dispute and the judge can make a clear-cut decision based on them.

Hint: During the pretrial conference, the judge will meet with both parties and encourage them to reach a settlement.

Have you been injured? Most civil lawsuits are settled out of court before the trial date arrives. Our concern is to take legal action only in your best interests. We'll outline the various options available to you. If it is necessary to bring this matter to court, you can count on our extensive trial experience to get you results. In Hot Water

When it comes to women, I sometimes can get myself into hot water.

For a guy whose immediate family includes one wife, four daughters, and five granddaughters, you would think I would know better.

But, no, I went ahead and did it anyway. Not on purpose. Nothing really chauvinistic. Just one of those slips that I trip and fall over every once in a while.

It seemed like a harmless little "stork report" item in a recent column.

That was the one about Rep. Michael Bellotti and his wife, Gayle, expecting their second child in June.

I noted they have a daughter, Colleen, 21 months and then added: "Mike, a little brother for Colleen and a son for you to carry on the Bellotti political dynasty?"

Oops! That did it.

I heard from the daughter of one of Quincy's all-time popular and powerful political figures: Sheila McIntyre, whose father was late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre.

I've known Sheila since she was a little tot and watched her grow up to become a lovely young lady. If I had had a fifth daughter I would have liked one like her.

But Sheila, who now teaches U.S. history at Boston University, isn't letting me off the hook about that political dynasty business. In a nice, friendly but hey-wait-a-minute letter she writes:

"As the daughter of one of Quincy's statesmen, I was very surprised to read the 'Stork Report' in your recent Sunbeams column.

"You shared the happy news that Representative Michael Bellotti's wife is expecting a baby. You suggested that if the baby was a boy, then the Bellotti legacy in state politics could continue. Why couldn't little Colleen follow in her father's and grandfather's footsteps?"

"My father believed and taught both his daughters and sons that government needed people who were compassionate, hard-working, dedicated, and called to serve the people—certainly not qualities which only men possess.

"In a city that has been blessed with great female public servants since Abigail Adams, Quincy women have served their constituents well, and prove that women belong in the House, in the Senate—and someday, in the White House.

"Thanks for your continued work in journalism and for stirring some great dinner conversation."

You know, I had a premonition I was going to get into trouble with that little item. When I wrote it, I told myself, be sure to make it read something like "a son to carry on the Bellotti name and political dynasty."

But I didn't. So, no alibis, no excuses. And I'll have to remember to be more careful in the future.

But, you know, I really like to see women in politics. And I hope someday Quincy will have a woman mayor. I would like to see what a woman could do in that office. And, Madam Mayor has a unique ring to it.

We could have a woman mayor if the women voters of the city got together behind a woman mayoral candidate. Female voters outnumber male voters here by something like 5,000 or 6,000.

But I think women are more apt to disagree on things than men do. For most women to agree on a woman mayoral candidate would seem unlikely. Not enough to elect one, anyway.

And that will probably get me into some more hot water.

LOOKS LIKE Tim Cahill is definitely going to run for another city council at-large term this year.

A fund-raiser party for him will be held Wednesday, March 5 from 6 to 8 p.m. hosted by Tom and Nancy Kelly at their home, 31 Grenwood Rd. Donation is $50 per.

The tickets refer to him as Norfolk County Treasurer and Quincy City Councillor.

Proceeds from the party will go to help pay off his county treasurer campaign expenses. And, to his city council re-election campaign.

FITZGERALD

BILL FITZGERALD, co-owner of Photo Quick of Quincy, is convalescing from a heart attack at his South Boston home. Bill suffered the attack Feb. 15 and was rushed to New England Medical Center.

He says he is grateful to the EMT's and the doctors for their quick response and attention he feels pulled him through. He hopes to be back to work in a couple of weeks.

KEN BURNS' "Thomas Jefferson" documentary on Ch. 2 and 44 was TV at its best. Anyone from Quincy or Braintree had to find it fascinating as it involved John Adams.

Their relationship was a story in itself. As friends they both played key roles in the Declaration of Independence. Then had a falling out when Adams became the second president and Jefferson his vice president. They became political enemies and Jefferson defeated him when Adams ran for a second term.

But later in the winter of their lives, they rekindled that old friendship through frequent letters between the Adams Mansion in Quincy in Monticello in Virginia. (Abigail Adams is credited by some as playing a major role in the reconciliation).

The pair were dying as July 4, 1826--the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence--approached.

Jefferson, who was determined to live to see that day, kept waking up and asking if it was July 4th.

In Quincy, as Adams died on that day, his last words were "Jefferson survives."

Unknown to him, Jefferson had died a few hours earlier in Virginia.

Just think if television, radio and modern newspapers were around back then, the bulletins and in-depth coverage those two deaths would have been given.

John Adams was the first president to live in the White House. When he moved into the mansion in 1800, only a half dozen rooms were finished and laundry had to be dried in the East Room.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1925 real photo postcard view of the William B. Rice Eventide Home on Adams Street. Rice was the original benefactor of the Quincy Hospital land and buildings. He also established an endowment for a home for the elderly. This later became a reality when his widow donated this house, which was their home, to help establish the Eventide Corporation. They built the present red brick Eventide Home in the late 1930's and this house is long gone. So is the traffic dummy that was, until the early 1960's, in the middle of Adams St. at the curve.

READERS FORUM

Skeptical About Shipyard Reopening

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

City Councillor Paul Harold is not the only citizen in Quincy skeptical about the proposed reopening of the Quincy shipyard.

Mr. Sotirios Emmanouil proposes a military-style shipyard. The future of conventional military tactical defense on the high seas will be in as high demand as the slingshot was in the advent of the combination of salt-peter, charcoal, and sulfur (gunpowder). Does our City Council presume to think that NASA is spending astronomical figures in space shuttle flights in a race to be the first to build a fast food franchise in space?

Military defense is the essence of our freedom. The long-term security of our enriched country remains to be pioneered in the cosmos. Conventional tactical and strategic warfare, as it continues to be in less demand, will only be a supplement.

Is it negative philosophy to think of war in time of peace? If so, then it is negative philosophy to acknowledge the risks of New England weather when constructing the frame of a home on a finer day. If this is negative thinking, then so is our forefathers' addition of checks and balances in our Constitution. They feared the possibilities of "too much democracy."

With the exception of Councillor Tim Cahill, I personally challenge any citizen of Quincy supporting the reopening of the shipyard to a joust, to defend my intention of not attempting to discredit the value of 1,000 jobs. Having been afforded an education at Quincy High and Vo-Tech, I've seen Tim's capabilities as a distinguished wrestler and a gentleman. However, I would never lower my standards as to participate in any form of barbarism that would suggest decorum unbecoming of a gentleman.

A thousand jobs under "Goliath" is very appealing. Unfortunately, it overlooks another significant liability to the value of Quincy and our previous Wollaston Bay: contributory pollution.

Consider all the harbor seals that make the east jetty in Nantucket Harbor their winter habitat. Why would they go as far as Nantucket if they could just as easily exercise squatter's privileges in Squantum, Merrymount, Houghs Neck, or the marshes of Broad Meadows and Quincy Point? Because it's polluted.

Councillor Michael Cheney almost convinced me the reopening of the shipyard was a sound proposal in his summation. But he put the icing on the cake (the opposing cake!) when he said several options have been considered, but "...due to the high level of contamination in the area, nothing else could be considered." Are we to infer that this justifies continuing to pollute our waters?

Has anyone considered doing nothing with the land? What about a waterfront park? Where our senior citizens can walk down from 1000 Southern Artery on warm evenings and indulge in the gift of gab on park bench or contemplate the science of astronomy free from the sound of traffic. Where any of us can paint watercolors or recite poetry. Maybe with a hatch shell for hosting occasions or rhetoric on political thought or concerts for the classics. Why spend a week in Martinique, when you can spend a day in Quincy Bay?

If the Honorable Mayor James Sheets approves the reopening of the shipyard, I can assure him he may not be running unopposed for mayor.

Sweeny Pushes Coddington School For Junior College

By PAUL HAROLD

School Committeeman Charles Sweeny tried to secure the Coddington School as a home for Quincy Junior College by moving a vote to abandon it for elementary school uses.

The motion was put on hold because space in the building was still needed for high school uses. One hundred and fifty Quincy High School students used six classrooms and Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard said giving full use of the building to the college would necessitate the construction of a new trade school, with the high school taking over the trade school space.

It was noted the reassignment of the 120 elementary students in the building would not be a problem. Furthermore, the opening of the new Sacred Heart School was expected to free up spaces, making the reassignment easier.

HONORARY SHERIFFS' BADGES RECALLED

Sheriff Charles Hedges asked for the assistance of local chiefs of police in Norfolk County for the collection and return of miniature honorary sheriffs' badges given out by the prior administration.

He said badges were given out in violation of the law and he wanted them collected to save the holders from any embarrassment. When collected they would be destroyed.

Former Republican Quincy Senator Hedges defeated former Brookline Senator Peter McCormack, who was appointed by Gov. Foster Furcolo to the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel Wragg.

DEATH OF WALTER 'CAP' BRYAN

Well-known North Quincy sports figure for three decades, Walter "Cap" Bryan, died at age 44.

The first captain of the North Quincy High School football team and outstanding player, he also starred at Boston College. Bryan was president of the school's alumni association and one of the leaders in the drive for a new NQHS gymnasium.

In addition to football, Bryan was a star basketball and baseball player at NQHS.

Germantown Topic For Historical Society

Harold Crowley, Jr. will present an illustrated talk on Germantown, one of Quincy's oldest neighborhoods, Thursday, Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Germantown's settlement extends back to the early colonial period. It was the site of significant events in the history of American immigration and industry with the 18th century Germantown glassworks and was the home of Revolutionary leader Joseph Palmer. It also enjoyed a long seafaring tradition, and it played an active part in the heyday of Quincy boat building.

In recent days, the two public schools that serve the neighborhood, Snug Harbor Elementary and Broad Meadows Middle, have both won national excellence awards from the U.S. Department of Education.

A well-known Quincy educator, Crowley taught at both Snug Harbor and Broad Meadows and was involved with the Historical Society's archeological work in Germantown.

A former trustee of the Historical Society, he currently serves on its museum committee and has been very active with the history education programs of the Tsongas Industrial History Center. Crowley will provide a comprehensive tour of Germantown history, with ample illustrations.

Admission is free and all are welcome.

'Hail To The Ladies' At Library March 11

"Hail to the Ladies," a tribute to America's first ladies, will be presented by actress Judy Bernstein Tuesday, March 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The one-woman show is a review of the presidents' wives from Marsha Washington to Hillary Clinton. It is for adults, young adults and children in Grade 4 and above.

Bernstein is a classically-trained singer, a graduate of New York University's School of Dramatic Art, and holds a master's degree in oral communication. She performs her one-woman shows throughout New England and also teaches at the college level.

Bernstein researched her material for "Hail to the Ladies" using letters, diaries, and history books. Among her other programs from pages of history are "First Lady of the World, Anna Eleanor Roosevelt" and a new show, "Great American Letters." She also has several original musical one-woman performances in her repertoire, including shows on Gershwin, Cohan and Kern.

The free performance at the library is being held in conjunction with Women's History Month.

Tracy O'Sullivan In Choir Concert March 8

Tracy L. O'Sullivan of 25 Bass St., Wollaston, will appear as a member of the Ithaca College Choir in a performance scheduled for Saturday, March 8 at 8 p.m. at Brooks Middle School, Ballfield Rd., Lincoln.

The free concert is open to the public and will be highlighted by Beethoven's Ninth Symphony as well as choral pieces ranging from 15th century motets to 20th century spirituals.

O'Sullivan, a 1993 graduate of North Quincy High School, is majoring in music education at Ithaca's School of Music and will graduate in May.

Art Assn. Classes Begin March 3

The Quincy Art Association, 26 High School Ave., will hold eight-week classes for children and adults beginning March 3.

Classes are available in clay, figure drawing, watercolor, oils and more.

Classes are for beginners and experienced artists. Some new classes with new instructors, as well as one-day workshops in oils, pastels, and printmaking will also be offered.

Accent On Quincy Center

By BRUCE ARONS
Quincy Center Development Coordinator

New Directional Signage System

One of the key recommendations of the Quincy Center Action Plan was for the provision of an improved directional, educational and informational signage system. I am pleased to inform my readers that Sasaki Associates Inc. of Watertown has been selected to design and produce an improved directional and interpretative signage program for the City of Quincy for fall construction.

This signage program will be new and creative, providing spark to Quincy Center's image and reinforcing the center as a focal point. In the very near future, a new wayfinding directional system will attract and guide people traveling by car from the interstate and regional highway systems to Quincy Center without losing them along the way.

Timing of this signage project with the construction of the new West Concourse Access Road is both exciting and challenging, while at the same time providing a positive step forward at ensuring the future economy of Quincy Center.

Recently, I have received comments from visitors to Quincy Center complimenting several of the businesses they shopped in. They used the term "discovered" in their remarks. It got me thinking that perhaps Quincy residents could assist others in "discovering" Quincy Center's best.

How about a voter's contest for the best located in Quincy Center? Example--the best service, salespeople, pizza, sub sandwich, lunch, breakfast, dessert, drink, parking space, place to hang out, the best column in The Quincy Sun, etc., etc. Let me know what you think about the idea--there is lots to be discovered in Quincy Center!

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association has formed a committee to develop a marketing program for the Ross Way Promenade for this coming year. With the spring-like weather we had last week, I am getting anxious for the outdoor lunch/sitting season to begin, and the Promenade is an ideal place for this activity!

'Til next time--be sure to check out what's "happening" in downtown Quincy Center, and feel free to write me with your comments and suggestions. (Mailing address: The Quincy 2000 Corp., 1250 Hancock St., Suite 802N, Quincy, MA 02169.)

Day Center For Seniors Opens At Hancock Park

The Adult Day Health Center at Hancock Park, 164 Parkway, Quincy, has opened for local seniors.

The center offers adults a place to enjoy social activities, a hot meal, and assistance with daily healthcare routines even though they still live at home. It is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (longer hours can be arranged if necessary). The center is staffed by a director, a registered nurse who supervises the medical needs of participants, an activities coordinator and program assistants.

"Many older people who live at home by themselves become isolated, and lose some interactive skills," said Claudia Rasmussen, director of the Adult Day Health Center. "The center allows them to regain these skills, along with other skills to help them take better care of themselves at home."

Nutritious meals, including a continental breakfast, hot luncheon and refreshments, are offered daily. Recreational and therapeutic activities include card and board games, sing-alongs, current event discussion groups, sewing and baking, arts and crafts, and exercise classes. They can also access the on-site whirlpool, private baths and dental and podiatry services.

The center at Hancock Park has a capacity of 30 participants who are encouraged to attend activities three to five days a week.

Medical services include skilled nursing for administration of medical treatment, physical, occupational and speech therapy, client and family counseling and support groups, laboratory services and referral services coordinated with other agencies.

The center also helps family members who care for seniors by relieving women about their well-being during the day and by providing useful respite.

There is a growing demand for adult day care tenders as the number of elder residents Massachusetts increases. Currently, there are 120 facilities serving 3,500 seniors with an average age of 76. Adult day centers are generally covered by Medicaid, but not Medicare, and seniors who qualify for Group Adult Foster Care credits can receive two days of day health coverage per week. The average cost per day of an adult day center is $45 to $60.

Welch Healthcare & Retirement Group owns and operates three other Adult Day Health Centers on the South Shore in Weymouth, Hingham and Duxbury.

Partnership To Hold St. Patrick's Celebration

The Quincy Partnership will hold its first annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration Friday, March 14 from noon to 2 p.m. at the Quincy Lodge of Elks, 120 Quarry St.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Partnership's Abigail Adams Statue Fund.

Event Co-Chairmen are Adams Inn Innkeeper Bob Galligan, City Clerk Joseph Shea and Park Department Executive Director Thomas

Koch. Entertainment will be provided by The John O'Connor Band and singer/comedian Paul O'Donnell. A traditional St. Patrick's Day meal will be served.

Tickets are $25 and can be purchased by calling Shea at 376-1131 or Koch at 376-1251.

The Quincy Partnership is a benevolent organization comprised of business and civic leaders who aim to better the quality of the City of Quincy in a variety of ways. Partnership Chairman Ed Keohane said he expects the bronze statue in honor of Abigail Adams to be unveiled this spring.

The Partnership includes Keohane, Joyce Baker, Robert Curry, Marianne Peak, Mark Bertman, Thomas Galvin, John McDonauld, Thomas Koch, Sandra Webster, Donald Uvanitte, Jim Mullaney, Dan Flynn, Bob Galligan, Maureen Rogers, Michael McFarland, Richard Barry and John Graham.

MBTA Bridge Topic For Concourse Committee

The Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) for the Quincy Center Concourse will meet with planners of a proposed MBTA bridge related to the concourse project Thursday, March 6 at 3:15 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex.

The CAC is opposed to current design plans for the bridge which call for a single crosswalk, rather than two crosswalks, over the Red Line and Old Colony commuter tracks.

At its work session meeting last December, CAC members said pedestrian safety calls for two crosswalks for the bridge. City Department of Public Works officials and bridge designers said a second crosswalk would be too costly and beyond the scope of current planning.

CAC members were presented with a 25 percent design set of plans with a single crosswalk at the committee's meeting earlier this month.

The CAC was appointed by Mayor James Sheets in 1994 and given the charge to arrive at a consensus concerning traffic and pedestrian safety involving the $8.6 million concourse project.

CAC meetings are open to the public.

Squantum School Offering Two Scholarships

Two $100 scholarships will be offered to two graduating seniors who attended the Squantum School.

The two scholarships--the Squantum School John J. Sullivan Sr. Memorial Scholarship and the Squantum School Maryrose Sullivan Memorial Scholarship--have been established by Barbara Arnold, a teacher at the school, in memory of her father and grandmother.

Application forms are available in the guidance offices of North Quincy High School, Quincy High School, the Quincy Center for Technical Education and The Woodward School and the Squantum School office.

Applications must be completed and returned to the Squantum School no later than March 31. Winners will be chosen by a lottery drawing.

Elks Scholarship Applications Available

The Quincy Lodge of Elks is offering scholarship applications for high school students in the Quincy area.

Interested seniors should call Scholarship Chairman Bruce Ayers at 472-9877, Tony Floyd at 848-8627 or Dan Coughlin, dean of students at North Quincy High School, 984-8745.

Applications should be returned to the Elks Lodge by March 5.

Parents' Council Meeting March 10

The Citywide Parents'

Council will meet Monday, March 10 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd.

Guest speaker will be Arthur Keough, director of business partnerships for the Quincy Public Schools. All are welcome.

A BLIND EYE TOWARD RHEUMATISM

Anyone with the type of rheumatism commonly known as PMR (polymyalgia rheumatica) should be alert to a set of symptoms that may include muscle aches, headaches, jaw pain, scalp tenderness, swallowing difficulty, and sudden problems with vision and hearing. Those are among the signs of temporal arteritis (TA), a disease that can lead to blindness. It is estimated that as many as 15 percent of people with PMR go on to develop TA, which must be treated as soon as possible, usually with steroids, to prevent a patient's vision from deteriorating past saving. Often, the most difficult part of this treatment is the diagnosis, as TA can easily be mistaken for a stroke, certain conditions of the jaw, or even simple stress. PMR, which most often strikes people over 60, can also be tough to diagnose, with its main symptoms of stiffness and aching in the shoulders, thighs, and lower back.

P.S. Doctors aren't sure why there is a link between PMR and TA, but they urge patients to call immediately about any new, unexplained symptoms.

When you are dealing with this condition, you need a physician who is experienced in dealing with complex medical issues and who knows what the latest research has to say to help you out. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and I specialize in heart disease. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Hours by appointment. Squantum Neighborhood Watch Meeting March 6

The Squantum Community Association and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers will hold a Neighborhood Watch meeting Thursday, March 6 at 7 p.m. at the Squantum Community Center, 136 Standish Rd.

Members of the Quincy Police Department will be on hand to talk to the residents and give tips on protecting their property and neighborhood from vandalism. All residents are encouraged to attend.

James Griffiths Graduates From Cavalry Scout Course

Army Pfc. James F. Griffiths has graduated from the cavalry scout course at Fort Knox, Radcliff, Ky.

Students received basic combat and reconnaissance training, camouflage and concealment, communications, demolitions, and first aid.

Griffiths is the son of Elizabeth Scribner of 8 Jackson St., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kenney of 245 Sea St., all of Quincy.

He is a 1996 graduate of Quincy High School.

Four Residents On Xaverian Honor Roll

Four Quincy residents recently were named to the second term honor roll at Xaverian Brothers High School in Westwood.

They are: Brent C. Austin, Class of 1999; Ryan D.

Casey, Class of 2000; Stephen F. Chase, Class of 1997; Peter S. Dawidow, Class of 1999.

All four achieved second honors for the term.

Raymondi Proposes Commission As Crime Prevention Network

Point with Raymondi, Mullen and other officials to voice his support of community policing.

Raymondi said he hopes eventually there can be three community police officers apiece in Quincy Point--which is part of Ward 2--as well as Brewers Corner in Ward 4 and Ward 1's Germantown, which currently has the only two such officers in the city. He added that he plans to speak to Mullen about that issue.

Community policing is a concept that harkens back to past days of law enforcement when the "cop on the beat" routinely walked through neighborhoods and got to know personally local residents and business owners, creating a partnership between the police and the community.

Raymondi said two other aspects of community policing call for the officer to be a problem solver in his assigned area and for there to be a focus on crime prevention--through concentration on related issues that could lead to criminal activities--rather than simple reaction to crime.

That focus also would be the role of the COPPS Commission, Raymondi said. The group would be headed up by an executive director--the only paid member of the commission--and would address issues such as graffiti, safety, and numerous others by pooling together its considerable resources.

Raymondi noted that the director's salary could be funded either through the city's municipal budget or possibly by grant money. The salary amount would have to be determined by the mayor, he said.

He added that he feels the executive director should be an attorney so that he or she would be familiar with various crime-related laws and statutes.

Raymondi said he hopes to discuss his proposed ordinance with Sheets and Mullen, as well as hold at least one related public meeting, as soon as possible.

The COPS-AHEAD program, the centerpiece of President Clinton's 1994 crime bill, is designed to add 100,000 police officers by paying half their salaries and benefits for up to three years.

The city plans to use a $375,000 COPS-AHEAD grant from 1994 to partly finance five of the 10-to-12 new officers Mullen recently said his department plans to hire in April. Mullen said the delay in taking advantage of the grant money occurred because retirements and resignations kept the department's manpower level below the 150 officers required in its case to take care of the federal funding.

The grants can only be used to increase the number of patrol officers on the street, not to fill vacancies.

Delahunt said last week he will use his seat on the House Judiciary Committee to propose expanding the COPS-AHEAD program by eliminating the three-year cap. Although his proposal could increase the program's cost, he said adding police officers will save money in the long run by reducing the costs of crime, punishment and imprisonment.

SPOTLIGHT ON HIM

What Is Chiropractic?

By DR. THOMAS KRETZ

Chiropractic is an independent branch of the health sciences which specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of mechanical disorders of the joints, particularly those of the spine and their effect on the nervous system.

Chiropractic prides itself on being a drug-free, non-surgical science. The most characteristic aspect of the chiropractic practice is the correction of a subluxated (mis-aligned) spinal vertebrae or pelvic segment by means of making a specific adjustment. The purpose of this correction is to normalize the spinal vertebrae segment and relieve the attending neurological, muscular disturbances.

Currently there is one chiropractor for every 10,000 Americans. The greater acceptance and understanding, increasing insurance recognition, the high cost of hospitalization and greater consciousness among the general population have added to the growth of chiropractic both as a profession and a medical alternative. The evidence for effectiveness is well documented and the Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services validates manipulation for spinal-related conditions.

Conditions which often respond favorably to chiropractic treatment include arthritis, back problems, headaches, disk problems, low back and leg problems, neck stiffness, tension and whiplash.

(Dr. Thomas Kretz has over 10 years of experience treating sports, work and auto injuries. He was one of a dozen chiropractors from across the country to complete the "Advanced Team Physician" program through the American College of Sports Medicine and has also been one of the treating chiropractic physician for the Ladies Professional Golfers Association. Every Woman Needs A Personal Breast Cancer Detection Program

By DR. DAVID WAZER

Educating women about breast cancer, especially the importance of early detection, is key to surviving a disease that will take the lives of more than 44,000 American women this year.

That's a grim statistic, but fortunately, there is also good news. Of the approximately 184,300 women who will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year, most of those who receive early treatment, like Judy Giordani, will be from breast cancer for the rest of their lives.

Risk Factors

How do you know if you might be among the one in nine women who will face breast cancer? If you fall into any of these categories, you are at higher risk:

- Over age 50
- Have a history of breast cancer in your close family
- Had your first child after age 30
- Did not have children
- Are overweight (weighing 40 percent more than your ideal body weight)

But even if none of these risk factors apply, you should still have a personal breast cancer detection plan because of the high incidence of breast cancer and the critical importance of early detection. Since the risk of breast cancer increases with age, with nearly half of all cases being diagnosed in women age 65 and over, the detection measures you employ need to increase as you age.

How To Do A Self-Examination

To check for lumps, thickness or other changes, lie down and put a pillow under your right shoulder. Place your right arm behind your head. Examine your right breast with your left hand in a systematic way until you cover the entire breast area. Use a circular motion with the pads of your three middle fingers, first with light, then medium and finally deep pressure. Then examine your left breast the same way with your right hand. Cover the entire breast area and also enlarged node (gland) in this area, even though nothing can be felt in the breast.

Also as part of your self-exam, look at yourself in the mirror to detect any changes in the size and shape of your breasts or in the color or texture of the skin. Other changes to look for are nipple discharge and scaliness of the skin, especially around the nipple.

Puckering of the skin or retraction of the nipple may also be important because either may indicate something is pulling from within. The best way to detect this change is to observe your breasts in a mirror, first with your hands at your side and then with your hands above your head. Next, with your hands on your hips, press your shoulder slightly forward. When both arms are moved to the same position, both breast and nipples should react to the movements in the same way, with no dimpling or puckering of the skin.

When To Examine Your Breasts

Examine your breast at the same time each month. If you menstruate, the best time is two or three days after your period ends, when

The health effects of involuntary smoking are quite serious.

The Office of Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) reports that non-smoking American workers will have up to 700 cases of lung cancer per year and between 2000 and 13,000 deaths from heart disease per year.

Secondhand smoke belongs to the group of compounds classified by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as a "Group A" carcinogen - cancer causing toxins for which no safe level of exposure exists.

There are 25 smokefree restaurants in Quincy. There are nearly 200 smokefree worksites in Quincy that we are currently aware of.

HEALTH & FITNESS

How Podiatrists Protect Us Breast Cancer Detection Program

(NAPS)—Removing corns and calluses is only one aspect of how podiatric physicians—foot doctors—protect our health. The many other ways can be learned by reading this article.

There are nearly 13,000 practicing doctors of podiatric medicine (DPM) in the U.S. The skills of these physicians are increasingly in demand because foot disorders are among the most widespread and neglected health problems affecting people in the U.S.

The neglect may stem from the misconception on the part of many people that their feet are supposed to hurt. As more Americans engage in exercise and fitness programs, more of them become aware of the limits foot pain places on full participation. Since foot problems are often the result of a lifetime of neglect, and the number of older Americans is increasing almost three times as fast as the population as a whole, they may account for a disproportionate share of the growing demand.

DPMs are graduates of four-year colleges of podiatric medicine. The training at these colleges is grounded in traditional mainstream medicine, and their graduates receive licenses in the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. A growing number of podiatrists have achieved board certification. To become board certified, a doctor must present evidence of successful treatment of a specified number of cases, then pass rigorous examinations, written and oral. The process commonly takes two to three years of intensive work and study.

Contrary to popular belief, feet are not supposed to hurt. If you do, consider consulting a doctor of podiatry. DPMs provide the vast majority of medical and surgical care of the foot and ankle in the U.S.

The American Podiatric Medical Association (APMA) is the professional membership organization of doctors of podiatric medicine in the U.S. More than 10,000 doctors belong to the APMA, representing 75 percent of all podiatric physicians in the U.S. That unusually high number may explain the fact that, doctors of podiatric medicine seem to have one of the highest profiles in the health care delivery system.

If you're one of the millions of Americans suffering from foot pain, you may want to seek out the services of a DPM. A visit entails discussions about your medical history, your level of activity, and any foot problems you are experiencing. There's a pretty good chance you'll come away with less pain than you took to the appointment.

Of foreign-body airway obstruction will be taught. The course will consist of lecture and practice on CPR mannequins.

Cost is $40. Class size is limited and advance registration and payment are required. To register, or for more information, call 376-4018.

your breasts are least likely to be tender or swollen. After menopause, pick a day such as the first day of the month to remind yourself it is time to do breast self-examination.

Some women say they feel so many lumps when they do a self-exam that they can't tell the difference between what's normal and what may be abnormal. But by becoming as familiar with your breasts as you are with your face through monthly examinations, you can, in fact, learn to detect differences.

One good method of starting a program of self-examination is to have a professional exam by a doctor first. Do this five to seven days after your period. Then perform your own exam as often as you can for a few days to learn what your breasts feel and look like when you know they've been given a clean bill of health by your physician.

Professional Exams And Mammography

During an exam, if you find anything that feels like a lump or a thickening, you should see your doctor immediately. In fact, if you notice any change—either gradual or sudden—in your breasts—alert your doctor. Fortunately, most breast lumps are not cancerous.

Beginning at age 20, you should have a breast exam by a physician once every three years. After the age of 40, you should have your doctor check your breasts once a year. If you have any of the risk factors mentioned earlier, you may want to increase the frequency of your professional examinations.

Currently, the American Cancer Society advises having your first mammogram at the age of 40, as a baseline. Then you should schedule a mammogram every one to two years until age 50, when you should begin having annual mammograms.

Mammography is important because while you and your doctor can detect a lump as small as a pea, a mammogram can detect a lump as small as a pin head. This size lump can take as much as two years before it can be felt. Although annual mammographies were controversial a few decades ago, the risk of radiation is now considered negligible since the equipment has been greatly improved and is much more sophisticated.

In fact, the radiation from a mammography is less than what you receive from a dental x-ray. Call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 for a list of certified facilities that perform mammography in your area.

Don't put off starting your own breast cancer detection plan. Regular self-examinations, visits to your physician and routine mammograms should all be critical components of your year-long breast-health plan.

(Dr. Wazer, director of the Radiation Oncology Center at New England Medical Center, is a national expert in breast cancer treatment and research. Dr. Wazer recently presented the results of a study on the effectiveness of interstitial implantation, a special type of radiation therapy for breast cancer. The results of this study have caused radiation specialists throughout the country to begin evaluating interstitial implantation as a replacement for the conventional daily seven-week course of radiation therapy currently used.)

REAL ESTATE MARKET

State Multi-Family Home Sales Up 10% In 1996

The state's multi-family housing market continued to improve in 1996 as sales of two-, three- and four-family homes increased 9.9 percent, rising from 4,984 units closed in 1995 to 5,476 last year, according to data compiled by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR).

The annual increase reflects a five-year trend of steady sales growth in the multi-family market in the Bay State.

"The strong sales activity we've seen over the past year is the result of healthy inventory levels and improved price stability in the multi-family," said MAR President Richard Dils. "The current combination of low-interest rates and less stringent down payment made the owner-occupied, two-family home a very affordable entry-level option for many first-time buyers."

After a period of slow growth in the first quarter, in which sales rose 2.6 percent over the same period in 1995, the market rebounded with sharp sales increases in the final three quarters of the year. Sales increased 18.4 percent, 10.4 percent and 7.5 percent in the second, third and fourth quarters respectively versus the comparable periods the previous year.

Regionally, multi-family sales improved in six of seven market areas in 1996, with most regions recording growth of 8-14 percent over the 1995 sales volume. In requirements for two-to-four family properties also has addition, on Cape Cod and the Islands, the number of sales nearly doubled last year, from 32 units in 1995 to 63 units in 1996, while activity fell 6.1 percent in southeastern Massachusetts in the past 12 months.

In its year-end report, the MAR also found that the total dollar volume for multi-family home sales increased in 1996 by 15.8 percent, climbing from $601,367,737 one year ago to $696,151,669 in 1996. While specific price comparisons are not available for two-, three- and four-family homes separately, the overall increase in total dollar volume suggests a modest 5.3 percent rise in the average value of multi-family property has occurred statewide during the past year.

"Prices have recovered considerably in the past 12 to 24 months, and this has sparked a resurgence in the multi-family market," said Dils. "Two- and three-family homes, especially, are appealing to buyers once again."

Remodeling Adds Value To Your Home

(NAPS)—You can add as much as $40,000 to the value of your home, say real estate experts, by remodeling even one important room, like the kitchen.

Increased value is just one reason to contemplate this important step. Ease of food preparation and improved appearance are other reasons. The installation of double ovens, for example, would make holiday entertaining and parties easier. Replacing your old cooktop with a new smoothtop model will modernize the look of your kitchen, as well as give you excellent cooking performance. Smoothtops are easy to clean and, when not in use, provide extra counter space.

Smoothtop ranges and cooktops are among the fastest-growing appliance segments in the U.S. The translucent black Ceran® glass-ceramic panel, supplied by Schott Corporation for today's smoothtop ranges, promotes efficient heat transfer by moving heat directly upwards into the pot or pan, not sideways.

First-Time Homebuyer's Workshops Begin March 25

Quincy Community Action Programs, an approved MHFA first-time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop series beginning Tuesday, March 25.

The series will continue March 27, April 1 and 3. All workshops will be held at South Weymouth Savings Bank, 1530 Main St., Weymouth, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Attendance at all workshops is mandatory to qualify for the many different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including how to locate a property within one's budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program for one's needs.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. Cost is $35 per household.

The workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd, housing coordinator, 479-8181, ext. 115.

Quincy Tangles With B-R In First Round Tonight

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Tonight (Thursday) at 7, the Quincy High School boys basketball team hopes to take the first step towards capturing the MIAA Division I South Sectionals championship.

In the first round of the South Sectionals, the Presidents visit Old Colony League foe Bridgewater-Raynham, a squad that has defeated Quincy twice this season—both by small margins.

"We're not discouraged with the draw, even though we lost to them twice," said Quincy coach John Franceschini. "We lost to them at their place by six and by three on our floor. In both situations, missed free throws and turnovers were the big ingredients in our downfall.

"If we shoot better and bring our turnovers down, I'm very confident we can go there and come out with a win. Those turnovers were mostly from our bad decisions, not so much their defensive pressure."

The keys for Quincy (13-7), said Franceschini, will be controlling B-R's big men, Marc Columbo (6-6) and Brian Rea (6-4), and making their teammates, including 6-4 swingman Mark Hammond, work for their shots.

"Both Columbo and Rea are big and very aggressive on the boards, and the others can shoot from outside, so we have to keep an eye on everyone court," he said. "We have to control him (Columbo) in the low block or he'll take over the game. He's very good at catching the ball and throwing it out for a three.

SENIOR BOB WALSH (middle) and his Quincy teammates visit Old Colony League foe Bridgewater-Raynham tonight (Thursday) in the first round of the MIAA Division I South Sectionals. The Presidents look to avenge two single-digit losses to the Trojans this season with a victory tonight.

(Sun photos/Tom Gorman)

"We held him (Columbo) to just eight points in last game by doubling him and taking away his easy passes. We have to make him work hard—that's the bottom line."

If the Presidents, the No. 11 seed, defeats the No. 6 seed Trojans (16-4), they will advance to the quarterfinals on Saturday. Quincy could face its arch rival North Quincy (No. 14 seed) for the third time this season if the Red Raiders won their preliminary round game against visiting Boston English Tuesday and also beat host West Roxbury tonight.

As the higher seed, the Presidents would host the Red Raiders Saturday afternoon at a time to be announced. The dates and times for the semifinals and finals are to be announced.

"It would be great to play North in the tournament," said Franceschini, who noted the last time the rivals met in the tournament was in the early 1980s. "The big thing in that game would be that the winner would be a game from going to the FleetCenter for the final. It really would be something to see."

North Needs Win Over English To Advance

In Tuesday night's preliminary round of the MIAA Division I South Sectionals, the North Quincy High School boys basketball team hosted Boston English, a squad which handed the Red Raiders a nine-point loss at NQ's gym three weeks ago.

The result of Tuesday's game was not available as of press time. Seeded No. 14, the Red Raiders may have been without the services of senior point guard Chris Erler, who was battling the flu as of Monday evening. North coach Ted Stevenson said sophomore guard Brian Doyle would fill in at the point if Erler was unable to play.

If the Red Raiders (12-8) beat English, they would visit West Roxbury, the Boston city champions tonight (Thursday) at 7. West Roxbury (18-2), the No. 3 seed, is paced by 6-8 senior center Elton Tyler, who averages over 21 points a game.

In Westie's 69-55 win over Boston Latin in last Friday night's Boston city final, Tyler finished with 23 points, 22 rebounds, four blocks and three steals in the victory.

A win for NQ against West Roxbury, along with a Quincy victory over Bridgewater-Raynham tonight, would set up a third meeting between the city's rivals. No. 11 seed Quincy, as the higher seed, would host North Saturday afternoon in the quarterfinals at a time to be announced.

The dates and times for the semifinals and finals are to be announced.

"We'd love to play Quincy in the tournament,"

LED BY JUNIOR Brian Ross, the North Quincy Red Raiders hope they get another shot at Quincy in the MIAA Division I South Sectionals. First, North had to beat Boston English Tuesday night and West Roxbury, Boston's city champions, tonight (Thursday) to reach the quarterfinals for a possible showdown with Quincy.

said Stevenson, whose Red Raiders split the first two games against Quincy this season. "We'd love to play them and get a little revenge for that tough loss at their place (a 47-45 loss on Feb. 15)."

The Red Raiders finished their regular season with a 57-45 victory over host Milton last Wednesday night. Junior center Brian Ross led the way with 20 points, but fouled out with six minutes to play.

North's other starters—Jim Finn, Mike Johnston, Matt Bromley and Erler—came up big when Ross left the game, said Stevenson.

"Those guys turned it up a notch both offensively and defensively," he said. "Brian Doyle hit a big shot and two free throws down the stretch to seal the win. It was a nice way to get our confidence back going into the tourney."

Quincy's Nguyen Captures State Title

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Dai Nguyen became the seventh state wrestling champion in Quincy High School history with a 13-10 victory over Weymouth's P.J. Silva in the final of the 103-pound class at Division I state wrestling meet last Saturday in Lowell.

The victory avenged a loss Nguyen suffered to Silva in the Division I South Sectional final at Braintree Feb. 15.

A senior who only started wrestling as a sophomore, Nguyen will enter this Saturday's All-State meet in Salem as the No. 1 seed in the 103-pound class. Nguyen may meet Silva, the No. 4 seed, for a third time at the All-State.

The top six finishers in each weight class at the All-State meet will participate in the New England's Glastonbury, Conn., March 7-8.

In Saturday's match, Nguyen took a quick 7-1 lead and had to fend off a late rally by Silva to capture the title.

"That was a really exciting match," said Quincy coach Lou Venturini. "It went back and forth before Dai hit the last big move to clinch it. He has incredible upper body strength, which he's built by lifting weights every day since he came over from Vietnam in 1993. He doesn't speak much

Xaverian First Obstacle For No. 3 Seed Quincy

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Nearly two weeks have passed since the Quincy High School hockey team wrapped up its regular season with a 1-1 tie against crosstown rival North Quincy.

The Presidents (14-2-4), ready and rested, return to action Friday night at 8:30 when they battle Xaverian in the first round of the MIAA Division I South Sectionals at UMass-Boston.

Xaverian (10-8-2), the No. 14 seed out of 15 teams, is a member of the Catholic Conference, which has three representatives (Catholic Memorial, Matignon and B.C. High) in the MIAA Division IA Hockey Tournament.

Quincy coach Bob Sylvia said the Presidents, who scrimmaged Hanover Tuesday and Boston Latin Monday, must be focused from the opening faceoff if they are to move on in the tournament.

"Xaverian will have three good lines, four good defensemen and a good goalie," he said. "They'll be tough, and that's what the tournament is all about. We have to be on our game, because if we're not, we can get beat."

For the Presidents to succeed in the tournament, Sylvia presented the following four items as keys to victory: solid goaltending by Chris Burns, balanced scoring, sharp defensive play and staying out of the penalty box.

"If we do those four things, we can compete with anybody," he added.

A win over Xaverian would vault Quincy into the quarterfinals to play the winner of Saturday's

Quincy Pee Wees Lose Final Thriller

Bantams Capture Kiwanis Tourney Title

By LIAM FITZGERALD

At the 24th annual Kiwanis International Hockey Tournament, two Quincy Youth Hockey Association teams competed in the finals and another reach the semi-finals, with one Quincy squad emerging victorious in the championship round.

The Quincy Bantams captured their division with a 3-0 victory over Needham in the finals, while the Pee Wees lost a 2-1 double overtime battle to Revere in the finals. The Quincy Squirrels lost to Suffolk County (N.Y.) PAL, 3-1, in the semifinals.

BANTAMS

In the Bantams championship game, Ryan Doyle scored two goals and Didier Alther netted a goal as Quincy blanked Needham, 3-0, to clinch the division title.

Registering assists for Quincy were Dan Kennedy, Brian Nolan, Mark Giese and Ryan Barry.

PEE WEES

Despite the outstanding effort of goaltender Bruce Maggio, the Quincy Pee Wees fell to Revere, 2-1, in a thrilling double-overtime final.

Trailing 1-0, Quincy's Joe Fitzpatrick fed Charlie Sorrento, who left his defender at the blue line, faked out the goalie and flipped the puck top shelf to tie the game and send the Quincy crowd into a frenzy.

The two teams battled through a scoreless first overtime period, before Revere notched the game-winner in the second overtime.

Quincy reached the finals with an exciting 2-1 triumph over Lewiston, Maine in the semifinals.

Jordan Virtue and Shawn Richardson notched the Quincy goals, while Kevin Patten collected two assists and Brian O'Hanley and Peter Turowski each added an assist.

The Quincy Pee Wees, coached by Jack McInnis and Mike Connelly, played their first two games short-handed and won both. O'Hanley, Virtue, Billy McKeon and Richardson provided most of the scoring to send Quincy to the semi-finals.

Julie McInnis and Joe Cronin punished the opposition with some bone-crushing body checks to keep the other teams in line.

Returning for the semis were Sorrento, Patten, Turowski, Jim Cashins and David Germain to help Quincy reach the finals. Fitzpatrick, Ryan Donahue, Dan Sheehan and Brian Stock played strong throughout.

SQUIRDS

Billy Barter scored Quincy's only goal, assisted by Brendan Craig, in a 3-1 semifinal loss to Suffolk County (N.Y.) PAL.

Suffolk edged South Boston, 2-1, to clinch the division championship.

MITES

Suffolk (N.Y.) PAL romped over Capital Youth (N.Y.), 7-2, in the championship game after shutting out South Boston, 12-0, in the semifinal round.

Capital defeated Milton, 7-2, to reach the finals.

GOALIE RYAN KRUGER of Quincy Bantams makes a save against Needham enroute to a 3-0 shutout in the championship game of the Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament.

CHARLIE SORRENTO of the Quincy Pee Wees turns on the jets on a break-away to score his team's lone goal in the Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament championship game.

QUINCY PEE WEE coach Jack McInnis receives his team's runner-up trophy from Kiwanis Club of Quincy President Tom King.

BRUCE MAGGIO of the Quincy Pee Wee's stonies a Revere shot to keep his team close in the Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament championship game.

QUINCY PEE WEE's team was the runner-up in its division of the Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament. The local entry lost to Revere 2-1 in double overtime. Players and coaches (in no particular order) are Joe Fitzpatrick, Kevin Patten, Charlie Sorrento, Billy McKeon, Joe Cronin, David Germain, Dan Sheehan, Shawn Richardson, Jill McInnis, Jordan Virtue, Jim Cashins, Brian O'Hanley, Brian Stock, Peter Turowski, Ryan Donahue, Bruce Maggio, Shaun Flaherty and coaches Jack McInnis and Mike Connelly.

For Quincy Police Sergeants Jim Buhl And Dick Laracy

Red Sox Fantasy Camp A 'Field Of Dreams'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Imagine suiting up in a Red Sox uniform, playing at the Old Town Team's spring training facility in sunny Florida and sharing a dugout with boyhood baseball idols and legends like Carl Yastrzemski.

Well, for two Quincy police officers, that dream came true recently at the Red Sox spring training fantasy camp in Fort Myers, Fla.

Sgt. Dick Laracy, 64, a 37-year veteran of the Quincy police force, and Sgt. Jim Buhl, 58, a 33-year member of the department, were among 100 participants at this year's camp. Collectively, the two have been around baseball and softball diamonds for more than 60 years but the week of Feb. 2-9, 1997 will be the highlight for years to come.

"It was an outstanding week, from the uniforms and meals to the trainers' facility and camaraderie of the former big leaguers," said a tanned Laracy a few days after arriving home. "I always wanted to do it. Jim went last year. He didn't have to talk me into it."

Buhl said he had such a great time last year that he wanted to experience it again this year. His wife, Flo, who works in the Quincy public school athletic department office, surprised her husband with the fantasy camp last Christmas as a present.

"It was a pre-retirement gift," said Buhl who is planning to leave the force in about two years. "It was such a great time. I took her this year because she is such a big baseball fan," Buhl added. Likewise, Laracy was joined by his wife, Nancy.

The fantasy camp is an opportunity to walk in the footsteps of major leaguers. Authentic uniforms await each player at their locker each morning. Nagging injuries like hamstrings are worked out by real trainers. Manicured fields are groomed and re-lined for each game. Most of all, campers are coached by former big leaguers including some Hall of Famers.

The only thing missing from the "major league experience" is a five-figure paycheck at the end of the week.

Instead, campers pay a price comparable to other week-long vacations to play baseball the week before the "Boys of Summer" arrive for spring training.

Laracy was on a team managed by Ferguson Jenkins, a Hall of Famer and former Cy Young winner. Jenkins fanned 3,192 batters during his illustrious career, ninth on the all-time strike-out list. Assistant coaches were Dick Drago, Brian Doyle and Walt Drope.

Laracy, who has coached Little League, Babe Ruth and Legion baseball for more than 20 years, caught seven games and played second base for one.

Buhl's team was managed by Quincy's own Sam Mele. A steady hitter and outfielder for the Red Sox in the 1940s, Mele managed the Minnesota Twins to the American League pennant in 1965 with a 102-60 record in 1965. His Twins fell to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series.

Buhl, a softball player for 40 years, was a first baseman throughout the camp.

Quincy's representatives carried big bats in camp. Buhl batted .385, almost double his first camp. "I batted .200 last year so that's a big jump for me. That was the biggest highlight for me. It was a goal of mine. I also cut down my strikeouts from four to one. I made good contact. That's all you can hope for."

Laracy had a remarkable camp. He batted .500 and was named his team MVP as well as MVP of the entire camp.

"What else could you want," Laracy said of his cherished camp highlight. "I was surprised." What makes the feat even more impressive is that Laracy pulled a hamstring the first day of camp. But he credited the trainers with healing the muscle and getting him into game shape.

Another moment they'll remember is playing for and against the big leaguers. After the seven camp games at the Red Sox minor league facility, the campers played a game against the pros in City of Palms Park, Boston's ma-jeor-league spring-training field.

Former players putting on the spikes again included Steve Lyons, Jose Santiago, Lee Stange, Russ Gibson, Rico Petrocelli, Gary Allenson, Rick Miller, Bill Campbell, Bernie Carbo, Jenkins and Drago.

Asked if the hurlers have lost much velocity, Laracy replied, "They can still bring it. They can really bear down."

"Their fastballs looked like aspirins," Buhl added. Neither Laracy or Buhl managed a hit off the pros, but they made contact.

The former pros also possess their hitting touch.

"Yaz put on a hitting clinic they really impressed me," Buhl said. "He hit them all over the park, one after another."

They said only one regular camper "went yard" during the week and that was Bill "Spaceman" Lee's brother, Paul. They were also impressed by Lee's baseball knowledge.

What else stands out?

"All the pros were just like us," Laracy said. "Ferguson Jenkins is a Hall of Famer but you'd think he's one of the boys."

"A few of them were stand-offish but the rest of them were great," Buhl added. "They made themselves available to sign bats and balls and pose in pictures."

Mele and fellow ex-Red Sox Eddie Pellegrini of Weymouth were among their favorites. "Both are great guys and outstanding people. Yastrzemski was a good guy, too. He signed bats, balls and signed photos, too," Buhl said. "There's great camaraderie. No one criticizes at all."

"It was just like a family. It was an outstanding week," Laracy added.

In fact, both men agreed that the friendship bond between players and coaches was the most memorable aspect of the camp.

"They treat you just like teammates. You get a different look at them when they're not being mobbed by a group of autograph hounds," Laracy said.

Both are undecided on whether they will suit up again next year.

"Some guys have been going to these camps for 10 years," Buhl said. "Other teams like the Twins have similar fantasy camps. Some guys go from camp to camp."

"We'll think about doing it again," Laracy said.

Like true Red Sox, there's always next year.

Two Quincy High Students Receive Good Sport Honors

Quincy High School students Kerry Sullivan and Eric Dickens were among 10 high school seniors recently honored for their achievement at the eighth annual Good Sport Ceremony at FleetCenter in Boston.

Sullivan is a member of both the varsity softball and basketball teams at Quincy High. The captain of the tennis team and a member of the track team at Quincy High, Dickens is also a member of the National Honor Society and the year-book staff.

Before a recent Boston Bruins-Florida Panthers hockey game, a reception to honor the winners was held in an executive suite at the FleetCenter.

Jeff Craig's 100th Point Wins Game For Plymouth State

Jeff Craig of Quincy, a senior co-captain of the Plymouth State College hockey team, recently scored his 100th career point in a game against Tufts University.

Craig's 100th point came on a goal that broke a 1-1 tie in the and sent Plymouth State to a 2-1 victory.

With 36 goals and 64 assists in 85 games, Craig is only the third player in school history to score 100 career points, joining his older brother Kevin Craig (186 points) and David Converse (105).

Craig was later honored for his accomplishment at a ceremony at a Plymouth State home game against Nichols College.

Senior Games Ice Hockey At Youth Arena

Quincy Youth Arena will host the ice hockey competition, including the championship, of the Massachusetts Senior Games which begin this weekend.

The competition opens Saturday, March 1 with two games and another game on Monday, March 3 at the arena, located at 60 Murphy Memorial Dr.

In the 60 and over division Saturday, the Quincy Egg and I team will host the team from Merrimack Valley. At 7:50 p.m., Quincy DeWolfe N.E. will host the Rusty Blades.

On March 3, the Quincy entry of the 50 and over division, the Quincy Presidents, will face off at 6:40 p.m. against Victory representing S.E.MASS.

There are six teams in the 60 and over division; eight in the 50 and over division.

The championship round will be also held at the Quincy Youth Arena on Sunday, March 15. Games for all medal categories in two divisions will be played at four separate times March 15.

The Mass Senior Games was formed in 1991 and gives older adults a variety of sports activities to participate in each year. This is the third year for winter games that include downhill and cross-country skiing in addition to hockey.

This is the second year Quincy has hosted ice hockey competition.

Quincy Recreation Director Barry Welch and Council on Aging Director Brian Buckley serve on the Massachusetts Senior Games Board of Directors. They praised the Quincy Youth Arena for their commitment to insuring the "growth and success of these games."

Games are open to the public free of charge. For more information, call 376-1394 or 376-1245.

In the semifinals, Nguyen trailed Greater Lowell's Paul Sicard with a minute to go, but pulled off a five-point move to secure a 9-8 victory and a spot in the final.

Three other Quincy wrestlers placed at the South Sectionals: Kevin Connolly (152), Pat Harrington and Mike Turner (215) all finished eighth in their respective weight classes. All three were alternates at the state meet.

TUNE IN, NOT UP

While most older consumers have grown up with the notion that an annual tune-up of a car's engine is good practice of preventive maintenance, very few late-model cars with engine performance problems can benefit from a tune-up. It may also come as a surprise to many that, when a car does not run well, the solution does not necessarily rest with having it tuned-up. The reason behind this rests with the fact that most cars built since 1981 have computerized fuel and ignition systems. Thus, the solution to their engine performance problems is usually more complex than simply having a tune-up. Late-model cars that do not run well usually require sophisticated testing procedures referred to as diagnostic checkups. These checks require the use of diagnostic instruments by trained automotive technicians.

HINT: Modern cars require a simple procedure referred to as a maintenance tune-up, which basically includes replacing the spark plugs, air and fuel filters, and testing the spark plug wires, as well as visually inspecting various other components.

At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we look forward to putting our years of training, outstanding diagnostic and test equipment and experience to work for you. We use the Alldata C-Di-Form based manual system for the very latest in service and repair bulletins for all makes of cars. Our ASE Certified technicians look forward to treating your car with the same high level of attention they would their own. You'll find us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). North's Kane Finishes Sixth At State Meet

After winning just five matches last year, North Quincy High School junior Matt Kane capped off a sensational campaign with a sixth-place finish at the Division 2 state wrestling meet last Saturday at Reading.

Kane reached the semifinals in the 103-pound class before losing to Adam Royds of Burlington, the eventual state champion, by pin. In the consolation finals, Kane lost to Randolph's Matt Anderson, 4-3, despite holding a one-point lead with two seconds left.

Finishing the season with a 24-10 record, Kane won the praise of his coach, Mike Mauriello, for his hard work and determination.

"That was quite an accomplishment, reaching the semifinals at the state meet," said Mauriello. "After a tough year last year, Matt really committed himself from the first day to be in the top echelon of wrestlers at his weight class, and he accomplished that goal.

"He got the taste of losing last year and didn't like it, so he went out and proved last year was a fluke. He's definitely for real. He did a nice job when you consider he came in sixth out of 48 schools. I'm proud of him and I'm glad he'll be back next year."

In the Division 2 South Sectionals the previous weekend, Kane lost to Anderson, 12-2, in the final and finished second at the meet. The No. 5 seed, Kane reached the final with a pin of Mansfield's Jared Goldman in a semifinal match, a 5-2 victory over Norwood's Dave Campisano in a quarterfinal match and a pin of Stoughton's Sean Tolan in the first round.

NQ's Jose Villanueva, seeded fourth in the 145-pound class, finished eighth in the sectional and was an alternate at the state meet.

In the Red Raiders' final dual meet of the season, they lost a match to Plymouth North by a 24-23 score. Kane, Villanueva and Man Kit So (152) picked up victories by pin for NQ. By LIAM FITZGERALD

Girls Pee Wee II Win

In three recent games, the Quincy Youth Hockey Girls Pee Wee II team picked up a win, a loss and a tie.

In an 8-0 triumph over Westwood, Colleen Clifford paced the offense with a hat trick. Danielle Gatto and Callie O'Connor each netted two goals and Jane Sarno played a solid game. The entire team did an outstanding job passing and shooting the puck.

Despite taking a 4-2 lead into the third period, Quincy dropped a 6-4 decision to Charleston.

Goaltender Jessica Poggi played well, as did the rest of the squad, which had only eight skaters available.

Despite having only eight skaters, Quincy battled Peabody to a 2-2 tie. Goalie Erin McNamara turned in a solid performance to keep Quincy in the game.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Too often children are familiar with and expect all the privileges of belonging to a family circle, but have not been trained in assuming the responsibilities which should always accompany privileges. Children should be expected to share in the work of the home, thereby developing a sense of responsibility and experiencing the joy of co-operative effort which will extend to their outside relationships later.

To learn what it means to submerge one's own personal interests in the larger interests of the family develops in the children a proper sense of values and reduces his natural selfishness. When a child has been deprived of the experience of taking his share of responsibility in the home, he invariably finds it difficult to make the necessary adjustments when he leaves home and gets out into the world on his own...

Pearl A. Mattes, 77

Former Drafting Technician

A funeral Mass for Pearl A. (Romano) Mattes, 77, of Holbrook, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) in St. Francis of Assisi Church, South Braintree.

Mrs. Mattes died Feb. 22 at home.

A former drafting technician for Charles T. Main Co. for 25 years, she retired many years ago.

As a young woman, she was a professional ballet dancer.

Born in Southbridge, she was raised and educated in Cambridge and lived most of her life in Quincy. She had also lived seven years in Plymouth and two years in Holbrook.

Wife of the late Edmund A. Mattes, she is survived by two daughters, Elaine D. Cianci of Waltham and Barbara Ross of Boston; two sisters, Lena Corey of Woburn and Rita Mirabele of Lexington; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Donations may be made to charity.

Quit smoking.

6.04.010 - Definitions

The following words as used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires, shall the following meanings:

A. "At Large" any animal off the premises of the owner or keeper and not under the control of the owner or keeper by leash, cord, chain, rope or other device that allows the owner or keeper to control the movement and/or action of the animal.

B. "Dog Officer" any person so designated by the Mayor pursuant to M.G.L. Chapter 140, Section 151 to enforce the provisions of this chapter and the applicable statutes of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

C. "Keeper" any person other than the owner, harboring or having in his possession any animal.

6.04.020 - Restrictions - Disturbances

Any owner or keeper of any animal shall not permit or suffer such animal to go at large in the City or to disturb the quiet of any person by barking, biting, howling or other manner.

6.04.030 - Restrictions - Urination and Defecation

An owner or keeper of an animal shall remove, and dispose of any feces left by such animal on any sidewalk, street, park or other public area, or on any private property which is not owned or occupied by such owner. If an animal, defecates on property other than that of the owner or keeper, the owner or keeper of the animal is responsible for the immediate removal of the feces.

6.04.040 - Restrictions - Disposal

Feces shall only be disposed of at a place suitable and regularly reserved for the disposal of human feces or otherwise designated as appropriate by the Board of Health, to include appropriate amounts of feces that can be disposed of in the regular trash, provided it is contained in a plastic or paper bag.

6.04.050 - Exemption

Section 6.08.030 shall not apply to a person who, by reason of a physical disability, is unable to comply with the requirements of such section.

6.04.060 - Violations - Penalty

Whoever violates the provisions of Sections 6.04.0-20 and 6.04.030 of this chapter may be fined up to the maximum provided for in this code.

In addition to the enforcement as described above, the provisions of this chapter may also be enforced by noncriminal complaint pursuant to the provisions of the M.G.L. Ch. 40, Sec. 21D, and such penalty shall be:

For a First Offense	$20.00
For a Second Offense	$35.00
For a Third and subsequent Offense	$50.00

6.04.070 - License - Fees

The fee for a dog license issued pursuant to M.G.L.
Chapter 140 shall be ten ($10.00) dollars. In addition, the owner of a dog not licensed on or before April 30 in any year shall pay a late fee of ten ($10.00) dollars, in addition to the license fee.

6.04.080 - Impoundment - Reclaiming Fee - Boarding Fee
The dog officer shall collect a reclaiming fee of ten ($10.00) dollars and boarding fees of five ($5.00) dollars per day from the claimant of a dog that is in the custody of the City due to violation of the ordinances of the City or laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

6.04.090 - Nuisances - Dangerous Dogs - Investigation - Findings

If any person shall make a complaint in writing to the chief of police that any dog owned or harbored within the city is a nuisance by reason of vicious disposition or excessive barking or other disturbance, the chief of police shall investigate or cause to be investigated such complaint, including an examination on oath of the complainant, and may make such order concerning the restraint or disposal of such dog as may be deemed necessary.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSSED VIRGIN
(Never Known to Fail)

Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed
Mother of the Son of God,
Immaculate Virgin, Assist me
in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother.
Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God,
Queen of Heaven and Earth!
I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to suc-
cure me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh
Mary conceived without sin,
pray for us who have recourse
to thee (3x) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands
(3x) Holy Spirit, you who solve
all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated
from you in eternal glory.
Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days
the request will be granted.

Karns received a certificate and a cross pen and pencil set at the annual Deans' Reception held at the 600 Club in Fenway Park in Boston.

Security Measures For City Buildings

tion and its parking facilities, are recommended.

•Access Control: "It is critical that access control policies at all facilities be enforced without exception.

•Identification Policy: A photo identification policy is recommended for the Quincy School Department and the city's library employees. The report also notes that Quincy College is considering such a policy.

•Consolidation of Administrative Offices at Quincy College and the Quincy School Department: Recommended as a long-term goal for the city. Consolidation would allow for the installation of mechanical access control measures and help limit the risk to those working at night.

•Security Staffing: An additional security officer at Quincy College, raising the total number to two, is recommended, as is security coverage at the city's high schools during the summer session. Current efforts at the Thomas Crane Public Library is acceptable and should continue, the report adds.

•Security/Crime Awareness Training: Regularly-scheduled Quincy Police Department programs are recommended.

•Pre-Employment Screening: "There must be a consistent policy that criminal background investigations are conducted on all prospective employees."

•Key Control: It is recommended that management keep a close watch on how many former and current unauthorized employees have retained keys to facilities.

•Cash Handling Procedures/Robbery Prevention: It is recommended that all city employees be thoroughly trained in this area.

Security Equipment

•Main School Entrances: A buzzer/intercom system, magnetic door release, CCTV camera/monitor and time-lapse video recorder is recommended for the main entrance at every elementary and middle school, as well as the treasurer's office at City Hall.

•Intrusion Alarm Systems: "False alarms are usually the result of poor alarm maintenance. A regular maintenance program needs to be established. A service contract with the alarm vendor is recommended.

•Communications: Two-way radios for Quincy School Department custodians, and a cellular telephone or other communications device for the Quincy College security officer are recommended. The report also states that a phone should be installed for students who take Quincy College classes in the Quincy Center for Technical Education.

•Lighting: Additional lighting is recommended in the rear parking lot and book drop at the Crane library, the parking lot and walkway behind New City Hall, and the walkway between Quincy College and Quincy High School. A preventative maintenance program also is suggested.

•Foliage/Landscape: Regulation evaluation and maintenance of overgrown foliage will "allow for a natural surveillance and eliminate hiding spaces," according to the report.

•Computer Equipment: "Computer labs or rooms with numerous computer stations must be adequately secured."

Meeting On Shaw's Tonight

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin will hold an informational neighborhood meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall on Phase 2 of the Shaw's Supermarket on the North Quincy-Wollaston line.

Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon also will be in attendance. The public is invited.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY in Quincy Center will undergo some changes beginning in September as it prepares for the construction of a new addition. While the Richardson building at the left will continue to house the library's reference section and a popular collection of new books, the Coletti building (right), which includes the front desk and the library's main reading room will be closed for an estimated 16 months and the majority of its materials will be moved into the library's three branches.

Materials Will Be Available At Branches

Half Of Library To Close While Addition Built

Virtually half of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center will be closed for 16 months and most of its collections moved to three branches during construction of a new addition at the site.

The Coletti building, constructed in 1939 and which houses the front desk and the library's main reading room, will be closed during work on the new addition.

The Richardson building, completed and dedicated in 1882 will remain open. Designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, considered the foremost architect of his day, it will continue to house the library's reference section as well as a collection of new books.

Library officials and staff are now preparing to move most of the main library's materials to the three branches in North Quincy, Wollaston and Adams Shore.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin said the majority of materials at the main library in Quincy Center will be moved into the branches in September. She noted that following a recent staff meeting on the plan, library employees appear to be ready for the changes.

"I think they understand now exactly how this is going to work," she said. "They're all excited about it. They all agreed that it will be worth it in the end.

"We hope the public will jump into the spirit of with us during that time," McLaughlin added. "We'll try to keep the inconvenience to a minimum."

In all, the Coletti building will be closed for about 16 months, she said.

Construction is expected to begin in December and last until May 1999, according to McLaughlin. All materials should be returned to the main library by June of that year, she said.

About 60 percent of what is moved will be placed in the North Quincy branch,

Council Bans Meetings Before Election Night

The City Council voted unanimously Monday night not to hold any meetings the night before any municipal, state or federal elections.

The council's regular meetings fall on the first and third Mondays of the month from September through June, which means that two meetings—one in September and one in November—fall on the night before an election.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi proposed that no meetings be held on those nights so that pressure may be taken off the city clerk's office. City Clerk Joseph Shea, who must attend every council meeting, said Monday night that a late council meeting on the night before an election can interfere with his election preparation.

The council voted to hold meetings previously scheduled on the night before an election on the following Monday night.

Ceremony Monday Hailed As Reopening First Phase Shipyard Demo Work To Start

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The city will hold a groundbreaking ceremony next week for demolition work that Mayor James Sheets is calling the first phase of the reopening of the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point.

The ceremony at the shipyard is scheduled for Monday, March 10 at 10 a.m. Among those who are expected to attend are Sens. Edward Kennedy and John Kerry, Congressmen William Delahunt and Joseph Moakley, Gov. William Weld, former Congressman Gerry Studds, a representative from the U.S. Department of Transportation and Jay MacRitchie, the mayor's appointee to the MWRA Advisory Board.

Sheets said he is looking forward to the ceremony. "It's very exciting," he said. "It's the beginning of the process to modernize the shipyard—which will make it, in my opinion, the most technologically-advanced shipyard in the world."

"And we don't build commercial ships anywhere in this country right now. It's historic for the city, and historic for the United States as well."

The demolition of a number of buildings at the site will pave the way for the modernization of the shipyard, which will include installation of state-of-the-art robotic equipment, the mayor noted.

Storioris Emmanouil, owner of Swampscott-based Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI), has been working for many months on his plan to revitalize and reopen the shipyard. He already has a plan to build six vessels at the site.

MHI is expected to officially purchase the majority of the shipyard property from the MWRA (Massachusetts Water Resources Authority), the current owner, for about $10 million by the end of this week, Sheets said. He added that a loan from Fleet Bank initially will make the deal possible, and the city plans to reimburse the bank with $7.8 million in bonds it has

Council Expresses Opposition To Human Rights Violations

The City Council Monday night unanimously passed a resolution introduced by Councillor Paul Harold condemning the human rights violations in Myanmar, also known as Burma.

The resolution calls upon United States citizens to call upon American companies to withdraw their businesses from that country. Harold acknowledged that is unusual for a municipal government to take such a stand, but said it is necessary because of the ongoing violations.

"It's appropriate that we at the local level take this small step," said Harold.

"It's highly appropriate," agreed Council President Peter Kolson.

Seven speakers, representing the Quincy Human Rights Commission and South Shore Coalition for Human Rights, urged the council to support Harold's resolution. They described the military dictatorship in Burma and its record of human rights abuses.

City To Pay Return Postage

43,000 City Census Forms In Mail

For the first time in Quincy's history, the city will pay the return postage for the annual city census being mailed to 43,000 residential dwelling units this week.

City Clerk Joseph Shea said those who receive the census forms, which were mailed Monday, will not need to use a stamp when they mail it back to his office at City Hall.

"It's just something we're trying out this year," he said. "We'll see how it works out."

The postage will cost about $9,000 and will be taken out of Shea's $40,000 census budget, he added.

Shea said the census, which is required by state law, is important for a couple of reasons. It helps determine future enrollment in the city's public schools, he noted, and also aids the city in the application process for state and federal grants.

The census is mailed to all residential dwelling units in Quincy, including houses, apartments, condominiums, college dormitories and nursing homes.

The Quincy Public Schools will hold screenings for openings in the Title I Integrated Preschool Program March 17-19.

Children who reside in the Lincoln-Hancock, Point Webster and Snug Harbor districts are eligible for the program. Children must turn 3 or 4 years old by Dec. 31.

To have a child screened for the program, parents must call no later than March 10 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

District numbers are: Lincoln-Hancock, 984-8777; Snug Harbor, 984-8951 and Point Webster, 984-8721.

Council Approves Bikeway Plan

A Department of Public Works plan for a 15-mile bikeway throughout the city has been approved by the City Council.

The council unanimously backed the plan Monday night. The citywide bike path would link a number of scenic areas throughout Quincy as well as three of the city's MBTA stations.

Ninety percent of the project would be paid for by a federal transportation grant for which the city has applied. The city would fund the balance.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said his department should know by June whether the city will receive the grant, which is funded by federal gas tax money.

Colton said it originally appeared the project would cost $500,000 but with the removal from the plan of Ward 1--where area residents and Council President Peter Kolson, the ward councillor have expressed opposition to the bikeway--the cost will be a bit less. Kolson supported the plan Monday night because Ward 1 has been removed.

Colton added that the estimated project cost of $100,000 he gave previously to The Quincy Sun was a mistake on his part.

The project also has received the approval of Mayor James Sheets. Colton said if the federal grant is approved and the Quincy Conservation Commission also supports the plan, construction could begin in the spring of 1998.

In the meantime, neighborhood meetings will be held on the matter. Routes of the bikeway eventually will be set by the other five ward councillors and their constituents.

Rabies Immunization Clinics March 22, April 26

The Quincy Health Department will hold Rabies Immunization Clinics Saturday, March 22 and Saturday, April 26 from noon to 3 p.m. at the Quincy Animal Shelter, 56 Broad St. (behind the George F. Bryan Post and Father Bill's Place).

The clinic will be held rain or shine. Cost is $8 for each dog and $8 for each cat.

Pet owners are encouraged to have their cats and dogs immunized.

Rabies is a viral disease transmitted mainly to dogs and cats through bite wounds from wildlife such as raccoons, bats, skunks, foxes and stray cats. The usually fatal disease is extremely rare in humans and had been fairly uncommon among animals in this part of the country.

However, an outbreak of rabies continues to occur in this state. A total of 1,935 animals have tested positive for rabies in Massachusetts since September 1992, including 1,525 raccoons, 49 cats, 288 skunks, 30 woodchucks, 23 foxes and 19 other species.

In Quincy, seven raccoons, five skunks and one stray cat have tested positive for rabies. The infected stray cat bit five people who were fortunately all immediately treated successfully with the anti-rabies vaccine.

It is important to vaccinate all pets to avoid contact with wild animals. Dogs and cats must be vaccinated once over three months of age and re-vaccinated within 9-12 months after the first vaccination. Thereafter, the dog or cat may be vaccinated once every three years as long as the two vaccines at nine to 12 intervals, have been administered.

Ward 2 Democrats To Caucus Saturday

Registered Democrats in Ward 2 will hold a caucus Saturday at 2 p.m. to elect delegates to the 1997 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Ward 2 will elect 11 delegates and four alternates, equally divided between men and women, to send to the convention.

Keith McCray will call the caucus at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point. The caucus is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible to register and media representatives. The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in the ward or town as of Feb. 19, 1997. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must also be present, voting and give his or her written consent to be nominated. That nomination must be seconded by two persons present at the local caucus.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those candidates receiving the greatest number of votes on the first ballot will be elected.

Each candidate will be allowed to make a two-minute speech and to distribute material on their behalf.

Raymondi Presents COPPS Group Proposal To Council

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi introduced his proposal for a Community-Oriented Policing and Problem-Solving (COPPS) Commission to the council at its meeting Monday night.

Raymondi first told The Quincy Sun about his proposal for the 17-member commission, a crime prevention entity which would work in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department, last week.

The commission would be appointed by the mayor and would include the city's police and fire chiefs, building inspector, park department executive director, public works commissioner, planning director, health commissioner, school superintendent and housing authority executive director.

In addition, there would be private members appointed by the mayor to three-year terms from the following: criminal justice system, probation department, social service agencies, Massachusetts Division of Social Services, clergy, business leaders, community leaders, Norfolk County district attorney's office and "other appropriate state agencies."

The commission would be headed by an executive director, the only paid member of the group, whose salary would be determined by the mayor. The director, another mayoral appointee, would be an attorney living Quincy.

The members of the commission would pool together their resources to assist the police department in its crime prevention, community policing and problem-solving efforts.

Raymondi is also proposing that the police department expand its community policing component, which currently consists of two officers, to no less than nine officers along with two sergeants, a lieutenant and a captain.

The COPPS Commission proposal was sent to the council's Public Safety Committee and Ordinance Committee. Raymondi hopes to have the commission established before July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

JUNGLE JIM—Mayor James Sheets visited seventh graders at Sacred Heart School in North Quincy on Monday to discuss his recent trip down the Amazon River. Sheets recounted what he saw and experienced in the jungle and along the river in Peru and showed the students photographs of the trip.

CITY COUNCIL BRIEFS

The City Council took the following action Monday night:

•Confirmed, by an 8-0 vote, Rev. James Kimmell to a five-year term on the Quincy Housing Authority from March 3, 1997 to the first Monday of February, 2002. Council President Peter Kolson, an employee of the authority, abstained from the vote.

•Transferred $29,164.90 from the city's stabilization fund to sewer-water-drain. City Auditor Robert Foy the money was needed for an annual assessment, based on the city's water usage, to be paid to the state Department of Environmental Protection.

•Appropriated $35,000 from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account to the city treasurer's office for postage expenditures. Although the vote was unanimous, Councillor Paul Harold asked Treasurer Dana Childs for a complete departmental breakdown of postage costs to be presented to the council in the future.

•Appropriated $25,000 from the free cash account for the continued services of David Standley, an environmental consultant.

•Called preliminary and final municipal elections in the city for Sept. 16 and Nov. 4. Also designated polling places.

No Increase In Length Of Council Presidency

The president of the Quincy City Council will continue to serve only one two-year term—for now.

The council's Rules Committee voted down Monday night a proposal by Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi that the length of the president's term be increased.

The five-man committee, which includes Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico, chairman along with Councillors Michael Cheney and Paul Harold, Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, voted unanimously against the proposal.

Earlier, McDermott had suggested Raymondi's proposal be amended to say the president can serve two consecutive terms. He said he would be against a longer presidency but that a total of four years would be reasonable, adding that there is no guarantee a president would be re-elected to the second term.

However, that amendment was voted down 3-2 as only D'Amico sided with McDermott. Cheney, Harold and Durkin said anything beyond one term would be giving too much power to the individual in question.

Raymondi was not in attendance at the Rules Committee meeting and did not speak on the matter. He had made his proposal because he felt a longer stay in office would allow the president to set and complete an agenda.

City Clerk Joseph Shea said the committee's vote means the proposal cannot be reintroduced until next year.

Sheets Responds To Letter On Dam

Mayor James Sheets is sticking to his guns in response to a letter in this week's issue regarding a recent story about the Braintree Dam in The Quincy Sun.

The letter by Patrick Leonard Sr. of Braintree, which appears on the next page, takes issue with the fact that Sheets described the transfer of the dam to the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC), which took place in August, as "recent" in the Feb. 6 issue of The Sun.

Sheets responded to the letter this week by saying, "That is relatively recent when you look at the whole Town Brook project, which began in 1973."

Leonard's letter also charges that the MDC will approach the state Legislature, which must approve any MDC sale of the property, about selling the dam to the South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

Sheets reiterated his statement from the Feb. 6 Quincy Sun that the transfer of the property to the MDC was necessary because the Army Corps of Engineers would not complete more than $40 million in flood control work in the vicinity unless the MDC was allowed to assume control of it.

"The work needed to be done," he said at press time. "The transfer was a very positive thing for the City of Quincy."

Sheets said that by transferring the dam, the city is merely complying with the agreement Quincy made with the MDC and Army Corps in the 1970s.

He also said that while the MDC could conceivably approach the Legislature about selling the dam to the Plaza, it is virtually inconceivable that will happen.

"I see no chance of that happening," said Sheets. "The MDC wants to acquire land for preservation, not sell land, and Rep. Joe Sullivan (D-Braintree) would never support something like that. It's not going to happen."

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath also is mentioned in Leonard's letter as having been contacted about the issue. McGrath said Tuesday he responded in writing to Leonard's correspondence but would not offer any further comment.

No Preliminary Election?

The local political front seems to be pretty quiet considering spring is just 14 days away.

With the exception of the city council at-large field, no official challengers have stepped forward to announce and get a campaign off to an early start.

Could this be an election year without a preliminary (primary) election?

That has happened only once--some 57 years ago. Could it happen again this year?

City Clerk Joseph Shea says it could, but he doesn't think it will.

"Yes, it's pretty quiet," he says. "But I think the chances are remote that we won't have a preliminary election."

"Something will happen, I think. Probably the school committee field will have enough candidates, with one of the three seats open."

For a full preliminary election, 35 candidates are needed: three for mayor, seven for councillor at-large, seven for school committee and 18 for ward councillor--three in each of the six wards.

The 1940 preliminary election was called off because there weren't enough candidates.

Mayor Thomas Burgin was unopposed, the first mayoral incumbent to get a free ride to re-election.

Seven council at-large candidates were needed for a preliminary runoff but there were only six.

Seven school committee candidates were also required but there were only three.

Burgin and those school committee candidates were automatic winners in the final election that year.

Interestingly, in the final city council at-large election in 1940, Amelio Della Chiesa finished out of the money.

He came in fifth in the six-man race. Winners that year were Neil McDonald, Joseph Kendrick and Laurence Curtin.

Della Chiesa made it to the city council in 1943, winning the Ward 3 seat once held by his brother, Aldo. Della Chiesa, of course, went on to become a councillor at-large, mayor and state representative. He served 12 years as mayor--eight under Plan A and four under Plan E--and became one of Quincy's all-time popular and powerful political figures.

Back in those early days there were city elections annually. Contests for mayor, councillor-at-large and school committee were on even years. Ward council races were on the odd years.

And, back then, the preliminary elections were in November and the final elections in December.

Although there hasn't been an election year without a full preliminary since 1940, there have been partial ones.

In 1979: Contest for mayor only between incumbent Arthur Tobin, Abe Itkin and Michael Jovanovic.

In 1989: for mayor (no incumbent), Joseph LaRaia, Steve McGrath, Peter O'Connell and James Sheets. Sheets and O'Connell were nominated and Sheets won the final election.

In 1991: Ward 6 city council, incumbent Thomas Nutley, Bruce Ayers, Joanne Condon. Ayers and Nutley were nominated. Ayers was the winner in the final election.

Will there be a full no-preliminary election this year for the first time in 57 years?

It could happen. Possibly.

OUR SISTER CITY, Quincy, Ill., has something else in common with us: A Korean War Memorial.

Donald Goerlich of Quincy, Ill. called John (Butch) Mahoney, who was chairman of the committee that planned the beautiful memorial here, to let him know that his Quincy erected one in 1989.

Goerlich heard about our memorial through Paul Comi, who served with him in the 5th Regimental Combat Team in Korea during that war.

Comi, former movie and television actor, is a 1949 graduate of North Quincy High School and was one of the speakers at the memorial dedication here last July. A three Purple Hearts veteran of the Korean War, he now has a successful international flavored coffee business based in Pasadena, Calif.

THINKING OUT LOUD: Wonder what non-sense John Adams and John Quincy Adams would have to say about Bill Clinton, Al Gore and Motel 1600 if they were around today?

OBSERVATION: Any day you can drive by St. John's Church and not see a hearse out front is a good day.

Council Speaks Out Against Rights Violations party was ignored by the military junta. Speakers noted that the leader of the pro-democracy party in Burma, Aung San Suu Kyi, who was given the Nobel Peace Prize in 1991, has been placed under "house arrest" by the military for six years.

Massachusetts has passed the first state law in the country prohibiting the state from purchasing goods or services from companies doing business in Burma.

Several cities have passed similar laws.

Speakers on Monday night said profits from foreign investments go directly to the Burmese government and lead to forced labor and other human rights abuses. The government also has protected drug dealers who sell 60 percent of the heroin on the world market, they added.

Some of the U.S. companies conducting business in Burma are Texaco, Arco, Total, Atlantic Peabody, Arthur Andersen and Cluett Peabody.

Many companies in the United States, however, have pulled out of Burma because of consumer pressure. Among those are Liz Claiborne, Eddie Bauer, Disney, PepsiCo, Levi Strauss, Heineken, Amoco, and Macy's.

Apple Computer, Motorola and Hewlett Packard pulled out of Burma as a direct result of the Massachusetts selective purchasing law.

Disabilities Commission Meeting March 10

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY

The Supreme Court recently ruled that the Internal Revenue Service can tax punitive damage awards received by people harmed by faulty products or medical malpractice. The ruling bolsters a statute passed by Congress in August of 1996 that makes it clear that punitive awards can be taxed. The ruling, coupled with the law, puts an end to years of uncertainty on the issue. Punitive damages are designed to punish the defendant and to deter others from engaging in similar conduct that is deemed to be particularly outrageous. In such cases, the plaintiff may ask the jury to direct the defendant to pay punitive damages in addition to compensatory damages. Now, it is possible for the IRS to take a share of these punitive awards after a judge or jury finds it appropriate to direct defendants to pay them.

HINT: Punitive damages are intended to set an example and punish wrongdoers for intentional and outrageous conduct.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1912 postcard view of Sachem's Brook in Wollaston. Now completely piped in, the brook runs from the Montclair peatbogs near the Milton line to a culvert between the yacht clubs on Wollaston Beach. This view, at a point called the Willows, shows a rough cut granite bridge typical of those built to allow early roads in Wollaston to cross over the brook. They built bridges like this at Oxenbridge, Rawson and Billings roads. The brook paralleled today's Brook Street, went under the railroad tracks at the Wollaston depot and followed Woodbine Street to this vicinity.

Politicians Making Bad Decisions

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Your Feb. 6 and Feb. 13 editions contained items of great interest to me—and our area.

First, the Feb. 6 article captioned: "City Transfers Braintree Dam to MDC."

This was not a "recent transfer." It was an unpublished (to say the least!) transaction which took place on Aug. 22, 1996, about six months previously!

The facts are: On Oct. 21, 1996, at a Quincy City Council meeting of citizens protesting the ineptness of the Army Corps of Engineers and the MDC work on the Town Brook project, which led to extensive flooding, one city councillor stated the MDC had recently acquired the Braintree Dam from Quincy. I was unable to contact this councillor at the time, so I phoned the mayor's office the following day, Oct. 22, at which time, after some delay, the secretary stated Quincy still owned the property and suggested City Solicitor Stephen J. McGrath be contacted.

I immediately phoned Mr. McGrath's office, where after a secretary asked what I wanted, there was a waiting period and the secretary returned to the phone and stated that Mr. McGrath was not available. The secretary stated she knew nothing about the Braintree Dam. Mr. McGrath did not return this phone call, or the ones made the next three days; so on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 24, I told the secretary I was convinced I was getting a runaround and would write Mr. McGrath.

This resulted in Mr. McGrath phoning my home on Saturday when I was out of town and writing me on Nov. 1 that "The MDC acquired by eminent domain the Braintree Dam on Aug. 22." (I replied on Nov. 11, congratulating him on a well-kept secret.)

Mr. McGrath also wrote: "Relative to your fear that the MDC will then sell the dam to the Plaza, please be advised that if the MDC decided to convey the dam that it would have to offer the Town of Braintree title to this property, as they have a right of first refusal to acquire the property." Poppycock!

Your article quotes Mayor Sheets as stating: "An act of the state Legislature would be required for the MDC to sell or lease the site."

Mr. Editor, this will just be a legal formality; the Legislature will approve. The 64 acres, which Quincy lost forever for $1 (one dollar!) will be eventually sold by the MDC to the South Shore Plaza for possibly $1 million. The Plaza is an enormously wealthy entity desperate for more space, and will outbid anyone for these 64 acres.

In your Feb. 13 edition, former Mayor Francis McCauley is absolutely correct when he states that reopening the shipyard would be "risking taxpayers' dollars in excess of $200 million for the creation of only 1,000 jobs." He also points out other logical reasons proving that this project will fail, costing the United States taxpayers many millions more.

In my opinion, with one exception, Quincy politicians and "city fathers" are making some mighty bad decisions. The exception: Councillor Paul Harold, who disagreed with the otherwise expensive rubber stamp meeting on Feb. 3 which saved Quincy taxpayers many millions on this shipyard fantasy, and more recently showed business intelligence with his vote on the library.

Library Trustees Thank Supporters

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library are very thankful to Mayor Sheets, the City Council,

When completed, our new library will be the centerpiece of Quincy Square. A cultural and educational center accessible to all. An architectural achievement worthy of Quincy's surrounding nationally-recognized sites.

We would also like to thank all those Quincy residents who, by their encouragement and assistance, are helping us to make all this possible.

Men's Club Boosts Newport Ave. Plan

By PAUL HAROLD

The Montclair Men's Club endorsed a plan by James Kelley and sent it to the city c, that would extend Newport Ave. across the Montclair marshes and connect with Hancock St.

Kelley, a past president of the club, was the current president of the Mass. State Engineers' Union. He said the extension would greatly benefit vehicular traffic and eliminate the bottleneck at West Squantum and Hancock streets. By attracting new industries, it would also help generate tax revenue for the city, he said.

DEEGAN QUILTS MANAGER'S POST

Following an unusual Saturday meeting of the city council, it was announced that city manager William Deegan would leave his post as city manager after serving five years. He said he would enter private business with an engineering firm.

His last official act was to let the contract for the construction of the Great Hill School.

Until a new manager was selected by the council, city solicitor George Arbuckle would serve as acting manager.

HISTORICAL CELEBRATION FUNDED

At the urging of John Flavin, president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, the city council approved $8,000 for a joint private-public celebration of the city's founding.

Flavin said plans for the celebration were not yet finalized, but he said it would not take the form of the pageant that marked the tercentenary celebrations in 1925.

He called upon the numerous clubs and organizations in the city to play an active role.

Salmon Loaf

Now that the Lenten season is underway, it's time to dig out some favorite seafood recipes.

And so it was last week when I made a salmon loaf, an old standby when we were growing up. That, served with creamed peas was a must even when it wasn't lent. There are a few things that can be added to the loaf including a cup of boiled rice, mashed potatoes, etc. I used mashed potatoes in mine.

SALMON LOAF

- 2 large cans of red salmon (Bumble Bee was great)
- 2 eggs (beaten)
- 3/4 cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon fresh parsley (chopped)
- 1 cup mashed potatoes (I used instant)

1 tablespoon or so of chopped onion (optional)

Mix all of the ingredients together and place in a greased loaf pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 40 minutes. I topped it with shredded cheddar. Cool and then cut into slices. It can also be baked in a round cake pan or shaped in a round loaf on a cookie sheet. I served it with the creamed peas mashed potatoes (not instant) and a choice of sweet potatoes.

According to our daughter Suzie, she found a great way to use the leftover loaf. She sliced and fried each piece resembling a fish cake and said it was delicious!

Finneran Main Speaker Over 700 To Attend Celebration For Fr. William McCarthy

A celebration in honor of Fr. William McCarthy's 45th anniversary of priesthood and his 20 years of ministry at St. John's Church in Quincy will be held Wednesday, March 12 beginning at 6 p.m. at Lantana in Randolph.

Over 700 are expected to attend.

The event, which will benefit Father Bill's Place and Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, is being planned by a working committee of local citizens and by an honorary committee of people touched by Fr. McCarthy's ministry.

Guest speaker will be Rep. Thomas Finneran (D-Boston), Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Finneran has been a friend of Fr. McCarthy's ever since he was a member of the priest's Catholic Youth Organization at St. Gregory's Church in Dorchester more than 25 years ago.

Emcee for the event will be former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now Clerk Magistrate of Quincy District Court.

Local working commit-

FR. MCCARTHY

tee members include Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which operates Father Bill's Place; Tobin, Rose DiPietro of the South Shore Visiting Nurse Association, Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond, Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth and Joyce Hogan, senior consultant at Zeitech Corp.

Fr. McCarthy's pastoral ministry for 45 years has been particularly focused upon the needs of the poor, disenfranchised and homeless. His active concern for the poor led to Quincy's only homeless shelter, Fr. Bill's Place, named for him when it opened in 1988 because of his tireless efforts.

Fr. McCarthy was ordained in 1952 and served at St. Rose's Church in Chelsea for 12 years and St. Gregory's Church in Dorchester for 13 years before being named pastor of St. John's in 1977.

Although he retired in 1995, he remains actively involved in assisting the poor. His recent work includes educating the community about the homeless and raising resources for Fr. Bill's Place, gathering food for Quincy's poor with and through My Brother's Keeper in Brockton and assisting the prevention efforts of Impact Quincy.

Tickets for the celebration are $50 and tables of 10 may be purchased for $500. Seating is limited.

The committee is also planning a commemorative book highlighting the event and the life of Fr. McCarthy.

To purchase tickets, call 376-2255.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

A Family Affair For Dominic Mignosa Family The Egg & I Restaurant: Serving Satisfied Patrons For More Than A Decade

By LIAM FITZGERALD

For over a decade, the friendly staff at The Egg & I restaurant, 853 Hancock St., Quincy, has been serving a wide variety of fresh, homemade breakfast and lunch dishes to many a satisfied patron.

Since its inception Dec. 31, 1986, The Egg & I has been owned and operated by Dominic Mignosa of Quincy and his family. The Egg & I on Hancock St. was preceded in 1984 by a 28-seat restaurant by the same name at 258 Willard St., which Mignosa's wife, Ida, manages. Mignosa's daughters, Terri and Debbie, manage the 75-seat Hancock St. restaurant.

Terri Mignosa recalled the reasons behind the family entering the restaurant business.

"A friend of my father's had his own breakfast place and it was a dream of his to have one of his own," said Mignosa. "We were all green going into it, with no restaurant experience at all, but we survived."

On the topic of survival, Mignosa vividly remembered the craziness of the first day the Hancock St. location opened its doors.

"The day we opened we weren't ready but we had to because of tax purposes," she said. "It was one of the craziest days, totally chaotic, but we made it through. I don't know how, but we did it."

Mignosa also recalled the day's "huge turnout, since there was a lot of anticipation after we had built a great reputation in the breakfast business."

After 10 years, what has kept the customers coming back?

"It's probably the quick service and the good breakfasts made to order," said Mignosa. "We have fresh baked muffins, daily breakfast specials, omelettes of your choice, including chicken, broccoli and cheese, and eggplant parmigiana. It's also a great place to stop for coffee."

"I think we have a good reputation for cleanliness, and we've never had any problems with the food. We emphasize to the cooks to do it right the first time, give the customer exactly what they want every time."

The restaurant, therefore, has a good number of repeat customers who stop by on a daily basis, said Mignosa.

THE EGG & I, located at 853 Hancock St., Quincy, offers a wide variety of breakfast combinations and daily lunch specials. From left are owner Dominic Mignosa, his daughters Terri and Debbie Mignosa, who manage the restaurant and longtime employee Carol Doolan. The restaurant recently celebrated its 10th anniversary.

(Sun photo/Tom Gorman)

"We have a lot of loyal customers, people who have been here 10 years," she said. "That's the nicest part and what makes it worthwhile—the nice people you meet."

Carol Doolan, who has worked at The Egg & I on Hancock St. since it opened, noted that "all different types of people come in: schoolteachers, city workers, to name a few. It's sad when you hear that people who've come in a lot have passed away. There's more competition, it seems, on every other corner, but they always seem to come back here."

Among the breakfast choices are 13 combinations, three egg omelettes (cheese and your choice of ham, bacon, sausage, mushroom, pepper, tomato, pepperoni, kielbasa, hash, chili, pizza, roasted red pepper, sweet Italian or Greek omelette), and pancakes (blueberry, chocolate, apple, cinnamon, banana walnut, apple-cranberry).

The most popular of the combinations, according to Mignosa, are the No. 3 (two eggs, homefries, bacon, ham or sausage links, toast and coffee), the No. 7 (two pancakes, two eggs, bacon or sausage links and coffee), the No. 9 (corned beef hash, two eggs, homefries, toast and coffee) and the No. 13 (steak, two eggs, homefries, toast and coffee).

Also available as side orders are hamsteak, ham, sausage patties or links, bacon, hash, homefries, homemade muffins, toast (raisin, cinnamon or plain), bagel (with or without cream cheese), English muffins or cereal.

"One of our more popular items is the jumbo bagel sandwich," said Mignosa. "It has egg, extra cheese and meat on a jumbo bagel."

For the health-conscious customer, The Egg & I offers egg beaters and egg whites as egg substitutes.

Breakfast is served Monday through Saturday from 5 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Sunday from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Those interested in delving into the lunch menu also have a number of selections to from which to choose.

One recent lunch menu, for instance, included a fresh turkey dinner, baked scrod, charbroiled boneless caesar chicken breast, lasagna, meatloaf dinner, eight-ounce Angus cheeseburger club, meatloaf sandwich, turkey club, fresh turkey sandwich, egg or ham salad, among other items.

"We have homemade lunches and different lunch specials every day, including fish and pasta dishes," said Mignosa. "Everything is homemade from scratch."

"They do work very hard in the kitchen," said Doolan. "Terri cooks, waitresses and does cashier work; she's very versatile."

Lunch is served at The Egg and I Monday through Saturday from approximately 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

While Mignosa admits the restaurant has had its share of "ups and downs" over the years, she added that she is satisfied with the restaurant's present situation.

"When we opened, it just took off; it was such a great time to open a business," she said. "The past couple of years, things have slowed down a bit, especially with a lot of the business around us closing."

"You just get to a point when it's manageable and you just deal. We've been around 10 years and plan to be around for a lot more."

SS Buick, Adams Restaurant Co-Sponsors 20 Win Gift Certificates In Presidents Day Contest

Twenty lucky winners of a Presidents Day Contest co-sponsored by South Shore Buick and Quincy Adams Restaurant soon will be enjoying a free meal.

The 20 correctly guessed that Theodore Roosevelt was President of the United States in 1903, the year South Shore Buick was established as a dealership. Winners will receive a $30 gift certificate to the restaurant.

The winners, in the order their entries were received, are:

Jim Flaherty, Ralph I. Marple III, Susan P. Holland, Bob Hardiman, Lorraine Kusy, Jim Nichols, Frances Callahan, James Armstrong, Marie P. Locicero, John S. Ahearn, Evelyn Scavo, Dolores Golden, Barbara Pineo, Thomas Tordoff, Edwin J. Boland, Harold C. Beston, Louis Malvesti, Kay Mullarkey, Jim Thomas and Edward G. Regan.

South Shore Buick President Robert Fitzgerald said he was happy to co-sponsor the contest with Quincy Adams Restaurant.

"We're an atypical dealership, and it was an atypical Presidents Day promotion," he said. "It was more fun. We like to be more fun and to get people involved."

The contest, which stated that only the first 20 correct responses would be recognized, was featured in the Feb. 13 issue of The Quincy Sun. It asked contestants to guess who was President during South Shore Buick's first year in business.

Contestants were led to the year 1903--and, by extension, Roosevelt's name--by being told the company was established the same year.

•Jack London published "The Call of the Wild."

•Orville Wright piloted the first successful flight.

•The first automobile trip across the U.S. (from San Francisco to New York) was achieved.

Several of the incorrect entries received by The Sun had the name of President Calvin Coolidge. Although Coolidge was President in 1927--the year the photograph displayed in the Feb. 13 contest was taken--the caption beneath the photo clearly indicated 1927 was not the year South Shore Buick was established.

Special Ed Meeting March 4

The Special Education Subcommittee of the Quincy School Committee will meet Tuesday, March 4 at 7:30 p.m. at Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Galvin Rd.

Meetings are open to the public.

Aquarium Show Taping At Squantum School Friday

A television crew from Massachusetts Corporation for Education Television (MCET) will film and tape a segment of "New England Aquarium's World of Water: Ocean Detectives" Friday in the gymnasium at the Squantum School, 50 Hucksins Ave.

Second graders from the school already have had their artwork displayed on the program, which is presented on MCET to classrooms all over Massachusetts. The program is interactive, with students being able to ask questions via the telephone while they watch.

DR. BRUCE INDEK

71 Parking Way, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169 (617) 472-0661

When breast cancer survivor Judy Giordani, 51, of Braintree first learned of her cancer in July 1996, she discussed her fears about treatment with her oncologist, Therese Mulvey, M.D., of Commonwealth Hematology-Oncology (CHO) in Quincy.

Dr. Mulvey—the area's first female medical oncologist—reassured Giordani that she and her staff would help ease her physical discomfort and provide emotional support.

Throughout Giordani's treatment, Dr. Mulvey worked closely with the patient's primary care physician, Charles Ripberger, M.D., and her surgeon, Beth Grifev, M.D., who both practice in Quincy, and the staff at the New England Medical Center's Radiation Oncology Center.

"The personal attention I received from my caring and highly-skilled medical team boosted me throughout my treatment," says Giordani. During a five-month period, she had a lumpectomy, additional surgery—both at Quincy Hospital—and eight weeks of radiation therapy.

"All of the doctors, nurses, and staff were remarkable," says Giordani. "They not only worked with me on a personal treatment plan, but each one treated me with sensitivity throughout my ordeal. In fact, they became an extension of my family."

Although cancer treatment affects everyone differently, Giordani, a part-time receptionist at Quincy-based Granite City Electric Supply Co., says that her suffering was minimal: "I kept waiting to be exhausted, but wasn't."

"Advances in drugs to combat nausea, fatigue and infection mean that people who undergo cancer treatment have fewer physical side effects than ever before," explains Dr. Mulvey of CHO.

CHO, the largest community cancer care network on the South Shore, has offices in Quincy, Weymouth, and Milton. Its medical team of seven oncologists—including one radiation oncologist—treats hundreds of local cancer patients each week. These patients benefit from CHO's state-of-the-art treatment advances, including the newest chemotherapy drugs and highly sophisticated therapy.

And, because expert medical care is available close to home, CHO works with area colleagues to keep patients within the community medical system.

"I was grateful to be so well-cared-for right here in Quincy, and I'm glad that none of my fears came true," Giordani says. "Once you get past your down side—the diagnosis and shock—your mental attitude is the most important thing."

Giordani, an energetic mother of two grown daughters, only missed one week of work following her lumpectomy and three weeks following surgery to remove additional breast tissue. During her eight weeks of radiation treatment at New England Medical Center's Radiation Oncology Center, she didn't miss a single day of work.

Fortunately, Giordani's boss, Phyllis Godwin, owner of Granite City Electric Supply Co., was "wonderfully supportive," as were her co-workers. "Everyone showed me an outpouring of love and concern," says Giordani.

Adds Godwin, first female chairman of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, "You spend so much time at work, your co-workers become your 'family.' Like any family, we need to support each other in times of need."

Giordani's co-workers covered shifts and changed hours to accommodate her eight-week radiation treatment schedule. She would leave work each day at 12:30 p.m., drive home, and within minutes she'd be picked up by the complimentary, door-to-door Patient Shuttle Service provided by New England Medical Center's Radiation Oncology Center.

THE SHOCK OF A LIFE

The word "shock" gets thrown around a lot these days, as in "I was simply in shock!" or "How shocking!" It's easy to forget that the true physical condition of shock is a serious, life-threatening emergency. Shock occurs when the body's flow of blood suddenly becomes inadequate, so that parts of the body begin to be deprived of oxygen. Shock can occur for several reasons, including loss of blood or other body fluids (due to accident, injury, etc.), a failure of the heart to do its job as a pump, or an enlargement of the blood vessels (as from an allergic reaction or infection). Whatever the cause, shock must be treated immediately by medical professionals to stop the body from shutting down completely. Without such care, death is the result, due to the downward spiraling effect from which the body cannot recover on its own. Treatment may include oxygen and intravenous drugs.

P.S. Symptoms of shock include faintness, rapid pulse, nausea, panting, sweating, pale skin, and, eventually, loss of consciousness.

Sometimes an extreme emotional event can evoke this reaction. If you or a member of your family suddenly faces a crisis that induces physical shock, be sure to get the immediate medical help you need. When you visit us, you'll find that you are treated with the utmost of respect. At COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL CARE, located at 700 Congress St., in Quincy, we specialize in treating heart problems, hypertension, and cholesterol. Call 472-2550; office hours by appointment. Helpful Hints For Wearing Braces

By DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

You play an important role in your treatment when you wear braces. Here are a few pointers to keep in mind:

•Brush your teeth after every meal and snack. Carry a folding toothbrush so that you can brush when you're away from home.

•Wear your headgear as directed. You might want to keep a tally chart of the number of hours you wear your headgear each day.

•Don't forget to take your headgear and retainers along with you when you go on outings or vacations.

•Your appliances are breakable and easily lost. Call your orthodontist's office right away if you break an appliance or if you lose your headgear or retainer.

•Keep every appointment with your orthodontist—and please be punctual. Don't forget to bring your appliances to every appointment.

Be sure to have regular check-ups with your family dentist.

To protect your appliances and teeth, here are a few things to watch out for:

•Handle your headgear carefully when putting it on or taking it off. Don't force it or tug on it.

DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

•When you take off your headgear, remove the strap first to protect your eyes as well as your appliances.

•Cut down on sugary foods and carbonated soft drinks. They lead to tooth decay.

•Avoid hard or sticky foods. They can loosen or damage your appliances.

•Keep foreign objects out of your mouth—including pencils, toothpicks, and fingernails.

•Don't risk breaking your retainers. When you're not wearing them, wrap them up in a moist paper towel, and store them safely in their case.

•Keep your retainers away from heat. They can warp if they're left out in the sun or on top of a hot stove.

Remember, you make the most important contribution to your treatment by taking care of your appliances, keeping your appointments, and brushing and flossing as your orthodontist directs.

(Dr. Fred Attarzadeh is a Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry graduate who achieved his orthodontic specialty program from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 1981. He has over 25 years of experience in teaching, research and practice. Currently, he is in private practice at 1050 Hancock St., Quincy.)

ple going through similar treatment." She says that they were a support group for one another and were fortunate to be so close to a world-class medical center.

Today, Giordani is among the lucky ones who have recovered from cancer—thanks to early detection. She has finished her treatment, is feeling well, and has a good prognosis, while continuing to be closely monitored by Dr. Mulvey.

It's important to Giordani that her story will help other women. "I found this lump myself," she says. "I hadn't had a mammogram for seven years because part of that time I didn't have medical benefits.

"I'd never do that again," she adds. "Women need to know not to skip their mammograms, even if they don't have insurance—they're provided free for women who are past age 40 without medical insurance."

According to Walt Kagan, M.D., Ph.D., medical oncologist and president of Commonwealth Hematology-Oncology, "The number of cancer survivors is increasing, with more than 10 million survivors currently living in the United States.

There are more reasons than ever to be hopeful about cancer treatment and survival."

Kagan stresses the importance of preventative measures such as not smoking, eating a healthy diet, limiting stress, performing self-exams at home for breast and testicular cancer, receiving regular mammograms, and having physical exams by a physician. "These measures will help people to limit their odds of getting cancer and help spot cancer at the earliest stage, when it's most treatable."

Locke Pledges To Keep Politics Out Of D.A.'s Office

Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke pledged to take a professional, non-partisan approach to prosecution when he formally took office recently.

The 43-year-old Wellesley Republican was sworn in by Gov. William Weld at a ceremony in the historic Dedham Superior Courthouse attended by nearly 350 local and state dignitaries.

Locke, a former state prosecutor and Assistant U.S. Attorney, told the crowd he intends to keep politics out of the district attorney's office and to reinvigorate many of the crime-fighting programs already in place.

"This office is not about partisan politics and never should be," said Locke. "It is about the professional administration of the law. After all, in all my years of prosecution, I've not yet seen a case where an armed robber first asked his victim, 'Are you a Democrat or a Republican?'"

Locke told the assembly he will strengthen efforts to combat domestic violence and civil rights abuses and will focus on implementing the state's new juvenile offender law.

"To those who see crime as a way of life and a profitable career, to the drug-trafficker who sees opportunity and a market on the streets of Quincy or in the pastures of Plainville, to the car thief and purse snatcher, to the confidence man who sees easy pickings among our senior citizens, I say come to Norfolk County," said Locke. "You will see we have a 29th community set in a country setting—it is known as Cedar Junction—and I will be happy to make a bed available."

He said the district attorney's office will work in partnership with the new juvenile court and probation department to distinguish between "kids who break the law as a rite of passage and those who view their youthful years as vocational training in a life of crime."

Locke replaces former District Attorney William Delahunt, who was elected to Congress. He was named by Weld to complete Delahunt's term, which expires in 1998.

Delahunt said Locke's experience "reassures us that the standards of excellence for which this office is well known will endure."

Locke's father, former state Sen. David Locke, served as emcee at the swearing-in ceremony.

Among those in attendance were state Atty. Gen. Scott Harshbarger, U.S. Attorney Donald Stern, Suffolk County District Attorney Ralph Martin, Middlesex District Attorney Tom Reilly, Plymouth County District Attorney Michael Sullivan, former U.S. Attorney and Associate Attorney General Wayne Budd and more than 20 present and retired judges.

Protect Yourself From Telemarketing Fraud

Your best protection is to just hang up the phone. If you think that is rude, tell them politely that you are not interested, don't want to waste their time, and please don't call back - and then hang up. If you find yourself caught up in a sales pitch, remember the federal government's telemarketing rules.

- You have to be told the name of the company, the fact that it is a sales call, and what's being sold. If a prize is offered, you have to be told immediately that there is no purchase necessary to win.

- If the caller says you've won a prize, you cannot be asked to pay anything for it. You can't even be required to pay shipping charges. If it is a sweepstakes, the caller must tell you how to enter without making a purchase.

- You cannot be asked to pay in advance for services such as cleansing your credit card, finding you a loan, acquiring a prize they say you've won. You pay for services only if they're actually delivered.

- You shouldn't be called before 8 a.m. or after 9 p.m. If you tell telemarketers not to call again, they can't. If they do, they have broken the law.

- If you're guaranteed a refund, the caller has to tell you all the limitations.

And remember, don't give telemarketers your credit card number, your bank account number, or Social Security number - or authorize bank drafts - ever. If you suspect fraud call the National Fraud Information Center at 1-800-876-7060.

Is Your Home Underinsured?

(NAPS)—Is your insurance adequate to rebuild your home in the event of a catastrophe such as fire, hurricane or even a tornado?

Don't be so sure. In recent cases of devastating loss, homeowner's insurance policies have been short by as much as 30 to 40 percent. The usual reason: the last time a homeowner thinks about insurance is at mortgage closing. Five, ten, fifteen years later, rising costs of labor and materials, coupled with building code upgrades, drive the replacement cost of a home well above the original policy coverage.

Fortunately, a new home valuation service, available through a simple phone call, can help you determine whether your homeowner's insurance is adequate. The Home Valuation Institute, Inc., uses new computer Homes are often under-valued for replacement costs because insurance companies usually calculate an "average" cost to replace instead of the actual costs to rebuild a specific home.

programs that were first developed to help insurance companies get an accurate estimate on the replacement cost for a new home.

For the homeowner, the process is as simple as answering a few questions over the phone. One of the staff associates will take the homeowner through a survey of their home's unique characteristics.

The Home Valuation System evaluates replacement costs for the entire structure, viewing it as an individual entity and separating it from the value of the land. The specific characteristics and features of each home are then itemized to determine a replacement cost estimate.

The telephone estimating service was developed as a relatively fast and cost-effective means of determining home replacement costs for the insurance industry. It is now available to homeowners to help assure them that their homes are adequately covered. It can also be used when upgrading insurance as a result of a renovation or a changing real estate market in your community.

For more information on how you can use this service to be sure your home is adequately insured, call 1-888-848-2583, extension 18.

Quincy Realtors Receive Century 21 Office Award

Century 21 Annex Realty broker/owners Arthur Foley, Mary Dawson and Phyllis Rudnick received the Century 21 Quality Service Office Award at the annual Gold Ball Awards Night held recently at the Sheraton

Tara in Braintree.

Honorees receive the award based on their commitment to quality service and their dedication to excellence in serving their customers and clients. Staff and sales associates, as well as the office itself, are rated by the consumer after a transaction has closed.

This is the second time that Century 21 Annex Realty, located at 49 Beale St., Wollaston, has won the award.

State, All-State Wrestling Champion Quincy's Nguyen Ready To Represent State At New Englands

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Quincy High School's Dai Nguyen showed why he is the best 103-pound wrestler in the state with a pin of Burlington's Adam Royds in the finals of Saturday's All-State meet at Salem.

Nguyen, who lost to Royds in the finals of last year's state meet, battled the Burlington wrestler to a 2-2 deadlock through one round. Taking command of the match, Nguyen put Royds on his back to pick up a few points before pinning him one minute into the second round.

"Dai is very aggressive," said Quincy coach Lou Venturelli, "and he has such amazing upper-body strength that once he gets a kid on his back, it's kind of hard to get him off of you."

A senior who came to this country from Vietnam in 1993, Nguyen had beaten Royds in the Lowell Holiday Tournament in December.

To reach the All-State finals, Nguyen (43-3 this season) defeated Waltham's Daniel Arone, 7-2, in the semifinals, and Randolph's Matt Anderson, 9-2, in the preliminaries.

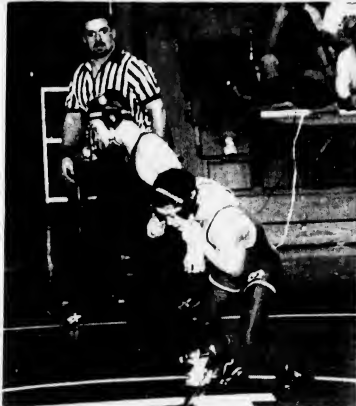

"He (Nguyen) had a real strong tourney," said Venturelli. "This just shows that he's the true state champion. He's pretty excited about winning--this was the first time he showed any real emotion after a match."

"He's usually pretty business-like, but he raised his arm in victory after winning the title. It's a great thing to see, because he's had to work a lot by himself, without a lot of help, because of the language barrier. I was pretty impressed with his performance."

this country from Vietnam in 1993, Nguyen will represent Massachusetts in the 103-pound class at the New England Championships this Friday and Saturday at Glastonbury, Conn.

"Dai's definitely got a shot at a medal," said Venturelli, who noted that the top six wrestlers in each class receive medals. "He didn't place last year, and we hope to improve on that this time around. He's really going to work hard this week and hopefully he'll come back a winner."

Xaverian Stuns Quincy In Tourney Opener

By LIAM FITZGERALD

After relinquishing a two-goal third-period lead, the Quincy High School hockey team fell to Xaverian, 4-3, in overtime in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectional Friday night at UMass-Boston's Clark Center.

Xaverian's Conor McDavitt ended the Presidents' season at 8:34 of overtime, sliding a pass from Gerry Hickey past junior goaltender Chris Burns in a scramble in front of the net.

"You have to give credit to Xaverian," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia, whose team made its first state tournament appearance since 1978. "They play in a tough league and were not about to give up. I couldn't be prouder of our kids, though. We played as good as we're going to play."

"This is a great hockey club. They're hurting now, but it was fun for them to be out there, with a full house cheering them on. It was an even game, a good, clean hard game, your typical tournament battle."

Scrappy play by Xaverian in front forced the extra frame, as McDavitt notched his first goal with 2:33 left in the third period.

Trailing 3-1 heading into the third, Xaverian cut the lead to one when McDavitt side-stepped a Quincy defender and fed Hickey, who beat Burns for his second power-play score at the 5:50 mark.

Late in the first period, the Presidents (14-3-4) took advantage of a miscue by Xaverian freshman goaltender Dan Runey, who got caught out of his net as Quincy senior defenseman Matt Langille stole the puck. Langille found sophomore forward Joe Vallatini out front, who scored at 3:09 of the first for a 1-0 lead.

Burns protected the lead with a number of outstanding saves, including an amazing stop late in the first on a Xaverian power play. Hickey rushed in alone and fired a shot towards the top corner of the net, only to watch Burns snag it out of the air with his glove.

Hickey avenged the robbery early in the second period, carrying the puck down left wing and holding off a Quincy defender to slide a one-handed shot by Burns. The power-play goal knotted the game at 1-1.

Just over a minute later,

Vallatini again put the Presidents ahead, this time on a breakaway. Taking a feed from junior forward Bob Harvey, Vallatini avoided the Xaverian defenders and blasted a shot between Runey's legs for a 2-1 Quincy lead.

The Presidents increased their lead to 3-1 when senior forward Scott Cooper found junior forward Chris Haidul alone in front of Xaverian's net. Haidul (team-high 18 goals) deked Runey and slipped a backhand by the netminder at 2:34 of the second period.

Burns preserved the two-goal advantage temporarily, stoning Xaverian's Matt Lewis on a breakaway late in the second.

A young squad, the Presidents lose seniors Cooper (14 goals-16 assists-30 points), Mark Glynn (11-18-29), Matt Langille (1-9-10) and Jason Lumaghini (0-1-1). Among the top returners will be Burns, Haidul (18-9-27), Vallatini (12-14-26), junior forward Bob Hall (10-7-17), junior defenseman Derek McTomney (8-7-15) and Harvey (7-6-13).

DeWolfe Wins Senior Games Hockey Opener

The 1997 Massachusetts Senior Games ice hockey competition kicked off last weekend, with one local team, Quincy DeWolfe N.E., winning its first game Saturday at Quincy Youth Arena.

Led by Quincy residents Marty Tolson (two goals, two assists) and Al Ma Kay (one goal), the DeWolfe squad topped the Rusty Blades of central Massachusetts, 8-1, in 60 and over division action.

Quincy's Bibby Lewis turned in an outstanding defensive performance.

John Prescott, a Quincy attorney and longtime resident, was phenomenal in goal, stopping numerous breakways to preserve the win.

Quincy's other entry in the 60 and over division, Quincy Egg & I, lost to Merrimac Valley by a 5-1 score Saturday night.

Monday night in the 50 and over division, the Quincy Presidents were defeated 7-1 by Victory of S.E. MASS.

All three Quincy squads travel to Fitchburg this weekend for two games, then return for the championship round at the Quincy Youth Arena Sunday, March 15.

Friday at 1:40 p.m., Egg & I battles Boston Moby Dicks, followed later by the Presidents against Gardner Drillers at 8:50 p.m.

The Presidents tangle with Gardner Relics Saturday at 9:40 a.m., followed by DeWolfe N.E. against the Springfield Speed Limits at 1:10 p.m. and Egg & I against Rusty Blades at 3:30 p.m.

DeWolfe N.E. is also in action Sunday at 11:20 a.m. against Merrimac Valley.

Barter's Bullies Fall To Needham, Bounce Back To Down Dedham

Quincy Youth Hockey's Squirts, aka Barter's Bullies, fell to a quick Needham squad before rebounding to defeat Dedham in recent action.

In a 3-1 loss to Needham, Paul (Cut 'Em Up) McLean scored unassisted on a breakaway in the first period that drew roars from the Bullies' fans at Quincy Youth Arena. Later in the period, Justin Thorley hit the crossbar following a pass from Paul Graham that got the crowd on its feet.

Tony Benigni and Mike Faherty thrilled the Bullies' supporters with zone-to-zone passing that had Needham scrambling to keep up. Mike Tetreault provided the home crowd with some exciting stick-handling.

The Bullies' defense was hampered when Chris (Bulldozer) Sheehan's right arm was slashed by a Needham player. Jonathan O'Connor and Keith Flaherty worked the blue line, keeping the pressure on Needham. Brendan Linnane and Brendan Clifford used their defensive skills to break up plays by the hard-hitting Needham forwards.

Ryan (The Beezer) Barter had a game to remember in goal, tossing back nearly everything the Needham forwards had to offer. In the end, Needham came out on top in what was one of the Bullies' best outings of the season.

In their next game, the Bullies, sponsored by Sugarmans of Quincy, bounced back by scoring four goals in a win over Dedham.

Alex Shaffer led off the first period with an unassisted goal for the Bullies. In the second, Graham went to work and scored off a pass from O'Connor. Rounding out the period's scoring was Joey (The Ice Man) McManus, who tucked in a rebound of a Linnane shot that hit the post.

Danny Donovan finished off the game with a goal assisted by fellow winger Graham. Timmy Mullen did an excellent job back-checking, not allowing a single Dedham forward to skate past him.

Coach Billy Barter and assistant coaches Paul Cosoni, Ed Faherty and John Flaherty were pleased with the team's performance in the state playdown tournament. The coaches have stressed the teamwork approach which has resulted in the Bullies' success.

BASKETBALL

Balanced B-R Squad Overwhelms Quincy

The combination of Bridgewater-Raynham's inside power and outside accuracy proved too much for the Quincy High School boys basketball team in last Thursday night's Division 1 South Sectional first round contest.

Trojan center Marc Columbo (10 points, 12 rebounds) and power forward Antonio Rea (15 points, 14 rebounds) were unstoppable underneath, while Shaun Sullivan (18 points) and Dan Hammond (11 points) were deadly from long range, combining for seven three-pointers. The result: an impressive 74-58 triumph for the host Trojans (17-4).

"Our kids played hard, but a better team beat us," said Quincy coach John Franceschini, whose team concluded its season at 13-8. "They're very deep, playing nine kids, all of whom contribute."

"They shot very well (56 percent), which is a credit to their guards (Sullivan and Hammond), who shot exceptionally well from beyond the three-point line. Their outside shooting never allowed us to get close. Rea also did a number on us inside."

The Trojans, seeded sixth, built a 42-29 halftime lead and kept a double-digit lead the rest of the way. Early in the second half, Quincy senior Geoff King cut the deficit to 11 with a runner before Hammond nailed three straight three-point baskets to push B-R's lead to 20 at 51-31.

Freshman Dan Kelly paced No. 11 seed Quincy offensively with a team-high 19 points, followed by seniors Carmen Lorenzano and Bob Walsh, who chipped in nine points apiece. Senior Brad Smith kept up the defensive pressure, picking up five steals.

"Dan played a great floor game, like he has all season," said Franceschini, who was recently named Coach of the Year in the Old Colony League for the third time at Quincy. "The two things we were looking to do was cut down on our turnovers and control the defensive glass, neither of which we did. We turned the ball over 20 times, which is too much against any team."

The Presidents lose eight seniors (including starters Walsh, Lorenzano, Smith and King, and reserves Brandelle Pinckney, Tom McIntyre, Jon Hyacinthe and Doug Pehlke), but Franceschini believes the experienced group returning next season will be ready for the challenge.

"They all saw a lot of time at the varsity level, and experience is a huge factor at this level. I hope they work to improve their game in the off-season and that we find people to fill in inside."

Despite Quincy's early exit from the state tournament, Franceschini was pleased with how the Presidents performed as a cohesive unit all season long.

"We had a terrific season and reached many of the goals we set the first day of practice," he said. "Among the goals we reached were winning a high percentage of our home games, defeating North Quincy, qualifying for the tournament and staying together as a group."

"That last goal is a credit to the seniors, who held it together and kept everyone focused for the entire season. That's the goal I'm most proud of."

"They played for one another, not themselves. The distribution was incredible; it was how they played all year. It was a different name every night, which is the beauty of it. It was a memorable season."

West Roxbury Knocks Off Red Raiders, 56-44

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Despite the tireless efforts of Brian Ross (24 points) and Matt Bromley (14 points), the North Quincy High School boys basketball team fell to West Roxbury, 56-44, in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectional last Thursday night.

Ross, a junior center, and Bromley, a senior forward, combine to limit high-scoring 6-8 center Elton Tyler to just 13 points, including only four field goals.

"I thought we did a great job on him (Tyler)," said North Quincy coach Ted Stevenson, whose team finished with a 13-9 record. "But they're not the No. 3 seed for nothing. They're a very good team with a lot of talent and I think we gave them quite a battle."

"You couldn't ask for a better effort. The kids gave 100 percent, so I can't be downhearted. I think it was a great battle between the two big guys, Ross and Tyler. Their quickness was definitely a factor, and we missed a lot of shots, which hurt us as well."

Leading 24-20 at the half, West Roxbury (19-2) pulled away early in the second half, reeling seven straight points en route to a 13-2 spurt. Tyler and Charles Gerald each scored four points, Jerome Brown added three and Mawuli Ahiahornu capped off the run with a layup with 10:12 left for a 37-22 lead.

A three-pointer by Ross (13 rebounds), sandwiched between two Bromley layups, trimmed the deficit to 41-33 with 5:42 left, but NQ would get no closer as the host squad went on a 12-5 run to seal the victory.

Eight missed free throws, including four by Bromley and three by Ross, also contributed to the 13th-seeded Red Raiders' downfall in the second half. NQ only got four points from its other three starters—two apiece from senior point guard Chris Erler and senior forward Jim Finn.

"I didn't think we'd have as much trouble scoring as we did," said Stevenson. "They played much better defensively than I expected. They took our big guys out of the game, and we had trouble shooting from outside."

Both teams started off the game sluggish offensively, missing a number of shots and turning the ball over. Ross single-handedly kept the Red Raiders in the game, scoring the team's first 12 points of the contest.

A late 7-0 spurt by West Roxbury gave the host squad a 23-12 lead with under three minutes left in the half. Two layups by Bromley, a putback by Ross and a jumper by Erler at the buzzer cut the halftime deficit to four (24-20), the closest NQ would get the rest of the night.

Six players, including four starters (Bromley, Finn, Erler and Mike Johnston) and two reserves (forward Nick Shea and guard Peter Connolly) played their final game for North Quincy.

"They're a group who'll be missed, because they're good players, but more importantly, because they're great kids," said Stevenson. "They really went above and beyond in their careers at North. They played very hard every night, which as a coach is all you can ask for. They set the example for the next couple of classes to follow."

"We'll have to replace four starters, and I feel we'll be ready. Brian (Ross) will be back, along with Brian Doyle and John Sullivan, who saw quite a bit of varsity action this year. We have a real good underclass; I feel we'll be the team to beat next year."

DEPRESSING NEWS

Drivers who depress their power-assisted brakes to find their brake pedal feel as though their cars have never been turned on may be experiencing a failure of the assist feature. Most power-brake systems use engine-manifold vacuum to power the brakes. For the brakes to work normally, there must be engine vacuum at the power-brake assembly.

If, however, the hose between the engine intake manifold and the brake assembly were to disconnect, there would be no vacuum to run the power-assist. There would still be brakes, though they would be more difficult to depress. To test whether vacuum-operated power brakes are working, turn off the ignition and pump the brake pedal several times, then depress the brake pedal, hold it down, and start the engine. If the brake pedal suddenly moves downward, the power brake is still working. If it does not move, it is not working. On cars equipped with hydraulic systems, loss of power-steering fluid can cause loss of power braking.

HINT: Power brakes that rely on an electric motor to create hydraulic pressure for the brakes may lose power due to a blown fuse or other electrical problem.

If your brake system warning light comes on, see your service technician immediately. LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO invites your inquiries about most anything connected with the care of your car. Pee Wee B's Clinch District 3 Title And A Berth In State Tourney

With a recent 4-1 triumph over Milton at Quincy Youth Arena, the Quincy Pee Wee B's clinched the District 3 Championship.

Scoring for Quincy were Matt Alleva, Miah Hasson, Mike McGonagle and John Walsh. Frank Guest and Matt Conso each had two assists and Mark Tetreault and Rob Mooney added one assist apiece.

In other recent action, Scottie Markarian scored with seven minutes to play to lift the Quincy Pee Wee B's to a 3-2 triumph over a talented Wellesley squad. The win ensured Quincy a berth in the state tournament in March.

With the game tied, 2-2, John Chevalier set up Markarian, who scored on a low, hard shot which found the inside corner of the Wellesley net.

Wellesley tried to tie it up by pulling the goalie in favor of an additional attacker, but the B's played solid team defense to seal the victory.

Quincy held a 2-0 lead throughout most of the first period on goals by Brian Cooper, assisted by John (Chopper) Walsh and Markarian, and Rob Mooney, assisted by Jimmy Devlin and Mike McGonagle.

Wellesley cut the lead in half by scoring on a deflected shot with just over a minute to play in the first period.

Both teams skated to a standoff in the second period as neither team could score. Wellesley tied the game midway through the third period on a goal which resulted from a scramble for the puck in front of Quincy's net.

The defensive team of Pam Sullivan, Alleva, Chevalier, Sean Moriarty, Steve Romanowski and Bobby Donovan played strong defense in both games to help carry Quincy to victory. Goalie Bruce Maggio played spectacularly between the pipes for Quincy.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Someone once said that a book is the product of mind and yearning, spread patiently across long centuries. It is the sign and symbol of man's culture and understanding. It breathes vitality into the past and brightens the eyes that search the future. It makes indelible the record of the generations.

Let's take this thought on books and think about our "Book of Life." Isn't it true that each period in our life - personal as well as national is a chapter in the WHOLE book? We should not be afraid to go on to the next chapter. Why should we assume it will be worse than the last? We expect it to be better? Because by the reading or living of the previous one we are more ready, better prepared to make the most of the new.

What is true of the individual is true of the nation. Remember our early settlers who looked ahead to the new chapter in their lives. They carried the good of their pasts with them and looked ahead... not back. Yes, even in our busy and hectic world we live in today, we, too, can be pioneers in thought. Let us face the challenge of tomorrow... and close the chapter on yesterday...

The event will bring together grassroots community leaders from urban neighborhoods and rural sectors of New England. Members of the New England Neighborhoods Network will send over 200 representatives to learn from each other, exchange ideas, learn new skills and develop grassroots organizing strategies to make their communities a better place.

Through the institute and other ongoing efforts, Neighborhood Reinvestment Corporation is doing its part in bringing community organizing back to the forefront of community development and neighborhood revitalization. Aimed at emerging community leaders, the institute will offer courses on topics as varied as Speaking with Authority to the Authorities, Making Sense of Your Neighborhood's Economy, Making Meetings Work, and Understanding Your Organization's Budget.

The institute schedule includes tour of Boston neighborhoods and a Sunday morning Action Planning Session where neighborhood groups will develop work plans to follow up on after they return to their communities.

'Kids, Parents And Television' At Early Childhood Center

The Title I program of the Quincy Public Schools will sponsor a program for parents entitled "Kids, Parents and Television" Thursday, March 13 from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center in South Quincy.

William McColgan of Continental Cablevision will present a Critical Viewing Workshop which will enable parents to monitor their children's television viewing more intelligently.

Title I Director Alicia Coletti said, "Facts show that the average 4-year-old watches 22 to 28 hours of television per week and most parents need to understand the messages television is giving their children in those hours."

The presentation will show parents how to deal with the violence children see on television and how to respond to programs which they find objectionable.

Child care will be provided for parents who pre-register. Parents with questions should call the Title I office at 984-8737.

Half Of Library To Close While Addition Built

while the rest will be stored in the Wollaston and Adams Shore branches, McLaughlin said.

She added that the public should not be that inconvenienced for the following reasons:

•Both the main library and the North Quincy branch will expand their hours. They will be open Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (The other branches and bookmobile will keep their regular schedules.)

•More computers will be added to the library branches this summer to make referencing easier. McLaughlin said the number of computers at the North Quincy branch alone will jump from two to 10.

•Those with access to the Internet can locate materials at the library by going online.

McLaughlin said in an emergency situation, patrons can call the library to see which branch is housing a specific book or other item. However, she stressed that most of the materials will be at the North Quincy branch.

Most of the $12.2 million library addition will be paid for by a $7.2 million bond issue recently passed by the City Council. The rest will be paid for by a $3.5 million state grant, $1 million from a local fund-raising drive and $500,000 from Continental Cablevision.

A new component of the library addition plan—which already called for increased materials, technology and space—calls for a small television studio to be built in a rear corner of the building.

The studio was added into the plan last month at the request of Mayor James Sheets. The 6,000-square-foot studio, which will be operated by the non-profit Quincy Telecommunications Corp. created by the city's new cable television contract, will be paid for by the $500,000 from Continental Cablevision—which now operates the local-access studio—and $500,000 in additional bond money. The original library bond totaled $6.7 million.

Shipyard Demo Work To Start applied for through the U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Loan Program as well as additional funding from MHI.

The Department of Transportation already has approved $55 million in loan guarantees that will be used for the modernization phase of the shipyard plan, he added, but the city will not sign off on those until another $232 in guarantees for the building of the ships is approved. Sheets said that approval is expected within the next month.

MHI also has the approval of $6.6 million from the state and $1 million in the form of a federal Housing and Urban Development grant to the city. Sheets said Emmanouil also has contributed about $3.5 million of his own finances to the project.

Sheets and other city officials are hopeful that shipbuilding can return to the yard, which was closed in 1986, by the end of this year. The reopening is expected to produce at least 1,000 jobs at the site.

1,000 New Jobs Expected Shipbuilding Start Seen By The Fall

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Shipbuilding will return to the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point this September, an event that will result in the creation of 1,000 new jobs at the site, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets said Tuesday that Sotirios Emmanouil, the Greek shipbuilder and owner of Swampscott-based Massachusetts Heavy Industries who has been planning to reopen the shipyard for more than 18 months, will lay the keel for two tankers that month. The actual construction of the ships also should begin in September, he said.

"And we can do that before the total modernization of the shipyard is complete," he said.

Sheets added that loan guarantees from the U.S. Maritime Administration (MARAD) needed for the construction of the ships are expected to be approved within two weeks. When that happens, Emmanouil can begin the demolition of buildings at the site as well as the modernization of the shipyard with the installation of high-tech robotic equipment.

More than 200 people attended a groundbreaking ceremony Monday for what is being called the official reopening of shipyard.

Among those in attendance were Sheets, Sens. Edward Kennedy and John Kerry, Gov. William Weld, Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci, Congressman William Delahunt and Joseph Moakley, the latter of whom represents the Braintree portion of the shipyard; former Congressman Gerry Studds and other city, state and federal officials.

Groundbreaking For Fr. Bill's Shelter Addition March 17

A groundbreaking ceremony will be held Monday, March 17 for a new addition at Father Bill's Place, the city's homeless shelter.

The event will begin at 11 a.m. and will take place at the shelter, which is located at 38 Broad St. (next to the Quincy Police Station).

City officials, including Mayor James Sheets and representatives from the Department of Public Works are expected to be in attendance. Also on hand will be Fr. William McCarthy of St. John the Baptist Church in Quincy Center, for whom the shelter is named; Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) which operates the city-owned shelter, and others.

Finn said plans call for a 2,540-square-foot addition to be built onto the existing shelter, which currently totals 6,520 square feet. If all goes according to plan, he added, the work will be completed by this summer.

"We're really looking forward to this renovation," he said. "It will allow us to continue to expand our services to those in need."

Finn said the following are the goals of the expansion:

- Relocation of the shelter's administrative offices, currently located at the JFK Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center back to the shelter where they originally were housed.

- Development of an area for seven "wet" beds kept for those under the influence of alcohol. The police could bring such individuals to the shelter rather than to jail, he noted.

- Expansion of the space available for woman's beds. A total of eight beds would be added, Finn said.

- Provision of greater space for the case managers and clinicians that work at

'He Did A Lot For The City' School To Be Named For Marshall

The School Committee has voted unanimously to name the planned new elementary school in Quincy Point after the late Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall.

Marshall, former Ward 2 city councillor and state representative and a lifelong Quincy resident known to friends as "Kippy," died in September of brain cancer at age 58.

School Committeeman Ronald Mariano, who made the motion to honor Marshall at last week's committee meeting, said the late sheriff should be remembered for his longtime service to Quincy.

CLIFFORD MARSHALL

"I felt his contribution to the quality of life in Ward 2 should be recognized," said Mariano, a Ward 2 resident. "He did an awful lot for Ward 2, and he did an awful lot for the city. It was a logical step for me.

"He was also someone I looked up to personally," he added. "If we can get people to think about what Kippy Marshall did, then I think we've done a good thing. I think we've made a contribution."

Mariano added that a number of other buildings in Quincy are named after elected officials from the city.

Among them are the James R. McIntyre Government Center, the official name of City Hall which is

Board Tells Alfredo's To Share Dumpster

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board told the owner of Alfredo's Restaurant to either make arrangements to share a dumpster with the Golden Bowl Restaurant or relocate theirs within a month.

The warning followed Tuesday's meeting in which abutter Donald Spink told of not being able to go outside his home on Federal Avenue and having to keep his windows closed in the summer.

The suggestion to share the dumpster was made by Firechief Thomas Gorman and although rejected by Alfredo's owner Christos Chronos, was voted unanimously by the board.

The problem of the dumpster began last spring when the new Hibernia Bank was constructed on land owned by Alfredo's where the dumpster was once located.

At that time, the Zoning Board of Appeals promised that Alfredo's dumpster could not abut residential property. In June, 1996, according to Spink, Alfredo's moved their dumpster abutting his back yard.

Last October, Alfredo's appeared before the license board and was told to move the dumpster, but did not do so.

Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico displayed another area to the board as to another location for the dumpster and told the board that Alfredo's has a "limited space" in which to move the dumpster.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue at first had suggested a smaller dumpster with more frequent collections, but admitted she didn't think that would work either.

Chairman Joseph Shea said dumpster regulations were adopted in 1991, and suggested it be placed at the rear of Alfredo's door. Chronos has a month to make the changes required by law.

Bagel Bakery License Granted

The Quincy License Board granted a common victualer license to Bruegger's Bagels, which plans to open at the Fruit Basket on 138 Granite St.

According to Richard Jacked, a representative from Bruegger's, the Fruit Basket has about 4,000 square feet. He said the bakery plans to share about 1,800 square feet, decreasing the size of Fruit Basket.

The bakery will seat about 50 persons, and will offer bagel sandwiches, soup and desserts.

Construction for the bakery will begin soon and be completed sometime in May Jacked said.

Ayers Wants Future Marina Bay Developers To Work With Planning Dept.

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers recently introduced a resolution to the council that would require present and future developers to work in conjunction with the Planning Department and other entities involved in the future build-out of Marina Bay.

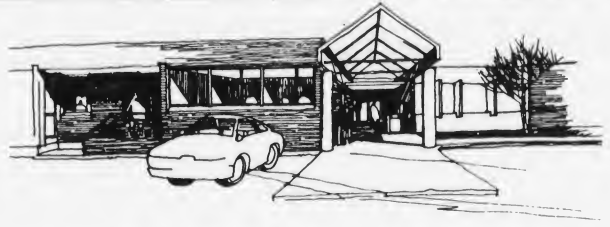

The resolution, which was passed by the Council, stresses the importance of protecting the interests of abutting land owners and urges those involved in the Marina Bay development projects to work together to ensure the construction of sufficient infrastructure such as water supply and runoff, sewer, drain, traffic, roadways, sidewalks and other aspects of construction.

"In the past, we have relied on the zoning laws to protect the interests of the community which makes it difficult to speculate on future development," said Ayers. "This resolution will support the Planning Board in its efforts to promote cooperation between the developers to ensure a smooth build-out. I am thankful to James Kelley, chairman, and Richard Meade, director of the Planning Board for their participation and early response to the resolution."

Currently, four companies are proposing to develop projects in Marina Bay. Developer Peter O'Connell is attempting to build a 136-unit apartment building; Thorndike Development wants to build townhouses; the Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center Inc. want to build a nursing home and assisted living facility; and Boston Scientific Corp. recently leased the former Jordan Marsh warehouse for its new distribution center.

the shelter.

•Expansion of the kitchen storage space.

Finn said the project will cost about $200,000, a financial burden the QISC must bear. The QISC, as a result, is seeking donations for the project.

He noted, however, that representatives from the Department of Public Works and the QISC have discussed the matter with officials from local labor unions who have agreed to donate labor and materials to the project, something that should help bring the cost down.

Department of Public Works Operations Manager Lester Gerry said the DPW will be involved with excavation for the foundation, landscaping and other work while the carpentry, steel, electrical and other labor unions will perform the actual construction.

Finn also noted that Braintree developer Thomas J. Flatley has pledged $60,000 to help the cause, upon the condition that the QISC raise at least $100,000 on its own.

Donations for the project can be mailed to Father Bill's Place, 38 Broad St., Quincy, MA 02169.

NEW TEST FOR PARKINSON'S

Parkinson's disease is often one of the most dreaded enemies of old age. It can cause mood swings and gradually shut down a patient's ability to control body movements. While there is no cure for Parkinson's, there is hope for coping with its effects through early treatment. Drugs are now available to slow down the progress of symptoms, but the sooner they are begun, the better. Fortunately, improved diagnostic techniques may make it easier for that "sooner" to occur before the disease has a chance to irreversibly damage much of the brain's speech and movement centers. The new testing, involves measuring the sense of smell, degree of depression, and speed of wrist movement, three areas where damage from Parkinson's can often first be detected. Researchers hope that improved testing will eventually reduce the average time it takes to diagnose Parkinson's, which is currently between one and two years. P.S. Many elderly suffer from undiagnosed Parkinson's because their symptoms are ignored as simply old age. A proper diagnosis is critical. Over the past decade, various treatments have emerged for this disease, but they do not suit all patients with this condition. Regular medical help is key when you are dealing with a chronic condition that challenges your spirit as well as your body. Delahunt Offering Tax Form Assistance

Congressman Bill Delahunt is encouraging 10th District residents who need Internal Revenue Service forms to seek his assistance. The congressman said his office has received numerous requests from area residents for federal tax forms, from the most common 1040's to the many schedules related to particular financial activities. Many tax forms are available at community libraries and post offices or by calling the IRS at 1-800-829-3676. The IRS has also set up a number of community tax assistant sites offering filing assistance. To locate the nearest site, call 1-800-829-1040, Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

For taxpayers with personal computer and the internet, tax forms may be downloaded through the IRS home page at <http://www.irs.ustreas.gov>.

Delahunt urges anyone having trouble tracking down a particular tax form, schedule or guide to call his office, toll-free, at 1-800-794-9911 (South Shore) or 1-800-870-2626 (Cape and Islands).

Scholarship Applications At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Parent-Teacher Council of Lincoln-Hancock Community School and the Amelio Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center is offering Book Award Scholarships to high school seniors who have graduated from the Lincoln-Hancock School and are planning to further their education beyond the high school level.

Applications may be picked up from the office at the Lincoln-Hancock School and returned to: Mr. Dennis Carini, Principal, Lincoln-Hancock Community School, 300 Granite St., Quincy, MA 02169. Deadline for returning applications is March 24.

Contributions to the Book Award Scholarship Fund may also be sent to the same address.

WORTHY SUITS

Whenever an injury is wrongfully inflicted, the person who suffers the injury has the right to file suit in an effort to recover damages. However, the mere fact that a wrongful act (tort) has occurred does not necessarily mean that it provides a good basis for a suit. For instance, a sprain that heals quickly is 'not likely to be worth the effort of a suit, but a bone fracture is usually suit-worthy. In fact, nearly all fractures are worth suit. Their worthiness stems from the fact that their occurrence likely put a halt to the pursuit of work or the enjoyment of life. Also in this category of injuries worthy of a suit are disfiguring injuries and any injury that leaves a person permanently handicapped. If there is any doubt about a suit's worthiness, a lawyer can offer a judgment.

HINT: Injuries that manifest themselves solely in psychological terms are worth pursuing when they are medically documented.

Have you been injured and need legal advice? Call 773-2880 for a free consultation today. We can often take appropriate legal action, taking the steps necessary to keep you out of court. A Little Political Intrigue?

A little behind-the scene political intrigue, my dear Watson?

The issue of term limits for the City Council president has some City Hall observers wondering if there's more to it than meets the eye.

Like, for example, could positioning for a future mayoral bid be involved?

The council's five-member Rules Committee last week unanimously thumbed down Councilor Dan Raymondi's proposal to remove the current one two-year term limit.

But that may not be the end of it. It still hasn't gotten before the full council for a final vote. Neither has a possible compromise proposal.

Raymondi says increasing the number of terms a council president could serve would allow the president to set and complete his agenda instead of automatically having to give up the gavel after just two years mid-stream with unfinished goals.

But other councilors think a council president with unlimited tenure would pack too much power. And, some fear, would give him too much time to strategically entrench himself and use the presidency as a springboard to the mayor's office.

Especially if the timing was just right to be council president the year James Sheets decides to announce: "Okay, boys, I'm leaving!" (Well, he's not going to be mayor forever.)

Most, but not all of Quincy's mayors, have used the council presidency as a stepping stone to the mayor's office.

The council president is the second highest and second most powerful elective official under Quincy's Plan A form of government.

He appoints the council committee chairmen, gets more public exposure than his colleagues, becomes acting mayor when the mayor is away. And would automatically become mayor if the incumbent resigned or left office for some other reason.

Among the five Rules Committee members who voted "ought not to pass" on the Raymondi proposal are two considered major future mayoral candidates: Michael Cheney, who has been council president, and Paul Harold, a former state senator.

Cheney, Harold and Rules Committee members Chairman Michael D'Amico, Stephen Durkin and Patrick McDermott said extending council president terms would give too much power to one individual.

Harold has deep feelings about unlimited terms for both council president and state senate president.

"I really don't know if I will ever run for mayor," he says. "So my vote on this proposal has nothing to do with running for mayor."

"What it has to do with is that I strongly believe that a council president should preside over the council—not control it."

"I don't think there should even be a two-year term. I think it should be one year and then elect a new president."

The Rules Committee also turned down a proposed amendment to the Raymondi proposal made by McDermott which would have allowed council presidents two consecutive two-year terms.

McDermott noted that there would be no guarantee the president would actually be elected to that second term.

The amendment was rejected 3-2 with D'Amico joining McDermott but Harold, Cheney and Durkin against it.

There's a little irony to that 3-2 vote. That committee used to be a full 9-member committee but a prior Raymondi proposal streamlined it and other full-member committees to smaller membership.

The feeling is that if the Rules Committee did have nine members the McDermott amendment would have come out of committee with a majority "out to pass" vote.

Technically, the Raymondi proposal is still alive. D'Amico didn't send the committee vote to the full council for final action.

Observers think it will eventually go to the full council for a vote and if it doesn't make it, a compromise amendment like McDermott's will.

LONG-TIME West Quincy families remember with fondness Fr. Joseph Segadelli who died Feb. 28 at St. Patrick Manor at age 82.

St. Mary's Church was his first assignment as a young priest, serving there from 1942-1946.

To parishioners there—especially youngsters who liked to play as a Young Priest baseball or basketball—he was a real life version of Father O'Malley, as portrayed by Bing Crosby in the classic movie, "Going My Way."

Fr. Segadelli, who himself was an outstanding baseball and basketball player while at Mount St. Mary's College in Maryland, was a big believer in the importance of sports to youth and gave much of his time to the youngsters of St. Mary's and others in West Quincy teaching and coaching them in sports. To kids like Boy Ryan, John Quinn, John McDonald, John Daly, Phil Lucason, Edward Francis and Bill Mulvaney, he was their great friend.

"There is no doubt that athletics really prepare the boy for manhood and a more important game we call life," he told me in a long-ago interview.

I personally remember him for his work with youngsters and one who practiced ecumenism long before most of us heard the word or knew what it meant.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE in order for Kevin Coughlin, Montclair community activist, who has just been promoted to Assistant Chief Probation Officer in the Middlesex Division Probate and Family Court.

Coughlin's appointment was announced by Chief Justice of Administration John Irwin, Jr. who noted that he has served "18 years with distinction" as a Middlesex Division probation officer. The division has jurisdiction over 51 cities and towns in the state's largest county.

Incidentally, Coughlin, who is also politically active, is considering a run for School Committee this fall.

GEORGE BURKE will be in Pittsburgh Friday to watch UMass, his alma mater, take on the University of Louisville his "alma mater" in the NCAA Tourney. Burke graduated from UMass in 1956 where he was one of its all-time basketball stars.

In 1957 he was at Louisville earning his Army commission as a second lieutenant and took a semester at the university's law school.

But no divided loyalty for him Friday. He'll be rooting for the Minutemen.

When A Neighbor Moves

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Unlike most mobile Americans who move around a lot and never stay in one place, those of us who were born in Quincy and have lived all of our lives and who have stayed rooted in one place like Quincy granite for years and years, we too have something to contribute and to share.

Recently, neighbors of mine who lived across the street from me for 40 years decided to sell their home and move to smaller quarters in Braintree. I grew up in that neighborhood and watched their children grow up and move away and buy houses and start families of their own.

Last year, the father retired from his business and handed it over to his son. I used to see them occasionally. Then, suddenly, about three weeks ago, I noticed a For Sale sign on the house. I was surprised to think that they would be moving after so many years with such little warning.

But life is full of surprises and changes and the one thing that always stays the same is change itself, and 40 years can be erased in a very short time. Life repeats itself as the generations unfold and life goes in cycles.

My neighbors raised their children in that house and now they have completed their task. It is only fitting that they sell their house to a young couple who will raise their five kids in that house and who will be starting the cycle all over again. There is a time for everything under the sun, says Ecclesiastes, and this is their time to move.

From now on, every time I look out my window, things will be different. A piece of my past will be lost forever. The future is yet to be. I remember when Quincy was a sleepy bedroom town of Boston--when there was just one little road leading into Quincy Square, which went up the railroad tracks, right beneath the Grossman's sign. What about the people I grew up with: where are they now?

As the French poet said, "Where are the snows of yesteryear?" When a neighbor moves after so many years, it gives one pause: so many memories and thoughts come rushing in.

The History Of DOVE

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Periodically a new "Founder of DOVE" appears in print. It is time to present the correct facts.

In 1976, the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women formed a task force to investigate the problem of battered women. The task force was chaired by Ann Keating who had suggested the subject.

By the end of 1978, it was decided that there was a need for a shelter on the South Shore and the task force still chaired by Ann Keating invited interested members of the community to meet with the task force to address this issue. As a result a shelter was founded.

It was manned in the part by the task force and in part by certain members of the community. At the same time a member of the task force drafted a proposal to allow the police to involve themselves more with domestic violence since up to this point the police had limited powers.

From the hard work and persistence of the group DOVE, so named by a member of the task force, developed into the shelter for the alleviation of the domestic violence crises that is a model in the country today.

Appreciated Police Academy Sessions

[The following letter to Officer Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department was submitted for publication.]

Dear Mr. Hanna:

On behalf of the members of the Martensen Associates, we would like to extend our warm thanks and appreciation for conducting the Police Academy sessions in our neighborhood.

The subjects covered were valuable and most interesting to the participants, especially at our time of life. The officers were knowledgeable, friendly and showed that they cared.

We sincerely hope that funds will be made available to continue these valuable programs and allow further series to be conducted in the neighborhoods of Quincy. We understand that there are many already in existence.

Please consider the residents of Martensen Street for future programs as this one was well-received by all.

Thank you again for such a worthwhile experience.

Creamed Cauliflower

We couldn't wait to cook outside a couple of weeks ago when the thermometer hit 65 degrees.

I called our son Dom and he came up with his family, and brought a delicious bean salad which he made from scratch.

With the steak I served creamed cauliflower and a salad. Sometimes we tend to forget how delicious cauliflower is. It is so versatile and can be made sauted with garlic and olive oil and butter as a pasta topping, fried as a fritter, or today's recipe either baked alone or with scallops. Because we were having steak, I cooked it without the scallops

Creamed Cauliflower

1 head of cauliflower
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter (or margarine)
1 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste
1/2 pound scallops (optional)

4 tablespoons shredded cheddar cheese

Wash and cut the florets from the cauliflower. Boil in salted water until tender (not mushy). Drain and set aside.

For the basic cream sauce, saute the butter, add the flour and milk and with a whisk, cook until smooth. Add the cheddar cheese and cook until cheese melts. Cut the florets in smaller pieces if you prefer, and place in the pan. If you're using scallops, add them now and cook until blended. Place in a slightly greased baking dish, and bake in a 350 degree oven until bubbly (about 15-20 minutes).

I've made this dish with and without scallops and they're equally delicious. (sometime you have to add a bit more milk and flour if you think the cauliflower needs more liquid).

P.S. Even though we cooked outside, we ate inside! The weather wasn't that warm!

Many ambulance services now look to a national conglomerate for guidance.

We look here.

Fallon Ambulance Service has been run by the Fallon family since James Fallon Sr. founded our company in 1936. The philosophy of compassionate personalized care that was established by James is what guides us today.

So while many local ambulance services have caught the merger bug and become branches of large national companies, Fallon Ambulance remains true to its roots and an unwavering belief in personalized service. James Fallon Sr.'s philosophy of compassion plays a role at every level of the company, from the way we treat our employees to the individualized attention patients receive from our EMTs.

Staying true to our roots also means playing a visible and important role in our community. We do just that with unmatched volunteer work, serving schools with educational programs and providing transportation for charitable events. Special programs like our "Bringing Families Together" and "Extra Miles for Kids in Need" are unique in the industry.

Give us a call and find out how our "family" commitment to unconditional patient care can benefit your facility.

SPOTLIGHT ON H

Adolescent Scoliosis

By DR. BRUCE INDEK

In a recent article published in a renowned scientific journal called "Spine" comes a new study linking adolescent (11-14 years of age) scoliosis to abnormal stretching of the spinal ligaments.

Spinal ligaments are responsible for holding one vertebrae (bone of the spine) to another. Abnormal stretching of these ligaments precedes the onset of scoliosis according to this new study.

When a vertebrae is locked out of its normal position or has lost the ability to move, spinal ligaments can become stretched. In chiropractic, this condition is called vertebral subluxation. Subluxations happen from every day stresses and strains. Symptoms are often not present until spinal damage has occurred. Chiropractors are specifically trained to find and correct subluxations.

A stretched spinal ligament will stimulate spinal nerves which in turn will abnormally control the spinal muscles (responsible for spinal movements and support). Incorrect input from the spinal ligament nerves to the spinal muscles will cause abnormal pull on the spine. This abnormal pulling action can alter spinal growth and thus possibly lead to scoliosis.

A chiropractor will expertly examine your child for subluxations using state-of-the-art technology. Non-invasive tests such as Surface EMG, are just one tool to evaluate spinal nerve and muscle function.

Call Indek Chiropractic at 472-0661 to find out more about the latest technology in locating subluxations and thus prevent serious and irreversible harm to your child's spine.

Am I Too Old For Orthodontics?

By DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

There is no age limit for orthodontics. Teeth and tissue are essentially the same in both adults and children. Orthodontics can successfully realign crooked teeth or a protruding overbite regardless of your age.

More and more adults are seeking orthodontic treatment, eager for a more attractive face and smile, healthier gums, and freedom from jaw joint pain. Today's appliances include less visible braces, so orthodontics can fit into any adult life style. With fully mature adult jaws, treatment may take longer than for children or teenagers.

Today, adult patients are seeking increasingly more comprehensive dental care. They are no longer satisfied with the "simple silver fillings" or the "porcelain fillings in the front teeth." Such limited patch-up approaches to esthetic and functional dental problems fail to be sufficient treatment for the sophisticated patient (who is better educated and better off financially than ever before) seen in modern dental practices. Adults are becoming more and more aware of missing, broken and malpositioned teeth.

The increased desire, and indeed even the demand, by patients for total dental care has led the dental profession to develop new therapeutic techniques which are used not only by the specialist but by the general dentists as well.

Correctable Dental Problems

Some dental problems of adult patients which can easily be corrected are:

- Correction of esthetics and function by repositioning mild cross-bites.
- Correction of labial flaring and crowding.
- Correction of distemas (gaps between anterior teeth).
- Change in the axial inclinations of tilted and tipped teeth prior to prosthetic replacement.
- Elimination of traumatic occlusion.
- Provision of an envi-

ronment for intrabony fill-in.

Adults with mutilated dentitions no longer have to accept compromise dental treatments. They can be offered a more lasting dental environment by repositioning the dental units. Performing limited tooth movement does not imply that standards should be lowered for adults, but it does mean that the results should be functional and esthetic, and performed in the shortest possible time.

The orthodontics specialty primarily deals with tooth movement in patients in whom it can be anticipated that growth and development will be occurring. In adult patients, growth and development cannot be used as an aid in repositioning teeth. However, despite the fact that adult patients lack the potential advantage growth and development that is present in children, tooth movement techniques available for children can be used with only slight modification for adults.

Tooth movement is all situations of malposition in adults is neither warranted nor indicated. In addition, business and social obligations of some patients might inhibit the wearing of tooth movement appliances to such an extent as to render them virtually ineffective. Therefore, adult patient must be evaluated on an individual basis for orthodontic treatment. Considerations of muscle physiology, function, business and social schedules are of prime importance in these patients.

Crystal Clear Braces

About 30 percent of orthodontic patients today are adults. These patients most frequently are being treated for orthodontic problems that were not corrected during childhood. They realize that improving the health of their mouth and the beauty of their smiles is a change for the better.

New technology now makes it possible for orthodontic patients to have braces that are crystal clear. These little attachments (brackets) made from advanced ceramic materials (man-made sapphires) are clear, comfortable and extremely durable. These new braces are small and have carefully rounded contours so that they will feel as good as they look. Unlike plastic brackets, the new porcelain brackets retain their clarity and are strong enough to withstand applied orthodontic forces.

Now, thanks to a technological and material breakthrough, it is possible to have braces that may go unnoticed. These new porcelain braces are translucent, so the only thing that shows is the natural color of teeth.

The crystal clear braces are harder than conventional metal braces. However, patients can damage any braces by chewing on hard foods or sharp objects. Under normal conditions, and with normal care, these porcelain braces will last the life of treatment.

Are these braces difficult to keep clean?

It is much easier to see any food accumulation since these new brackets are translucent. Additionally, experiments show that plaque accumulation is actually less on this ceramic material than it is on stainless steel. With proper brushing, they will remain as clean and fresh as the day they are put on. Also, unlike steel, these braces are hypoallergenic and will not conduct heat or cold.

Finally, adult patients will be able to determine what is best for him/her. Having braces is a positive experience that will endow an adult patient with a beautiful smile to last a lifetime.

(Dr. Fred Attarzadeh is a Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry graduate who achieved his orthodontic specialty program from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 1981. He has over 25 years of experience in teaching, research and practice. Currently, he is in private practice at 1050 Hancock St., Quincy.)

The Benefits Of Massage

A Biological Masterpiece, But Subject To Many Ills

By CAROL THEM MEN
 Massage is defined as the systematic and scientific manipulation of the soft tissues of the body. But the benefits of massage therapy far exceed the effects it has on the body.

Massage is an ancient Chinese art which was popularized by a Swede, Per Henrik Ling, in the early 1800s. Ling was a fencing master and instructor of gymnastics who devised a system of massage and medical gymnastics for his students. Thus was born the "Swedish Massage" and today the French terminology continues to be used. Examples are effleurage for the long, gliding strokes and petrissage for the kneading action applied to tissue.

The benefits derived on the physiological level are many. An increase in blood circulation speeds healing time from injury by supplying the tissue with nutrients. An increase in the lymphatic circulation pushes toxins through and out of the body, reducing edema. Areas of spasm in the musculature which have definite referred pain patterns known as "trigger points" are released. Range of motion as well as flexibility increases. Last, but not least, is the calming effect massage has on the nervous system which reduces stress, the cause of many ailments.

Some of the reasons to try massage therapy are:

•Chronic Pain: Massage affects the pain cycle, a chain of events that reinforce each other. Stress especially adds to this cycle which consist of pain, muscle tension, reduced circulation, trigger points, muscle shortening and restricted movement. Massage is unique in treating each of these elements.

•Pregnancy: Massage is a wonderful way to help relieve the stress of the physical changes of pregnancy as well as helping you experience these changes as positive, boosting your energy while allowing you to sleep better.

•Substance Abuse/Eating Disorders: Massage can be supportive throughout your recovery by relieving tension, improving your physical and mental health, and supplying you with the energy you need to face life's challenges.

•Seniors: Massage relieves tension which restricts movement, allowing for greater flexibility. It also causes increased circulation of both the blood and lymph aids in speeding healing time and reducing edema.

•Sports Pre-Post Work-out: Loosening the muscles prior to an event assists in greatest output from the muscles. Post-event massage releases the built-up tension and helps to rid the muscles of lactic acid.

I would like to share with you a typical massage session.

You will be asked to fill out a general health questionnaire to best access your treatment plan and to be sure that there are no contraindications to massage. You are then left in the treatment room alone to undress.

You lie on the massage table, covering yourself with a top sheet. Know that your modesty is always respected and that you are draped completely except for the area being massaged. When the massage ends, you are again left alone to dress.

[Carol Themmen, LCMT is owner of Embody Massage, 1446 Hancock St., Quincy Center. For more information or to make an appointment, call 472-9842.]

(NAPS)—The human foot is a biological masterpiece. Its strong, flexible and functional design enables it to do its job well and without complaint—if you take care of it and don't take it for granted. In order to keep your feet healthy, you should be familiar with the most common ills that affect them. Remember, though, that self treatment can often turn a minor problem into a major one, and is generally not advisable. You should see a podiatric physician when any of the following conditions occur or persist.

Athlete's foot is a skin disease usual starting between the toes or on the bottom of the feet, which can spread to other parts of the body. You can help prevent infection by washing your feet daily with soap and warm water, drying carefully especially between the toes, and changing shoes and hose regularly to decrease moisture.

Heel pain can generally be traced to faulty biomechanics which place too much stress on the heel bone or nerves in the area. Stress could result while walking or jumping on hard surfaces, or from poorly made footwear. Some general health conditions—arthritis, gout, and circulatory problems, for example, also cause heel pain.

The signs of athlete's foot are dry, scaly skin, itching inflammation and blisters.

Ingrown nails are nails whose corners or sides dig painfully into the skin. Toenails should be trimmed straight across, slightly longer than the end of the toe, with toenail clippers.

Bunions are misaligned big toe joints, which can become swollen or tender. There are conservative and preventative steps which can minimize the discomfort of a bunion, but surgery is frequently recommended to correct the problem.

Corns and calluses are protective layers of compacted, dead skin cells. They are caused by repeated friction and pressure from skin rubbing against bony areas or against an irregularity in a shoe. Never cut corns or calluses with any instrument and never apply home remedies, except under a podiatrist's instructions.

The American Podiatric Medical Association operates a toll-free telephone line, 1-800-366-8227 (1-800-FOOTCARE), offering free information on a range of foot health topics.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnig D.C.

ARM & SHOULDER PAIN

Arm and shoulder pain can have a number of causes, but the large percentage of cases are caused by misalignment of one or more spinal bones (vertebrae), improper posture, spinal curvatures, occupational stresses, or injury to the spine. Any of these conditions may cause irritation or impingement of the nerves supplying the arms, shoulder, and neck. Arm and shoulder pain does not always mean trouble where the pain is felt.

The degree of pain may vary between slight and intermittent, to excruciating. But do not be fooled by the degree of pain; sometimes a slight pain goes along with a serious condition while intense pain may be a symptom of nothing more than temporary muscle soreness caused by a weekend of unusual activity.

It should be apparent to anyone that arm and shoulder pain may indicate a serious condition. But whether the problem is serious or not, the pain can become quite debilitating. Fortunately, the doctor of chiropractic is eminently qualified to correct arm and shoulder problems. The chiropractors education and experience have been directed to such problems that involve the spine, nerves, muscles and joints of the human body.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 110 Billings Road, N. Quincy, 773-4400.

Citizens Bank Selling Shamrocks For MDA

Citizens Bank is among more than 100 area businesses participating in the Muscular Dystrophy Association's (MDA) annual fundraising campaign, "Shamrocks Against Dystrophy."

Citizens Bank is one of the largest retail organizations in the state taking part in the fundraising effort. Some 65 Citizens Bank branches across the state are selling shamrocks to bank customers and local MDA supporters.

Customers who purchase a Shamrock through March 17 for one dollar sign their name or attach their business card on the shamrock mobile which is prominently displayed in each business or establishment. Money raised supports MDA's local research and patient service programs.

In addition to Citizens Bank, there are more than 100 other business selling shamrocks for MDA. They include Shaw's, Star Market, the Big party, Dependable Cleaners, The Wheelhouse Diner, The Irish Pub, Well's Grill, International House of Pancakes, Burger King, Strawberries, Darby's Public House, and Abigail's Crossing.

MDA gave special thanks to the Quincy Fire Department for delivering most of the shamrocks throughout the city.

Additional Bathroom Adds Convenience, Value

(NAPS)—Transforming even the tiniest space into a second bathroom can give your home a very large lift. Aside from the convenience for your family and guests, an additional bathroom also adds value to your home.

Experts at Kohler Co., a leading manufacturer of elegant plumbing fixtures and faucets, point out that no matter how small your bath is, you can still give it a personality of its own. When creating an additional bath, here are some points you may want to remember:

- This room may not be as heavily trafficked as your primary bathroom that's used for getting ready in the morning. This means you don't need as much storage or counterspace for toiletries and makeup. All of which makes it the perfect opportunity for a pedestal lav, which can be striking in appearance but offers little if any space for toiletries.

- To accommodate for lack of counterspace, you might want to consider a lower profile, one-piece toilet. They readily fit under a cabinet, providing added storage space.

- Also, since you're not buying faucets for a lav, tub or shower, you can afford to spend more on a high design lav faucet which could be considered the finishing touch and can give the room that certain special look.

- Powder rooms also provide opportunity to specify fixtures in more vivid or dramatic colors. Since there is only a toilet and lav, the color doesn't overwhelm the space. The important thing is not to let room size limit your creativity.

- Decorative fixtures, like the pedestal lav, above, don't overpower, and are an easy way to make a design statement.

A colorful booklet with ideas for bath and powder rooms is available by calling 1-800-4KOHLER.

SS Habitat Awarded Three VISTA Positions

South Shore Habitat for Humanity (SSHH) has been awarded three VISTA positions for the coming year.

SSHH is a non-profit housing ministry that has built 11 affordable homes in partnership with low-income South Shore families. The three individuals selected will assist the organization as construction coordinator, data resources coordinator and public relations coordinator.

"As a volunteer organization, we are very excited about having these three positions made available to us," said SSHH Executive Director David Bigley. "We have a very busy year planned for 1997."

SSEH currently has a number of projects in the works around the South Shore, including a 10-home development in Quincy Point next to the Roche Bros. Supermarket and the site of the planned Wal-Mart store.

To apply for any of the three positions, send a resume to South Shore Habitat, 28 River St., Braintree, MA 02184.

Dave Hepburn Tourney MVP ENC Captures First ECAC Hoop Title

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Capping their most successful season ever, the Eastern Nazarene College Crusaders captured the ECAC Division 3 Men's New England Basketball Championship with a 78-65 victory over visiting UMass-Boston in Monday night's title game.

ENC senior point guard Dave Hepburn scored a game-high 18 points, leading six players in double figures while earning tournament MVP honors. Along with connecting on 12 of 15 free throws, Hepburn also dished out eight assists, grabbed six rebounds and collected two steals in his final collegiate contest.

"What was most fulfilling was having the seniors go out with a win, with something very tangible they can look at," said ENC coach Mark Fleming, referring to the championship trophy presented to the Crusaders following the victory. "All their hard work and effort did pay off. They had four great years, with four good records, and this is something they can take with them after they leave here."

Crusader seniors Jay Hepburn (Dave's twin brother) and Quincy's Jeff Jones chipped in 12 points apiece, juniors Matt Lantier and Scott Madden added 11 apiece and senior Luke Sheets of Quincy contributed 10. Jay Hepburn and Lantier, who led the nation in three-point field goal percentage earlier this season, each buried two three-pointers and Madden added one three-point basket.

"It's been that way all year," said Fleming. "We have four guys averaging in double figures in points, and any one of seven or eight has led us in scoring throughout the year."

"We can do a good job inside with Luke and Scott, while Jones and Lantier can hit the three-pointers. Jay's also shoots extremely well, so we're good inside and outside.

"They're all really good kids who put the team first and take good shots inside and outside. They look to take the best shot and will make the extra pass if necessary."

The Crusaders (23-5), seeded second in the tournament, led 27-26 at the half before pulling away with a 16-0 run to start the second half.

UMass (19-11), seeded fifth, closed the gap to 10 late in the game, but the Crusaders hit 78 percent of their free throws down the stretch to close out the victory.

"Dave's a clutch free throw shooter, and when UMass had to foul, he handled the ball and forced them to foul him," said Fleming. "He wanted to take the free throws and make them. He put us on his shoulders and carried us to the win."

ENC shot a blistering 64 percent from the field in the second half and finished tie

Nguyen Second At N.E. Championships

Quincy High School senior wrestler Dai Nguyen concluded a remarkable season with a second-place finish in the 103-pound class at last weekend's New England wrestling championships in Glastonbury, Conn.

In the final against Rhode Island state champion Bob Goff, Nguyen battled back from a 2-0 deficit but eventually lost the tightly-contested match by a 3-2 score.

"We were concerned going into the final, because Goff looked pretty tough in his other matches," said Quincy coach Lou Venturelli. "Even when he (Nguyen) was down, we felt he still had a shot and he almost pulled it out."

After a scoreless first period, Goff brought Nguyen to his back in the second period for a 2-0 lead. Nguyen returned the favor in the third to even the score at 2-2. With 30 seconds left in the match, Goff scored an escape for one point and avoided Nguyen's attempts to take him down as time ran out.

Nguyen (46-4 record this season) advanced to the finals with three first-period pins in the first round, quarterfinal and semifinal rounds.

"He was the talk of the tournament for most of the weekend," said Venturelli. "Wrestlers rarely get three pins in the first period to reach the final. He (Nguyen) is certainly one of the top pressure performers I've ever had."

"He never felt much pressure, never let it get to him. He performed admirably under pressure all season. I tell these kids to go out and have fun, and he was always smiling and having fun out there."

In the semifinal round, Nguyen pinned Vermont state champion Dwayne Metcalf at 1:33 of the opening round to advance to the final.

Nguyen pinned Ryan Gimpi, the Connecticut state champion, at 1:17 of the first round in their quarterfinal match. In a first round match, Nguyen took down Ed Hathaway of Rhode Island at 1:52 of the opening round to pick up the victory.

After Nguyen recovered from the initial disappointment of losing the final match, Venturelli told him how proud he was of the senior's achievements all season long.

"At first, he (Nguyen) was very disappointed, but on the ride home, I told him this was as far as any Quincy wrestler had ever been," said the longtime Quincy coach. "I was really pleased with his performance throughout the tournament."

"At 103, you don't see a lot of seniors or wrestlers (Cont'd on Page 19)

Senior Hockey Tourney Medal Round Saturday

The 1997 Massachusetts Senior Games ice hockey competition wraps up Saturday with the gold, silver and bronze medal games at Quincy Youth Arena, 60 Murphy Memorial Dr.

None of the three Quincy entries reached the medal round, though the Quincy Presidents (1-1-1) missed the 50 and over division medal round by one point. Last Saturday, the Presidents romped over Gardner Relics, 4-0, after tying Gardner Drillers, 4-4, on Saturday.

Last Sunday, Quincy DeWolfe N.E. (1-2) lost to defending champion Merrimac Valley, 5-1, losing out in a 60 and over division medal round slot to the Rusty Blades of central Massachusetts. DeWolfe was defeated, 1-0, by Springfield Speed Limits in one of the tournament's most competitive contests last Saturday.

Quincy's other entry in the 60 and over division, Quincy Egg & I (0-3), did not pick up a win despite solid goaltending by Bill Parsley. Last Saturday, Egg & I lost to Rusty Blades, 4-0, and fell to Merrimac Valley, 5-1, last Friday.

This Saturday at 6:40 p.m., Boston Moby Dicks will battle Rusty Blades in the 60 and over division's bronze medal game. In the 60 and over division's gold-silver medal game at 7:50 p.m., Merrimac Valley takes on Speed Limits.

The 50 and over division's gold-silver medal game follows at 9 p.m., with Boston Whalers facing off against the Drillers. At 10 p.m., B&B Butchers tangle with Victory of S.E. MASS. in the 50 and over division's bronze medal game.

In Sunday's 50 and over division action, the Whalers romped over B&B Butchers, 9-3; Drillers downed Relics, 4-1; and Bud Light Olde Knights rolled over Coors Rockies, 7-1. Last Saturday, Whalers blanked Rockies, 7-0; B&B Butchers tied Olde Knights, 3-3; and Drillers outscored Victory, 3-1. Last Friday, B&B Butchers defeated Rockies, 5-1; Whalers tied Olde Knights, 2-2; and Victory romped over Relics, 8-0.

Last Sunday in the 60 and over division, Speed Limits doubled up Moby Dicks, 4-2. Last Saturday, Merrimac Valley defeated Moby Dicks, 4-2. Rusty Blades battled Speed Limits to a 1-1 tie last Friday.

Debika Paul On Emmanuel Dean's List

Debika Paul of Quincy was recently awarded a certificate of merit for being named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Emmanuel College in Boston.

A member of the Class of 2000 and the daughter of Benay Paul, she majors in foreign languages. She is a member of the Peace and Justice Club at Emmanuel and works part-time at both Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital and Work Inc.

Everlasting Engraving leads the Olindy's Junior All Star Kid's Bowling League with a 38-10 record.

The rest of the standings: Dom's (32-16); Sweeney Brothers (28-20); Eco Muffler (26-22); Country Ski & Sport (24-24); Mike's Auto Body (20-28); Barnie's (20-28); Marylou's News (20-28); Patriot Glass (18-30); EMC Construction (14-34).

Mike Mezzetti and Todd White lead the boys division with 95 averages, followed by Chris Baker at 93 and Chris Hall at 90.

In the girls division, Melissa Cooke has the top average with 90. Andrea Healy is second at 87, Mary Fernald is third at 84, Elizabeth Fernald is fourth at 82.

Bowlers of the week were Chris Kirschner, who bowled a high three of 305 and has an 84 average; Ronald MacKenzie, who bowled a 181, 30 pins over his average of 51 with a high single of 81, his personal high; and Kendra Ciccone, who bowled a 225, 28 pins over her average of 54 with a high single of 82.

Country Ski & Sport bowled a high team total of 1289 and high single of 444. The team is comprised of Mike Mezzetti (88 high single-286 high three), William Badget (95-285), Ronald MacKenzie (95-285), Bob Jolicœur (95-271), and Elizabeth Fernald (82-250). The single handicap was 3; the three handicap was 9.

Other highlights of the win over Weymouth included freshman Leuchte's unexpected win in the 300, which qualified her for the states and set the stage for Scott's comeback victory. Needing only a win in the 4x200 relay, the team of Ngo, Leuchte, Le and Gonzalez ran away from the Weymouth squad.

Another pleasant surprise was sophomore Dorothy Cronin, who asked to be moved up to the mile and qualified for states by running sub-six minutes twice. In a 62-3 win over an undermanned Quincy High School squad, Hennessy sat out many of his top runners, giving some of the younger runners a chance to score. Outstanding performances were turned in by Cronin, Le and Ellen Tang.

At the Class B state relays, the NQ shotput relay scored for the ninth consecutive year. The team of Yuen, Quilty and Deputa placed sixth with 89'10". The sprint medley relay team of Lynda Wilson, Le, Sharon Lee and Gonzalez came in fifth.

ALTERNATOR REALITIES

The alternator is the electrical component that provides electricity for an automobile as soon as the engine starts. Symptoms that nearly always signal the alternator's failure are illumination of the charge warning light or a discharge indication on the ammeter. Before a decision to replace the alternator is made on the basis of these signs, however, the alternator drive belt should be checked for looseness and the voltage regulator examined to see if it is working properly. Either of these conditions could cause either the charge warning light or the discharge indicator on the ammeter to appear.

Another indication of a failed alternator is a shrill noise that increases in pitch as engine speed increases. This noise can be caused by a bad diode, the failure of which can reduce the alternator's maximum output. HINT: A diode is the solid state electronic device in the alternator which changes or rectifies alternating current into direct current for use by the car's electrical system.

LEO & WALT'S SUNCOCO is very proud of our ASE Certified technicians and of the equipment they have on hand to properly service every system in your car, including its electrical system. Whether your car needs a new alternator or in need of some other repairs, see us first. If you are in the market for superior service that you can count on, then see us today at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon-Fri 6am-9pm, Sat 7am-9pm, Sun 9am-5pm.

Sacred Heart Girls Team Clinches East Division Title

The Sacred Heart girls basketball team of North Quincy captured the East Division of the Bantam age (under 13) CYO League.

The team compiled a 12-2 league record and have qualified for the state championships to be held later this month. The squad also received invites to the prestigious CYO Vicariate Tourney and will participate in the Attleboro Invitational Tourney.

The Sacred Heart team was led by the strong play of All-League forward Lauren Sleeth, who averaged 13 points and 10 rebounds per game. Forwards Nora Hanna and Lisa Satkevich, a fifth-grader, both averaged over four points and six rebounds per game.

Sixth grade point guard Erin Croke contributed four points and five assists a contest and both Michelle Mattson and Kathryn MacRitchie averaged over three points per game. Kathleen Hester, Allison Lacey, Kelly Manning and Meaghan

McLean contributed strong efforts off the bench. Erin McFarland and Kristen McLaughlin had very good defensive seasons.

The highlight of the season was the final game of the league, a 29-28 overtime win at Duxbury. A free throw by Sleeth with 10 seconds remaining sealed the win. It was the third win this season over Duxbury, which had beaten Sacred Heart by more than 30 points twice last season.

Sacred Heart Seventh Grade Boys Win Hartford Tourney

The Sacred Heart boys seventh grade basketball team won the Hartford Invitational Boys Basketball Tourney.

The North Quincy boys exploded with a convincing 54-37 triumph over the Rocky Hill "A" squad. Avenging losses the two previous years, the balanced Sacred Heart squad was paced by Phil McGillicuddy (10 points), Patrick Jaehnig and Tom Buckley (nine points apiece) and Chris Ham and Jackie Luizzo (eight points apiece). Mark Maher had four points, while Matt Donovan and Wayne Moynihan popped in three points each.

Sacred Heart defeated the Block Aces from Hartford, 59-44, in game two of the tournament. Billy Croke and McGillicuddy combined for 14 points, Maher had 11, and Luizzo, Buckley, Jaehnig, Moynihan and Brandon Sleeth each scored six points.

The highlight of the weekend was the championship game which was played at the University of Hartford Arena immediately following the University of Hartford vs. Northeastern men's college basketball game.

The Sacred Heart squad started a bit sluggish against the fired-up Rocky Hill "A" squad and fell behind by 12 points in the first quarter. Moynihan scored all seven of his points in a key stretch of the second quarter which sparked the 53-40 comeback victory for Sacred Heart.

McGillicuddy once again led the offense with 19 points, while Maher and Ham popped in eight each. Jaehnig and Sleeth scored four each and Buckley's three rounded out the Sacred Heart scoring.

The Sacred Heart boys, coached by Bob Sleeth and Mark Jaehnig, had previously captured the St. Agatha's Christmas Holiday Tournament. They defeated St. Agatha's, Gate of Heaven from South Boston, and St. Ann's of Wollaston in the championship.

Kohler Concludes Football Career

Scott Kohler of North Quincy recently concluded his outstanding four-year football career at Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Conn.

A senior co-captain, Kohler was selected to the ECAC first team, ECFC second team and was named to the Division II Non-Scholarship School All-American team.

A 1992 graduate of North Quincy High School, the 6-3, 220-pound defensive end set school records for most career tackles (254), most tackles in a game (19) and most unassisted tackles in a game (14).

Kohler is a criminal justice major and honor student who plans to pursue a career in drug enforcement. He was recently inducted into the Criminal Justice National Honor Society. He is also the football representative on the College Athletic Board and a member of the men's lacrosse team at Sacred Heart.

ENC Wins First ECAC Hoop Title

"We finished in the top five in field goal percentage, shooting 52 percent as a team, so we're capable of shooting well," said Fleming.

ENC finished the season as ECAC champions and Commonwealth Coast Conference regular season champions (12-1 record). The ECAC championship was the Crusaders' first and the first in any ECAC sport at ENC. Dave Hepburn and Sheets were selected first-team All-Conference and Jay Hepburn was named second-team All-Conference.

Leading the UMass Beacons were junior guard Al Rue (18 points) and junior forward Sean Harrington (17 points, 15 rebounds).

The Crusaders advanced to the championship with a 61-56 triumph over Plymouth State College in the semifinals last Friday. Sheets, ENC's leading scorer (15.7 ppg), paced the Crusaders with 24 points on 11-of-15 field goal shooting. In the quarterfinals, ENC upended seventh-seeded Babson College, 88-85.

Nguyen Second At N.E. Championships

(Cont'd from Page 17) with a lot of experience. He had the edge on others in his weight class, being 18 years old, mature and very strong. I felt once he won the Lowell Tournament and the Sanford (Maine) Tourney that he really had a shot at something big."

Regarding Nguyen's future as a wrestler, Venturelli said he is eligible to compete in a national tournament in Pittsburgh, Pa., in mid-April, but the coach was uncertain Nguyen would attend.

"His future's up in the air right now; we need to get his academics in order before anything else," said Venturelli, who added that a two-year college might be the right option for Nguyen, a Vietnam native who currently speaks little English.

In addition to Nguyen's second-place finish, Massachusetts had a strong showing in the 103-pound class, placing three other wrestlers in the top six. Receiving medals for their performances were Burlington's Adam Royds (fourth place), Weymouth's P.J. Silva (fifth) and Waltham's Daniel Arone (sixth).

A Thought
For The Week

Many wise and wonderful sayings have been passed down through the years on the true meaning of friendship...

It has been said that life without friendship is like the sky without the sun... Friendship is like a treasure, you cannot take from it more than you put into it... True friendship like a diamond radiates steadily from its transparent heart... A friend is one who comes in when the whole world has gone out... Anyone can give advice, but a real friend lends a hand... Make friendship a habit and you will always have friends... Friendship is a responsibility, not an opportunity... Friendship is love with understanding... The bank of friendship cannot exist without deposits...

Yes, the best way to have friends is to be one. "If you see a friend slipping away from you," wrote David Grayson, "stop whatever you are doing and bring him back, for friendship is one thing you cannot afford to be without."

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of Anodyne health Care Services Corp on March 27, 1997 and March 28, 1997. The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the organization's compliance with nationally established joint commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, at the conditions under which accreditation should be awarded the organization.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:

Division of Accreditation Operations
Organization Liaison
Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations
One Renaissance Boulevard
Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181

The Joint Commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform the organization of the request for any interview. The organization will, in turn, notify the interviewee of the date, time, and place of the meeting.

This notice is posted in accordance with the Joint Commission's requirements and may not be removed before the survey is completed.

Shipbuilding Start Seen By The Fall

Emmanouil said "tremendous international growth" is expected in the shipbuilding industry in the next 20 years and rejected the predictions of those who have said it would be pointless to try to reopen the shipyard.

"We shall show them that is not true," he said. "It has been my life's dream to own and operate my own shipyard, and I pray to God I'll be healthy enough to keep running it for the next 30 to 40 years."

Following are excerpts from those who spoke at the event.

Sheets: "This is an extremely historic event. This is our day; this is Quincy's day...It is with great pride that I take part in this historic event, marking the return of shipbuilding to Quincy, 'The City of Presidents' and the United States of America."

"What a great day this is."

Monday's snowy weather): "The sun is shining here at the Fore River shipyard." To Emmanouil, he added, "I thank you for your perseverance...and your commitment."

Kerry: "We are going to build ships again. One thousand workers will walk through these gates and build the ships of the future."

Weld: "This is going to create a lot of jobs. Quincy is going to make the new generation of double-hulled tankers."

Studds: "There was a time...that when you said shipbuilding, people thought of Quincy. Those days are going to be here again."

Moakley: "We're marking a milestone of hard work and cooperation." He also noted that in addition to the 1,000-plus jobs that will result at the shipyard, the reopening will create an additional 5,000 jobs in related industries such as the plumbing and electrical industries and others.

Delahunt: "I'm not here just as a Congressman. I'm here as someone who was born in this city, was raised in this city and lived here all my life. It is particularly exciting and particularly rewarding to participate in this ceremony. What a great day this is."

State Sen. Michael Morrissey: "We will continue to do whatever we can to make this a success."

Rep. Ronald Mariano: "What we are doing here today is restoring one of the focal points, one of the keystones of the Quincy Point area, to at least where it was when it closed in 1986."

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond: "This is a very proud moment for me. It's great news for the City of Quincy and the entire South Shore area."

A number of the speakers also praised both Emmanouil and Studds, who pushed for federal support of the program while serving as Quincy's Congressman.

Emmanouil, who is backed by federal loan guarantees and private financing as well as the support of the above-mentioned officials, recently purchased most of the shipyard from the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority with the help of a $10 million loan from Fleet Bank. The MWRA had bought the yard after it was closed in 1986.

Emmanouil has obtained $52.4 million in MARAD loan guarantees to modernize the shipyard. In addition, he has $13 million in state and federal loans in hand for that work.

A separate $6.6 million grant from the state will pay for the initial cleanup and demolition.

The project is still awaiting the most critical funding: $240 million in MARAD loan guarantees for the ship construction. Emmanouil and officials who support the plan expect those to be approved in the near future.

Once the loans are approved, the construction of tankers can begin.

named after the late mayor and state senator; Tobin Towers in Wollaston, named after former Mayor and current Quincy District Court Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin; the McCauley Building at Quincy Hospital, named after former Mayor and current School Committeeman Francis McCauley; and the Amelio Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center, which opened in 1994 and is named after the late mayor.

The new elementary school is being built to relieve overcrowding at the Sterling Middle School. The plan calls for the Point-Webster Elementary School to be converted to a middle school so that middle school students from Quincy Point do not have to travel to Sterling in South Quincy. The Marshall School will serve students currently attending Point-Webster.

After 4-Years Citizens, City Revitalization Effort

Sailors Home Pond Getting Old Self Look

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Following nearly four years of work by a Citizens Advisory Committee and various city officials, the revitalization of Sailors Home Pond at Fenno Street and Andrews Road in Wollaston is finally starting to show tangible results.

The pond, which over a prolonged period of time had become a polluted, malodorous eyesore because of water-fowl feces, pestilence, rain water runoff, herbicides and pesticides used by local residents and other reasons, is slowly but surely returning to normal, according to Department of Public Works Program Manager Michael Wheelwright.

"We're not all the way there yet," he said. "It'll be an ongoing procedure. But we're getting there."

Since the spring of 1993, the DPW has worked with the Citizens Advisory Committee--which is head-ed up by local residents John Fagerlund, Bonnie Fagerlund, Joe Wight and Karla Williams Wight--as well as the Conservation Commission and the office of Mayor James Sheets to help restore the pond.

"This has involved the planning and facilitating of a number of remedial, ecological, and educational components aimed at restoring the pond's ecosystem," said Wheelwright.

Too Much Power, Opponents Assert Council President Term Extension Wins By 5-4 Vote

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The president of the Quincy City Council can now serve two consecutive two-year terms following a 5-4 vote on the matter by the council Monday night.

Voting in favor of extending the limit of the council presidency from one two-year term to two were Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, who proposed the change; Council President Peter Kolson, the Ward 1 councillor; Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

Opponents were at-large Councillors Timothy Cahill, Michael Cheney and Paul Harold and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin.

Raymondi and the other supporters of the change have said it will allow the president more time to set an agenda and achieve his goals.

Those in opposition, however, said the change will hand over too much authority to one person.

The council's five-man Rules Committee opposed the change two weeks ago by a 3-2 vote. Cheney, Harold and Durkin voted in opposition while D'Amico, who serves as the committee chairman and McDermott were in favor. However, the matter did not come before the full council for a vote until this week.

Proponents had little to say at Monday night's council meeting, but most of those against the change gave reasons for their opposition.

Harold, who served in the City Council in the 1970s and subsequently as a senator in the Massachusetts Legislature before returning to the council last year, said those who serve more than one term in either body can become too powerful. Councillors, who are elected president by fellow council members, once were able to serve an unlimited number of terms as president until the rule was changed to a single two-year term in the 1980s.

Durkin voiced similar sentiments.

"It puts too much authority in one person," he said. "I don't think that's healthy for the council."

Cheney said every councillor deserves the right to serve as the council president, who appoints members of council committees and serves as acting mayor when the mayor is out of the city. It is a privilege, he reasoned, that should always be open to all council members.

Cheney added that he feels younger and freshman councillors will now be

$125,000 Facelift Project City Council Chamber Will Get 1888 Look

The City Council Chambers in historic City Hall will be getting a much-needed facelift this summer.

Officials told the City Council Monday night the renovation work will begin in June and should be completed by September.

The council was updated on plans for the work by John Sheskey of John M. Sheskey & Associates, the Quincy-based architectural firm chosen for the $125,000 project; City Clerk Joseph Shea and Lester Gerry, operations manager of the Quincy Department of Public Works.

Shea said although City Hall was built in 1844, a committee appointed to look into the matter during the renovations to the chambers will reflect what they looked like in 1888, the year Quincy officially became a city.

"They're modest renovations," said Shea. "They'll [the chambers] be restored, as near as possible, to where they looked in 1888."

He added that the chambers were most recently renovated in 1973 under then-Mayor Walter Hannon.

Sheskey said the renovations will not be that complicated but will include new carpeting, windows, seating, lighting and wiring; restoration of the existing walls, woodwork and ceiling, and more. In response to a question from Councillor Timothy Cahill, Sheskey added that the current renovation plan is the one that is the most cost-effective for the city.

Gerry said the project will cost $125,000 and that the city has a $30,000 state grant and $50,000 from a bond passed by the council last year for the project. He said it is not yet known where the additional $45,000 will come from, although it is possible additional funding could be obtained from the state--an amount the city would have to match.

Shea said the work should begin around June 15 and will hopefully be completed by Sept. 15, the day before the preliminary municipal and state election.

Council President Peter Kolson, who first proposed

Dr., Mrs. Jeremiah Ryan Create New Scholarship

The president of Quincy College and his wife have created a scholarship for Quincy graduates who plan to complete their bachelor's degree at Eastern Nazarene College.

Dr. G. Jeremiah Ryan and his wife, Gail, a management consultant with Reidy and Company Inc., will donate their adjunct teaching salaries this term to fund two $1,000 need-based scholarships.

Dr. Ryan is teaching political science on Wednesday evenings at Quincy College and Mrs. Ryan is teaching human resources development in Eastern Nazarene's LEAD program on Tuesday nights.

The donation will be made to the new Quincy College Foundation. The Financial Aid Office at Eastern Nazarene will determine the recipients.

"We are pleased to be able to celebrate both of Quincy's fine higher education institutions with this small gift," said Dr. Ryan.

Hopes To Raise $425,000 Sanger Center Embarks On Capital Campaign

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Esther R. Sanger Center for Compassion is embarking on an ambitious capital campaign to raise $425,000 for the expansion of its services to the needy.

The campaign, the first in the agency's history, is being held in anticipation of next year's 20th anniversary of the founding of the Quincy Crisis Center in 1978. The Mary-Martha Learning Center in Hingham, the other component of the Sanger Center, opened in 1986.

Esther Sanger, who founded both the QCC and MMLC, died in August 1995. Known as "the Mother Teresa of the South Shore," she devoted her life to helping the homeless, hungry, elderly, disabled and lonely.

Bonnie Kraig, an independent consultant who is organizing the capital campaign along with the Sanger Center's Board of Directors, said Sanger's work must be continued despite her passing.

"I think the vision of

reaching out to those in need is something we all need to have as human beings," she said. "Esther was a little dynamo, a tiny person with a big heart who did as much as she could. I never met her in person, but from what I've heard, she's an inspiration to us all."

The Quincy Crisis Center has a 24-hour hotline (471-7075) that offers free crisis counseling, advocacy and referrals as well as a feeding program that serves 13,000 meals a year in the QCC's food kitchen and delivers groceries to an additional 1,000 families a year.

The Mary-Martha Learning Center (749-5441) helps the homeless, particularly young mothers with small children, by expecting accountability, providing community, and offering daily classes in parenting, nutrition and other life skills. More than 300 families have gone through the MMLC education shelter since its opening.

Kraig noted that Sanger's two daughters, Donita Rardin and Heather Rideout, are helping to continue their mother's work at both the QCC and MMLC. She added that while the MMLC, which is registered as an educational facility, receives some annual state aid, it relies mainly on private and corporate donations--the QCC's sole source of income.

Kraig said she hopes that $425,000 in pledges from various community and women's groups, church and clergy organizations, businesses and individuals throughout the South Shore can be obtained by this summer. The money will be broken down into the following areas:

•$50,000 to expand the QCC's five-day feeding program and to purchase a van for home delivery of groceries.

•$100,000 for the improvement and technological upgrade of the QCC's 24-hour hotline.

•$175,000 for a building and capital improvement fund for the MMLC that would enable the Hingham center to reduce its mortgage obligation and provide a resource for any ongoing repairs to the facility.

•$100,000 to initiate The Esther R. Sanger Fund, which would annually assist qualified MMLC graduates to attend college.

Kraig said all of the members of the Sanger Center Board of Directors have made pledges to the capital campaign and that she has contacted about 250 people--some of whom represent various organizations--about the matter at the board's request. All have expressed support, she said.

She added that although the campaign will not be an annual event, it is hoped that the effort will result in a regular base of donors who contribute to the Sanger Center on a yearly basis.

Kraig said she hopes some of the more affluent individuals she has approached about the endeavor will be able to contribute "lead" gifts of $5,000 or more. But the average resident of Quincy, who should receive a related mailing by early April, is welcome to contribute any amount he or she chooses.

"No gift is too small," she said.

Those who contribute can have their money earmarked for one of the Sanger Center's four goals at his or her request or else make a general donation, Kraig noted.

To make a donation to the campaign, call Kraig for a pledge sheet at 617-934-0012 or send checks to: Esther R. Sanger Center for Compassion, P.O. Box 31, Quincy, MA 02170-0001.

Tax Bill Dropoff Box To Be Placed Outside City Hall

Quincy's taxpayers soon will be able to drop off their tax bills at City Hall 24 hours a day.

The City Council voted Monday night to appropriate $2,895 from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account to purchase a tax bill dropoff box that will be placed outside City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Council President Peter Kolson, who proposed the purchase, said such bill collection methods have worked well in other communities. He said the large, round box will be bolted and secured into the sidewalk, and a City Hall employee will open it daily to deliver the deposited bills to the Quincy treasurer's office.

Kolson added that if the dropoff box is a success, others might be purchased for various sites throughout the city.

Council Votes $5,000 For Tot Lot At Bernazzani

Students at the Bernazzani Elementary School soon will be enjoying a new Tot Park.

The City Council voted Monday night to appropriate $5,000 from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account for a new children's park at the school.

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, whose ward includes the school, said the money will be added to $10,000 obtained from Shaw's Supermarkets through a mitigation package that resulted from the construction of a Shaw's store on the North Quincy-Wollaston line. Durkin said the $15,000 expenditure is a necessary one.

"It's [the Tot Park] something that's much needed," he said.

Councillor Michael Cheney, chairman of the council's Finance Committee agreed, saying it is a "relatively small amount of money" for such an important project.

Sixth Citizen Police Academy Begins April 10

Police Chief Francis Mullen announces the Sixth Citizen Police Academy will begin Thursday, April 10 from 6:30 to 10 p.m. at the Quincy Police Department headquarters, One Sea St.

The academy will continue every Thursday through June 12. Program topics include police stress, criminal law, police weapons, crime scene investigations, community policing, drug investigations, and more.

Students selected will be taught by a cadre of 20 Quincy police officers. They also will participate in a ride-along on a Friday evening with an officer and be given an opportunity to fire police weapons at the Braintree Rifle and Pistol Club.

Applications are available at the front desk at police headquarters and must be returned no later than April 1. Successful candidates will be notified April 4.

Since September 1994, 147 Quincy residents have graduated from the Citizen Academy.

For more information, call Officer Bob Hanna, project director at 745-5719 or Lt. Vincent Flaherty, planning director at 745-5722.

The winner will be chosen by lottery at the Bernazzani School Parent-Teacher Organization meeting Monday, March 24.

ASK YOUR LAWYER

by Kevin F. O'Donnell
ATTORNEY AT LAW

HIT FROM BEHIND?

While the liability for many car accidents rests with rule violations, there is one type of accident that leaves little room for liability debate. When an automobile is hit from behind, the driver of the rear-ended car can virtually always place blame on the other driver, regardless of the reason for stopping. This placement of liability is based on the basic rule of the road which requires that drivers be able to stop their vehicles safely if the car in front of them stops. Those who cannot stop without hitting the car in front of them are not driving as safely as the drivers in front of them. In the situation where a third car hits the car in front of it and pushes it into the lead car, it is the driver of the third car who is at fault and against whose liability insurance the drivers of the front two cars would file their claims. HINT: In a left-turn accident, the car making a left turn is almost always liable to an automobile coming straight in the opposite direction.

Are you the victim of an accident? Call 773-2880 for a free consultation now. In these days of complex litigation, it is important that you speak with an experienced attorney who can effectively lead you through the steps of a trial. Don't risk losing what you're entitled to because you weren't familiar with every aspect of the law. We've had many years of experience in pursuing automobile accidents and personal injury cases. We're located at Grindley Bryant Office Condominiums, 111 Willard Street.

Political Grapevine Pluckings

There's an abundance of speculation hanging from the local political grapevine.

Most of it involves this year's city council at-large race.

Will there be four or five major candidates for the three seats? Or is there a surprise development coming that might reduce the field to just three?

As of the moment there are four apparent candidates: incumbents Tim Cahill, Michael Cheney and Paul Harold and former Mayor Frank McCauley.

And John Gillis, former city clerk and now a Norfolk County commissioner, could make it five.

If he gets in and the others stay put, it would set the stage for one of the best council at-large horse races in many years.

Two rumors, however, still continue to circulate with Harold's name on them and he's still trying to shoot them down.

One: he's going to challenge Mayor James Sheets.

"That rumor," Harold says, is just that--strictly a rumor."

Two: he's going to get a Washington appointment. "If I'm getting an appointment," he says, "I wish someone would tell me."

"If you want to know what I'm doing this fall, it's running for re-election to the city council."

In fact, there's a councillor at-large campaign reception for him coming up May 7 at the Neighborhood Club. That should shoot down the rumors.

Cheney, meanwhile, has been predicting "something is going to happen in March or April" that apparently would change the political scenery and the council at-large field. He isn't saying what but he has a lot of political people wondering.

That could be one of the reasons for the Harold speculation. And has some thinking maybe Cheney is in line for something.

CAHILL

Cahill, who wasn't going to seek re-election after winning the Norfolk County treasurer's post last fall, now plans to seek another council term.

The treasurer's job he won in an impressive victory, may not be here much longer. It would be one of those abolished if Norfolk County's government follows Middlesex into oblivion as is eventually expected.

Gillis is keeping them guessing on whether he will get into the council at-large field.

GILLIS

Gillis, who interrupted a Florida vacation last week to attend the dinner honoring Fr. William McCarthy on the 45th anniversary of his ordination, was asked if he had made a decision.

"I'm still giving it serious consideration," he says. "Right now, it's 50-50, yes or no. I'll be making a final decision in a couple of weeks."

Meanwhile, still in the "thinking about it" stage are former Ward 1 Councilor Leo Kelly and Charles McIntyre, a Norfolk County assistant district attorney who came close in an at-large bid four years ago.

WALTER HANNON was one of five Quincy mayors attending the 45th ordination anniversary dinner for Fr. William McCarthy at the Lantana.

It was Hannon's first public appearance since his heart attack in January. He got a nice warm ovation when he was introduced.

"You scared us," a friend said to him. "I scared myself," he replied. "But I feel great."

A painting of Quincy was presented to Fr. McCarthy jointly by Mayor James Sheets, Hannon, and former mayors Arthur Tobin, who was the emcee; Joseph LaRaia and Frank McCauley.

And it was nice to see Hannon, Tobin and LaRaia standing side by side as friends again.

D'AMICO

MIKE D'AMICO will make it official April 9: he's running for a second term as Ward 4 councillor. A re-election celebration will be held that night at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. Tickets are $25 and can be obtained at the door or by calling 471-6583.

NEXT TIME YOU see Sal Giarratani, call him "Sarge." He was recently promoted to sergeant in the Department of Mental Health Police Department for the Metro Boston DMH Region.

Giarratani has been with the department since 1972 and a patrolman since 1985.

He is also still considering another run for School Committee this year.

Burgin Ends Draft To Head MDC

By PAUL HAROLD

Former Mayor Thomas Burgin ended a draft effort on his behalf which would have him appointed head of the MDC.

Senator Charles Hedges confirmed there was an effort at the State House on behalf of Burgin to have him replace Edgar Copell as chairman of the MDC. He noted that Governor Herter was interested in appointing a qualified Quincy man to a major state post.

March 20-26

In ending the campaign on his behalf, Burgin said, "I have committed myself to the YMCA building fund drive and I have my own business to devote time to. I could not think of accepting a state position that requires so much time."

MURPHY PLAQUE DEDICATED AT QHS

A plaque memorializing Pvt. Frederick Murphy, who was killed in Germany, was unveiled in ceremonies at Quincy High School by his seven-year-old daughter, Susan.

Murphy was one of two Quincy residents who were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously. The other, William Caddy of North Quincy, was killed in the Pacific.

On hand for the ceremonies was Charles MacGillivray, formerly of Wollaston, who was also a Medal of Honor recipient.

COUNCILLORS INVITED TO VIEW HAZARDS AT CRANCH HILL QUARRIES

The newly formed Cranch Hill Improvement Association invited members of the City Council to view the hazards at the quarries in the neighborhood that daily plagued parents in the district.

The letter was sent on behalf of the association by its secretary, John Noonan. Mrs. Helen Grazioso of Deldorf St. was quarry committee chairman.

QUINCY-ISMS

In boosting increased off-street parking in the retail districts, William O'Connell, executive secretary of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, noted one reason that the Braves moved to Milwaukee was because of lack of parking near its field in Boston. . . Paul Marini was elected the new chairman of the library board. . . Those passing the bar exam included Jean Baril of Andrews Rd., Thomas Byrnes of Hancock St., Carlos Hill of Appleton St. and Lawrence Lyons of Glendale Rd., son of second assistant clerk Lawrence Lyons of the Quincy district court. . . The Quincy Masonic fraternity held a symbolic burning of its $170,000 mortgage. . . The Faxon family advised the city it would consider legal action if the city took its property on Whitwell St. for school purposes. . . John Wayne was starring in the "Quiet Man" at the Art Theater. . . A new paint job at Quincy Motors was $45 ($5 extra for maroon). . . City Manager William Deegan and Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard were studying the use of "demonable schools" which could be used while the permanent ones were being built. . . The 15 families in veterans' housing on Cleverly Court were told to vacate the units by June 26, the date scheduled for their demolition. . . Captain "Ted" Young retired after 35 years with the police department. . . William Ferrazzi, acting chief, was number one of the civil service list with Capt. Joseph Flaherty number two and Lt. John Wuerth number three. . . Charles Francis Adams, mayor in 1897, resigned as director at Newport News, Virginia shipyard. His son, C.F. Adams, Jr., was president of Raytheon Corp. and a director at Bath Iron Works in Maine. Newport News was Fore River's greatest rival for private work while Bath Iron was its rival for Navy work. . . The new $185,000 Nease Library at Eastern Nazarene College was scheduled for dedication on April 17. . . First Presbyterian Church's new parsonage at 262 Franklin St. held an open house. Auction To Benefit Quincy VNA April 17

The "Turn of the Century Auction" to benefit Quincy Visiting Nurse Association will take place Thursday, April 17 at President's Place Galleria, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

A silent auction beginning at 6 p.m. will be followed by a live auction at 7:30 p.m. with auctioneer Dan Flynn. All proceeds from the auction will support the home health services provided by Quincy VNA.

The auction will feature an exhibit of items and information from 1905, including post cards from Tom Galvin's collection that have appeared in The Quincy Sun. The year 1905 is significant because it is the year the Quincy Women's Club first developed the Quincy Visiting Nurse program. At that time, Quincy VNA consisted of just one nurse. It has since grown to a staff of 200.

"This event is an opportunity to celebrate Quincy VNA's long-term service to the community, while enjoying the memories of days gone by and generating funds to help support our specialized programs," said Executive Director Stephen Robbins.

The event will feature a light dinner buffet and entertainment by South Shore Conservatory of Music. Tickets are $10.

Auction items are still needed and space is available for advertisements in the program book. For more information about the event, call the Quincy VNA at 472-2828.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Broccoli-Scallop Linguini

It's amazing how many entrees can be made without meat and because it's the lenten season, we've had many of those. Here is one made with broccoli, but I've also used cauliflower instead and it's really a delicious compliment to pasta.

Broccoli-Scallop Linguini

4 cups broccoli florets or cauliflower
1/2 stick butter or margarine
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cloves of garlic (minced)
1 pound scallop (or shrimp)

salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup grated romano or parmesan cheese.

Boil broccoli or cauliflower for about 3 or 4 minutes. Drain and set aside.

Saute the oil, butter and garlic for a couple of minutes. Add the scallops and the broccoli and saute for another 3 to 4 minutes.

Stir in pasta, salt pepper and grated cheese, tossing lightly to coat. Serve hot with extra cheese if preferred.

The addition of seafood is optional.

19 Residents On BU Dean's List

Nineteen Quincy residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Boston University.

They include: Christine L. Aiello, Oliver B. Austria,

Cindy Choi, Tang-Vi Chuong, Melissa J. Costales, Chuong H. Diep, Michael G. Dwyer Jr., Ian M. Foley and Kathleen C. Healey.

Also, Jimmy K. Lee,

Wendy Y. Li, Jennifer A. Masters, Benny Ma, Maribeth Naples, Mary T.

Paterno, Agata Szyzszak, Carolyn K. Wong, John K. Wong and Siu K. Wong.

South Shore YMCA Forms Gala Event Committee

The South Shore YMCA has formed a Gala Event Committee of area business leaders responsible for planning a "finale" event scheduled for Thursday, April 3.

The gala will celebrate the successful completion of the Y's Capital Campaign and Quincy facility construction.

"The event marks the culmination of the Y's $2.5 million Capital Campaign to raise funds for building renovations and improvements to the 79 Coddington St. facility," said South Shore Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Ron Zooleck, who co-chairs the event along with his wife, Jane.

"Many Y volunteers have put in countless hours and hard work and their efforts are greatly appreciated," added Jane Zooleck. "We have a very special evening planned to celebrate and recognize the successful fundraising efforts of many individuals, donors and sponsors, and hope that Y members can share in the celebration."

Other committee members include Nancy Bergholz of WJDA, Doug Briggs, Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance; Hugh Devine, Devine & Pearson; Theresa Devine, Arbella Insurance Company; Diane Ferguson, New England Medical; Ed Kane, EatWell Incorporated; and Isabelle Bertman, Rogers Jewelry.

Also, Cynthia Crofts-Wisch of Wellesley, Jerry Ellis, Building 19; Elaine Elovitz of Hingham, Phyllis Godwin, Granite City Electric; Kathy Hesse, Murphy, Hesse, Toomey & Lehan; William Ketter, The Patriot Ledger; Noreen and Peter Neville, Carey Neville Associates; and Peter O'Connell, O'Connell Brothers.

Event sponsorship opportunities are available, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. For more information or advance ticket sales, call June Blair at 479-8500, ext. 109.

Eileen Sadof Receives Anti-Prejudice Award

Eileen Sadof, an eighth grader language arts teacher at Broad Meadows Middle School, recently won the sixth annual Anti-Defamation League/A World of Difference Institute Award.

The award is given to teachers who exemplify the organization's goals by their outstanding efforts to create an atmosphere in schools that fights prejudice and targets diversity as a strength. Winners receive $500 and an engraved medalion.

Sadof, who was nominated by her colleagues and a former student, has served 30 years in the Quincy Public Schools. For receiving the award, she and the nine other recipients who received the award this year were honored at a private reception at Boston College.

Many ambulance services now look to a national conglomerate for guidance.

We look here.

Fallon Ambulance Service has been run by the Fallon family since James Fallon Sr. founded our company in 1936. The philosophy of compassionate personalized care that was established by James is what guides us today.

So while many local ambulance services have caught the merger bug and become branches of large national companies, Fallon Ambulance remains true to its roots and an unwavering belief in personalized service. James Fallon Sr.'s philosophy of compassion plays a role at every level of the company, from the way we treat our employees to the individualized attention patients receive from our EMTs.
